Blast kills British envoy to Ireland

Woman secretary also dies as auto strikes land mine

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Britain's ambassador to Ireland was killed in Dublin today when a land mine blew up his car. A woman secretary also was killed and a top British official from Northern Ireland was critically wounded.

Ambassador Christopher Ewart-Biggs and Judith Cooke died in the blast that hit the car as it came out the gates of the ambassador's mansion on the outskirts of Dublin. Brian Cubbon, the visiting official from Belfast, and the chauffeur were critically injured.

Ewart-Biggs, 54, a monocle-wearing Oxford graduate and novelist, came to his post here from Paris less than two weeks ago. He is believed to be the first British official killed in the Irish republic since the Irish war of independence in the early 1920s. The British Embassy in Dublin was burned four years ago by a mob enraged when British paratroopers killed 13 unarmed civilians during a demonstration in Northern Ireland.

Irish Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave held an emergency meeting with his cabinet and said his government viewed the killings "with shock and revulsion." Irish officials canceled their attendance at public functions and ordered flags lowered to half-staff on all public buildings.

"The atrocity fills all decent Irish people with a sense of shame," said Cosgrave. "The government is determined that all the resources at its disposal will be used to ensure that the perpetrators are brought to justice and face the full rigors of the law."

In London, a Foreign Office spokesman said, "We have all been gravely shocked and grieved at the news, but we do not have full details." The spokesman said British Prime Minister James Callaghan would make a statement in the House of Commons later today.

The Cosgrave statement said he had personllay expressed "condolences and regrets" to Callaghan.

Police said it was too soon to say whether the explosion was the work of the Irish Republican Army, the outlawed underground army waging a guerrilla war of bombs and bullets — violence aimed at ending British rule in Northern Ireland and uniting it with the republic.

Officials said Miss Cooke was private secretary to Cubbon, who is responsible for implementing Britain's continuing direct rule in Northern Ireland. They had traveled here Tuesday night from Belfast on what was described as a routine familiarization trip. Cubbon is regarded as the right-hand man to Merlyn Rees, the British minister directly responsible for Northern Ireland.

In the confusion after the explosion on a road about 150 yards from the gates of the ambassador's residence, first reports said the explosion was due to a booby-trap bomb in the car. Later, it was established that the car ran over a land mine.

A passing janitor, Jim Markin, said he saw two men running across an adjoining field after the explosion.

"I was coming round a corner when I heard a tremendous bang," he said. "I ran toward it and saw two men sprinting across the fields. One of them wore a blue hat."

He said police were on the scene "within seconds."

The blast occurred just after the ambassador's car came out of the gates of the secluded mansion on the southern outskirts of Dublin and into Murphystown Road, en route to the British Embassy about eight miles away.

The car, a Jaguar, was thrown into the air and landed upside down in the crater where the mine had been buried.

Two Irish detectives were following the ambassador in another car. The blast shattered their windshield, but they were not hurt.

Police immediately sealed off the area while a helicopter hovered above the scene. Murphystown Road was blocked by the crater and the car lying on its back.

The blast hurled rubble 100 yards away. First estimates were that several hundred pounds of explosives had been used in the mine.

Walkout closes canning plants

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A harvesttime strike is under way by the workers who process most of the nation's canned tomatoes, apricots, peaches and fruit cocktail.

The walkout on Tuesday shut down 76 plants which handle 95 per cent of California's canning production. Up to 70,000 cannery workers are employed at the peak of the harvest season, which is now getting under full steam.

Agricultural leaders appealed to President Ford to intervene with a Taft-Hartley injunction for an 80-day cooling-off period.

Shortly after the walkout began, Director James F. Scearce of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service summonded both sides to Washington for talks Thursday.

"It is extremely important that every effort be made to settle this dispute as quickly as possible in order to avert the loss of food crops," Scearce said.

Ross Wurm of Califoria Processors, Inc., said California produces all of the nation's canned apricots, cling peaches and fruit cocktail.

The state also turns out about 85 per cent of the tomatoes, including peeled tomatoes, tomato juice, catsup and tomato sauce, produced in the United States, Wurm said.

Cannery representatives said there is no way to estimate the immediate effects the strike will have on the prices of the affected vegetable and fruit products.

The processors, however, have larger supplies than usual sitting in warehouses and that could toughen their bargaining stand.

Freddy F. Sanchez, chief negotiator for the California Council of Cannery and Food Processing Unions, said he will go to Washington for the talks but that "in the interval, the strike will continue."

Among the major national food processors affected by the walkout are Del Monte, Gerber's, Hunt's and Libby's.

"Millions of dollars worth of fruit and tomatoes will rot on the ground," Fred Heringer, president of the California Farm Bureau, said in urging federal intervention. "These losses ultimately will be felt in every household in America in the form of higher food prices."

Bill Thomas of California Food Processors predicted that a strike lasting just one week would mean $21 million in grower losses.

The Farm Bureau has estimated that a six-week strike could cause $1 billion in losses to California's agricultural industry — the nation's biggest farm state, which has already been hit with an estimated $1 billion in losses from a severe drought.

The 13 Teamster union locals involved have asked for increases of about $3 per hour over a three-year period.

Amin troops in rebellion

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Two battalions of Ugandan soldiers have rebelled against President Idi Amin, according to a report today in Kenya's leading newspaper which quoted anonymous sources.

The paper said the 2,000 soldiers vowed to "fight to the death" against Amin after they were ordered to invade Kenya. There was no confirmation of the report.

There was no immediate indication of the manner in which the soldiers allegedly rebelled.

Relations between the two nations have worsened since Israel's commando raid on Entebbe airport to free kidnap hostages. Amin claimed Kenya helped the Israelis.

Radio Uganda renewed the charge of collaboration Tuesday, but quoted Amin as saying he would never attack Kenya. "The Kenyans are our brothers in blood," the broadcast quoted Amin as saying.

Viking detects nitrogen, argon gases

Hint life could flourish on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Viking 1 robot probe has detected nitrogen and argon gases in the Martian atmosphere in sufficient abundance to make scientists more optimistic that life could flourish there.

While not providing any evidence of life, past or future, the discovery by the probe as it descended toward Tuesday's historic Mars landing suggest that Mars had a denser, more life-nurturing environment in the past.

Together with Viking's findings from orbit that water once flowed in rivers on the planet, the discovery of nitrogen means that all the essential factors for life could have been present at some time, said Project Scientist Dr. Gerald Soffen.

"The 'stewpot' was there to do the kind of organic chemistry required for biogenesis (synthesis of living organisms)," said Soffen. "Whether it took place or not we don't know."

The presence of argon, an inert gas also found in the Earth's atmosphere, is given off by the radioactive decay or elements in the planet's crust. The fact that Mars has a relatively large abundance now, said Dr. Michael McElroy of Harvard University, indicates the atmosphere at one time was much denser.

From the abundance of argon, it can be deducted that nitrogen must have been present early in the planet's history, he told a news conference.

"If you look at what we need for life," said McElroy, referring to Mars, "we need energy; that we have. We need water; that we have. We need nitrogen; that we have. Carbon, phosphates...

"I see no reason to exclude, from everything we know, the possibility of the evolution of life."

The important question, he said, is whether water existed in a liquid form on the planet long enough for the random combinations of pre-life ingredients to come together and begin to evolve into self-reproducing forms.

The measurements were made by instruments aboard the Viking lander as it soared through the atmosphere en route to its touchdown. The amounts reported by scientists were about 1.5 per cent argon and about 3 per cent nitrogen. After arriving on the planet, the lander saw a spectacular rock-strewn landscape with sand dunes and craters in the distance.

"It reminds me of a typical desert scene in the Southwest, a terrain formed over heavily eroded lava flows," said Dr. Alan Binder, a member of the lander photograph team.

Binder, who has lived in Tucson, Ariz., for many years, said the panoramic view sent back as the second of two Viking pictures Tuesday looked very much like his home territory.

Though the landing site was east of a twisting channel formation that scientists had suggested once carried flowing water, the experts interpreting the first pictures said that theory couldn't be confirmed by what they saw.

"I don't see anything that cries out for an argument of fluvial (water-caused) or depositional processes," said Dr. Carl Sagan of Cornell University.

Whether the hummocky, sandy plain might harbor living organisms in its soil won't be determined until after Viking's telescoping arm scoops up a sample and drops it into the sophisticated biology lab it carries.

Chino youth crushed as tractor overturns

A Chino youth was killed Tuesday when a tractor he was driving overturned and crushed him in a field near Euclid and Pine avenues south of Chino.

Howard Robert Cooper, 14, of 6715 Kimball Ave., was pronounced dead at the Doctors Hospital in Montclair.

The youth was driving the tractor up a 30-degree incline on private property and at the crest, the tractor began backing down, said highway patrolmen.

The tractor's right wheel then dropped off the roadway and into a five-foot ditch, where the vehicle overturned, pinning the drive underneath and inflicting fatal injuries, they added.

Officers said they later checked the tractor's brakes and found the pedal traveled to the metal stop, actuating the brake "very little, if at all."

Bus kidnap case at turning point; arrests likely soon

LIVERMORE (AP) — The chief investigator in the search for the men who kidnaped 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver says he is optimistic there will be an arrest in the case but would not predict when.

"I can't predict when there will be an arrest," Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Ed Volpe said late Tuesday night. "I'm just optimistic."

While remaining hopeful, Volpe downgraded an early statement by a sheriff's department source that the investigators were only "a few phone calls away" from being able to apprehend suspects.

Madera County Acting Dist. Atty. Charles Hoffman, who met Tuesday with Alameda Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen, told reporters the investigation had reached a turning point.

Hoffman would say only that "something has happened" in the progress of the case. He went on:

"The preliminary investigation is concluded at this point, focusing in on certain aspects where if the sheriff's department discussed the facts, it might prejudice a trial situation," Hoffman said.

He declined to elaborate, except to say a turning point was reached between noon and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Volpe said progress is being made in the case, but nothing of the nature that would lead to an imminent arrest.

Alameda County officers concentrated on the rock quarry where the 26 children and their bus driver were entombed for 18 hours after being kidnaped Thursday in the Madera County town of Chowchilla, about 95 miles to he south.

They attempted to determine if anyone connected with the quarry was involved in the crime.

"The quarry out there is the prime area of our investigation," Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Gene Saper said in an interview. "That's going to be the area where we zero in for physical evidence and witnesses we can find. We have questioned or will question everyone who has anything to do with the gravel quarry."

The moving van trailer which was transformed into a makeshift underground prison was unearthed Tuesday. The 27 kidnap victims had clawed and pried their way out of the moving van and were unhurt.

Investigators reported the moving van was purchased last Nov. 20 from Palo Alto Transfer and Storage Co.

The Fresno Bee reported Tuesday the person who bought the van has a close connection to the quarry.

The newspaper quoted a source who said as many as eight persons may be involved in the abduction.

"One of the abductors was someone who had access to the quarry and who could use the equipment to dig the hole without his presence being questioned," the source was quoted as saying.

"When this investigation is completed, it possibly will turn out to be one of the most bizarre cases ever," the source added.

8 elementary principals reassigned in Pomona

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona school board Tuesday night reassigned eight elementary school principals, approved a 7.2 per cent pay hike for classified employes and approved an eight per cent raise for management and confidential employes.

After hearing from seven speakers from the audience, all of whom asked that their individual principals not be moved, the board voted unanimously to approve the reassignments as recommended by the administration.

This action means that, effective Sept. 1, Harland Donahue will move from Lexington to Yorba, James Taylor from Washington to Lexington, James Huffman from Arroyo to Washington, Jack Henkle from Allison to Arroyo, Wesley Rood from Armstrong to Allison, Bruce Shyer from Madison to Armstrong, Rodolfo Flores from Westmont to Madison and Lorin Anderson from Harrison to Westmont.

Administrators said they now were in the process of selecting a new principal for Harrison. Most of the principals affected by the board action were in the audience.

Members of Chapter 14 of the California School Employes Association in the Pomona Unified School District met in the Education Center board room and ratified their one-year contract while the school board was meeting in the auditorium at Diamond Point Elementary School.

Their contract was the last item on the board's agenda and was approved by the board without discussion when Acting Supt. Sidney Moses said it had been ratified by chapter membership.

In addition to the salary increase, the new contract — the first negotiated in the Pomona district under the state's new collective bargaining law — gives classified employes a $300 per year per individual increase in fringe benefits, up to $1,200 from $900, and it outlines employe-employer rights and a grievance procedure.

The salary and health and welfare benefits take effective Aug. 1. Chapter 14 represents some 1,100 non-teaching district employes.

Salaries listed on the administrative schedule reflecting the eight per cent increase range from $36,045 top for assistant superintendents, $33,044 for directors, $31,887 for senior high school principals, $29,649 for junior high principals and $28,975 for elementary school principals.

The board approved the pay hike for some 230 administrative employes on June 15 under a two-year agreement giving them the $300 per year increase in fringe benefits, plus a six per cent pay increase in 1977-78 and another $300 increase in fringe benefits.

These employes are not eligible to join either of the employe groups with which the district must negotiate under the new collective bargaining law. Negotiations are being carried on with Associated Pomona Teachers, exclusive bargaining agent for the districts 1,022 certificated employes.

In other actions, the board:

—Listened to a progress report on the Discover Pomona campaign presented by Joe Gendron, president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce. Gendron commented on the improved rapport between the school district, the city and the chamber and credited this rapport with parenting positive programs such as Discover Pomona, designed to improve the image of the community.

Gendron said the campaign, using advertising, a slide presentation, bumper stickers, balloons and a newsletter, was at the halfway point and would continue through November, and perhaps longer.

—At the request of board member Ken Pine, who is forbidden to ride in automobiles while recuperating from surgery, agreed to hold board meetings through Aug. 17 at the Diamond Point School.

Board President Mary Montes directed the administration to place on the agenda for the next board meeting a proposal that board meetings be rotated at school sites around the district.

—Set a public hearing on the 1976-77 final budget for Aug. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at Diamond Point school.

—Agreed to fund August costs of Emergency School Aid Act basic and pilot projects of $34,500. Moses said there was a 99 per cent possibility both projects would be funded for 1976-77 and the district should be informed by Aug. 1. The district's $1.8 million 1976-77 application was ruled ineligible by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare early in June. Moses said steps had been taken to meet HEW requirements, including a program to retest all 186 children enrolled in Educable Mentally Retarded classes.

—Withheld approval on a number of items calling for expenditures until after a budget is set for 1976-77 after member Gene Whitlock stated he would vote against any appropriations against the future budget.

—On a 4-1 vote, with Whitlock voting no, agreed to pay the $350 registration fee to allow Ray L. Thomas, director of secondary education, to attend an eight-week high intensity language training course in Mexico City Oct. 23 through Dec. 17, while he is on sabbatical leave. Thomas was to have had this leave last year. However, he was called back and served as acting assistant superintendent of educational services while the search was underway for a new superintendent.

Airport has profitable venture going: farming!

The Chino Airport is receiving ground support for its financial operation.

That support is funds received in leasing 300 acres within the airport for farming.

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors this week approved a six-year lease fee of $157,500 for a period starting Aug. 1 and ending July 31, 1982. This amounts to $26,241 per year.

The airport just ended a five year lease for farm land at about $12,000 annually, said county Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino.

The farm lease funds go into the county general fund. The airport then receives money from this fund for its operation.

Airport officials said field crops are planted in areas not improved with runways, taxiways, hangars or airplane parking areas.

San Bernardino County owns and operates the 800-acre airport located near Euclid Avenue and Merrill Street south of Chino. The airport handles about 180,000 flight operations per year.

In another item, county supervisors approved a $60,000 contract with the state to provide public health nursing services for senior citizens through June 30, 1977.

The county, however, must provide matching support for half the project. This may be in cash, facilities or services, said Townsend.

The program will provide three public health nurses who will visit senior citizens housing and center facilities for health consultant services.

This will provide an outreach for the 8,214 senior citizens within the county whose incomes are at or below the poverty level, said Townsend.

L. V. delays bingo action

Bingo games have been shelved in La Verne — at least for the time being.

The City Council has decided to defer action on a request to permit the games until the new state law which defines conditions under which bingo can be played is given a better interpretation.

The request to allow the games came two weeks ago from W.O. Hokanson, a resident of the Kings Way Gardens, who said he wanted to establish bingo as a social activity strictly for the benefit of tenants.

But Richard C. Bokmann, manager of the mobile home park, said Monday that he did not want bingo games on the premises.

Hokanson was not at the council meeting Monday when his request came up. Councilmen decided to defer action until City Atty. Wynne Furth could get clarification of the new law from Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp.

Hearing slated in hired-killing case

Rowland Heights insurance broker Samuel H. Brooks faces arraignment on murder and conspiracy charges July 28 in Van Nuys Municipal Court in connection with the hired slaying of a Calabasas man.

Brooks, 47, was arrested July 13 at his Amalgamated Insurance Brokers firm at 18415 Colima Road by sheriff's deputies who said that Arthur Rohwedder, 40, of Indio, told them that Brooks hired him to kill the victim, Michael Kenney, 38-year-old private detective. Kenney was shot in ambush as he returned home Feb. 14.

Investigators said that Rohwedder pleaded guilty to the murder charge in Van Nuys Superior Court and made the statement implicating Brooks in order to avoid a possible death penalty sentence.

They alleged that Brooks "is the apparent kingpin" of Southland loansharking activities and that he had made Kenney a loan which Kenney failed to pay. They also said Brooks held a $100,000 life insurance policy on Kenney's life.

Open Door will open program

The summer program of the La Verne-San Dimas Open Door starts Thursday with a roller skating party.

Counselor Debbie Scott says all youths 11 to 20 are invited to take part in the program, but reservations must be made for most trips.

Parlors, bookstores face delays

An emergency ordinance setting a four-month moratorium on the opening of massage parlors, adult bookstores and similar businesses was approved by the Pomona City Council.

The action, taken Monday on a unanimous vote of the council, is in response to a request for a business license for a new adult bookstore.

The ordinance, drafted by City Atty. Patrick Sampson with reference to a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision granting cities new powers in regulating the zoning for such businesses, calls for a study of "adult entertainment" zoning guidelines in the city.

The moratorium may be renewed for another four months when the ordinance expires in November, said Sampson.

12 Claremont elms facing the ax; panel to review decision

A city staff request that 12 Indian Hill Boulevard elms be removed because they have heart rot will be reviewed by the Claremont Parkways and Trees Commission Thursday at 4 p.m. at the Baseline Recreation Center.

"Passion pink"-colored posters have been tacked to the elms along Indian Hill Boulevard to alert residents to the meeting, but the posters incorrectly list City Hall as the meeting place.

Although the commission is expected to set a public hearing at night for concerned citizens to express their views on the beloved 40-50-year-old trees, officials believe the meeting Thursday will be well-attended by those seeking to save the trees.

Fred Hawkins, director of parks and recreation, will display core samples from both healthy trees and those showing heavy signs of heart rot, slime flux and other structural defects.

Hawkins also will display several sections of a 14-inch-diameter branch sawed off an elm at the height of 20 feet. The branch, about 25 feet long when it was cut and weighing 1,450 pounds, is clearly the victim of heart rot.

The branch was cut off one of the trees scheduled for removal.

City tree crewmen last week pruned the lower branches of the elms up to 14 feet above ground for car and truck clearance.

Hawkins said that while the Indian Hill elms are approximately "middle aged" with respect to the more famous American elms in the Northeast, the mistreatment they have received over the years, such as poor pruning, has accelerated their decline to the point "that many are a potential hazard to life, limb and property."

"I have instructed the city tree crew to begin removal of the 12 trees beginning Aug. 1," Hawkins said.

Many Claremont residents are expected to protest strongly the removal of any tree.

Indian Hill Boulevard between Harrison Avenue and Foothill Boulevard has 111 elms. The 12 trees scheduled for removal are all north of Eighth Street. Five are on the east side between 10th and 11th streets.

Hawkins said that the decision to remove the trees was made after extensive research and individual examinations of the trees.

"We do not yet have Dutch elm disease," Hawkins said.

The commission will be asked to name a replacement tree for the elm on Indian Hill Boulevard.

Residents living on 11th Street west of Indian Hill Boulevard became upset during August 1974 as they watched tree crews trim away a beautiful green canopy over their street.

Hawkins conceded at that time that the best time to prune is in the spring or the fall, but that the city waited until it received its new 55-foot-long boom which allows a tree trimmer to reach the tree tops.

Hawkins said that elms should be trimmed every three years.

Experts called into the fray included O.A. "Jolly" Batcheller who recalled that 17 years ago as chairman of the Parkways and Trees Commission he had the same problem when the trees were pruned.

"But they seem to have survived," he said.

Hawkins said that the elms on 11th Street, Harvard and Colleges avenues, all the same age as those on Indian Hill Boulevard, haven't been subjected to core borings yet.

Wounded girl leaves hospital

A Claremont girl, wounded in an apparent youth-gang related shooting in La Verne Friday night, was released Tuesday from Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The victim, Cecelia Endinas, 15, was shot in the upper leg as she was walking at First and B streets. Police said she may have been mistaken for someone else.

Meanwhile, four Pomonans arrested shortly after the shooting, have been released by La Verne police. Rafael E. Garcia, 20, Anthony J. Lopez, 18, Armando G. Gonzales, 19, and Donald G. Ayala, 20, were released without charge because of insufficient evidence to connect them to the incident, police said.

El Roble youths offer 2 shows

Several departments in the El Roble summer program at Claremont will combine their talents to present a special Bicentennial program at the school auditorium today and Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

DANGER STRESSED

The potential danger which a sick elm tree poses for drivers and pedestrians alike is exhibited by, left, Martin Anderson, Claremont parkways tree leadman, and Fred Hawkins, director of parks and recreation, as they carve out the crumbling heart rot of an Indian Hill Boulevard elm. That log and the hollowed-out portion before the pair are both part of a 25-foot-long branch cut from an elm 20 feet above the ground. Hawkins estimated that the branch weighed 1,450 pounds and posed a threat to life and limb.

Spurred by gasoline

Consumer prices take sharp jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a leveling off in food costs, consumer prices jumped five-tenths of a per cent last month, driven upward by a sharp increase in the cost of gasoline and other energy products, the government said today.

The June increase follows hikes of six-tenths of a per cent in May and four-tenths of a per cent in April, closing out the second quarter with inflation rising at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 6.1 per cent.

That is about what Ford administration economists have considered in the past to be the underlying inflation rate in the economy.

The increase of grocery prices slowed in June, rising only two-tenths of a per cent after jumping one per cent in May and six-tenths of a per cent in April, the Labor Department said.

However, the department said the improvement was offset by sharp increases in the costs of a broad range of energy products, including gasoline, motor oil, fuel oil, coal, natural gas and electricity.

Over-all, energy prices were up 1.9 per cent in June, accounting for almost a third of the month's increase in the department's Consumer Price Index.

Workers were hurt as well by a June decline in average weekly hours on the job.

The Labor Department said the decline, amounting to six-tenths of a per cent, plus the rise in retail prices resulted in a decline of one per cent in gross weekly earnings.

Over all, consumer prices last month were 5.9 per cent more than they were during the same month a year ago.

In an interview Tuesday, John Kendrick, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said: "It doesn't look as if there will an acceleration in price inflation at least for the next several months, because of the favorable farm and food prospects.

For the month of June, the Consumer Price Index stood at 170.1. That means that the same variety of goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 cost $170.10 in June.

The five-tenths of a per cent increase in the index last month was adjusted to account for normal seasonal influences.

The slowdown in the increase of grocery prices reflected declines in the cost of beef and pork as well as fruit and vegetables. Prices for other foods, including eggs, coffee, bakery products, poultry and dairy goods increased.

A sampling of prices showed that beef declined four-tenths of a per cent following a jump of 3.9 per cent in May. Pork declined 1.5 per cent. Coffee prices jumped 4.9 per cent, while poultry climbed 3.5 per cent.

Nonfood commodities rose five-tenths of a per cent last month, compared with an increase of six-tenths in May and an average monthly increase of about three-tenths from last August through April of this year.

New-car prices declined for the first time since January, but used-car prices were up. So were prices for apparel and household durables. But the biggest jump was for gasoline and motor oil, up 2.1 per cent, and for fuel oil and coal, up 1.5 per cent after seasonal adjustment.

The average price of a gallon of regular grade gasoline rose 1.6 cents per gallon nationally to 59.2 cents. Premium prices rose 1.6 cents nationally to an average of 63.7 cents per gallon.

The cost of services last month climbed six-tenths of a per cent, after rising four-tenths in May and five-tenths in April. This reflected sharp increases in charges for natural gas, electricity and home repair services, the government said. Hospital and medical costs also continued to increase.

L.A. County assessments high for state

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Board of Equalization says Los Angeles County has assessed its property the highest in comparison to worth, and Monterey and Amador counties the lowest.

But Chairman William Bennett said the figures are preliminary and subject to question.

The survey issued Tuesday was on how close each county assessor came to evaluating property at 25 per cent of its worth for tax purposes. The average was 25.1 per cent, only a trifle above the legal limit.

It said Los Angeles was highest of the 58 counties at 27.6 per cent, followed by Del Norte at 27.4 and Ventura at 27.3.

Monterey and Amador were 20.8 per cent each, and Tuolumne was 21.0.

Bennett said the figures are subject to challenge assessors at upcoming hearings.

Car driver condition said 'fair'

A La Verne fire truck en route to a fire call collided with a sedan Tuesday at Foothill Boulevard and Wheeler Avenue, injuring one driver.

Dale Leon Sharp, 48, 450 Foothill Blvd., driver of the sedan, was admitted to the Pomona Valley Community Hospital where his condition is termed as fair.

The fire truck, driven by Edward Fenneman, was traveling north on Wheeler Avenue with the redlight and siren on when it collided with the car going east on Foothill and passing through the intersection on a green traffic signal, said highway patrolmen.

Officers reported that Sharp apparently didn't see the oncoming fire truck until it was too late to avoid the collision.

After the initial collision, the fire truck continued on and hit a traffic light and small tree, officers reported.

La Verne fire officials reported the fire truck had been dispatched to a home where the residents had reported smoke.

Alta Loma man hurt when car goes off road

An Alta Loma man was injured Tuesday when his car went off Mt. Baldy Road near the tunnels and landed at the bottom of an embankment.

Jesse Haney, 10350 Base Line Road, was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he is reported in good condition.

He was driving south shortly before 11 p.m. when his car drifted onto a gravel turnout. It hit a raised dirt embankment and traveled 30 feet before coming to a stop at the bottom of the embankment, said highway patrolmen.

An immigration service spokesman here said the aliens who lived and worked on the island — doing such jobs as gardening and domestic work — were rounded up Tuesday.

Butcher knife robbery

The 7-Eleven store at 803 E. Mission Blvd. in Pomona was robbed Tuesday night by two youths, one armed with a butcher knife a foot long.

Employe Dana G. Fair, 18, told police the pair entered, asking for a package of cigarettes and then demanded money after one pulled the knife from under his jacket. After getting cash, the pair fled to a car outside and was driven away.

The knife-wielder was described as Latin, 16 to 18, 5 feet 3 weighing 110 pounds. He had black, shoulder-length hair and wore a long-sleeved shirt and dark pants.

Beaten, Robbed

A POMONA man told police Tuesday night that he was beaten up and robbed by a gang in the city's Martin Luther King Park at Lexington Street and White Avenue.

The victim, Leroy Barreras, 24, said he was attacked by between 10 and 15 youths led by 25-year-old man described as black, 5 feet 3 weighing 120 pounds. He had a bushy mustache and wore a yellow jersey with No. 7 on it.

During the attack one of the gang members stole Barreras' wallet, he said. The victim did not require immediate medical attention.

Loses vision

A La Verne man told police Tuesday that an attack he suffered in a Pomona tavern July 8 has resulted in the loss of vision in his right eye.

The victim, Harry Marston Daviess, 48, said he was attacked in Ernie's Tavern, 1046 E. Second St., by a man who told customers he could "whip any two of you at the same time." Daviess said the man slugged him, followed him into a hallway and attacked him again.

The victim said that when he failed to regain vision in the injured eye after the swelling went down he was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was told vision would not return. He was released from the hospital Tuesday and reported the incident to police.

Employe slugged

An employe was slugged by a robber early today at Slim's Cafe, 1377 W. Second St., POMONA police reported.

The victim, Vernon L. Brien, 50, was cleaning up after closing when the man entered and hit him on the head with something. Brien was knocked down and the man looted the cash register. Meanwhile, a female employe fled.

The robber was described as black, in his early 20s, 5 feet 9 weighing 160 pounds. He wore a red, knit cap, a long-sleeved shirt and faded jeans.

Brien was treated for scalp cuts at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Station robbed

The new U.S.A. service station at 110 E. Foothill Blvd., POMONA, was robbed late Tuesday night by two young men, one wielding a six-inch hunting knife.

The victim, Hank W. Hull, 18, said the pair approached and asked to use the rest room. Then one pulled the knife and demanded money.

The armed man was about 18, 5 feet 7 weighing 140 pounds. He had blond hair and wore a short-sleeved shirt and tan corduroy trousers.

The pair fled on foot.

Robbed again

Craft Cottage at 971 W. Foothill Blvd. in CLAREMONT was robbed again Tuesday night.

Employe Nancy Lee Hasson, told police a man walked in shortly after 8 o'clock, went behind the counter and demanded money. She said he gestured as if he had a pistol under a newspaper he carried. The man was white, 25 to 30, 5 feet 9 and weighed 175 pounds. He had brown, shoulder-length, curly hair and wore a brown knit shirt and tan, checked trousers.

The place was robbed last February.

Attack alleged

Ontario police today held a 21-year-old man whom they charged attempted to run down a 12-year-old boy with his car and kicked an officer in the face Tuesday.

Richard Jesus Herrera of 1709 E. Bonnie Brae St., Ontario, was booked in the West End Jail this morning for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon and assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer. Herrera also had two outstanding traffic warrants. A passenger in Herrera's car, a 17-year-old Ontario youth, was also arrested on an assault charge.

Police Officer Chuck Haun said that the suspect saw 12-year-old Leon Baker start to cross Bonnie Brae Street in the 1600 block and hit the accelerator of his car. The car missed the youth only by inches.

Haun said he went in pursuit of the vehicle and stopped it a short distance away. Haun said he asked Herrera why he had nearly run down the boy. The officer said that Herrera claimed that he only wanted to "scare him."

Haun said he placed Herrera under arrest along with the other youth in the vehicle, but Herrera bolted from the car. After a brief foot pursuit Haun and other officers caught the suspect and physically subdued him.

Haun said as he was putting the youth in a police car the youth suddenly kicked him in the chest and face knocking his glasses off. Police said that Herrera was again subdued and transported to Doctors Hospital in Montclair for a minor head laceration before being taken to jail.

Manhunt on in huge bank heist

NICE, France (AP) — French police mounted the biggest Riviera manhunt ever today, putting up roadblocks on all highways leading from Nice in an effort to catch six thieves who tunneled into an underground bank vault and stole $12 million.

Investigators said the burglars had such a head start they probably had crossed into Italy before the robbery was even discovered.

The thieves tunneled from a sewer main into the vault and spent the weekend there emptying safe-deposit boxes, taking time out to eat, drink and look at pornographic photos. A bank employe tried to open the vault Monday, but the thieves had welded the hinges from the inside and it had to be cut open.

Police said that, since the gang's method of operation was so sophisticated, each of the six must have been a "specialist" in fields such as construction, civil engineering, topography and economics, as well as safecracking.

Police, including three hand-picked crime fighters from Paris, four Marseille police inspectors, and all uniformed men on the Riviera, also were working on the assumption that to have carried out the vault assault the gang must have had close connections with an international crime syndicate based in Europe.

Enraged customers lined up outside the bank again today, as they did when word of the robbery spread Tuesday, demanding an accounting from bank officials.

When the bank finally opened, two lines of customers formed, one to be interviewed about their losses, the other going up to windows to conduct routine transactions.

One angry customer said, "It's an unheard of mess. For three days no one told us anything. I'm going to file a complaint."

Others expressed admiration for the thieves' prowess. "They deserve a medal," one man said.

Extension of tax cut moves a step closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Extension of individual tax cuts through 1977 is a step closer today, but it may be another two months before taxpayers know for sure whether they will face a tax hike next year.

The Senate voted 66 to 28 on Tuesday to extend the tax cuts for 18 months. But the House cannot act on the extension until the Senate passes the complex tax-revision bill to which the reductions are attached.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he hopes — but cannot guarantee — that the Senate will approve a tax bill before recessing Aug. 11 for the Republican convention.

Once the Senate passes the bill, a Senate-House conference must work out the countless differences in the Senate's tax-revision bill and one approved by the House last year. Tht could take weeks.

No matter how long it takes Congress to complete work on a tax-revision bill, there is virtually no chance that American workers will feel a bigger tax bite on their paychecks this year.

The $15-billion worth of individual tax cuts technically expired once already, on July 1, but Congress hurriedly froze withholding rates until Sept. 1. Congressional leaders indicate the rates will be frozen again if more time is required to complete action on the tax bill.

In addition to voting for an 18-month renewal of the tax cuts, the Senate agreed Tuesday, 50 to 42, to allow motorists to continue deducting all their state and local gasoline taxes.

The Finance Committee, in writing the bill, voted to allow deduction of only the gasoline taxes that total more than $50 a year. That would have raised the federal tax bills of millions of Americans but it would have saved the Treasury about $300 million a year.

The Senate rejected, 54 to 38, an effort by Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., to eliminate the gasoline-tax deduction altogether on grounds it encourages energy waste.

The key elements of the taxcut package include:

—A provision allowing a $35 credit — which is subtracted directly from taxes owed — for each taxpayer and each dependent to be extended through 1977. If it is to his or her advantage, the taxpayer instead could take a credit of 2 per cent of his first $9,000 of taxable income, to a maximum credit of $180.

—Permanent increases in the standard deduction, which are available only to taxpayers who do not itemize deductions. The minimum standard deduction is $1,700 for single persons and $2,100 for couples. The maximum is 16 per cent of adjusted gross income, up to $2,400 for single persons and $2,800 for couples.

—A provision making permanent a special "work bonus" for poor, working families with children. This allows a credit of 10 per cent of earned income up to $4,000, or a top credit of $400. The credit is scaled down before being phased out when income reaches $8,000.

The credit is aimed at giving poor people an incentive for staying off welfare and keeping their jobs.

The only controversy over the individual tax cuts Tuesday was whether they should be extended for 12 months, as recommended by the Finance Committee; 15 months, as proposed by the Budget Committee; or 18 months, as suggested by Sen. James Allen, D-Ala.

Unless the tax cuts are extended, a typical four-member family earning $15,000 annually would face a tax hike of $180 a year. For a single person earning $8,000, the increase would be $182; for a couple with no children and earning $10,000, a $204 increase. A working family of four earning $6,000 would lose $445 a year unless the cuts were renewed.

Still under attack in the big tax bill are 73 Finance Committee amendments that would allow $1 billion a year in tax relief to a variety of businesses. Many of the amendments would benefit only one or two companies.

A bloc of senators led by Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., is objecting not only to some of the amendments but to the way all were approved by the committee.

Most were approved by the panel in a two-day period last month as the committee rushed to complete action on the bill so Senate debate could begin. There was no public disclosure of who would benefit from the amendments or how much they would cost the Treasury.

Long told reporters Tuesday that the committee will be given an opportunity to reconsider the amendments and reject any that members feel are unworthy.

A MATTER OF PROTOCOL — Shirley Temple Black responds to a question as she stands with President Ford Tuesday at the White House. She had just been sworn in as new chief of protocol.

Shirley chief of protocol

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I don't know why, Mr. President, it took 200 years for one of us to get the job," Shirley Temple Black told President Ford as she was sworn-in as the country's new chief of protocol.

Mrs. Black, 48-year-old former child movie star and the first woman to occupy the protocol post, was sworn in at the White House Tuesday.

She has been a representative at the United Nations and more recently was ambassador to the African nation of Ghana.

She also told the President that it was a great honor to be the nation's first woman protocol chief, and that she would "do all my very best work to try to fill all the various assorted sizes of shoes of the distinguished men" who preceded her.

Orson Welles warns mankind

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor-director Orson Welles, who already has one mass panic to his credit, reacted to the landing of Viking 1 on Mars by warning mankind not to be smug about its space conquests.

"I ought to point out that the world population shouldn't be too complacent. The lobster men are still hiding," Welles said Tuesday. He did not explain.

As a young radio personality in 1938, Welles was responsible for stirring a mass panic on the East Coast with his chilling news - report - style dramatization of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds."

The gist of the show was that Martians had landed in New Jersey and conquered New York City. It spread terror through the homes of many who didn't realize it was just Welles' idea of a good Halloween night show.

Lowell Thomas taking tests

DENVER (AP) — Lowell Thomas, 84, is undergoing tests at Presbyterian Medical Center, where he is reported in good condition with a mild respiratory infection.

His physician, Dr. Robert Bosworth, said Tuesday that the length of time Thomas remains hospitalized "depends upon what the tests show."

Thomas complained Sunday night that he didn't feel well and was flown here from Santa Rosa, Calif.

Snake bite victim critical

ARCADIA (AP) — A 13-year-old Pasadena youth was in critical condition after being bitten by a rattlesnake while snake hunting with a friend, sheriff's deputies said.

Officials at Arcadia Methodist Hospital said Michael Mitchelltree was under intensive care following the incident Tuesday.

Deputies said the youth was bitten on his right index finger when he reached for a two-foot rattler at a nature center in Eaton Canyon.

His companion, Louie Bilotto, also 13, wrapped a rubber band around the finger to slow the circulation of the poison before officers arrived to rush Mitchelltree to a hospital, deputies said.

State aid issue clouds Claremont school budget

A tax rate reduction of from 50 to 60 cents per $100 assessed valuation is being projected for taxpayers in the Claremont Unified School District.

But that will be offset by an average increase of 29 per cent in assessed valuation, Business Manager Charles Abbott told the school board Monday night.

Abbott explained that the publication budget he was presenting to them for the 1976-77 school year "in terms of income projection is a meaningless budget."

Abbott said that the district does not know the full impact of Senate Bill 1641, the school finance bill.

"We have not as yet received specific instructions from either the state or country that would permit us to calculate and incorporate the funds from SB 1641," Abbott commented.

He said that William Anderson, district director of accounting, would attend a county schools meeting today to receive revised revenue limit computation worksheets and instructions.

Abbott explained that his best estimate at this time is that the district will gain an additional $280,000 in revenue from SB 1641, but he had not included that figure in the publication budget.

Abbott had submitted to the board a memo which estimated a general fund reduction of 37 cents on the tax rate but was forced to change that to 50 to 60 cents at the meeting because of new estimates from the county schools office.

In May, Abbott had submitted to the board a preliminary budget reflecting a three-per cent increase in assessed valuation and a three cents per $100 assessed valuation decrease in the tax rate, not aware that the county would reassess local property by such a high percentage.

The proposed expenditure budget as it now stands totals $12,116,914, but Abbott cautioned that the figure does not include salary raises for teachers or classified employes.

He said that each one per cent of increases for salaries or other benefits will cost about $60,000.

The general fund tax rate of $6.36 per $100 assessed valuation includes a $1 override granted by the voters March 1975 for three years.

Liquor board ruling

S.B. County taking title to Prado 40 years early

San Bernardino County supervisors have agreed to take title to the El Prado Golf Course's clubhouse so the private operator can obtain liquor licenses.

Under an agreement between the county and private operator, the Prado Golf course, the county was to obtain title to all major improvements in 40 years, said Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino. The golf course is located south of Chino.

But the board approved a lease amendment to assume title now because the state Alcoholic Beverage Commission wouldn't grant the golf course the proper type of liquor licenses unless the county actually had title to the clubhouse.

In approving the amendment, the board accepted a report from the County Counsel's office indicating the county would assume no additional liability with the amendment, it would receive no less revenues and it would assume no responsibility for replacement or repairs nor for operation and maintenance of the clubhouse.

The county's basic lease with the golf course operators calls for the county's Regional Parks Department to receive four per cent of the gross sale of alcoholic beverages and five per cent on each round of golf, said officials.

Before approving the amendment, the county had to obtain approval from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers which owns the land and leases it to San Bernardino County at $1 per year, said Townsend.

Archery tourney in Upland

Amateurs as well as experienced bow hunters are invited to participate in Upland Recreation Department's archery tournament on Saturday at Magnolia Recreation Center.

For the amateurs, targets will be balloons or paper plates. There will be divisions for both adults and juniors and equipment will be provided to those entrants not having their own.

Animal targets will be used in the bow hunter division. This will be run as a single elimination event. No bow sights will be allowed.

The entry fee is $2 and is due at the Upland Recreation Department. Activities start at 10 a.m. and continue through the morning.

WCJHS has new principal

Mrs. Lois Freeman has assumed duties as principal of the Western Christian Junior High School in Glendora.

Her appointment was announced by J. Mark Landrey, superintendent of Western Christian Schools, which also includes a high school.

Mrs. Freeman has had experience in teaching, student counseling and administration at West Covina Christian School and in Torrance, West Covina and Covina school districts.

She received a B.A. degree from Wheaton College with a major in mathematics and a master of arts degree in Christian school administration from Biola College.

Landrey said that in the past the junior high school program had been combined with the total program at Western Christian Schools. However, in February the board of trustees elected to separate the programs, giving identity to the junior high students "and thereby greatly enhancing the seventh and eighth grade program."

Largest turtle over 7 feet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's largest turtle, whose fossils were discovered in Venezuela in 1972, had shells of over seven feet when they roamed the earth — about five or six million years ago.

Paleontologist Roger C. Wood named his discovery Stupendemys geographicus and said they may have measured 11 feet from nose to tail and weighed three tons. The 34-year-old staff member of Stockton State College in Pomona, N.J. believes they may have been marine turtles, but noted they had leg and neck bones that were completely unique. Wood's two specimens measure 7 feet 2 inches and 7 feet 6 inches. The larger shell was found in fragments, while the smaller one was almost completely intact. It is now on display at the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard University.

Young and old don't mix in housing projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like oil and water, the old and the young don't mix well in low-income housing projects, says an architect who rejects the idea that the two generations profit from close proximity.

Instead, New York City architect Oscar Newman argues, the elderly poor are more likely to become crime victims if they live in the same low-income housing projects with numerous children.

"Putting different age groups or different lifestyles together may not produce the utopia predicted," Newman contended in a government-funded study released this week.

Many developers have designed projects for a mix of older, retired people and young families with children, he noted. The theory is that the old would be rejuvenated by their contacts with children and that the children would benefit from the wisdom of the elderly.

But among strangers, this does not work, Newman lamented.

"The respect for the elderly by children and young adults in these circumstances is minimal," he worte. "The relationship may actually become openly hostile if there is a racial difference between the very young and the very old."

"Children want areas they can run around in, yell, throw a ball — activities that frighten and antagonize the elderly . . ."

Newman quoted Harry Fialkin, an official of the New York City Housing Authority, as saying that elderly residents of city housing projects were crime victims 3½ times as much as other residents.

"When white elderly were a minority living among black families with teenage children, crime against the elderly climbed to five times the average," Newman reported.

"In low- and moderate-income housing members of the resident population themselves often prey upon their neighbors," he said.

High-rise buildings are better suited to communities of old people or young single persons and couples, according to Newman.

The elderly and working adults without children probably could be grouped together successfully in some cases, he said. For families with children, he recommended single-family houses and three-story walkup apartments with only a few families in each unit.

Buildings for the elderly can be placed next to buildings for families with children, said Newman, adding, "This will allow people to seek out the companionship of other age groups at their own choosing, rather than having it forced upon them."

Newman's research was financed with $104,062 from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and $50,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The work was intended to help planners and architects design housing projects in ways to reduce crime. Newman is a recognized authority in the field, although his earlier works have stirred controversy among law enforcement and housing specialists.

State sues invention firm

SAN JOSE (AP) — The state has filed suit in San Jose charging Idex Corp. North Inc. of Campbell (Calif.) with "making untrue and misleading representations" in selling marketing services to investors.

A similar suit was filed simultaneously Monday in Los Angeles against a related firm, Idex Corp. Inc.

Idex actually marketed less than one per cent of the inventions submitted for development and marketing, alleged Deputy Atty. Gen. Sanford Feldman.

More than 500 inventions were submitted to Idex in Northern California and more than 1,000 in Southern California at fees ranging from $1,200 to $4,000, Feldman said.

The attorney general's office said late Monday that Idex in San Jose has agreed to a $25,000 judgment of penalties

AEROJET ElectroSystems Co., Azusa, has developed a Mark-38 expendable sonar target for Navy surface fleet training.

Low in cost, the Mark-38 looks like a small torpedo and presents a simulated submarine to track and attack.

For years, the Navy has had to rely on its own submarines to serve as targets for its sailors in training operations. The supply was seldom sufficient to meet demand and it cost the Navy a considerable amount of money to operate the submarines as targets.

What was needed was a device that was inexpensive to operate and one which preferably would be expendable. With the Mark-38, Aerojet has found the answer and earned a preproduction contract to build the expendable sonar target.

Aerojet will build and test the Mark-38 in Azusa. The Naval Sea Systems Command, In-Service Torpedo and Target Branch, will conduct operational tests.

2nd trial slated in slaying

Gene Autry Jefferson, 32, will stand a second trial in the slaying of his brother-in-law last August in Ontario but this one will be held in San Bernardino instead of Ontario.

Jefferson was brought to trial in February after being arrested by Ontario police investigating the death of Elton Lee, 33, of Ontario. Lee was shot to death in the doorway of a bar following an argument with several men.

Jefferson was charged with first degree murder and brought to trial, but following several weeks of testimony a West Valley Superior Court jury hearing the case could not reach a verdict. Jefferson was released pending further action by the West Valley Deputy District Attorney's Office.

Monday Jefferson appeared in the West Valley court before Judge Clifton L. Allen for arraignment on a refiled murder charge. Jefferson's attorney, Joe Johnson requested that the trial be transferred to the San Bernardino County Superior Court. The motion was granted.

Cityhood funding activities

Citizens for the Incorporation of Alta Loma have scheduled two fund-raising events to help finance the incorporation movement they are backing.

The first, a patio-buffet dinner, will be held Saturday at 5 p.m. at the home of Sue Durham, 5585 Pearl St., Alta Loma.

The menu will include sliced meats, salads, cake and homemade ice cream.

There will be a white elephant auction. Tickets are $3.50 per person and $2 for children under 12, and may be purchased from Wanda Dixon at 987-3510 or Mrs. Durham at 987-2149.

The group will conduct a rummage sale July 31 from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Alpha Beta parking lot at the corner of Base Line Road and Archibald Avenue.

Those wishing to donate items may have them picked up by calling Dotty Lawson at 987-7087, Dawn Peters at 987-8510 or Mrs. Dixon.

Those who wish to drop off items may leave them with the Tafoya family at 10350 Base Line Road, Space 15; the Dixon family at 9280 Hillside Road; the Ragusa family at 8440 Avalon Court; or the Geisler family at 5267 Sapphire St.

Cohen 'stable'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former reputed Los Angeles rackets boss Mickey Cohen remained in stable condition Friday at UCLA Medical Center suffering from fatigue and jaundice.

A spokesman said Friday Cohen will probably be released early next week. He entered the medical center July 5.

Cohen underwent surgery for stomach cancer at the same hospital eight months ago. It was reported the current ailments may be complications resulting from the cancer surgery.

Starts Thursday, July 22.

Bingo!—Chino Legion; Bingo?—City Council

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Warning to Chino residents: don't get your bingo cards out just yet.

The City Council may have some reservations about legalizing bingo for charitable organizations, despite the voters' approval of a measure on the June primary ballot.

Councilwoman Eileen Carter indicated at Tuesday night's meeting that she had some strong feelings against bingo, speaking in response to a request for legalization from the local American Legion post.

"I'd like to write an ordinance prohibiting such a thing in Chino," she said. "Approving it would be an invitation to organized crime."

Her comments followed the request by Lester Brown of the American Legion for approval of bingo. "If you check the voting record all over the State of California and here in Chino, you'll see it had strong approval," said Brown.

Brown said he realized the council had the "option" as to whether to legalize the game.

City Atty. Jimmy Gutierrez noted the new legislation "permits the city to approve bingo. There is a local option."

Mayor Bob McLeod said after the meeting that he had some "mental restrictions" about bingo, but did not elaborate. Earlier, he reported receiving three requests, including a letter from the American Legion, favoring the game.

The two other requests came from St. Margaret Mary and Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic churches in Chino. "Two were verbal requests and one was written," said McLeod.

The council took no official action in the matter but directed Gutierrez to report back on any possible ordinances needed to be drawn up.

McLeod apologized to Brown after his presentation. "I didn't mean to ignore your letter. We'll check this out."

Mrs. Carter said the city has other ordinances banning gambling in the city and they would have to be redrawn if bingo was approved.

Upland fills planning post

John Zind, Claremont - Mudd football coach who has been spokesman for the Upland Citizens for Quality Living, is a new member of the Upland Planning Commission.

Mayor George Gibson named Zinda Monday to replace Commissioner Leo Leal who moved from the city.

Re-appointed to four-year terms on the Planning Commission were Don Brownell and Jerry Morris. Morris was a candidate for City Council in March and lost by about 30 votes.

During the council meeting, unanimous approval was granted to four developers for tentative tract maps involving about 95 acres of land. All of the developments are for single family homes in the northwestern part of the city above Foothill Boulevard. In all, nearly 300 homes will be constructed in these developments.

Lewis Homes of California is developing three of the tracts. Warde Capital Corp. had two tentative tracts approved. The other tracts are being developed by Chavann Realty and La Palma Land Co.

Ontario policemen carry wage dispute to council session

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

The Ontario City Council Tuesday night failed to reach agreement with city police officers on salary negotiations but members did agree to continue negotiating sessions.

Representatives of the Ontario Police Officers Association went directly to the City Council after they failed to reach an agreement with the council's negotiator, Asst. City Manager Steve Julian.

Police are seeking a 14 per cent hike, including a 10.25 per cent raise in salaries and the remainder in fringe benefits.

The city has offered a 9.35 per cent hike, including a 6.6 per cent salary raise and the remainder in fringe benefits.

Under the city's proposal, officers would receive the salary boosts in two increments, next October and January.

Stephen Silver, a Los Angeles attorney representing the association, requested the City Council to meet in a closed door session with association representatives to see if an agreement could be reached before the two sides became "polarized."

This met some initial opposition from Councilman Robert Abel who declared the council should not become the negotiator.

He was joined by Mayor Paul Treadway who agreed he was not ready to become an active party in the negotiations.

But Silver said he wanted the council to give some guidance to its negotiator. "We have some ideas that may be able to resolve this delicate situation."

Council members Faye Dastrup and Beecher Medlin said they had no objections to the meeting, emphasizing they didn't want to take the negotiations away from Julian.

Following the regular council session, police representatives then met with council members and some members of the city staff for 90 minutes.

On their return to the chambers, Treadway reported that at the request of the police association and the city's negotiating team, the council had instructed Julian to hold another meeting today with association representatives. "Enough was said tonight to speed their people on their way."

Julian later reported he had one meeting set today at 2:30 p.m. and another session on Thursday.

Miko was driving south on Mt. Baldy Road when he collided with a car traveling north but in the southbound lane passing another vehicle, said highway patrolmen.

The other driver was identified as Mark Waldrop, 16, of 21 Oak Grove Ave., Mt. Baldy.

CONSERVATION AWARDS

Utility praises energy-saving effort of two valley firms

General Dynamics in Pomona and Texfi-West in Ontario have been granted special awards by the Southern California Gas Co. for natural gas conservation efforts.

General Dynamics earned the award for reducing its gas consumption by 55 per cent, equal to 65 million cubic feet per year, over the past two years.

Texfi-West, which produces double-knit fabrics, cut gas usage by 33 per cent, or 71 million cubic feet annually, during the same period.

Representatives of the two companies were presented with "Concern" awards from the utility.

The awards were presented during a dinner program at Griswold's Tuesday by Pat Shea, vice president of consumer services for the gas company.

Accepting special certificates for their conservation work at General Dynamics were Ron Smith and Ernie Shaffer, while Texfi-West employes honored were Tony Drown, Bill Bass and Dick Bates.

The two valley industries are the first to earn the awards this year, said a gas company spokesman. Fourteen companies earned the award last year and their conservation efforts saved more than 3.7 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

Chino okays budget, 7% boost in salaries

Chino city councilmen adopted a final 1976-77 fiscal budget Tuesday night and granted pay increases averaging seven per cent to city employes.

Final budget figures were not released by officials, but no changes are expected from the preliminary $8,008,007 plan which projected no increase in the property tax rate.

Councilmen had expressed pleasure with the budget which holds the line on the $1.7476 per $100 assessed valuation tax rate. The total tax includes the voter-approved 25-cent override for the civic center.

The final budget was not printed because officials are waiting for assessed valuation figures, and adjustments to the Fire Department's budget.

The budget was adopted nevertheless to allow release of necessary expenditures and transfer of funds. Final figures are expected in August.

A salary resolution for the fiscal year granting average seven per cent pay boosts to miscellaneous employes was approved. Some workers will receive four per cent increases, others 6½ and a third group nine per cent. Police officers received their increases earlier, which averaged 7½ per cent.

The Chino Municipal Association apparently has not agreed to all terms of the salary resolution, but the council adopted it anyway after a management recommendation.

School pay talks stall in Claremont

Negotiations between a classified employe group and representatives of the Claremont Unified School District have hit a temporary snag.

Bargaining agents for both groups met Tuesday morning to begin talks on a memo of understanding submitted by Chapter 200, California State Employes Association.

Both sides agreed that the sessions can be opened to the public.

But negotiations ground to a standstill Tuesday afternoon when classified employe representatives presented to the district the first 13 articles of a proposed master contract, and said 10 more would be presented shortly.

District representatives said they need time to study the new proposal.

D.B. election to cost $2,000

Costs of the Nov. 2 election in Diamond Bar to decide if residents wish to be represented by a Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) are $2,000 and, since Diamond Bar has no taxing authority, the money must come from donations.

The $2,000 is due at the Los Angeles County Registrar of Voters Office on Aug. 20. Those who wish to help pay election costs may send checks payable to Diamond Bar MAC Election Fund, P.O. Box 4085, Diamond Bar 91765.

It was incorrectly printed in the Progress Bulletin on July 14 that the election would cost $20,000.

Chaffey College counts its blessing: 3-cent tax rate cut

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The Chaffey College board adopted a $19,791,338 publication budget for 1976-77 Tuesday which calls for a reduction of three cents per $100 assessed valuation in the tax rate.

While the adopted budget reflects almost a $4 million increase over the budget for this year, the tax rate is expected to drop from 67 to 64 cents, according to Robert E. Totten, assistant superintendent for business services.

"We are especially pleased with this budget," Totten said, "since it continues to provide the community and the staff with quality education and benefits."

The adopted budget includes a six per cent salary increase for all faculty and staff members plus increased health benefits provided under agreements which became effective on July 1.

"It's a combination of several things," said Totten in further explaining the tax rate reduction.

"First, under Senate Bill 1641, Chaffey College will receive more money from the state. Then, with the inclusion of the Norco-Corona area in our district for the first time, the district has increased its valuation."

The Norco-Corona area residents voted to annex to the Chaffey College district rather than Riverside City College district, in a special election, and the annexation became effective July 1.

The budget is based on an anticipated student body of 11,414 this academic year as compared with 10,141 students during the past school year.

The budget also includes $2 million for capital expenditures. This includes the construction of a new auto shop building, which is expected to be started late this fall, and a vocational education center. The capital program is anticipated as a two-year project.

After a three-hour open hearing before the board and a capacity audience in the Chaffey College Board Room, the termination of William J. Brooks for persistent insubordination was upheld.

Brooks, a classified employe in the college photography laboratory, had requested the open hearing after being informed on June 25 that he was terminated.

He was joined at the hearing by two California State Employes Association representatives who challenged the numerous letters, memos and reports submitted by faculty members and James L. Catanzaro, assistant superintendent of personnel services.

Brooks was employed by the college on Sept. 2, 1975, and after a six months' probationary period, granted permanent status on March 1. According to reports submitted, his work had been satisfactory until that time, but had progressively deteriorated since.

Brooks had been warned on May 17 that he would be dismissed at the end of his 10 months' contract on June 30 unless he modified his work.

Stab victim's identity is discovered

A young man found beaten and stabbed 33 times in San Gabriel Canyon July 13 has been identified as James Harzheim, 17, of Azusa.

Meanwhile, the victim remained in critical condition today at County-USC Medical Center still unable to speak.

Harzheim was found lying conscious in a field east of Highway 39 near the old San Gabriel Canyon Road.

A switchblade knife found nearby is believed to have been the knife used to stab him. The motive for the attack has not been determined and investigators are awaiting an opportunity to question Harzheim.

State aid sweetens school budget for Cucamonga district

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Correspondent

Due to an influx of new state money, the Central school board of Cucamonga decided Tuesday night to publish a budget that is slightly higher than had originally been estimated.

The new budget shows expenditures for the 1976-77 school year to be $2,359,350, an increase of about $35,000 over the preliminary budget estimates.

The publication budget is the next to last step in shaping the final budget school administrators will operate under next year. Decision on the final budget is expected next month.

The biggest increase reflected in the revised estimate is for employe health and welfare benefits which will be increased by $27,838. Next is an increase in the superintendent's salary by $2,350 followed by an increase in insurance costs of $2,200. The district will be left with a contingencies fund of $257,132.

In other action the board decided to go along with Supt. Don Sperry's recommendation that purchase of a new school bus for the district be put off indefinitely. In a report to the board Sperry described the condition of the district's two buses as "good."

On the issue of the installation of citizen band radios in the buses, however, the board showed considerable concern and board President Patton Lewis asked administrators "What's holding the installation of these things up?"

Sperry explained that the Federal Communications Commission was reluctant to give the bus operators a special frequency to use. He felt that in light of events in Chowchilla, where 26 school children were kidnapped, the installation of CB radios is urgent.

The untiring McCarthy

There was a wisdom born of delirium at the Democratic Convention that no one now can stop Jimmy Carter from becoming the next president of the United States. But behind the happy faces confidence was not quite so high. Not only are Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan of concern, Eugene McCarthy is too.

Eugene McCarthy? Though it came as a surprise to many in attendance at the convention, he to is running for president. The onetime Democratic senator is campaigning as an "independent" candidate, which in some respects is like being a has-been, only worse. Nevertheless, those who think about him at all anymore are beginning to think about him more seriously. He'll not be the next president, certainly, but he may be a tangential factor in deciding who is.

How? Louis Harris has taken a poll which indicates that 10 per cent of the voters favor McCarthy in a three-way race with Carter and any Republican nominee. That's about eight million voters. What's more, McCarthy's forces believe that Carter has commissioned a poll which indicates the independent has 18 per cent of the electorate's support. That's 15 million votes. Assuming that McCarthy's support would hurt Carter more than Ford, the alternative candidate could turn a close November race into a stunning disaster for the Democrats.

Well, admittedly this is speculative. Particularly since there has for many months now been precious little indication from the population that McCarthy is so popular. Actually, even the candidate will admit only a minority of Americans know who he is and even fewer are aware of his candidacy. In a poll of 30 state officers (not governors) taken at the recent national governor's convention in Pennsylvania, 18 did not know McCarthy was running, three thought he'd died years ago and two didn't recognize the name at all.

This despite the fact that McCarthy has been running for president almost forever. When he retired from the Senate in 1970, he also retired from the Democratic party and formed an alternative called the Committee for a Constitutional Presidency. It's not a party, he says, it's a movement. But not a very fast movement. After 18 months of formal campaigning for citizen support McCarthy is so lonely he has to go to his closet to play with his shoes

And public apathy has been only part of the frustration of the McCarthy bid. As an independent he is not automatically included on state ballots, as are the representatives of the major parties. So he must qualify for the right in each state, which is usually difficult, always expensive and sometimes impossible. Every state has its own laws governing the placement of independent names on its ballots, and often the laws are the kind that give democracy a bad name.

In West Virginia, for example, voters who signed petitions for McCarthy were automatically expunged from the Democratic and Republican roles, making themselves liable to a $1,000 fine if they tried (some did) to vote in any primary. In Michigan, a court ruled that McCarthy's name on ballots would "clog the election system." In Massachusetts, the McCarthy bid was invalidated because too many of his petition signatures lacked middle names or precise addresses.

So it is, a year and a half later: Gene McCarthy has qualified in only six states. The 100,000 signatures he's gathered have cost him $200,000, or $2 a piece. He says confidently he will be on 40 ballots by November, but it is unlikely. To the contrary, his campaign shows no signs of catching fire. The candidate looks tired, his cash register is empty, his staff is uninspired. One McCarthy ally wonders if the campaign can make it through the summer.

And yet, the polls say eight to 15 million people would vote for him. And his people say that if he won a couple of large states, such as New Jersey and Illinois, he could deadlock the election proceedings and throw it into the House of Representatives.

Delicious isn't it? That the same Gene McCarthy who destroyed Lyndon Johnson and thereby created the Richard Nixon administration is once again of crucial strategic significance to the Grand Old Party.

Defends Brown appointees

Dear Editor:

Your editorial of Monday, July 19 regarding the appointments of Gov. Brown is a classic. It should be sent to every journalism school in the U.S.A. on how to write a "racist" editorial.

For a paper that asked to stand up and be counted to help build the image of Pomona, you took a "giant step backwards" by insulting namely: Women, the ethnic backgrounds of the appointees, the civil rights act, environmental and consumer laws and the business community.

Please tell me what's so wrong in bringing business leaders into help run government. Both our political parties have done this with good and bad results. Gov. Reagan brought some in and were retained by the present governor. I'm sure the local and national chambers of commerce would be "taken back" by your editorial.

Are you trying to say that the governor should appoint only people of Anglo-Saxon backgrounds, and exclude people of Greek, Polish, Italian, Slavic, Chinese, Japanese, French, Spanish surnamed etc., who need not apply because they are not qualified?

In closing, let me say I hope this editorial reflects only the thinking of one person on your staff and not the entire Donrey Media Group. Yours for a better America on this our 200th birthday.

'It's the law'

Dear Editor:

After playing racquet ball this week at Cal Poly Pomona, I was shocked, then angered by the parking ticket I received.

I was parked in the south athletic field parking lot, next to the tennis courts in a regulation parking spot.

There were about 30 cars parked in the approximately 400 car lot.

Upon talking to the Cal Poly Police Security that same night, they informed me that I must purchase a visitor's parking permit each time I want to play tennis or racquet ball. The office to obtain such permits closes at 8 p.m. — well after the hour I often play racquet ball. Therefore, if I want to play after 8 p.m., I must hazard getting a $5 ticket even though only one-tenth of the parking lot is being used. I also was informed that I could park after 11 p.m. without a ticket since the policing stops at that hour.

When asked WHY cars were being ticketed, the only answer was that "It's the law," since space is needed for student parking.

I contend that cars should be ticketed only when there is a crowded parking lot — certainly not when it is impossible to obtain a parking permit because the office is closed.

Many community supporters of Cal Poly use the tennis and racquet ball courts, as I do, during the week and on weekends, without being ticketed. WHAT SYSTEM IS USED TO DETERMINE WHO RECEIVES A TICKET? I have been playing racquet ball and tennis for over 5 years and this is a first for me.

I feel "the law" should be applied only where and when its necessity is in evidence — not indiscriminately when the parking lot is near empty.

Indians still get bum steer

WASHINGTON — The Bureau of Indian Affairs has treated the Indians so shamefully that it ought to be abolished.

This is the secret conclusion of the American Indian Policy Review Commission, which was established by Congress a year ago to investigate the federal government's mismanagement of Indian affairs.

The investigation grew out of a series of dramatic events, which began in November, 1972. As the voters were going to the polls, a coalition of Indian groups arrived in Washington to protest innumerable and timeless grievances.

They first occupied, then vandalized, then looted the building housing the BIA. They had discovered hundreds of file cabinets, which contained documentary evidence of the bungling, neglect and betrayal that have characterized the white man's treatment of the Indian. Angrily, they spirited the evidence out of Washington.

They later smuggled the evidence to us, and we wrote a series of columns. Then we presented the evidence to Congress, testifying how the Indians had been systematically robbed of their land, timber, water and mineral rights.

Now the Review Commission has confirmed the sordid facts. It is not scheduled to issue a final report for several months, but its interim findings are detailed in a confidential memorandum.

The memo, written by the commission's director, Ernest Stevens, to its chairman, Sen. James Abourezk, D.-S.D., accused the BIA of mishandling Indian money, neglecting their safety and failing to protect their property rights. The BIA stood by indifferently, the commission charges, even while known mobsters ripped off Indian land.

Here are the details:

The Commission collected evidence that subcontracts to develop land on Indian reservations in New Mexico and Arizona were granted to firms controlled by "known underworld figures." In one case, a development corporation approved by the BIA handed out subcontracts to "one of the major figures in organized crime land fraud operations in the entire Southwest," according to sworn testimony.

Yet incredibly, Indian Affairs Commissioner Morris Thompson was unperturbed. He wrote that the transaction had occurred over three years ago and, therefore, that "the question is now apparently moot."

The Review Commission called for an investigation of the BIA's role as land trustee and "the BIA personnel responsible for approval of property leases."

Even more incredibly, the commission could find "no federal agency or authority in possession of an accurate assessment of the total federal budget for Indians."

The commission pointed out, for example, that the BIA's budget "is not reconcilable" with the amount of money allotted by the White House's budget office. The BIA bureaucrats thought their budget for the current fiscal year was $918 million. But at the White House, the figure was listed as $937.7 million.

"If $20 million is lost in negotiations at the top," declares the memo, "there is no telling what gets lost on the way down."

The memo also cites the case of the industrial park that was supposed to be constructed on Indian land. Ten years ago, the Papago-Tucson Development Corporation leased 80 acres for the development. Although "several hundred thousand dollars" were invested in the project, the secret memo reveals, "today the 80-acre tract is nothing but weeds and dust."

The Papago Indians have also lost "billions of dollars in copper leases," charges the document. In addition, "massive amounts of federal funds" have been wasted in other meaningless and fraudulent projects."

The memo accuses the BIA of indifference toward Indian abuse. The State of Oklahoma, for example, allegedly is "a hot bed of violence and harassment" against Indians.

The report cites the dramatic incident of an Indian boy who was arrested last February on breaking-and-entering charges. A state mental hospital examination revealed that the boy displayed no suicidal tendencies. Yet a month later, he was found dead in his jail cell, hanging by a belt which was not his own. On behalf of the family, the BIA reluctantly asked the FBI for help. The youth's parents have yet to hear another word from either the BIA or FBI.

The Review Commission composed of five Indians and six members of Congress, will submit its final report to Congress in January. Director Stevens told our associate Terry Repak that the report will call for the establishment of a new Indian agency that would be independent of the Interior Department, which now oversees the BIA.

With superlatives, some doubt

By ERIC RUFF
PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Staff aides for several Democratic congressmen generally believe Jimmy Carter and Sen. Walter Mondale will run a strong presidential race in November but concede the ticket has drawbacks that may help the GOP.

The Carter-Mondale ticket was assessed as a "well balanced team" by many of the partisan staffers, who seemed satisfied with the Georgian's selection for a running mate. But along with the superlatives came some doubt.

"The Democratic ticket will run strong everywhere," asserted an aide to Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex.

The aide then called Texas a "swing state" and admitted Mondale's liberal leanings might affect the vote of conservative Texas Democrats.

An aide to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., predicted the Carter-Mondale ticket would run well in Arkansas, but said this year's presence of Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan had injected Southern interest in the GOP.

"I think Carter and Mondale should run well in Arkansas, it's an awfully Democratic state," the Mills aide said. "But Ronald Reagan has built a good organization there that should help either Republican candidate."

An aide to Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-Calif., describing Carter as a moderate liberal, predicted the Democratic ticket might not fare well in Southern California but confidently said it would win the state.

An aide to Rep. Robert Leggett, D-Calif., said a Reagan nomination would make a Carter-Mondale victory in the state harder to achieve but added, "I'm optimistic."

"Carter and Mondale will do well in California," the aide said. "How well will depend on who the Republicans run. But in either case, I'm very optimistic."

In neighboring Nevada, an aide to Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev., predicted the ticket would have "a hell of a chance of carrying the state."

The Santini aide also indicated Reagan would run better than President Ford in the Silver State.

Hawaii will go with Carter and Mondale over Republicans, according to an aide to Rep. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii. "The ticket will do quite well in Hawaii," the aide said.

Just in jest

To steal a line from Will Rogers, all I know is what I read in the newspapers.

—Two hundred tons of onions in Riverside County have been dumped because of a glutted market.

—A record 1976 corn crop in the U.S. is up 14 per cent over last year.

—There is an overabundance of rice now being grown in the United States.

—The wheat harvest is the second largest in this country's history.

All that on the authority of the U.S. Agriculture Department which then goes on to predict that food prices will increase from 2 to 5 per cent this year.

—Confusing isn't it? Like me, don't you sometimes get the feeling our government is being run by a lot of psychologically immature experts who take sadistic delight in raising our hopes to new heights with good news in order to watch us suffer and scream when they tell us the bad?

Tom Tiede

A wolf in GOP clothing?

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Jimmy Carter is about to find out that his first 18 months of presidential politics were the easiest. All he has had to do so far was weather a Democratic fusillade against his accent, his ideas, his birthplace and his religion. Now comes the real fight, with the meanest, roughest, most conniving and shameless assault force in politics: the Republicans.

It's no telling if Carter is ready, but the GOP is. For months a team of sewer-stepping young people from the Republican National Committee has been searching under every rock in Georgia for Carter dirt. The task force, reminiscent of the Republican organizations which institutionalized Watergate, has compiled a roomful of anti-Carter information which in weeks to come will be released to the public through leaks, whispers and official indignations.

The material is said to be largely an accumulation of alleged contradictions in Carter's statements and activities. For example, the task force gleefully notes that Carter, who crows about morality in government, was so friendly with Spiro Agnew that in 1973 he personally urged the former vice president to stay in office despite charges of corruption against him. This story is not new, Carter having admitted it on several occasion. But drawn up in documented form, Republicans feel it might negatively impress the voters.

Aside from this small caliber ammunition, the RNC snoopers have reportedly uncovered what in essence are smoking guns. Details are secret, but one Republican familiar with the gumshoe operation hints that Carter is most vulnerable regarding federal subsidies for his peanut farm operation. The Republican says the taxpayer cash has been substantial and wonders aloud "if it's not just possible Jimmy has become a millionaire the easy way." And he adds: "His business may have also prospered by his term as governor."

There are uncounted other nasties as well. Religious. Social. Political. Republicans have gathered a particularly large amount of information concerned with Carter's stormy relations with the Georgia legislature in 1971-1974. "We have concentrated on the years of his public life," the Republican official says, "but we have also gone back to his Navy days and before. I've only seen a small part of the data, but even that has been, well, very revealing."

Revealing, perhaps. But of whom? Four years after Richard Nixon's Committee to Re-Elect the President cut itself a special path in the political subterranean, imaginative GOP officers are again showing themselves to be somewhat like rotten fish by moonlight: they shine but they stink. Accentuating the negative is politics at its worse. Subtle hints of an opponent's evil is moral mugging. Organizing a task force to fashion character assassinations is, at this point in time, a slap at public tolerance.

It should be noted that the Republicans deny any impropriety, and where have we heard this before, on the grounds that attacking the enemy is a traditional election year tactic. Committee officers say no smears are intended, merely well researched facts "to which the public is entitled." For instance: if the Republicans have discovered (as they say they have) that Carter's family has mistreated some of its farmhands, "We think this is an indication of the man, and we think people should know about it now rather than later."

That premise is admittedly unassailable. The screening of office seekers must necessarily include personality and character scrutiny. But a task force for such? A herd of partisan detectives? There is little in the way of public protection that can come from organized fault finding, particularly when it is biased. Muckraking can be an honorable service; politicized, however, it fills with maggots.

"Hi there, farmer, what do you think of J. Carter?"

"Well, bub, I don't like him."

"Okay. Mind if we tape record this for the public good?"

Watergate lives. The Republican National Committee still has soiled hands. Note to the Carter campaign: watch your file cabinets.

Q: Wasn't Jimmy Carter's mother a Peace Corps volunteer in China? — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Odum, Birmingham, Ala.

A: Right rumor — wrong country. A nurse, Mrs. Lillian Carter (widowed since 1953) signed to serve as a medical volunteer in 1966 to relieve her boredom. But it was in India, not China.

Here's how she broke the news to the Democratic nomine for President. "Do you love me, Jimmy?" she asked her son. "Yes, Mother. What the hell are you going to do now?" After she told him, she went through nine months of rigorous training in Chicago and told her Peace Corps superiors that she'd like to serve in India because "the South has been so terrible to minorities."

Like any recruit, once there she was assigned to a specialty new to her — to teach "family planning and contraceptive methods to unreceptive factory workers." Finally the head doctor spelled out the facts of Indian sex life for her. "Look," he said, "all these people have is sex. They cook and eat in one room. They even have sex in that room in front of their children. They don't know anything else. Don't try and change things."

Lillian Carter suspected that the Indian doctor and others distrusted her because it was rumored that she was a CIA agent. She found conditions depressing and backward. "Even vasectomies," she observed, "were performed without anesthesia."

Miss Lillian, now 77, told reporter Kandy Stroud she has one luxury — like Elvis Presley in his first flush of fame, she had a "string of Cadillacs" over the years. Jimmy's sister, on the other hand, is a distaff Evel Knievel, racing her Honda motorcycle through the quiet Georgia countryside — raising dust and eyebrows.

Q: I've had such bad luck with my TV repairman. Is it true that in Mexico they deal very harshly with crooked ones? — Mrs. A. Patten, Omaha, Neb.

A: True. Mexico has passed tough legislation to protect the consumer — giving jail terms to dishonest TV repairmen. Also, if an auto mechanic fails to fix a car right the first time, he must provide another car for the owner to drive until his car is satisfactorily repaired.

Q: Who was the first black player in the American League? — E.M., Canton, Ohio.

A: It was slugging outfielder Larry Doby, signed by Bill Veeck in July 1947 for the Cleveland Indians after Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier in the National League with Brooklyn earlier that year.

Q: I hear Henny Youngman has written another book. What's it about ? — Leonard Hackman, Brooklyn.

A: "It's about 160 pages long," the comedian says. Titled "Anonymously — By Henny Youngman," it's a sequel to a Bicentennial paperback the comic wrote which had a somewhat longer title: "Come Celebrate the Bicentennial with Jokes Henny Youngman Told 200 Years Ago!"

A: Wasn't there a real baby left at the United Nations, just like in the movie, "A Global Affair"? — Mrs. Elmer O'Brian, Lubbock, Tex.

A: No. That's a question repeated every time the film runs on TV. "A baby has never been left at the United Nations," advises a spokeswoman. "The incident portrayed in the movie was fictional."

Q: Did Marlene Dietrich ever make a film with Ronald Colman? And can it be seen on TV? — Dennis Lowell, Richmond, Va.

A: Yes, and it is available for TV. A 1944 Arabian Nights fable, "Kismet" was made memorable by a dancing scene in which Dietrich had her body painted gold. The later Broadway musical (1955) of the same name is the most recent of five film versions of the story. The Colman-Dietrich film also goes by the title "Oriental Dreams."

Q: What's the new device that's been invented to further aid the metermaids? — Barbara Sweet, Miami.

A: It's a new kind of electronic parking meter. When a parked car has left its space with time still remaining, the meter automatically resets to zero. Thus preventing a freeloader from using the unused time.

Q: Any idea who first made the remark, "Politics makes strange bedfellows"? — Silas R., Richmond, Va.

A: It was Charles Dudley Warner (1829-1900), a writer who once collaborated with Mark Twain on "The Gilded Age." A recent story on the front page of the Miami News and other newspaper shored up the notion that "politics makes strange bedfellows." The head read: "Call Girls Point to Politicians . . . Best Clients and Kinky Sex."

Q: The Los Angeles Dodgers' Burt Hooton — I hear he undergoes a special treatment to improve his pitching. What is it? — Ralph Jones, Oxnard, Cal.

A: Hypnotism. And Burt doesn't give a hoot who knows it. Hypnotism, he reveals, gives him the confidence on the mound that he only used to have in the dugout.

Ann Landers

She's sure boy stole money

Dear Ann Landers: Some time ago I went to my daughter's house for dinner. She also invited her in-laws who brought their 15-year-old son. We had a pleasant evening but when I got home, I discovered $70 was missing from my wallet.

I phoned my daughter to tell her of the incident. I was certain the young boy had taken the money and wanted to warn her. She couldn't believe it and insisted I must have lost the $70 elsewhere.

Last evening, the in-laws were guests in my home. Again they brought the boy. This morning I left for the store, thinking I had $14 in my purse. When I attempted to pay for a purchase, I discovered only small change. My wallet was empty. Now I'm sure that the boy is a thief.

In two weeks I will be entertaining the entire family at my home. The in-laws will be there, including, of course, the boy. How can I safeguard the purses of my guests? (The women usually put them on the bed or on the dresser.) I don't want to embarrass anyone. — Up Against It

Dear Up: Engage a sitter (ostensibly as a maid) to help the ladies with their wraps. Ask her to remain full-time in the bedroom and keep an eye on the purses. (No details need be given.) That boy needs professional help — and soon. Let's hope someone has the courage to suggest it to his parents.

Dear Ann Landers: A nutty divorced woman moved next door. She has a son, six, and a daughter, seven. The son can't play with girls and the daughter can't play with boys, because their screwball mother says all the trouble in the world starts with sex and she doesn't want her children to "get involved."

What can we say to our youngsters when this woman orders them to stay away? — K.T.B.

Dear K.T.B.: Tell your children they shouldn't go where they aren't wanted. No other explanation is necessary. But let's hope those unfortunate neighbor kids get enough wholesome exposure at school to offset the crippling effects of their sick mother.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday my wife announced right after dinner, "I saved you $105 today." I was very eager to learn how she did it because this woman has always been a big spender. This is what she said:

"As you know, Harry, I always watch the paper for sales. Well, today I was really lucky. I bought three dresses at half price. They were originally marked $75. Can you imagine THREE $75 dresses for $105?"

I really got sore. The woman has a closet full of dresses that she bought at sales and she's never put them on her back. They don't fit right, they are too short or too long, or she is "waiting for the style to come back."

We are in debt up to our necks because my wife can't resist a bargain. I talked to our minister last year and he said, "Close all the charge accounts — she's a charge-a-holic." Tell me what to do. — Poorhouse Here I Come

Dear Poorhouse: Take the clergyman's advice — NOW. You'd be doing your wife a favor. Some people need protection from themselves and compulsive buyers are at the top of the list.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Golfers: all talk, no listen

Many — most, perhaps all "golf widows," wives of men who spend all their weekends looking for lost balls and flubbing three-foot putts, view with alarm what the boys call "the 19th hole," meaning the clubhouse bar where they gather after a round to brag of their exploits and get smashed, or lament their mistrials and get smashed.

Queried, the average golfer will tell you that he goes there for a refreshing drink and good talk about the round with his fellow golfers. Talk it is — communication it ain't.

The linksman, from hacker to scratch player, will tell his wife that he's been talking over the game with his partner and opponents. The contention is that there is a cheerful give and take of accounts, questions, answers, advice, jeers, joshing. Nothing could be further from the truth. When an inveterate golfer mentions "talking over" the round with his companions, he usually means telling his buddies how he played every hole, how he battled his slice, how the fast greens ruined his putting. He has no idea what they replied, because he was replaying the 17th while they talked and waiting for them to shut up so he could tell them about it.

In most other sports there is an exchange of ideas, congratulations, condolences. Tennis players ask about the slice serve or comment on the cross-court volley. Handball players discuss kill shots and ceiling balls. Baseball players comment on the slider; basketball players carry on animated discussions of the pick-and-go and the slam dunk.

The golfer, however, is a solitary and slightly sour athlete, bedeviled by a bad hook, sand traps, rolling greens. He could care less about your birdie on the fourth hole; he wants you to listen to his disaster at the water hazard on the 17th. He will keep his mouth shut (briefly) while you are talking but he won't be listening.

Ed: "Howdja do, Bill? An 84? Nice round. You should have seen the number of putts I had today lipping the cup. I think the greens—"

Bill: "Boy, I chipped in on the 14th—fact! Must have been 85 yards. I was in the rough, but had a good lie, so I took a nine-iron and went for the pin. It was—"

Jack: "You wouldn't believe how many times I went into the trees! Honest to Pete, if they were on the left, I hooked — on the right, slice. Twice I had to drop out — couldn't get a swing at all. And you know that clump of firs by the 12th? Well—"

Tom: "You talk about trees! I was under a low branch on the 16th, so I got out a one-iron for a low shot out onto the fairway. The damn ball hit a limb and richocheted right back at me! I hadda duck or it would have—"

Bill: "There was a cross-wind blowing, remember? So I played it a little to the left, just wanting to get up close for my par. When I hit down on it—"

Ed: "Had one from, I swear, 30 feet. I studied the break real careful, gave it a good tap and it rolled right up to the—"

Jack: "And those sycamores by the eleventh, you know? I could play this course with a driver, a putter and a chain saw. Hit a good solid three-wood from the edge of the fairway, and would you believe, I—"

Bill: "It landed just on the fringe, took two bounces and rolled into the cup. I couldn't believe my—"

Tom: "Lemme tell you about the eighth. I was up near the bunker, see, lying two. So I . . ."

And so on, far into the night.

Dr. Lamb

Wife frets over mate's ills

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 45 years old, 6 foot 3 and weighs 190 pounds. He runs about eight miles a week in four periods, swims a mile three times a week plays tennis at least once a week, often two or three hours on Saturday and Sunday in summer.

I am very conscious of nutrition and he has a good diet. Even so, for a number of years he has been taking vitamin supplements, including extra vitamin C (500 milligrams per day) which I don't feel necessary in view of his balanced diet.

Recently he had a company physical and has received $35 worth of pills with no explanation except to take daily. He gets Cyclospasmol for his Raynaud's disease which I assume he will take only in coldest weather. The disease does not really bother him except that his fingers turn white when it is cold. He is to take Sterazolidin for his occasional complaints of tennis elbow, which has never been severe enough to prevent him from accepting any invitation to play. He also gets Colbenemid because on three separate occasions during a three week period his uric acid count has been high. He had been complaining about a sore second toe during the jogging and tennis.

The doctor who prescribed all these pills is a board certified internist and undoubtedly capable. But I feel that he may be catering to mild hypochondria and I am somewhat concerned about the interaction of all these pills, since at the moment my husband is taking all three in addition to his vitamins. Have you any comment?

DEAR READER — Yes, I have a comment. I appreciate your concern but it is misplaced. It is easy for you to say your husband's white fingers in cold weather don't bother him but he may be a better judge of how his fingers feel. It so happenes that Cyclospasmol is not effective if used sporadically as you suggest only in coldest weather.

Anyone, particularly a man, since men are more susceptible to its complications, with abnormally high uric acid levels should be taking medicine to control it. This goes double if the man has symptoms. Untreated high uric acid levels often lead to gradual changes that could be prevented by the good treatment your husband is receiving.

Your husband would not be the first person with some elbow problems who persists in playing tennis and that is no argument against him having medicines for it.

You needn't worry about the interaction of the various medicines and vitamins that your husband is taking. You are probably right that he doesn't need the extra vitamin C but in that amount it is not likely to hurt him either. I would be more concerned about the eggs you feed him regularly that you mentioned in the rest of your letter describing your healthy diet for him.

It sounds to me if your husband is fortunate to have a good doctor who is doing his best to not only help your husband with his present problems but help keep him in good health for the future. You should be pleased, not concerned.

South's six-diamond bid was based on the principle that if you can count 11 sure winners, including first-round control of all suits, some divine Providence will give you a 12th trick.

When he looked at dummy his first glance indicated that Providence appeared to be looking some other way. There seemed to be mo way to avoid two heart losers. Then South got an inspiration. He just might be able to ruff one heart in dummy.

He started operation heart ruff by leading a low heart. West won and led a second club. There was nothing better to do.

South ruffed, played one trump which was all he could afford, cashed three high spades in order to get rid of two of dummy's hearts, cashed his ace of hearts, ruffed his last heart with dummy's nine of trumps, drew trumps and had his slam.

He was lucky. Spades had to break 4-3 and trump 3-2, but he had given the cards their chance.

Ask the Jacobys

We continue to get questions as to the origin of the name "Bridge."

In the game of whist there was no bidding. In the original game that did allow the bidding the dealer either made trump by saying, "I make it spades, hearts, etc.", or "I'll bridge it" in which case his partner had to make trump. The opponents had no right to bid in that first form of the new game.

First Crusoe was nervous

It has been reported that the original Robinson Crusoe was a man named Alexander Selkirk, who left his ship in the Pacific in 1703 to set up housekeeping on an island off the coast of South America. Less widely known are the details. Selkirk got into a violent argument with the ship's captain, one William Dampier. So Selkirk jumped overboard and swam ashore. He slept on the island overnight, but when he hailed the ship the next day, alas, the captain just laughed at him, and the vessel sailed away. Nine years later, another ship came by, spotted Selkirk's fire, and sent a boat ashore to rescue him. After two days of debate, Selkirk finally went aboard, but he was nervous about it. That ship, too, was captained by Dampier.

Hughes autopsy report sought

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill has sent a list of questions to be answered by Methodist Hospital officials in Houston concerning the autopsy on the body of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Hill said Monday the questions were aimed at obtaining a copy of the autopsy report so it could be used in court proceedings.

Hughes died April 5 at the age of 70 enroute to Methodist Hospital from Acapulco, Mexico.

The state attorney general has been investigating the final years of Hughes' life in an effort to determine the circumstances under which the billionaire recluse lived.

Ted Bowen, president of Methodist Hospital, refused to comment on the questions but said, "We'll certainly deliver a copy of the autopsy report when it is properly subpoenaed."

Hill declined to speculate on what he expects the report to disclose.

A Mexican doctor who examined Hughes shortly before he left that country said the billionaire was suffering from "neglect."

The attorney general said he expects to be in court Friday during the first local hearing in connection with the legal squabble by those hoping to obtain at least a share of the Hughes estate.

If Houston Probate Judge Pat Gregory declares Hughes a legal resident of Texas, the state will be aided in its bid to collect inheritance taxes from the estate.

Canals, life on Mars caught imagination

NEW YORK (AP) — It was 1877, and at the University of Milan the Italian astronomer Giovanni Schiaparelli was looking at Mars.

Schiaparelli reported sighting thin lines crossing the surface of the red planet and he called them "canali." He meant "channels," natural formations, but they soon became known as "canals,' which could imply they had been built by intelligent beings. That touched off a long scientific controversy about the possibility of life on Mars that Viking I may help settle.

The American astronomer Percival Lowell, around the turn of the century, popularized the notion that the canals were the work of intelligent beings. The canals he saw in his telescope intersected at what he called "oases."

Lowell wrote that the canals were for transporting water and that they were left-over evidence of a civilization that lived on a planet much like earth. The idea was that the smaller red planet lost its atmosphere and consequently its water.

In his book "The Cosmic Connection," Cornell University astronomer Carl Sagan says that when Schiaparelli was studying Mars it was in an orbit relatively close to earth, 40 million miles, but that the view was generally blurred and fuzzy.

"But there were moments when the earth's atmosphere steadied and the true detail of the disc of Mars seemed to flash out," Sagan writes. "Schiaparelli was astonished to see a network of fine straight lines covering the disc of Mars.

"He called these lines canali, which in Italian means channels. However, canali was translated into English as canals, a word with a clear imputation of design."

Lowell, brother of the poet Amy Lowell, became interested in the canals while serving as a diplomat in Chosen, now Korea. He returned to set up a private observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., where he found the same canals, some of them thousands of miles long.

"The Martian civilization, Lowell imagined, had constructed an extensive network of canals to carry water from the melting polar caps to the habitations in more equatorial climes," Sagan says.

"The turning point of the argument was the straightness of the canals, some of them following great circles for thousands of miles," Sagan adds. "Such geometrical configuration, Lowell thought, could not be produced by geological processes."

However, from this point on to the space age, some of the best visual astronomers, in rare moments of perfect viewing, were able to resolve the straight lines into a multitude of spots and irregular detail — not canali or canals at all, Sagan explains.

And with such developments as the discovery that the polar caps are actually carbon dioxide and not water, the idea of advanced life of Mars faded.

Dispute rages over U.S. nuclear exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are U.. exports of uranium, formerly considered routine and harmless, actually arming the world with nuclear weapons? The controversy is now before the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

For years, the United States has been supplying low-enriched uranium for India's Tarapus nuclear plant, which generates electricity for the Bombay area. A hearing today revolves around what would once have been a routine application for an export license.

Now, however, three citizen groups are objecting to further exports because India is building a reprocessing plant at Tarapur, capable of extracting from the spent nuclear fuel the byproduct plutonium, which could be used in nuclear bombs.

The hearing follows an acknowledgement by U.S. officials that it was U.S. uranium shipments and technical aid, meant only for civilian power generation, that made possible India's development of an atomic bomb and its explosion in 1974.

Fort Sumter

On April 12, 1861, South Carolina troops attacked Fort Sumter, forcing Union troops to evacuate, and touching off the Civil War.

These officials said India's ability to use peaceful nuclear technology for bomb development was misjudged.

Although India used a research reactor supplied by Canada to produce bomb material, officials said, India also made use of U.S. uranium, "heavy water," and scientific training.

Last July 2, the NRC approved another shipment of more than 9,000 kilograms of enriched uranium to the Tarapur plant, but held open any decision on further exports pending this hearing.

The hearing directly involves another proposed shipment of 12,000 kilograms of enriched uranium.

The shipments have been opposed by the Sierra Club, the Union of Concerned Scientists, and the Natural Resources Defense Council, which says safeguards are inadequate to prevent the diversion of nuclear materials into nuclear weaponry or terrorist activity.

The issue has brought dissenting votes from NRC Commissioner Victor Gilinsky when his three colleagues approved the last shipment to Tarapur and, earlier, when they approved an export of nuclear power plant parts to Spain.

India's explosion of a nuclear weapon not only made that country a member of the exclusive "nuclear club" but increased the pressure by Pakistan, Iran and other nations to develop their own nuclear weapons.

In his dissent from the last approval of uranium shipments to India, Gilinsky said, "The need for effective safeguards over reprocessing and the subsequent storage of separated plutonium is particularly acute in this case given India's continuing nuclear explosives program and India's failure to renounce the use of such explosives as weapons through ratification of the NPT (Nuclear Proliferation Treaty.)"

Grave marker is not Tom Paine's

TIVOLI, N.Y. (AP) — A marble tombstone thought possibly to mark Tom Paine's final resting place apparently is just the stone of an admirer, a researcher says.

The six-foot obelisk engraved "In memory of" the Revolutionary War pamphleteer was unearthed at a farm near here Saturday. The opposite side of the stone bore a similar legend for one John G. Lasher.

The discovery aroused excitement because scholars have been unable to locate Paine's grave. The author of "Common Sense" and other fiery tracts was buried at his New Rochelle, N.Y., farm in 1809, but when the body was moved to his native England several years later, authorities refused reburial and it met an unknown fate.

Frances Gale, a college student doing research on Hudson Valley architecture, found a clipping from a Kingston, N.Y., newspaper dated Sept. 9, 1874, that may explain the stone found here.

She said the article described a visit by Lasher, "an eccentric individual residing near Madelin" to a nearby marble yard. Lasher, described as "a staunch follower of Tom Paine" ordered a monument inscribed in memory of his hero.

The clipping said Lasher had the obelisk erected in his front yard. When he died three years later, his family apparently used the opposite side of the stone to mark their relative's grave.

Panel taking new look at proposed tax bill changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee is taking a second look at dozens of amendments that were written into a big tax bill last month, including several that benefit only one or two firms.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., arranged today's meeting of his committee in response to criticism of the amendments as the Senate neared a vote on extending last year's individual tax cuts at least through next June.

Unless the tax cuts are renewed, a four-member family making $15,000 annually would face a tax hike of $180 a year. For a single person earning $8,000, the increase would be $182 and for a couple with no children and earning $10,000, there would be a $204 hike. A family of four earning $6,000 would pay $445 more.

Long called his committee into session after liberal senators attacked several amendments to the tax bill as a windfall for special interests.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who are seeking to reconsider some of the amendments, concede several amendments now being discussed are meritorious.

But as a whole, Proxmire said, the amendments are "welfare for the well-to-do." Kennedy said the package invites speculation that the tax laws are for sale to wealthy campaign contributors.

The amendments were proposed by one or more of the committee's members and approved by the panel without hearings and with no public announcement of who would benefit.

But all were subject to scrutiny, before or after approval, by congressional and Treasury Department experts.

Sponsors usually cite one of two justifications for the amendments, which together give hundreds of millions of dollars worth of tax benefits to companies, individuals or investment groups.

An amendment is necessary, sponsors say, to relieve an unintended burden, that grew out of a previous tax-law change, or to provide an incentive for some worthwhile cause, such as energy conservation.

In a statement prepared for the hearing, Long said the committee, because of time pressures, had to make numerous decisions with the clear understanding they would be more thoroughly considered at a later date.

He said criticism of the panel is rooted in a fundamental disagreement over what taxes should be raised or cut.

"Tax reform is in the eye of the beholder, and nothing but unsufferable conceit would cause anyone to believe that his view is always right and that of others is is always wrong," Long said.

Opponents usually refer to amendments with which they disagree as loopholes.

One of the most expensive amendments being questioned would cost the Treasury an estimated $40 million a year for the benefit of the major oil companies. The amendment would make certain that firms belonging to the Iranian oil consortium continue to receive a U.S. tax credit for foreign taxes paid on their Iranian oil.

It is easy to determine who would benefit from some of the amendments. For example, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., was looking out for a home-state industry when he won approval of an amendment providing a tax credit for homeowners who install energy-saving thermostats.

One of the biggest manufacturers of such equipment is Honeywell, Inc., of Minnesota.

Other amendments are not so simple. One, proposed by Long, would provide tax relief for U.S. firms that own foreign-based shipping subsidiaries. An investigation by the Wall Street Journal discovered the businessman for whom Long offered the amendment would not benefit at all because the committee staff had drawn the proposal so tightly.

Some amendments, while proposed for one company, would help numerous other firms as well. For example, hundreds of restaurants would benefit from an amendment, proposed by Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., on behalf of the Marriot Corp., that would free employers from reporting waitress' tip income from credit-card sales.

Other beneficiaries of the amendments, identified by Proxmire or Kennedy, include: Investor Diversified Services, United Airlines, Chrysler Corp., large shipbuilders, Boise Cascade, General Electric, Westinghouse, Eaton Corp., Encyclopedia Britannica, major life-insurance companies and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

COAT ENDANGERED — Mrs. Barbara Jordan of Chicago holds her expensive ocelot coat that the government is suing. The coat, made from the skin of a South American cat on the endangered species list, is being sued so officials may confiscate and destroy it. By law the item made from an endangered specie, not the owner, is sued. Mrs. Jordan says she did not know ocelots were an endangered specie.

Attempt to reach bodies in mine a tedious job

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — H.N. Kirkpatrick is trying to rob a killer coal mine of the 11 men entombed there.

"It's pitch dark, it's damp," Kirkpatrick says of the mine in southeastern Kentucky where 11 miners died in March. "It's also depressing."

Kirkpatrick, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, is involved in the long and tedious process of recovering the bodies from Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 Big Black Mountain mine at Oven Fork.

The mine was sealed because it was deemed too dangerous to try to remove the bodies. Last Wednesday, the shaft was opened and four volunteer recovery teams began to claw their way towards the bodies.

So far, the recovery teams have moved 2,000 feet into the mine. They still have about three miles to go, which Kirkpatrick says will take about three months.

"There's no light in the mine. The only lights are your lamps on your head. There's no oxygen. No power has been restored to the mine and we have encountered a few rock falls," Kirkpatrick said in an interview Monday.

The men were killed on March 11 when the mine was rocked by a methane gas explosion. Two days earlier, 15 men had died in the same area of the shaft in another methane explosion. Their bodies were removed earlier.

The recovery teams are going into the mine about 500 feet at a time, securing each area, then moving on. The volunteers work with masks on their faces and oxygen tanks on their backs.

"I was the first one in," said Kirkpatrick, 56, who spent 15 years as an underground coal miner. "The crews alternate every hour because it's hard to work more than an hour with oxygen on."

Kirkpatrick said engineers have discovered "there's possibly a body of water that has us blocked between where we are now and two-southeast."

Two-southeast is the section where the bodies are located. It is 1,400 feet beneath the surface of Big Black Mountain.

Relatives of the victims have criticized the plan being used, charging that Scotia wants to repair the shaft so that mining can be resumed as soon as the bodies are recovered. They want the bodies recovered by digging a new shaft straight toward the bodies.

"Our main concern is recovery of the bodies," Kirkpatrick said. "After that, the mine will have to be reventilated so that the state and federal inspectors and the company and the Scotia Employes Association can make a thorough investigation. It will be a thorough investigation, and it will be quite some time after the bodies are recovered before they will be running coal."

Ford to ask restoration of defense cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is preparing to ask Congress to restore about $2.3 billion in funds it kept from his defense budget, according to administration sources. The money would go for Navy ships and research.

The sources say Ford will also ask Congress to take back about $1 billion it approved for other ships and planes he does not want now.

Further, the sources say, Ford will renew his appeal for measures to hold down manpower cost increases and to sell surplus metals from the strategic stockpile. The actions would yield the Pentagon about $1.4 billion next year to help offset other spending, they calculate.

Ford's move, likely to come this week, would appear to be a challenge to the House and Senate to perform surgery on the record $114.8 billion defense budget late in an election year session.

One senior official spoke of the impending Ford actions as a way of "keeping the pressure on Congress."

"The Democrats talk about spending only for what is needed for defense and we'd be happy if they'd help us do just that," the official said.

The sources say Ford is willing to accept only $300 million of a $2.6 billion reduction made by Congress in procurement and research authority for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

They indicated Ford would go along with a cutback in the Trident submarine missile program because technical problems have slowed it down. Production funds would be reduced while there would be some step up in development money for the key missile.

Much of the nearly $1 billion Congress voted on its own initiative would go for ships the Ford administration wants to defer until later years, and for six Navy A-6 attack planes the Pentagon never asked for. This money Ford wants Congress to take back.

The sources say Ford will remind Congress that he asked early this year for a number of steps to hold down escalating personnel costs. He will specifically urge Congress to permit a change in the formula for determining the wages of some 450,000 blue-collar workers who are on the Defense Department payroll. He also will restate his request that Congress abolish a 1 per cent "kicker" on top of automatic annual pay increases based on the cost of living rises.

Another arrest made in Japan's Lockheed probe

TOKYO (AP) — Prosecutors investigating Lockheed payoffs in Japan arrested another officer of the aircraft firm's former sales agent here Tuesday on charges of destroying evidence.

Tatsuya Nakai, 46, a section chief at Marubeni Corp., was the third Marubeni employe arrested on Lockheed-related charges in two days and the 14th person arrested in the course of Japan's Lockheed investigation. One of the 14 has been released.

Nakai was accused of having destroyed records of Marubeni executives' daily activities for 1972 and 1973 shortly after Lockheed revealed in February that it had paid out about $12 million to influence sales of its aircraft in Japan.

The other Marubeni officials under arrest include former company chairman Hiro Hiyama, 66, and former managing directors Toshiharu Okubo, 62, and Hiroshi Itoh, 49. They are accused of perjury, violation of foreign currency control laws, or both.

Authorities also have arrested six officials of All Nippon Airways, a domestic airline operating 16 Lockheed TriStar jets, two associates of right-wing power broker Yoshio Kodama, and a driver and another section chief for Marubeni. Bunichi Muzutani, 63-year-old business associate of Kodama, was released Monday although questioning of him was to continue.

Lockheed executives testified in Washington that about $7 million of the $12 million they spent as payoffs in Japan went to Kodama and that Marubeni officials suggested bribing high government officials.

Kodama himself is not in custody because of ill health but has been indicted on income tax evasion and foreign currency violation charges.

Rhodesia taking steps to curb flight of whites

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — In an effort to stop a growing exodus of whites alarmed at black guerrrilla warfare, Rhodesia's white minority government has severely restricted the amount of money travelers may take out of the country.

People traveling for business or pleasure may now take $500 out of Rhodesia, a reduction of one-third, and the amount people may take when emigrating to another country was reduced to $1,600 from $8,000.

One leading white politician, chief government whip Dennis Divaris, immediately criticized the move, saying it would encourage frightened whites to flee rather keeping them in the country.

The travel money restrictions, part of an austerity budget approved by the Rhodesian parliament, were also seen as part of an attempt to slow the flow of foreign exchange reserves.

The restrictions came as figures were dislosed showing that Rhodesia had a net loss of 2,280 whites in the first six months of this year, compared with a net gain of 1,590 in the first half of 1975.

Rhodesia, a landlocked country of about 5.7 million blacks and 270,000 whites, was a British colony until it unilaterally declared independence in 1965. Since then, the international community has imposed a series of economic and political sanctions in an unsuccessful effort to get Prime Minister Ian Smith's government to agree to black majority rule.

One such sanction also limits travel since in almost all countries a Rhodesian passport is not accepted.

Four years ago, black nationalists began waging guerrilla warfare against the Smith regime. Since the first of this year, guerrilla attacks have sharply increased against white motorists, rail lines and white business outposts.

Rhodesian security chiefs announced Tuesday that one white soldier and four guerrillas had been killed in clashes since Monday. They said two other blacks were killed by government troops, one for being in a curfew area after hours and the other for running away when challenged.

The Rhodesian government says 1,089 guerrillas and 132 police and soldiers have died in four years of warfare.

Intelligence sources here say the number of guerrillas operating inside Rhodesia has increased from 80 last year to 1,300 this month. Many enter the country from bases in neighboring Mozambique, where a Marxist government took power after the end of Portuguese rule last year.

Eric Bone, head of the Rhodesian Travel Agents' Association said Rhodesians were bitterly resentful at the new travel restrictions, which he said made them "virtual prisoners in their own country."

Whites leaving the country offer a variety of reasons.

Some are fed up with being called to do military service as territorial soldiers up to four times a year. Others believe there is no future for them — either under black rule or in the continuing conflict.

Many of those who leave are young people in quest of a new life elsewhere.

"We've become part-time civilians because of the war" said a young insurance clerk. "We spent so much time in the army that our careers are being jeopardized."

Most of the emigrants look to South Africa, Rhodesia's southern neighbor, as the best place to resettle. But South African authorities have been limiting visas for Rhodesians — apparently at the request of the Rhodesian government.

Moreover, young Rhodesians who move to South Africa to dodge the draft find themselves immediately liable for military service in their new country.

Many of the Rhodesians who stay put do it because, other than South Africa, there is no where else to go. The United Nations sanctions mean their green Rhodesian passports are not recognized by other governments.

Car licensing officials liable in crash suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attorney for an insurance group says a number of court cases show state motor vehicle officials may now be liable for the actions of drivers licenced in their states.

—In Wisconsin, a state driving examiner who approved a license for a woman weighing more than 300 pounds is sued for negligence on the claim that she was too fat to control her vehicle to avoid an accident.

—The state of Iowa loses a $235,000 suit after a patient released from a mental institution is granted a driver's license and is involved in an accident.

In Nevada, the state settles for $35,000 out of court in a suit stemming from a fatal accident involving a Nevada driver who had a valid license despite several convictions for drunk driving.

Andrew Hricko of the Washington-based Insurance Institute of Highway Safety says past decisions had all been in favor of the motor vehicle officials, with courts saying they could not be sued for the performance of their government duties.

But Hricko now sees that changing.

He says the trend indicates that courts are now accepting suits against motor vehicle commissioners and other officials if driving licenses are issued routinely. In other words, Hricko expained, motor vehicle commissioners may have to show that they tried to identify drunk drivers or the mentally handicapped before issuing licenses if they are to avoid being sued.

In one case, he said, the New York Court of Claims refused to dismiss a suit against the state motor vehicle commissioner, saying the state failed to properly administer a program of rehabilitation for drunk drivers. A participant in the program was granted a license and two days later crashed head-on into another vehicle.

"His blood test showed a blood-alcohol content ... more than 3½ times the amount necessary for evidence of intoxication in New York," Hricko wrote in a paper on the subject of liability of motor vehicle administrators.

The state of Wisconsin so far has won the case involving the overweight woman, but it is being appealed. The examiner had approved the license for the 5-foot, 1-inch woman who later was killed in the auto accident.

A passenger in her car sued, claiming the driver could not manage and control the vehicle "due to her obesity."

Hricko said that "in cases where persons have been specifically prohibited by law from having such licenses, the administrator must take reasonable action to determine if applicants or licensees fall within these categories (habitual drunkards, narcotic addicts)."

On the other hand, he said, administrators "will not be held liable for the exercise of their discretion in the issuance of a driver's license. There must, however, be evidence that discretion was in fact exercised and that the issuance of licenses was not conducted in a routine or perfunctory manner."

Ocean pickets protect whales from Russ ships

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In its first confrontation with Russian whalers this year, a Canadian antiwhaling expedition put up a picket line of small boats that saved a pod of the giant seagoing mammals, a local spokesman reported Tuesday.

Eric Perlman said members of Greenpeace, a Vancouver, B.C.-based conservation organization, used a high speed converted minesweeper to catch the Russian whalers 1,400 miles southwest of here Monday.

He said Greenpeace President Bob Hunter, his wife Bobbi and whale researcher Dr. Paul Spong maneuvered small rubber "Zodiac" rafts with outboard motors between a whaling ship and a pod of sperm whales.

During a 15-minute confrontation, the Russian chaser boat prowling for whales closed on the rafts at full speed, stopping just short of ramming them.

"By this time, our other two zodiacs had arrived and we had a floating picket line in the middle of the Pacific Ocean with a Russian chaser boat stopped dead in its tracks," Hunter told Perlman via radiophone.

As the Russian boats apparently gave up the hunt, Hunter related, a small boat with an all-woman crew came alongside the factory ship and gave smiling Russian crewmen "Save the whales" buttons. The incident occurred on the Hecata Bank, a fishing area in the Pacific about two thirds of the way from San Francisco to Hawaii.

Greenpeace members confronted Russian whalers last year in their ongoing effort to stop the killing of whales.

Life on Mars...

But the search for signs of some kind of organic life are a key part of the Viking 1 mission.

Sagan, one of the exponents of the search for life on Mars, was at Viking headquarters in Pasadena, Calif., and he joined in the cheering Tuesday when Viking 1 landed on the Gold Plain of Mars.

Much of the current scientific debate about the nature of Mars centers on the weather in the past. Many scientists are convinced that the surface features were carved by flowing streams of water, but others suggest that violent Martian winds sculpted some of the features.

Dr. Harold Masursky, leader of the Viking landing site team, has said streamlined islands in channels seen in recent photographs were probably shaped by rushing water.

"If the channels were cut by flowing water, there may have been a great deal of water," Masursky said.

No-fault divorce laws not working?

WASHINGTON (AP) — No-fault divorce laws are leaving most women and children worse off financially than they would have been after separations under other divorce plans, according to a new study.

The reason is that most states have balked at putting a price-tag on the economic contribution of the person who has kept house and reared the children during the marriage, the report said.

The homemaker's contributions are credited with little cash value in contrast to skills developed during the marriage by the partner who worked outside the home, the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year said in its report to President Ford.

"One 1972 nationwide study of 133 couples divorced since 1968 showed that after alimony and child support payments are made, the economic status of former husbands improves while that of former wives deteriorates," said former Rep. Martha Griffiths, who headed a homemaker committee for the commission.

The commission recommended to Ford that economic value of homemakers be considered in divorce laws and in laws such as those governing Social Security and disability payments.

The commission praised the concept of no-fault divorce but said the way it is being administered in most states hurts women and children more than under previous divorce standards.

In the past, fault on the part of one spouse or another had to be proven before a divorce was granted. This gave the spouse who was dependent — in most cases, the wife — maximum leverage to bargain for the best possible settlement.

The husband was often willing to make a more generous economic payment in alimony or child support in exchange for getting out of the marriage without a contested court case, the commission said.

This leverage was lost with fast-spreading use of no-fault divorces, where either spouse can petition for ending the marriage on the single ground of "irretrievable breakdown," the commission said.

The panel said only nine of the 46 states with no-fault divorces have enacted provisions calling for a new division of property and of economic support based on recognizing the homemakers' contribution.

Without such economic ground rules, the commission said, women and children are getting smaller settlements than previously.

Alimony and child support had been far from universal even under previous laws, the commission said. A poll commissioned by the agency showed that just 14 per cent of divorced women were awarded alimony and that of that group, only 46 per cent were getting it regularly.

Of divorced mothers, 44 per cent were awarded child support, but only 21 per cent of those collect it regularly, the report said.

In addition, the commission charged, many judges apparently assume that the divorced wife and children should automatically lower their living standards when the husband leaves — and that his living standard should be maintained at a relatively high level.

The commission described the case of Klara Bolden, who was married for 29 years and spent that time rearing 10 children, half of whom were still at home when she and her husband were divorced in 1975.

She had no marketable skills. Her husband earned $30,000 a year, or about $2,500 a month, of which $750 went to his former wife and five children.

The court case arose when a District of Columbia judge told Mrs. Bolden she must accept a "radical change" in her lifestyle because of the divorce. He ordered her to move out of the house, even though she could not find rental quarters because landlords did not consier the alimony and child support payments as reliable sources of income.

"Mrs. Bolden's case is not unusual," the commission said. "In most states the laws relating to division of property at divorce, alimony and child support simply do not take into account the contribution of the homemaker or the needs of the children."

Growing older

Passivity beneath seniors' dignity

By LOU COTTIN

This year, as in years past, we older Americans will be bombarded by the word "dignity." Politicians will assure us solemnly that they want us to "live in dignity." Our ministers will brighten their sermons with references to the "dignity of graying hair." Social workers will assure us that everything they do for us will enhance our status as dignified Americans.

This should comfort us. We are poor. Many of us are ill, lonely and neglected. But "dignity" is what these kindly people want us to achieve and enjoy.

We thank them. But perhaps we should let these praters about "dignity" know that we are not being taken in by their pious protestations. We do not need them to evaluate either the level or the substance of our dignity. It is an inherent quality which comes from within us and from our life experiences. A person is dignified or he is not. Every American who has lived to age 60 and beyond is automatically a dignified person.

The source of our self-respect is the record of our performance as Americans over these many years. A lifetime of struggle is behind us. Wars which we fought have ennobled us, protected our country and its sacred institutions. Cities we have built serve as witnesses to our validity. Our children and our grandchildren carry the American dream forward because we made it possible for them to do so.

During our lives, no task assigned to us has been shirked. We have been good, efficient workers. We have been teachers and community leaders. Our very existence confirms our quality. It is impertinent for the young to assume that they can confer dignity upon us or withhold it from us.

Roget's Thesaurus informs us that the noun "dignity" means distinction, honor, decorum, nobility, repute. Every one of these synonyms describes us, the older Americans. Our distinction is clearly evident because of our service.

Now, therefore, let politicians understand this: Your vague promises about bringing dignity to our lives are meaningless words to us. From you we want practical help. Dignity we have. Medical attention, at prices we can afford, is what we need. An end to discrimination against the aged is what we need.

Now, also let appointed officials, in the field of health especially, understand this: From you we want honest performance of your jobs. The nursing home scandals are your fault. Weaknesses in enforcement of hearing aid and optometrical and other health standards prove that you are indifferent to our needs. An insult to anyone of us seniors is an insult to us all.

Now, indeed, let the professional social workers who serve the elderly understand this: All your activities must begin with the acceptance of us as valid people. We are persons of stature. What you do for us is not a "favor." We have earned such benefits as you deliver many times over. Extend your heart to us and help us. Respect our dignity.

Now, additionally, let directors of senior citizen clubs understand this: We will not tolerate condescension. Do not think of your work as though you were "baby sitters" for "sad sack" oldsters. Don't segregate us. Don't limit our activities to recreation. We are not simpletons. Help us to become involved in the broad political and social life of our communities. Most of us still have important contributions to make. Give us a chance to prove that we are still substantial citizens.

In this, our country's Bicentennial year, it is heartening to announce, "We seniors reject passivity. It's beneath our dignity."

Shortage of nurses problem for county

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County health services chief is taking steps — including setting up a job hot line — to cope with a shortage of nurses.

County Health Services Director Liston Witherill told county supervisors Monday that he has called for a complete review of staffing patterns at three major hospitals to cope with the severe shortage.

He said the staffing study could pinpoint areas where help could be temporarily shifted to meet critical needs.

Witherill said the county began hiring Monday from a list of nurses certified by the civil service commission. He said the county will also establish a hot line which nurses can call for information on job openings and intensify its campus recruitment program.

War's over, but Angola still torn with unrest

EDITOR'S NOTE — The civil war has ended but things are not going smoothly in Angola. Here is a report by AP Special Correspondent Hugh A. Mulligan, who was recently in Luanda to report on the trial of 13 white mercenaries.

By Hugh A. Mulligan
AP Special Correspondent

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Besides the increasing threat of severe food shortages and a lingering guerrilla war, the new People's Republic of Angola faces racial and tribal unrest that daily grows more desperate.

At the height of the recent trial of white mercenaries, just as the prosecutor was calling for the death penalty, blacks demonstrated in the downtown streets because not enough black Angolans had been appointed to high posts in the Marxist regime proclaimed by the Popular Front faction that won the bloody civil war with the aid of some 15,000 Cuban troops.

The lighter-skinned mesticos, or mixed-blood peoples, are resentful because the newly arrived Cuban civilian administrators have taken over the best jobs in the "middle bureaucracy" just below ministerial rank.

The few remaining white Portuguese, estimated at less than 8,000 in contrast to the 400,000 who ran the country only a year ago, are subject to constant insult and abuse by both the blacks and the mixed blood Angolans, who wonder why they have not inherited the white man's villas and big cars now that colonialism is ended.

Tales of houses being stripped with the occupants standing helplessly by and cars being hijacked in broad daylight are too commonplace.

Many blacks already are squatting in the hillside villas abandoned by the Portuguese who fled to Lisbon. The government has given them 45 days to reoccupy their property or face confiscation, but few have been able to obtain entry visas to come back before the deadline at the end of July.

"People power not black power is our strength," proclaim Popular Front posters urging racial unity. But with the capital breaking down little by little every day in a roar of unmuffled exhausts and the cries of people trapped in elevators during the many power failures, the message doesn't come across.

"We were told that when the white imperialists left wages would be higher and prices lower," said Antonio, a Cape Verde Islander who came to fight in the liberation struggle but has since lost faith in the victory.

"But prices are higher and wages are lower and there is only meat three days a week in the market. My wife gets in line at 5 a.m. and comes home at 2 p.m. with one kilo — 2.2 pounds — of pork, all she is allowed. Never beef or eggs."

Famine is gradually encroaching on the capital, once a city of half a million people, for a number of reasons directly connected with the racial and tribal turmoil. More than 60 per cent of the white Portuguese farmers have abandoned their lands, the richest and largest in the southern vegetable-growing belt.

The deep sea fishing boats don't go out anymore because the returning Portuguese fishermen stripped them of their radar, sonar and other navigational aids. No black captains were trained to read the charts of the hazardous deep sea fishing grounds, alive with tuna and red snapper, beyond the reef.

Of the 32 high-speed, ultramodern fishing boats left behind in Luanda's Half Moon Bay, 16 were destroyed in a tidal wave a few months ago because no one could be found to sail them to safer anchorage. Only sardines and other shoal fish show up in the markets.

The Popular Front-run Angolan government, whose main strength is in the Kimbundu tribe, is trying to rally the people to bring in the coffee harvest, the country's most important agricultural export, once valued at a half-billion dollars a year. The plantation workers, mostly members of the northern Bakongo tribe, were the main supporters of the losing faction, the National Front for the Liberation of Angola. It was for this side that the white mercenaries fought.

With the Cubans in charge of the harvest, the government has emptied out the jails and resorted to press gangs to pack off the unemployed in trucks to the plantations because the offered wage of 80 escudos — about $2.40 — a day is scoffed at by the regular hands.

"The Communist union leaders used to lead strikes against the Portuguese when they paid twice that much," said a shipping agent who remembers when 4,000 ships a year called at Luanda as opposed to about one a week these days.

One day recently a big downtown supermarket had only curry powder, dried milk and, ironically, American instant coffee on its shelves, and Danish caviar at 600 escudos — $20 — a jar in the refrigerated show case.

The line four abreast outside was for a tiny tobacco shop around the corner that had cigarettes.

Only one truck was unloading in the huge cargo area of the modern four-story central market. It was bringing a consignment of lettuce which few people could afford.

The few stalls open in the cavernous market building offered radishes, hot African peppers and some already decaying oranges that had not fared well on the tedious journey to the capital by ferry and barge from the lush hinterland.

An American representative of a pharmaceutical house, trying to get his previously thriving Angolan outlet going again, reported that many Western businesses were going bankrupt because black Angolans refused to come back to their old jobs, remaining convinced that the death of colonialism meant a new, rich future was just around the corner.

"I take what help I can get," said a woman bank manager, training an entire staff for one of the country's largest international banks. "Eighty per cent of the girls I have now never set foot in a bank before in their lives. I am grateful if they can read and write."

Giant cranes like hangman's gibbets, hang over the steel girder skeletons of unfinished skyscrapers. At night the neon signs of a capitalist consumer society burn brightly over Luanda harbor — Peugeot, Ford, Kodak, Mobil, National Cash Register — but the showrooms are stripped and closed, and no one is to tell the watchman he need not turn on the lights anymore.

The abandoned yachts of rich Portuguese playboys bob at anchor in the bay, like the toy soldier awaiting the return of Little Boy Blue.

Banditry, house burglaries, armed robberies of passing cars and trucks are daily occurrences in the countryside, where food is a bit more plentiful but work almost nonexistent. In Luanda, at least, the Cuban troops help keep order.

"The Angolan army is an undisciplined rabble," said a mixed blood university professor. "Everyone who is not black is their enemy."

Americans especially are resented in a racial backlash fostered by the government radio's hourly denunciation of the white mercenaries as "racist pawns of the neocolonialist CIA."

One day the Western journalists covering the mercenary trial, most of them British, went to a seaside restaurant with Robert Cesner and Bill Watson, the two American attorneys serving as defense counsels. A handsome woman in colorful printed African robes began screaming to the point of hysteria at the manager and waiters "for playing servant to those bugs, those cockroaches, those Americans."

Other blacks began taking up the cry until the woman was escorted away by two Cuban soldiers who always seemed to be at hand when the American lawyers ventured from the hotel.

Soviet skippers say insults, threats reasons for closing

NEW YORK (AP) — Insults and threats of violence, not military security, were the reason two Russian tall-masted ships were closed to the public over the Bicentennial holiday, the skippers of those vessels said before sailing home.

The four-masted bark Kruzenshtern and the three-masted bark Tovarisch, both participants in the Operation Sail parade of ships on July 4, weighed anchor Wednesday night.

Before departing, Capt. Ivan G. Shneider of the Kruzenshtern and Capt. Oleg Vadenko of the Tovarisch said their crews had been plagued by insults and anti-Soviet slogans shouted from passing pleasure boats since the ships reached New York.

Shneider, speaking through the Kruzenshtern's English teacher, Cmdr. Vladimir Berezhnoy, said New York police and other authorities had warned them about possible offensive action by unnamed groups.

"We feared that if we opened our ship to visitors we would be subjected to offenses and harassment which we didn't deserve," Shneider said.

"We came from the Baltic and Black Seas on a long and difficult sail, and I believe that this fact in itself speaks of our relationship to the citizens of America," Vadenko said.

Police denied the captains' assertion that police could not provide proper security for the Soviet vessels in port.

A spokesman said the Soviets had rejected two sites where adequate security could have been supplied.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Operation Sail said most of the more than 50 naval vessels from 22 countries which came here for the Bicentennial fete have departed.

EASY ZUCCHINI SAUSAGE BAKE

National Casserole Month

If you are a concerned homemaker who tries to play each meal to be nutritionally balanced . . .

If you are constantly dreaming up new and delicious ways for your meals to combine items from the four different food groups . . .

And, if you are concerned about having your family eat what's good for them . . .

You are one of the many people who will benefit by joining the celebration of National Casserole Month.

This casserole stretches meat

Rice is important in the recipe for "Sure-to-Please Chicken Casserole!" A small amount of meat — 2 cups of cut-up chicken — is made into a meal for six when combined with rice and the proper flavorings and seasonings.

But cutting down on the amount of meat the recipe has not lowered the nutritional quality of the meal, for a smaller amount of meat does provide enough protein, and cheese adds a bit more. Rice adds some, too, but more important than its amount of protein, the rice makes the meal taste and look complete.

SURE-TO-PLEASE CHICKEN CASSEROLE

1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup sliced green onion tops
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese
½ cup sour cream
2 cups chopped cooked chicken
¼ cup sliced ripe olives, optional
3 cups hot cooked rice

Saute mushrooms, green pepper, and onion tops in butter until tender crisp. Blend in soup, ¾ cup cheese, and sour cream. Add chicken, olives, and rice. Turn into a greased shallow 2-quart casserole. Top with remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving provides: 357 calories, 3 meat exchanges, 1½ bread exchanges, 1 fat exchange

Casseroles are an excellent way of easing those nutritional worries you may have while preparing dinner. One casserole can easily combine servings from each of the "Basic Four" while not sacrificing on taste or ease of preparation. And, casseroles tend to disguise foods so that "picky eaters" — whether young or old — can enjoy and benefit from the foods that they normally wouldn't touch. For example, this Easy Zucchini Sausage Bake is a nutritious meal-in-a-dish. It contains representatives from the dairy, meat, vegetable and fruit, and bread (grain) groups. Its hearty flavors of Italian sausage, two kinds of cheese, rice and zucchini are blended well with an herbed tomato sauce. The instant it is out of the oven, it becomes an unusually appetizing and filling dinner with good nutrition baked in.

Steeple cream was rich colonial dessert

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Early colonists were fond of their rich desserts. Rich or poor, all managed to make the most of the fruits and vegetables at hand, milk from their cows or goats, honey, sugar or sorghum and special spices or condiments that arrived by welcome ships. An example is a molded dessert called steeple cream, popular among the more affluent colonists who entertained often and lavishly. Fruit dumplings, such as fresh peach dumplings, also were favorites. Here is a modern version using prepared crescent rolls rather than home-made biscuits.

STEEPLE CREAM

½ cup corn starch
1/3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3½ cups milk
½ cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup ground almonds
Candied violets, optional
Blanched almonds, optional

In medium saucepan, stir together corn starch, sugar and salt. Gradually add milk, stirring until smooth. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil 1 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in corn syrup and extract. Chill about 1 hour or until slightly thickened. Fold in almonds. Turn into 5-cup mold. Chill 3 hours, or until well set. Unmold. Garnish with violets and almonds, if desired.

STEEPLE CREAM

FRESH PEACH DUMPLINGS

1 package (8 ounces) crescent rolls
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon nutmeg
4 fresh peaches, peeled, halved and pits removed
8 walnut halves
Milk
Brown sugar or coarse sugar

Divide crescent rolls into 4 portions (2 triangles to each portion) and roll into squares. Combine brown sugar, flour and nutmeg in a mixing bowl; blend thoroughly. Roll peach halves in brown sugar mixture. Place two walnut halves in center cavity and sandwich two halves together to form whole pach. Place in center of dough squares and bring ends of dough up, pinching to seal. Brush with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Place on cookie sheet and bake in 375-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm or at room temperature. Makes 4 servings.

Try these three delectable, glacial pies

What more delightful way to welcome those warm, lazy days than with three delectable desserts sure to send your reputation as a chef soaring — while you stay unruffled and serene, ready to enjoy your own party.

These deliciously arctic pies, Strawberry Dream, Lemon-Lime Sublime and Frozen Mandarin Mousse, are as easy to create as they are glamorous. Crust and filling alike require little or no cooking.

The secret ingredient in all three celestial treats is sweetened condensed milk, a velvet smooth supercreamy blend of pure, whole milk (60% of its water removed) and natural sugar, available in convenient 14-oz. cans.

Each of these tantalizing, rich and refreshing pies makes a perfect piece de resistance for festive family gatherings during this season of celebrations. The glorious grand finale to a barbecue, clambake, bridge luncheon or buffet dinner, whether your entertaining style is elegant or casual.

Then, when you've barely lifted a cool finger, float away on compliments!

GLACIAL PIES

Picnics are a French custom

From the French custom of pique nique (meaning a pick at a trifle) has come a fabulous American tradition — the picnic. It is that wonderful excursion into outdoor dining that can be anything from hot dogs cooked over an open fire to sophisticated hampers filled with pates and quiches.

One of the joys of picnics is that they can be spur of the moment. They can literally be pulled out of the cupboard, if you have the basics on hand. Plan to keep your pantry stocked with things like breads and rolls, cheeses, convenient canned meat spreads, relishes, fresh fruits, thirst quenchers.

What about making one sandwich for six picnickers by using a crusty loaf of French bread? Simple. Just slice the loaf as you would when making garlic bread, but this time use roast beef spread, Cheddar cheese and chopped green chilies for the filling. Wrap it in foil for traveling to the picnic site and then just slice and serve Roast Beef in a Loaf.

One more instant picnic recipe for a delicious eatout is Easy Picnic Pack-Ups: frankfurt rolls with a deviled ham filling. Or, if your picnic is more elaborate and requires cooking on location, keep everyone from "picking at the trifles" by serving Tangy Picnic Spread on crackers until the meal is ready.

ROAST BEEF IN A LOAF

2 cans (4¾ ounces each) roast beef spread
¼ cup grated Cheddar cheese
1 can (4 ounces) chopped green chilies, drained
¼ cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 loaf French bread (15 inches)

In a bowl, mix together roast beef spread, cheese, chilies, chili sauce and onion. Cut bread diagonally every 2 inches to within ¼ inch of bottom. Fill with roast beef mixture. Wrap in foil. When ready to serve, slice bread between filling into individual sandwiches. Makes 6 servings.

EASY PICNIC PACK-UPS

2 cans (4½ ounces each) deviled ham
3 tablespoons barbecue sauce
1/3 cup piccalilli
6 slices Cheddar cheese
6 frankfurt rolls

In a bowl, mix together deviled ham, barbecue sauce and piccalilli. Place cheese slices in rolls and top with deviled ham mixture. Makes 6 sandwiches.

TANGY PICNIC SPREAD

2 cans (4¾ ounces each) chunky chicken spread
¼ cup diced green pepper
3 tablespoons barbecue sauce
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 tablespoon piccalilli
1 teaspoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon hot red pepper sauce

In a bowl, mix together chicken spread, green pepper, barbecue sauce, chili sauce, piccalilli, onion, and pepper sauce. Spread on crackers.

INDIAN PORK CHOPS

Coal bake Indian pork chops

Backyard chefs are missing a gourmet treat if they hesitate to grill pork chops. The safe temerature for cooking pork to avoid any danger of trichina organisms has been lowered to 165-170 degrees F. At that temperature, pork chops are still juicy and succulent.

If the pork chops you grill have previously been forzen for three to four weeks at 0 degrees F., you don't need to be concerned about trichina at all. Freezer temperatures destroy any of the organisms that might have been present. These chops can safely be eaten when they are even "pinker" than the 165-170 degrees F., if desired.

Slow cooking is the secret to successful barbecued pork. If your charcoal grill doesn't have a temperature setting, this hand test is a fairly accurate gauge:

Hold your hand over the coals at the level the meat will be placed and slowly count (as if you were county seconds): 1,001 . . . 1,002 . . . 1,003 . . . coals are just right for pork if you can comfortably leave your hand over the coals until 1,005.

Pork lends itself to a wide variety of flavor accents. This barbecue sauce is a subtle combination of Indian spices mixed with unsulphured molasses and lemon juice. Curried fruits can be heated at the back of the grill.

INDIAN PORK CHOPS

1-inch thick pork chops, preferably rip chops, trimmed of excess fat (allow two per adult)
Indian barbecue sauce

Grill chops over slow coals approximately 20 minutes per side, turning frequently. Baste during the last 15 minutes with Indian Barbecue Sauce. Just before serving, season with salt and pepper.

If a smoker is used, damp hickory chips can be sprinkled on the coals and the lid kept closed.

Indian Barbecue Sauce
(sufficient for 12 chops; extra can be refrigerated for several weeks)

½ cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup lemon juice (fresh or bottled)
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon curry
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Mix together and brush over chops as directed. May also be used to marinate pork loin roast.

HOT CURRIED FRUIT

1 can (29-ounce) cling peach halves
1 can (20-ounce) pineapple slices
1 can (16-ounce) apricot halves
1 can (16-ounce) pear halves
¼ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons unsulphured molasses
2 teaspoons curry (less if desired)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ cup margarine or butter

Drain fruits. If desired, cut each peach half and pineapple ring into two pieces. Divide and arrange attractively into two freezer-to-oven ceramic or metal dishes or in double thickness aluminum foil for grillable "pouches".

Mix remaining ingredients together. Dot the fruit with small dabs of the topping. Freeze one container for future use. Heat the fruit from thawed or frozen stage at the back of the grill or in a 350 degree oven. For thawed fruit on a low-heat grill, allow 35 minutes. Excellent accompaniment to grilled pork or ham. Each half serves 6 generously.

Tequila mousse is rich, flavorful

Here's a unique tequila-based mousse, perfect for luncheons or buffet suppers.

TEQUILA SHRIMP MOUSSE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 10¾ ounce can condensed chicken broth
½ cup tequila
½ teaspoon basil, crumbled
½ teaspoon dried dill weed
¼ teaspoon ground celery seed
2 drops liquid red pepper seasoning
¼ cup lime juice
1 cup dairy sour cream
½ cup mayonnaise
2 4½ ounce cans shrimp, drained*
½ cup thinly sliced or chopped celery
¼ cup sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Small crisp lettuce leaves for garnish
Shrimp, green olives and parsley for garnish

Soften gelatin in water. Combine broth, tequila, herbs, celery seed and pepper seasoning. Heat to boiling. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Stir in lime juice. Chill until gelatin thickens slightly. Blend sour cream and mayonnaise together. Fold into gelatin mixture along with shrimp, celery, olives and parsley. Turn into oiled 5-cup mold. Chill firm. Unmold and garnish with lettuce and additional shrimp, olives and parsley, if desired. Makes 8 servings. *Or, use ½ pound cooked shrimp.

No-aging diet is questionable

By GAYNOR MADDOX

"Every cell in your body can be young again."

It is claimed by "Dr. Frank's No-Aging Diet," with the happy advice "Eat and Grow Younger." (Dial Press, $7.95)

Dr. Benjamin S. Frank earned his M.D. in Switzerland and is in private practice in New York.

In our judgment any book with such a title is questionable. One would like to see this proven.

In this book which carries several recipes, he outlines a diet which he claims will slow down telltale signs of age. He relies heavily on foods containing RNA, nucleic acid.

The diet consists of a variety of foods rich in nucleic acids, plus fluids and vitamins. According to Dr. Frank, they are spread throughout a week's menus in a way that will provide a daily intake of one or two grams of nucleic acids.

For example, he urges the consumption of seafood seven times a week in the form of sardines four times, salmon once, shrimp, lobster, squid or clams once and any kind of fish once a week.

He also recommends eating or drinking beets, beet juice or borscht, lentils, peas, lima beans or soybeans, asaparagus, radishes, onions, scallions, mushrooms, spinach, cauliflower or celery, fruit or vegetable

STRAWBERRY-CHOCOLATE PIE

Some more summer pies

Pie has berries, chocolate

If you're wild for strawberries and mad for chocolate, put them together in this glorious 'Chocolate Strawberry Ice Cream Pie. You'll have the best of both worlds!

Start with an easy-to-make chocolate crumb crust, and pour into it a silky smooth chocolate cream filling made from canned chocolate flavored syrup, sweetened condensed milk and whipping cream. When that layer is frozen, top with a strawberry cream layer and allow the pie to freeze until serving time. You'll find it makes a sweet ending to a summer supper.

While on the subject of chocolate and strawberries, why not introduce the children to the special allures of an old-fashioned chocolate-strawberry ice cream soda. Most of today's youngsters have never even tasted that old-time drugstore treat. In case you've forgotten how to put on together, simply pour a generous amount of canned chocolate flavored syrup into a tall soda glass, add a couple of scoops of strawberry ice crea, then fill the glass with club soda. Stick in a couple of straws, and enjoy!

CHOCOLATE STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM PIE

Chocolate Crumb Crust:
- 1½ cups vanilla wafer crumbs (about 45 wafters)
- 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 1/3 cup confectioners' sugar
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Combine crumbs, cocoa and sugar in a bowl. Gradually add butter or margarine while stirring to completely coat crumb mixture. Spoon into 9-inch pie pan. Press firmly against bottom and sides to form crust; freeze.

CHOCOLATE CREAM FILLING
- ¾ cup canned chocolate flavored syrup
- 1/3 cup sweetened condensed milk
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup whipping cream*
- 1 egg white
- 1 tablespoon sugar

Combine chocolate syrup, condensed milk, and egg yolk in a small heavy saucepan. Stir constantly over medium heat until mixture boils. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Cool; chill thoroughly.

Whip cream; fold into chocolate mixture. Beat egg white until foamy; add sugar and beat until stiff peaks form. Fold into chocolate cream mixture. Pour into pie shell. Freeze until firm.

*Do not use non-dairy whipping topping.

STRAWBERRY CREAM TOPPING
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2/3 cup pureed sweetened strawberries, well drained
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons light corn syrup

Whip cream; blend in strawberry puree, sugar and corn syrup. Spoon onto frozen chocolate filling. Cover and freeze until serving time. Garnish with fresh sliced strawberries, if desired.

Wo-Ja-Pi—blueberry pies

WO-JA-PI

Take advantage of fresh blueberries and whip up some little fried pies Indian style. Serve with freshly whipped cream, ice cream or plain yogurt as a very special treat. Make a quantity of Wo-Ja-Pi and freeze for use later.

WO-JA-PI (INDIAN BLUEBERRY DESSERT)

Sauce:
- 1 quart fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 cup honey
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint leaves

Fried bread:
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 cup milk
- Deep fat or oil heated to 375 degrees

In a saucepan, combine blueberries, honey and enough water to just cover the berries. Bring berries to a boil and boil 5 minutes. In a bowl, mix flour with water until smooth. Stir mixture into hot berries. Add mint. Stir over low heat until berries thicken. Cool. In a bowl, mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Stir in milk until a soft dough is formed. It may be necessary to add more milk.

Knead dough on a floured surface a few times until it is smooth dough. Roll out to one-half-inch thickness and cut with a sharp knife into 3-inch squares. Fry squares in preheated deep fat until brown, about 3 to 4 minutes. Turn and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper.

Apple pie still favorite dessert

What dessert do Americans order when they eat out?

According to the Menu Census for 1976 conducted by Institutions Magazine, Apple Pie is a consistent favorite — "in fact, it keeps getting stronger."

Respondents of the survey are 16,000 restaurant operators. Sixty three and nine tenths of the respondents said that apple pie sells higher than other desserts. What desserts come next? Ice cream/Sherbet were rated 51.1 per cent, Cherry Pie received 40.2 votes and Cheesecake 39.3 votes.

Regional differences in food preferences often are indicated in such surveys. The "favorite son" of each of the four geographic regions was apple pie, receiving over 90 per cent endorsement from the restaurant operators.

TRADITIONAL APPLE PIE WITH VARIATIONS

Make pastry for a 9-inch two crust pie. (The pie pan should be 1¼ inches deep.) Line the pan with pastry and fill with apple filling.

For the filling:
- 6 to 7 cups sliced apples
- ¾ to 1 cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons butter

Peel apples. Quarter and slice into ¼ inch slices. Measure sugar and spices and mix well. (If apples seem extra juicy, a tablespoon or two of flour may be mixed with the sugar and spices to thicken the juice.) Toss sugar into apples then transfer apples into the pastry lined pan. Dot the apples with butter, cover with top crust rolled out 10 inches in diameter. This allows ½ inch rim of pastry beyond the edge of the pan. Fold the top pastry under edge of bottom pastry and seal thoroughly to prevent boiling over. The edge may be fluted or pressed with tines of a fork. Make several slits in top crust with a sharp knife. Bake at 400 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes, or until juice bubbles through the slits on top of the pie. A nine inch pie will make 7 to 8 servings.

Deep Dish Apple Pie

Use an 8 or 9 inch baking dish, 2 inches deep. Line sides but not bottom with pastry, arranging it to come over edge of dish to seal to top crust. Double the amount of filling in above recipe, sprinkle with 1½ tablespoons of water and cover with top crust. Seal as above. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, 45 to 50 minutes. Serves 8 to 10.

No-aging . . .

juices. Any nutritionist will tell you that proper eating habits, adequate sleep and daily exercise will help most individuals attain a feeling of well-being that carries through the years.

Referring to the no-aging diet, a wise colleague says, "It is the kind of book that really isn't erroneous but skims the truth and thus is misleading because its title implies that anyone buying the book will find the secret to not aging. Only those in the Himalayas who live on apricots, etc., seem to have the secret and no scientist has been able to explain their longevity satisfactorily."

But, obviously we're all still looking.

All these foods, unless you are restricted from eating them by your doctor, are nutritionally sound. So why the brouhaha?

This still is an age which worships youth. So any title that promises to unlock some secret to maintaining youth or a semblance of youth grabs the eyes, as does a diet or physical or contemplative exercise that proposes to cure all physical or mental ills.

As author of "Food and Arthritis" (Popular Library, $1.25) I stated the advice of highly accredited arthritis specialists: "As far as is known, no food of any kind either cures arthritis or causes it." However, Dr. Frank disagrees. He advises sufferers from arthritis to take black strap molasses, brewers yeast and to avoid certain other foods and juice, milk, preferably skimmed, and plenty of water. He has a daily or weekly schedule for each.

Even dieters can enjoy California potato salad

Summertime and potato salad are natural go-togethers. Most everyone already has at least one favorite recipe for this popular warm weather salad, but sometimes it's fun to try something new. The recipe always starts with good, earthy potatoes but the end result is up to your own imagination.

Besides being delicious and versatile, potato salad is a great way to add valuable nutrients to your family's diet. Potatoes are an excellent source of Vitamin C providing about one third the U. S. Recommended Daily Allowance of this much needed vitamin. Potatoes also supply some important B vitamins plus small amounts of vegetable protein and hard-to-get iron.

And since summertime is swimsuit time, it's great to know that a medium potato (about 3 per pound) has fewer than 100 calories. It's the traditional, high calorie dressings and toppings that have given potatoes their undeserved "fattening" reputation. So, dieters, too, can indulge in potato salads when prepared with low calorie dressings.

Combining potatoes with other fresh summer vegetables is a delicious way to add variety and appetite appeal for very few calories to potato salad. Raw zucchini slices, fresh bell pepper strips, raw cauliflower, and juicy cherry tomatoes all add lively color and snappy crunch to garden fresh potato salads. Adding slices of hard cooked egg to your salad will add a bit of extra protein too.

California Potato Salad is a tasty, easy-to-serve addition to a patio buffet. And it will get high ratings from dieters and non-dieters alike. Family and guests use their forks to spear tender chunks of potatoes, zesty green onion, crisp red radishes, crunchy dill pickles and slices of hard cooked egg for dunking in a choice of savory dressings.

LoCal Dressing Dip made with creamy yogurt and sour cream will be a favorite with weight watchers because it has only 18 calories in a tablespoon. Seasoned with garlic salt and green onion, this rich and smooth dressing has real lively flavor and what a nice extra bonus to find out it isn't fattening!

Mustard Vinaigrette is prepared much like homemade mayonnaise but is seasoned with mustard and fresh garlic. Though not as low in calories as the other dressing, mustard vinaigrette does have fewer calories than the traditional mayonnaise because it uses less oil.

CALIFORNIA POTATO SALAD

4 to 5 medium potatoes (about 1½ pounds), unpeeled
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 hard cooked eggs, quartered
1 bunch of green onions
1 bunch radishes
3 dill pickles, halved lengthwise
Parsley, chopped
Low Calorie Dressing-Dip (recipe follows)
Mustard Vinaigrette (recipe follows)

Cut potatoes in 1½ inch cubes. Cook in 1 inch salted, simmering water 10 to 15 minutes, or until just fork tender. Drain; toss with mixture of lemon juice in 1 cup cold water (to prevent discoloration). Chill. In salad bowl or on platter, arrange potatoes, eggs and other vegetables attractively. Garnish with chopped parsley. Pour dressing into small bowl. Supply guests with fondue forks for dipping.

Makes 6 servings

LO-CAL DRESSING-DIP

Blend 1 cup each plain yogurt and sour cream. Fold in ¼ cup finely chopped parsley. Add ½ teaspoon garlic salt and dash of pepper. Pour into small bowl. Garnish with sliced green onion. Chill. Makes 2 cups.

MUSTARD VINAIGRETTE

In blender at low speed, combine 1 egg, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, and 1 clove garlic (optional). With blender on high speed, very slowly add ¾ cup salad oil. Mixture will be like soft mayonnaise. Makes 1¼ cups.

Green oranges taste great

WASHINGTON, D.C. July 21, 1976 — Some oranges are orange when they're ripe — but it ain't necessarily so. Informed shoppers can let you in on the fact that oranges may be tinged with green, or even more green than that, and still be lusciously ripe and developed in their sweet, characteristic flavor.

The produce people, according to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, call it "greening." It's a little trick that Nature plays in citrus orchards. The fruit grows and develops on the tree in a perfectly normal way, and may require a little more time to reach full maturity and flavor. That's when the funny things may begin to happen, particularly with Valencia type oranges, the kind that are around in spring and summer.

Valencia oranges begin to turn golden in the winter months, long before they are ripe. They may look ripe but actually it takes months of tree ripening before these oranges are ready to pick. As the warm summer days begin, the orange-colored oranges sometimes begin to turn green again, deceiving customers into thinking the fruit unripe. But these oranges are fully-ripe, ready to pick and bring to market.

Why does re-greening happen? There are several reasons. Basically, the re-greening is the resurgence of chlorophyll in the fruit peel.

This may be due to warm weather, particularly warm nights, to high rainfall, to high nutrient levels, or to any other condition tending toward vigorous growth which can cause chlorophyll to persist or reappear.

So be a knowing shopper. Don't be green about greening. These oranges are ripe and ready to enjoy.

Here's a different banana split

A banana split has a banana, right? Right. And it also usually has a choice of three ice creams and toppings. True, unless it's a "Nectarine Banana Split Salad". Then, tucked deliciously between the halves of the banana, you will find three scoops of salad, nestled in the hearts of three halves of fresh California nectarines.

Pick nectarines of uniform size and give them the ripeness test by squeezing them gently between the palms of your hands. The ripe ones you want for the salad will yield slightly to the pressure. Early in the season, the nectarines you find in the market are freestones which slice neatly in half for easy pit removal. Later, as the clings come into the market, you can still get neat halves by inserting a grapefruit knife through the stem end, cutting all the way around the pit and then lifting it out with the tip of the knife.

Fill the nectarine halves with ham, turkey and tuna salad and set on a bed of lettuce. Top with a dab of mayonnaise and an olive in place of the whipped cream and cherry. Or, for a dessert salad, substitute cream cheese and fruit salad in the nectarine nests, then add whipped cream, chopped nuts and a cherry in the best banana split tradition.

For additional recipes and serving suggestions for this and other summer fruits send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to "The Fruits of Summer", P.O. Box 255383, Sacramento, CA 95825. You'll receive a 48-page cookbooklet with luscious color illustrations of more than 100 ways to serve California fruits.

Here's some tips on freezing vegetables

It remains to be seen how this year's fruit and vegetable crops will compare with those of a year ago. Authorities who labeled 1975 "the best growing year in a full generation" have made no prediction for the current season as yet.

"But the mere fact that another 4,000,000 families have planted gardens for the first time this year (the number was 6,000,000 new vegetable gardens in 1975) suggests that many homemakers will also be into preserving foods for the first time," said Pauline Church, home service advisor to a leading manufacturer of food storage containers.

Unlike the past two years, jar lids are expected to be available as needed. So anyone wishing to preserve by canning should have little trouble on that score. But not all vegetables take well to home canning. Broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, onions, parsnips, turnips, and corn-on-the-cob are among those not recommended for canning.

All of these items freeze beautifully, however, as do most other vegetables and the many fruits available from mid-summer through fall. Because there are distinct differences in taste, texture, and appearance, many homemakers like to put up some foods by both methods.

"Properly prepared and packaged, frozen vegetables are often hard to tell from fresh-picked," said Ms. Church.

Good results are virtually assured, she said, if one has the right equipment and follows recommended procedures exactly. As basic equipment she suggests the following:

1. Food blancher or other large kettle for scalding vegetables. It takes a gallon of boiling water to scald one pound of vegetables, about two gallons for leafy vegetables. The kettle should have a tight lid and a basket of perforated metal or fine wire mesh. Lacking a basket, vegetables can be placed in a cheesecloth bag for scalding and chilling.

2. A dependable minute timer or clock.

3. Plenty of ice cubes or very cold running water to chill vegetables quickly after scalding and before packaging.

"Some women find it convenient to use a clean Polly Flex dishpan for the ice water bath," Ms. Church noted, "rather than tying up their sinks. Either is fine, so long as you use plenty of water and keep it very cold."

4. An ample supply of clean, moisture-vapor-proof packaging in sizes and shapes to suit items being frozen.

"When in doubt, choose smaller containers," Ms. Church suggested. "By freezing in family meal-size amounts, you'll make maximum use of space and also enjoy better eating. For company, you can always open a second container."

5. Tape and mark for identifying and dating containers. Ordinary masking tape works well for labeling. With it, use a waterproof marker such as Sanford's Sharpie, the home service advisor suggested.

6. A vegetable freezing chart that list scalding times for each kind. Look for this in any up-to-date general cookbook or in the freezer manufacturer's instruction booklet.

"Except for diced onions, celery, and fresh herbs to be stored briefly and used as seasonings, vegetables must be scalded for a prescribed time to retard enzymatic action and prevent spoilage while frozen," Ms. Church emphasized.

Proper packaging is equally important. Resist the temptation to freeze any food in containers not intended for the purpose. For example, those tubs made for cottage cheese and other dairy items are generally too thin to withstand the combination of sub-zero temperature and the expansion of contents that occurs with freezing. Each hairline crack will endanger the food inside. Nor are all plastic bags and films moisture-vapor-proof as required for protection against drying.

Though initially more expensive than throw-away materials, reusable containers are both practical and economical in the long run, Ms. Church pointed out. As convenient for storing leftovers, in the refrigerator as for protecting beans or broccoli in the freezer, they can withstand temperatures from minus 40 degrees to 243 degrees Fahrenheit.

"That means they may go safely into the top rack of a dishwasher and even into a microwave oven," she explained. "You may also heat contents by setting a container, lid removed, in a pan of boiling water on a regular range. And smaller sizes are a great convenience for packing lunch boxes."

Marvelous soup variation

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Mulligatawny soup as we know it today comes from the many variations dreamed up by British housewives in India. Traditionally it was served with rice and slices of lime or lemon. Here orange juice has been added to make a more flavorful broth. Another use of fruit juice is in a hot consomme but you may also enjoy this combination of orange juice, tomato juice, bouillon, sugar and cloves chilled or on the rocks. For a dessert, try mixing seedless grapes with fruit juices, wine or grape juice and some brandy for a classic sangria to eat with a spoon.

ORANGE MULLIGATAWNY SOUP

- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 quarts water
- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, whole or cut in serving pieces
- 1 cup chopped celery and leaves
- 1 cup sliced carrots
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 apples, pared, cored and diced
- 2 tomatoes, peeled, diced
- 1½ tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/3 cup uncooked regular rice

In a large kettle, combine orange juice, water, chicken, celery, carrots, onion, 1 apple, 1 tomato and salt. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Remove chicken, remove meat from bones, cut into bite-size pieces and return to broth. Add remaining apple, tomato, curry powder and rice; cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Makes two and three-fourth quarts or 6 servings.

ORANGE CONSOMME

- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 1 cup beef bouillon
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 2 whole cloves

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Heat. Serve in small soup cups: garnish with orange slices. Makes 5 cups.

SANGRIA DESSERT

- 1½ pounds Thompson seedless grapes (3 to 4 cups)
- ½ lemon
- ½ orange
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1½ cups red wine or grape juice
- ¼ cup brandy (optional)
- 6 cinnamon sticks

Rinse and drain grapes; remove from stems. Chill. Cut lemon and orange into thin slices. Place in pitcher, along with sugar, wine and brandy. Chill to blend flavors, about 1 hour or longer. To serve: portion one-half cup grapes into stemmed glasses. Add one-third cup wine mixture to each, and a lemon and orange slice. Garnish each with a cinnamon stick. Serve with a spoon and a short straw, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Easy all in a pot cranberry stew

Cooking up a tastefully seasoned, aromatic main course is a cook's delight — and it's particularly pleasing when it's made all in one pot. Here are three recipes for poultry and meat which are stewed in piquant cranberry sauces and juice drinks to the most tender and tantalizing results.

"Berried Chicken Fricassee with Dumplings" is a wholesome and bountiful meal in itself. Chicken parts are combined with cranberry juice cocktail, chicken broth, chopped onion, celery, carrots, poultry seasoning, oregano, rosemary, parsley, mushrooms and cream. Just thirty minutes before this dish is done, the dumplings are added. This recipe can be cooked in a roasting pan, or a handsome clay pot which would be a most eye appealing way to serve from oven to table.

A main dish with fabulous flavor is "Quick Cranberry Sauerbraten." This recipe calls for but a few hours to cook, with not too much attention in the process. The seasonings combined with a chuck pot roast include minced garlic, chopped onion, cranberry juice cocktail, whole berry cranberry sauce, cider vinegar, dried or fresh dill, and gingersnaps. When ready to serve, place slices of the beef and tangy gravy over broad egg noodles.

For crockpot enthusiasts, the recipe for "Cranapple Sweet 'N Tart Tongue" with "Spicy Berry Sauce" will be a delectable discovery. This dish can be left alone to cook at a low simmer for up to twelve hours. So an early morning starter simply needs to place a beef tongue in a crockpot with water, cranberry apple drink, cloves, thyme, sage, bay leaves and cider vinegar. The spicy sauce combines jellied cranberry sauce, raisins, horseradish and mustard. It can be prepared at any time that is convenient and then served piping hot over the succulent meat.

Round out any of these fine main courses with a salad of crisp greens, and a bottle of wine. If there are any leftovers, they'll be just as tasteful the second time around.

BERRIED CHICKEN FRICASSEE WITH DUMPLINGS
(Serves 6)

- 1 fricassee or stewing chicken, about 5 to 6 pounds, cut up
- Salt and pepper
- 1 cup chicken borth
- 1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
- 2 large onions, chopped
- 2 cups sliced celery
- 3 carrots, sliced
- 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
- ½ teaspoon each oregano and rosemary
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 1/3 cup flour mixed with 1 cup (½ pint) heavy cream
- ½ pound small mushrooms, trimmed and left whole

Cranberry Dumplings

- 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 cup yellow cornmeal
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup (8 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce

Sprinkle chicken pieces on all sides with salt and pepper. Place pieces into a roasting pan or large pretreated 6 quart clay pot. Add chicken broth, cranberry juice, onions, celery, carrots, poultry seasoning, oregano, rosemary and parsley. Cover and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1½ to 2 hours or until chicken is tender. Remove from oven and stir in cream mixture. Add mushrooms. Replace in oven uncovered and bake another 10 minutes or until sauce thickens. In a bowl mix flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt, milk and cranberry sauce. Remove casserole from oven and drop mixture by heaping tablespoons on top of simmering sauce. Cover and replace in oven for 30 minutes or until dumplings are firm and puffed. Serve chicken with gravy and dumplings.

QUICK CRANBERRY SAUERBRATEN
(Serves 6 to 8)

- 1 chuck pot roast, about 4 pounds
- Salt and pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
- 1 cup whole berry cranberry sauce
- 1/3 cup cider vinegar
- 2 teaspoons dried dill weed, or 2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill
- 6 to 8 gingersnaps, crumbled

Sprinkle pot roast on all sides with salt and pepper. Place roast into a Dutch oven and brown in its own fat until brown on all sides. If roast has no outside fat, brown roast in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add garlic, onion, cranberry juice, sauce, vinegar and dill. Cover tightly and simmer gently for 2 hours. Turn roast occasionally in liquid during cooking. Remove roast to a carving board and let rest 20 minutes. Skim excess fat from top of pan juices. Stir in gingersnaps. Cook stirring until sauce bubbles and thickens and is smooth. Cut roast into ½ inch thick slices and place in sauce. If necessary, season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve beef slices with gravy over cooked noodles.

CRANAPPLE SWEET 'N TART TONGUE WITH SPICY BERRY SAUCE
(Serves 6 to 8)

- 1 smoked beef tongue, about 3 to 4 pounds
- 4 cups water
- 4 cups cranberry apple drink
- ½ teaspoon each cloves, thyme and sage
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 bay leaves
- 1/3 cup cider vinegar

Spicy Berry Sauce

- 1 can (16 ounces) jellied cranberry sauce
- ¼ cup raisins
- 2 tablespoons horseradish
- 2 tablespoons brown mustard

Curl tongue to fit into crock pot (4 quart size). Add water, cranberry apple drink, cloves, thyme, sage, pepper, salt, bay leaves and vinegar. Cover and set heat on low and simmer for 10 to 12 hours. Remove tongue from broth and pull off skins and remove bones and gristle. Cut tongue into thin slices. Heat sauce ingredients until bubbly stirring constantly. If sauce is too thick, thin it with some of the broth in which tongue was cooked. Serve tongue slices with sauce spooned over slices.

CHEESE EN CROUTE

Cheese en Croute is unusual

What does an imaginative hostess do when company's coming and she wants to serve something unusual but has not time for fuss? Why! — she rummages through her freezer, comes out with some small french rolls, a package of frozen cheese souffle, ham slices and bacon. Presto — in no time she's whipped together a cheese souffle en croute (cheese souffle in a crust) that looks as good as it sounds, tastes delicious and is amazingly easy to prepare.

All the ingredients store readily in the freezer, so with very little advance planning the harried hostess can calmly greet her guests knowing that all will be well.

The cheese souffle is easily prepared by scooping out small french rolls and bushing each inside and out with butter or margarine mixed with spices. These are then filled with the cheese mixture and baked. A slice of crisp bacon is added just before serving and as simply as that "dinner is served."

CHEESE SOUFFLE EN CROUTE

Makes 8

- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon Italian herb blend
- 8 small frozen french rolls
- 1 package (12 ounces) frozen cheese souffle, thawed
- ½ cup chopped smoked ham
- 8 slices crisp bacon, each slice broken in half

In a small bowl mix butter and herbs. With a sharp knife, scoop out rolls, leaving a shell ½ inch thick. (Used bread removed for a stuffing, to make croutons, bread pudding, bread crumbs). Brush each roll inside and out with butter mixture. In a bowl mix cheese souffle and ham. Place rolls on a cookie sheet. Spoon cheese souffle mixture into each roll. Bake in a preheated oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes or until cheese is puffed and brown. Top each roll with bacon and serve at once.

Hearty dish for campers

Over 50 million Americans find it irresistible — the call of the open road. Each year, they set out to see the USA in trailer or camper, many owned, most rented. For couples as well as entire families, it's the thriftiest way to travel and, many say, the best way.

The tiny galley in trailer or camper can be as convenient as your own kitchen, if you're organized. Depend on simple cooking; stock the "fridge" with versatile standbys, like ground beef or chicken parts and fill the cupboard with a variety of convenience foods. Instant soup mixes, for example, take up little room and can be used both to make a cup of delicious soup and as seasoners in cooking.

Whether you cook in the galley or outdoors, here's a hearty and different campers' dish. Just three ingredients — versatile ground beef, instant rice and a head of cabbage (or green peppers) which can be bought en route — can be made into the most delectable meal-in-one imaginable by cooking them with instant tomato soup and instant onion soup. The instant soups provide all the seasoning you need to give this dish tantalizing flavor.

With it, serve chunks of bread, warmed if you wish, and glasses of refreshing iced tea. With the marvelous outdoors to pique the appetite and set a beautiful scene, you'll enjoy eating on tour as much as dining at home.

CAMPGROUND UNSTUFFED CABBAGE

- ½ pound ground beef
- ½ small head cabbage, coarsely chopped (about 3 cups)
- 3 envelopes instant tomato soup
- 2 envelopes instant onion soup
- 1¾ cups water
- ½ cup packaged precooked rice

In large saucepan, brown ground beef with cabbage. Add instant tomato and onion soups and water; cook covered 10 minutes or until cabbage is almost tender. Add rice; cook covered an additional 5 minutes or until rice is tender. Makes 2 servings.

Or try—

UNSTUFFED PEPPERS

Substitute 2 small green peppers, sliced lengthwise, for cabbage.

'Adoration' acquired

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - A major work by Spanish painter Bartolme Esteban Murillo has been acquired by the Toledo Museum of Art.

Otto Wittmann, museum director, described the 6-by-5 foot "Adoration of the Magi" as "the most important Spanish painting to be acquired by the Museum in almost two decades."

The painting is said to have been painted around 1650 in Seville. Murillo lived from 1618 to 1682, devoting most of his time to working for Seville's numerous churches and religious orders.

Use bran for party treats

If you've been considering increasing the food fiber in your diet, as some medical researchers recommend, you may be surprised at how simple it is to do. Wheat bran cereal, available at everybody's supermarket, is one of the richest sources of food fiber. A bowl at breakfast is a simple way to add fiber to the diet, and try, too, some bran-enriched recipes that have interesting texture and a good, earthy taste.

With a little care and a couple of new food ideas, you can even fit fiber into your first courses at parties. The same foods are very good served as snacks, too. An Indian Cheese Ball is easy to make. It's flavored with chutney or chopped dried apricots for an appealing change of taste, and the cheese mixture is formed into a ball, and rolled in wheat bran cereal. The wheat bran adds crunch in contrast to the satin-smooth cheese. There's a nut-like quality to foods rolled in bran or sprinkled with it that is very good — and it costs a lot less than using chopped nuts.

A really super snack is Salty Bran Twists. The clear directions included here will guide you to a good result, and the Twists are positively delicious. You can serve these as a first course accompanied by chunks of cheese, or pass them around with a glass of milk or fruit juice for a great snack. Either way, you'll be adding important fiber to your family's diet.

With a box of wheat bran cereal on the shelf, you can add a rich source of fiber to any familiar dishes — cooked vegeatables, fruit salad, luncheon salads, and others — in just a jiffy. This is the easy way to get the health benefits that some medical researchers recommend for your family.

INDIAN CHEESE BALL

- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup pot cheese or dry curd cottage cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped chutney or chopped dried apricots
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ½ cup wheat bran cereal

In a large bowl, beat cream cheese and pot cheese until smooth. Stir in chutney, onion, lemon juice, salt, and curry powder. Chill until stiff enough to shape into a ball. Roll ball in wheat bran cereal. Chill. Serve with crackers. YIELD: 1 cheese ball

SALTY BRAN TWISTS

- 1 cup wheat bran cereal
- ¾ cup water
- 1 package active dry yeast
- ½ cup warm water
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup margarine or butter, melted
- 2½ to 2¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 3 tablespoons course salt

In large bowl combine wheat bran cereal and ¾ cup water; let stand 1 to 2 minutes, until most of water is absorbed. Sprinkle yeast over warm water and stir until dissolved. Add to bran; stir in sugar, salt and margarine. Gradually beat in 2 cups flour; work in remaining flour, using hands if necessary, to make a stiff dough. Cover and refrigerate 2 to 24 hours. Break into 16 pieces, roll each piece between hands to a rope 16 inches long and no more than ½ inch thick. Shape into pretzels by looping ends over center of rope. Place on lightly greased baking sheet. Brush with beaten egg; sprinkle with coarse salt. Let rise in warm place 30 to 45 minutes, just until almost doubled in bulk. Bake in 400 degrees oven 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve warm or cool. YIELD: 16 pretzels.

Elegant Cranberry summer soups

CRANBERRY SOUPS

For the summer dining scene, refreshing cold soups are a delight, and tangy cranberry drinks have a flavor charisma which superbly blends with other ingredients to create three unusually good chilled soup recipes.

Not only can each begin many a menu at home with a breezy, light feeling, but consider them too as an energizing and thirst quenching idea to take along in a thermos for a sunny day picnic.

"Cranberry Gazpacho" is delectably spicy. It's prepared in a whiz in a blender combining stewed tomatoes, lemon juice, olive oil, cranberry juice cocktail, minced onion, chopped green pepper and cucumber and condiments. It would make a super beginner for a dinner of barbecued spareribs, or chicken. Serve your well chilled Gazpacho in earthenware bowls and top with crisp croutons.

Another marvelously chilling and piquantly pleasing soup is "Cranberry Borscht." A perfect luncheon starter which might be followed by a salad, herbed omelet or sandwiches. Quickly made, it combines pickled beets, cranberry juice cocktail, dehydrated vegetable broth and salt and pepper. Topped with sour cream or yogurt and chopped chives, it's a color bright sight. Serve it in bowls nested over crushed ice, or in tall glasses or mugs. An enchanting idea to begin an elegant repast by candlelight is "Berry Fruitful Soup." It is an exquisitely tasteful blending or cranberry apple drink, prunes, apple, peach, pear, oranges, apricot, sugar, cornstarch and port wine. After it's been well refrigerated, serve it in carved melon halves for a most decorative presentation. Follow with a main course of seafood, veal or lamb.

Whatever dining occasion you plan this summer, each of these chilled soups will add a new and tasteful note to your menu.

CRANBERRY GAZPACHO
(Serves 6)

- 2 cans (1 pound each) stewed tomatoes
- Juice of 1 lemon
- ¼ cup olive or salad oil
- 2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
- Salt and pepper
- 1 small onion, minced
- 1 small green pepper, seeded and chopped
- 1 cucumber, peeled and chopped
- Croutons, optional

In a blender, whirl tomatoes, lemon juice and oil until smooth. Pour into a bowl or soup tureen. Stir in cranberry juice, salt and pepper to taste. Stir in remaining ingredients and chill until very cold. Serve in earthenware bowls. May be topped with crisp croutons and on very hot days it is served with an ice cube placed into the bowl with the soup.

CRANBERRY BORSCHT
(Serves 6)

- 1 can (1 pound) sliced pickled beets, undrained
- 2 envelopes dehydrated vegetable broth
- 4 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
- Salt and pepper
- Plain yogurt or sour cream
- Chopped chives

Whirl beets and their juices in a blender until coarsely chopped. Pour into a soup tureen or a bowl. Stir in vegetable broth and cranberry juice. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cover and chill. Serve in bowls nested in crushed ice and topped with large spoons of yogurt or sour cream. Sprinkle each serving with chopped chives.

BERRY FRUITFUL SOUP
(Serves 6)

- 4 cups cranberry apple drink
- 1 apple, peeled, cored and diced
- 1 cup pitted prunes
- 1 peach, peeled, pitted and diced
- 1 pear, peeled, cored and diced
- 12 dried apricot halves, quartered
- Grated rind of 1 orange
- Diced pulp of 1 orange
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ cup port wine
- 3 honeydew melons

In a saucepan, combine juice, fruits, orange rind and pulp. Simmer gently for 10 to 15 minutes or until fruits are tender but still hold their shape. Stir in sugar. Blend cornstarch with port until smooth. Add to fruit mixture, cook stirring constantly over low heat, until soup thickens slightly. Cover and chill. Serve icy cold in a melon half that has been peeled and seeded and notched with a sharp knife.

Amber conserve is a gift of gold

Flavoring of fruits with brandy goes back to early Rome and Greece when Lucullan feasts called for "spirits" in almost everything served. On a much less lavish scale, early colonists and westward-bound settlers continued to indulge themselves in the seasonal luxury of "putting down fruits in brandy."

Peach Amber Conserve is reminiscent of old-fashioned brandied peaches. Ginger brandy gives this conserve a special zing. Or the brandy may be omitted and ground ginger substituted.

Conserves are jam-like mixtures of at least two fruits, with nuts added and sometimes raisins. Bits of fruit are cooked to a translucent state in heavy syrup.

Peaches and oranges provide a sprightly fruit combination in this recipe. Unsulphured molasses is used for some of the sweetness and for the rich amber hue of this specialty.

PEACH AMBER CONSERVE

- 8 cups peeled, chopped peaches (about 10 large)
- 2 oranges
- 5 cups granulated sugar
- 1 cup unsulphured molasses
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
- ½ cup chopped blanched almonds
- ¼ cup ginger brandy -or- ½ teaspoon ground ginger

First prepare the fruit. Peel, pit, and chop peaches. Wash oranges, cut into quarters; remove seeds but do not peel. Chop oranges or put through medium blade of food grinder. Grate lemon rind and squeeze juice. Combine the fruits, juice, and lemon rind in large heavy saucepan. Simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Add sugar, molasses, and ground ginger, if used. Rapidly bring to boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Cook rapidly until thick, about 20 minutes. As mixture thickens, stir frequently to prevent sticking or scorching. Add nuts the last five minutes of cooking. When mixture "rounds up" in the spoon or flakes from the spoon as in a jelly test, remove from heat. Add ginger brandy, if desired.

Ladle the hot conserve into clean, sterilized jars. Seal with standard canning lids or cover with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

For added keeping assurance, conserves in jars with canning lids may be processed in a simmering water bath (180-185 degrees) for 10 minutes, with the water covering the jars 1 to 2 inches.

Yield: 8 half-pints.

Private peace corps

DETROIT (AP) — Dr Harris Mainster and his family operate their own peace corps.

Since 1971, the 39-year-old osteopathic surgeon, his wife and four daughters have spent their vacations doing volunteer work in some of the world's most remote areas.

They first went to Nicaragua because a colleague of Mainster told him he had a brother in a religious order there and knew medical help was needed. Upon return, another colleague told Mainster his medical services would be more than welcome in Liberia. So they went there for their next vacation. They went to India in 1973. Last summer, they lived several weeks amidst warring tribes in New Guinea.

Ready or not, the NFL is coming

It doesn't seem possible, but the first NFL football competition begins this weekend.

The annual College All-Star Game, pitting the All-Stars against the Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers, kicks off the action Friday night (6:30 p.m. channel 7).

On tap Saturday is the Annual Hall of Fame contest (channel 7, 2 p.m.) with the Detroit Lions meeting the Denver Broncos.

The rest of the NFL teams get into it the following weekend. A full schedule of 14 exhibition (the NFL hates that term and insists on calling them "preseason") games will be played.

Eleven games, topped locally by the Rams-Tampa Bay contest, will be played Saturday, July 31. Two games are slated Sunday, August 1 and one, Houston at Kansas City, on Monday, August 2.

The writer will get his first look at the 1976 Rams Friday. Over 80 players are still in camp. Aside from the running question of will the Rams get O.J. (Simpson), major interest centers on the quarterback position.

James Harris has apparently recovered fully from the shoulder problems he encountered last year. But Harris will be strongly challenged by Ron Jaworski and Pat Haden.

Coach Chuck Knox will take a good close look at all three during the exhibition season. Although Harris is number one going into the exhibition games, the one that performs the best during the exhibitions likely will start the season opener in Atlanta, Sept. 12.

Innovations made

Three innovations will be put into operation with the beginning of the exhibition season.

A 30-second time clock, four feet high and six feet wide will be in operation at each end of the playing field. This is to record the time it takes the offensive team to put the ball into play (a maximum of 30 seconds is allowed).

The coin toss, which mysteriously has always been held about a half hour before game time (what you've seen just before the game has been a reenactment) now will be held three minutes prior to kickoff and carried live on television to the fans in the stadium.

Colorful ribbons, two inches wide and 36 inches long, will be attached to the top of each goal post upright so that kickers and fans can determine wind conditions.

All referees will have microphones to announce penalty information to the fans in the stadium and on television. This was used in many games last season and will be in effect for all games this year.

It all figures to make things more interesting for the spectators.

It would be nice if baseball could come up with a few things to make watching a game more interesting. What we get are "message boards" crammed with nothing more exciting than listings of some of the groups or individuals in attendance.

The only thing more boring is to sit down and start reading the telephone book.

A 20-second clock could be used in the baseball parks. With the bases unoccupied a pitcher is SUPPOSED to deliver the ball to the batter within 20 seconds. When the rule is violated, the umpire is SUPPOSED to call a "ball."

Now that's a rule I'd like to see enforced. If a big 20-second clock was prominently displayed, the umpires would HAVE to enforce it.

Kilmer ready to go

HERE 'N THERE — Bill Kilmer, who will be 37 Sept. 5, is looking forward eagerly to his 16th year in pro football.

Kilmer, who missed the 1963 and '65 seasons because of injuries, reports his right shoulder and left foot have mended nicely following surgery at the end of last season.

"I ran two miles a day for three months before (training) camp," Kilmer is quoted in the latest NFL release. "And I went to see Mike Marshall (yes, "Old Tinfoil" himself) and got a program to strengthen my arm. I want to keep my arm as strong as it was when I was 28 or 29. Right now I think it is."

Kilmer, a JC All American at Citrus College before attending UCLA, was the recipient of the George Halas Award for Most Courageous Player of 1975. He could win it again this year.

Three official NFL publications, Prolog, The 1976 NFL Record Manual and NFL Report '76, will go on public sale August 1.

Prolog is the NFL annual and highlights complete reports on the expansion Seattle Seahawks and Tampa Bay Buccaneers. It has a review of the 1975 season and a preview of 1976 plus over 200 pictures.

NFL Report '76 contains complete scouting reports of the 28 NFL teams, rosters, draft choices, exhibition and regular season schedules.

U.S. must yield center stage

MONTREAL (AP) — America's matchless male swimmers, chief harvesters of a medal crop that has put the United States on top in the XXI Olympic Games, must yield center stage again tonight.

Nadia will be back.

The Yankee swimmers, unbeaten and perhaps unbeatable, will be seeking their sixth and seventh gold medals in as many events. They're heavily favored in the 800-meter freestyle relay. And they had three of the four best times in qualifying for the 100 butterfly.

A world record, becoming something of a routine occurance, in the relay is a distinct possibility. But the worldwide television audience of a billion people may have to wait for the reruns to see it.

Nadia will be back.

And when tiny Nadia Comaneci appears, the rest of the Olympics all but halt, waiting and watching with the happy anticipation of another perfect performance from the pony-tailed Romanian schoolgirl who has captured the imagination of the world.

The 4-foot-11, 88-pound package of pert perfection, holder of the only three perfect 10 scores ever awarded in the Olympics, goes against the Russians in the finals of the women's all-around individual gymnastics.

Five gold medals will be awarded: uneven parallel bars, balance beam, floor exercise, vault and all-around. Nadia's chief opposition will be the Russians—Ludmila Tourischeva, who leads in floor exercise and trails Nadia by only four-tenths of a point in the over-all; Nellie Kim, who leads in the vault, and Olga Korbut, the darling of the 1972 Games.

It very well could be the highlight of the entire Olympics.

The highlight so far has been the complete domination of their sport by the American men and the East German women swimmers. Both are unbeaten.

And the gold medals acquired by John Hencken, Santa Clara, Calif., in the 100 breaststroke and Brian Goodell, Mission Viejo, Calif., in the 1,500 free-style — both in world record time — boosted the United States into the medal lead with seven gold, six silver and three bronze after three days of competition.

East Germany had a medal count of 6-4-4. Russia stood at 4-2-1. Japan, West Germany and Bulgaria each have one gold.

Jennifer Chandler, 17, Lincoln, Ala., had to overcome some biased marks from East German judge Heinz Gold—who heavily favored Christa Kohler of his country—to win the women's three-meter springboard.

"I didn't really notice it," she said, then added: "I don't think he meant to do that. Sometimes politics gets in whether you want it to or not."

Her coach, Don O'Brien, added: "If you dive well, you win."

But the bias was obvious. The crowd booed it. Toward the latter stages of the competition even the other judges peered angrily at the East Grman. He gave her the lowest point total of the seven judges on seven of her 10 dives. And he gave the Est GErman girl the highest or next to highest mark of all 10.

Miss Chandler won with 506.19 points to 469.41 for Miss Kohler. Cynthia McIngvale of Dallas won the bronze with 466.83.

Don Haldeman, a 29-year-old tool and diemaker from Souderton, Pa., gave the Americans another gold, scoring 190 of 200 in skeet shooting. He was followed by Armando Silva Marques of Portugal and Ubaldeso Baldi of Italy.

Goodell, 17, was timed in 15 minutes, 2.40 seconds for the punishing 1,500 freestyle, more than four seconds faster than his old world mark and an astonishing 52 seconds faster than the winning time in the 1972 Olympics. Bobby Hackett, another teenager from Yonkers, N.Y., took the silver in 15:03.91 and Steve Holland of Australia was third.

Hencken's 1:03.11 in the breaststroke represented his third world record in two days. David Wilkie of Great Britain was second in 1:03.43 and Arvidas Iuozaytis of Russia third in 1:04.23.

The U.S. forces suffered two major disappointments, survived a scare and got a surprise lift from a wrestler, Pete Lee, a 343-pound heavyweight on the Greco-Roman team. Lee, from Muncie, Ind., pinned 1972 silver medalist Alexandr Tomov of Bulgaria in the opening round of competition in what American coach Vaughn Hitchcock called "the upset of the Olympics, believe me."

One disappointment came from the eight-oared shell, which finished third in the repechage heat and thus was eliminated—for the first time in history—from the finals.

"There's a time in every race," said coxswain David Weinberg of New York, "when you have to decide whether you want to win badly enough. We let it slip away. There's no excuse. We just didn't have it."

Shirley Babashoff, Fountain Valley, Calif., declined to talk with reporters after she had failed to break the East German's hold on women's swimming. Petra Thumer won in world record time of 4:09.89. Miss Babashoff also broke the old record at 4:10.46. Shanon Smith of Canada was third.

The scare, and it was a major one, was survived by the American basketball team, beaten only once in Olympic history. The Americans trailed by seven points to a longshot Puerto Rican team, powered by New York playground graduates, before pulling out a 95-94 victory on two free throws by Phil Ford.

"I never had a doubt about it," said Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, who scored two critical baskets late in the game. "We like to think our best games are yet to come."

They may have to have a better game tonight against a big, tough Yugoslavia team.

Other medals today, in addition to the swimming and gymnastics, include three position small bore rifle, lightweight weightlifting and foil fencing.

Japan won its fifth consecutive gold in men's team gymnastics last night, with Russia second and East Germany a distant third. In the only other medal event, Nikolai Kolesnikov of Russia took the gold in featherweight weightlifting with a combined hoist of 627 pounds. Georgi Todorov of Bulgaria, the 1974 world champion, was second with 616 pounds and Kazuma Hirai of Japan took the bronze with 605.

GOLD MEDALIST

Brian Goodell, 17, of Mission Viejo, raises arms in joy after being awarded gold medal for his victory in the 1500-meter men's freestyle. Goodell set new world record.

Rau predicts big finish

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Doug Rau feels the Dodgers' pitching staff is ready for a big finish this season and that's why Los Angeles has a good chance of overtaking the Cincinnati Reds in the National League West standings.

Rau certainly did his part in proving his theory Tuesday night in defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2, for his ninth victory of the season.

Thanks to Davey Lopes' first home run of the season, the Dodgers picked up a game to again move within six games of the Reds in baseball's tightest pennant race.

"Our staff is going to be much stronger this second half of the season," Rau said after his five-hit performance.

And Rau feels the Dodgers' five-man starting rotation will prove to be a big reason for the staff's success.

"We're all getting extra rest and I believe it will help us," he said after recording his third straight victory. "We have a second-half type of staff. If we continue to pitch consistently, take our time and don't panic we can catch the Reds and make a race of it."

All the scoring in Tuesday's game came in the first three innings as Rau allowed only two harmless hits through the final six frames.

The Cards scored an unearned run in the second when Hector Cruz' single scored former Dodger Joe Ferguson, who was at second base on shortstop Bill Russell's two-base throwing error.

Rau gave up another run in the third and was fortunate to escape that frame without any additional damage to himself or to his pitching performance.

After Rau hit Bake McBride with a pitch, Don Kessinger singled McBride to third and Mike Anderson brought him home with a sacrifice fly.

Ted Simmons followed with a bullet line drive which Rau was able to catch and double up Kessinger at first for a double play.

"I can't say I was terrified seeing the ball come back at me like that because I never saw it," Rau said about his close call. "My hand went numb and afterward, when I thought about it, my knees buckled. I'm just thankful I got my glove up in time."

The Dodgers tagged Lynn McGlothen for two runs in the first inning and added a third on Lopes' homer over the leftfield fence.

Los Angeles couldn't score again the rest of the way and ended up leaving nine runners on the bases, a common practice in recent games.

Three walks, singles by Bill Buckner and Ron Cey and Bill Russell's sacrifice fly were the ingredients used for the first inning flurry.

DODGER DATA — The brief series concluded this afternoon (1 p.m.) when Don Sutton pitched against John Denny.

The San Diego Padres arrive Thursday night to begin a four-game, two-city series. After playing here Thursday and Friday nights, the two teams head for San Diego for games Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

Rick Rhoden (9-0) will face Dan Spillner (2-9) Thursday with Tommy John (5-6) going against Brent Strom (9-10) Friday. The Dodgers get to face Randy Jones (17-4) Saturday night.

The Dodgers are 20-11 in one-run games and 14-3 at Dodger Stadium.

Los Angeles is fourth in the National League in doubleplays and are third in fewest errors.

With a perfect 5-0 mark at home against the Cards, the Dodgers enjoy a big 9-2 edge over St. Louis this season.

Willie Crawford is batting .352 in July and has hit safely in 17 of his last 20 games in enjoying a big year in his new Cardinal uniform.

Puerto Ricans give U.S. scare

MONTREAL (AP) — "It taught us a lesson," said Ernie Grunfeld of Tennessee. "Don't take anything for granted."

"This definitely is going to make us a better club," said Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, who tipped in a stray shot Tuesday with 33 seconds remaining to give the United States the lead for good in a 95-94 shootout with Puerto Rico in men's Olympic basketball competition.

Butch Lee, a product of playground basketball in New York City who wasn't invited to the U.S. Olympic Trials, dealt his home country misery throughout, penetrating a zone defense for a game-high 35 points that almost produced a startling Puerto Rican victory.

"It was a great game for a person who didn't care who won and could sit back and see some offensive show," said U.S. Coach Dean Smith of North Carolina.

Puerto Rico shot 64 per cent from the field and the Americans shot 58 per cent.

Puerto Rico led 78-71 with 8:35 remaining and it appeared the U.S. squad was doomed to only its second defeat in Olympic basketball history.

Chopping away steadily, the Americans finally regained the lead 83-82 four minutes later on a Dantley basket but twice fell behind by three before setting the stage for the down-to-the-wire finish. Phil Ford's 12-foot jumper with 2:13 left that give the United States an 89-88 lead.

Neftali Rivera, who scored 26, sandwiched a pair of baskets around Quinn Buckner's jumper to give Puerto Rico a 92-91 edge with 1:06 to play. Dantley's tip-in of Buckner's stray shot provided the final lead change, and Ford iced the game by sinking a pair of free throws with eight seconds left.

QBs please Chuck Knox

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Rams Coach Chuck Knox says he is pleased with his team's workouts and the play of his top two quarterbacks, James Harris and Ron Jaworski.

"It was an excellent practice," Knox said after Tuesday's workout. "We've got a lot of guys fighting for jobs, and everybody's hustling."

Harris and Jaworski, who are fighting for the starting slot, both completed long touchdown passes to highlight a Rams scrimmage.

Harris connected on a bomb to Harold Jackson, and Jaworski, Harris' understudy most of last season, hit Ron Jessie with another long scoring pass.

A team spokesman said that two cornerbacks who are battling for the job on the left side vacated by Eddie McMillian, who went to Seattle in the expansion draft, also were impressive during a pass defense drill.

Pat Thomas, a second-round draft pick out of Texas A&M, intercepted two passes and Al Clark, who was sidelined with a broken leg early last season, picked off another.

U.S. gold medal winner also an excellent student

MONTREAL (AP)—Between winning Olympic gold medals, America's breaststroke swimming champion John Hencken performed well enough at Stanford University to win a scholarship for graduate work starting this fall.

He studies production design and engineering, and if he studies like he swims, he meets the problems head on.

Asked to describe his world record race Tuesday night in the Olympic 100-meter breaststroke, the 22-year-old from Santa Clara, Calif., answered: "I just made it feel good for the first 50 meters, worked into the wall and off the wall and gave it all I've got at the end."

The gold medal winner is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Decker of La Verne.

While many athletes express surprise at world records, Hencken admitted he expected to do it. He already owned the mark at 1 minute, 3.88 seconds. He matched that time in the preliminary heat, lowered it to 1:03.62 in the semifinal and to 1:03.11 when he beat chief rival David Wilkie of Great Britain, who took second in 1:03.43.

Despite the fact Wilkie had beaten him earlier this year, Hencken said: "The clock is my competition. I never look at the competition except on the turns. I look straight ahead. You look to the side and you lose time."

He and Wilkie will undoubtedly meet again in the 200 breaststroke, the one where Hencken won the gold medal at Munich in 1972 after taking the bronze in the 100. The American will be favored to successfully defend his title and add another gold medal to Uncle Sam's collection.

Asked what he thought his victory this time has done for the undefeated U.S. team, Hencken answered: "Every gold medal keeps everyone psyched up and keeps up the momentum."

Because his studies didn't allow complete concentration on swimming, Hencken stayed out of school the final quarter of the 1975-76 year. Still, his 3.2 grade average will permit him to combine his final regular academic work with his graduate studies under his NCAA student-athlete scholarship.

Although Hencken appeared almost stoical in receiving his second gold medal and becoming the first 1972 gold medal swimming winner to get another this time, he told newsmen: "I'm very happy. Maybe I don't show it as much as I feel it."

But he readily admitted he enjoyed the 1972 victory "a little more. The first time around is always nicer."

Still he trained harder this time than before. "Actually, I haven't trained this hard ever," swimming 10,000 to 12,000 meters daily.

Hencken's was the fifth gold medal in as many final events for the U.S. men and he calls this year's team much stronger than four years ago when Mark Spitz won his record seven gold medals.

"This is a well balanced team. We have three good people in every event. This is a more diversified team."

Asked if he thought the 100 breaststroke might be swum in under a minute some day, Hencken said: "Anything is possible, but I don't know when."

Sandoval risks unbeaten mark

LOS ANGELES — Pomona's Alberto Sandoval, called by his manager a "cinch future featherweight champ," will risk his 10-fight win streak against Raul Ochoa Thursday in the featured 10-round bantamweight main event at the Olympic Auditorium.

Ochoa, 10-2, agreed to meet Sandoval after Edgar Cabahlin, who was originally scheduled to fight the Pomona boxer, withdrew because of illness, a spokesman for the Olympic Auditorium announced Monday.

Sandoval decisioned Alberto Cabanig in 10 rounds at the Olympic three weeks ago, ending a five-fight knockout streak for the 20-year-old Garey High graduate. His record is 10-0 with six knockouts.

"Sandoval has progressed just as far at this stage of his career as Mando Ramos," said Jackie McCoy, Sandoval's manager. "Alberto can do everything a fighter has to do to reach the top. To boot, he's extremely dedicated. If Mando had Alberto's dedication, he'd still be lightweight champ.

"Alberto's still a bantamweight, but he's 5-feet-8," continued McCoy. "I expect him to grow into a featherweight within a year."

Two other unbeaten records also are on the line Thursday. In the semi-main, Eddie Lopez, 3-0 with three knockouts, fights Fili Fili of Somoa. A four-round women's match sends Diane Syverson, 2-0-1, against New York's Tiger Trenier, 5-1.

Jones boy stops Phils

By Associated Press

Everytime the Philadelphia Phillies face Randy Jones, they get that sinking feeling.

They also get that sinker ball.

The way the San Diego lefthander has been pitching against them this year, the Phillies do nothing but beat the ball into the dirt—then go back to the locker room and beat their heads against the wall.

Jones, the winningest pitcher in the major leagues, continued to dominate one of the best hitting teams in baseball with a four-hit, 3-0 victory over the Phillies Tuesday night.

That's the third straight shutout for Jones over the Phillies—a dazzling accomplishment considering the National League East leaders have been shut out only five times all season.

"I guess they are just the team this year I can handle," Jones said, shrugging off his success against Philadelphia. "I don't do anything special against them, it's just worked out well."

Jones fattened his record to 17-4 by feeding the Phillies a steady diet of sinkers. He retired 14 Phillies on ground balls while breezing through a one hour, 32-minute performance.

"I am still not finding the consistency in my sinker I would like but it is getting closer," Jones said. "I was a lot smoother and more confident tonight than I was in my last start against St. Louis. I had a very tough time getting mentally keyed up for the Cardinals after all of the excitement of starting the All-Star game. Tonight I felt much more like myself."

Jones posted 4-0 and 5-0 victories over Philadelphia earlier this year.

"I don't think Jones was as sharp tonight as the other two times he shut us out, but he made good pitches when he had to," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark. "I have got to top my hat to him. He is a heckuva pitcher and a heckuva competitor."

Mets 2, Reds 1

New York's Jerry Koosman fired a five-hitter and won his fifth straight game by beating Cincinnati. Koosman, 11-6, got all the runs he needed in the first inning when the Mets scored twice off Gary Nolan, 8-5. Singles by Felix Millan, John Milner and Ed Kranepool scored one run and Mike Vail's sacrifice fly brought in another.

Pete Rose hit Koosman's first pitch of the night for his seventh home run.

Cubs 3, Giants 2

Joe Wallis broke a scoreless tie with a two-run single off Ed Halicki in the eighth inning, triggering Chicago past San Francisco. Halicki, 9-12, had pitched 25 consecutive scoreless innings, the most in the National League this season, before the Cubs scored three runs in the eighth.

Chicago's Rick Reuschel, 9-7, had a no-hitter through six innings. Marty Perez broke it up with a leadoff single in the seventh.

Expos 4, Braves 3

Montreal roughed up Andy Messersmith for nine hits, including run-scoring singles by Mike Jorgensen, Jerry White and Barry Foote, and broke a five-game losing streak by beating Atlanta in a game that was delayed more than two hours by rain.

The Expos scored all of their runs in the first three innings as Pepe Frias delivered the game-winner in a two-run third with a sacrifice fly.

Pirates 9-3, Astros 5-4

Manny Sanguillen's three-run triple keyed a six-run first inning that carried Pittsburgh past Houston in the first game of their doubleheader. The Astros won the second game on Ed Herrmann's ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

Fidrych enthusiasm is most impressive

By Associated Press

It was an impressive performance by Mark Fidrych— impressive to the losing manager, to his own teammates and even to himself.

"I'm honestly more impressed with his enthusiasm than his pitching," said Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch, who watch Fidrych hurl the Detroit Tigers to an 8-3 victory over the Twins. "That kid might be the best thing that's happened to this game in a long time."

The rookie pitcher, who gave up 10 hits but was aided by three Detroit double plays, completed his 12th game in 13 starts as he raised his record to 11-2.

"Mark keeps the defense very alert," said Detroit outfielder Rusty Staub, talking of the pitcher who runs to and from the mound. "Baseballwize, he deserves every bit of the attention he's getting. He's pitched his tail off."

Fidrych—nicknamed "The Bird"—gives the credit to his teammates.

"Those guys do two-thirds of the work," he said. "Between that and a little luck, it's been an unbelievable year."

Staub slammed a three-run homer and Ron LeFlore added a two-run blast to provide the hitting punch for the Tigers. Tony Oliva, the Twins' designated hitter, gave himself a 35th birthday present by going 4-for-4 and received a standing ovation from the crowd of 30,425, about 22,000 more than Minnesota's season average.

A's 7, Indians 4

Sal Bando's run-scoring single and Phil Garner's basesloaded triple snapped a 3-3 tie in the ninth and boosted Oakland to its victory over Cleveland.

Billy Williams hit his ninth homer of the season, a solo shot in the seventh, for Oakland as the A's battled back from a early-inning 2-0 deficit to take a 3-2 lead. But Cleveland's George Hendrick led off the bottom of the eighth with an infield hit, moved to second on a throwing error and scored the tying run on Boog Powell's double, setting the stage for Oakland's ninth-inning rally.

Orioles 10, Royals 3

Two home runs by Lee May and single roundtrippers by Bobby Grich and Reggie Jackson paced Baltimore to its rout of Kansas City. Jamie Quirk hit a home run for the Royals.

The victory, Wayne Garland's 12th against only one loss, was the Orioles' eighth in their last 10 games.

Grich also had a triple and walked with the bases loaded to account for five runs batted in.

Red Sox 4, Rangers 2

Reliever Jim Willoughby came on in the ninth with the bases-loaded and none out, giving up only a sacrifice fly, as Boston held on to defeat Texas.

Rick Jones, 4-0, got the victory for the Red Sox although he gave up 11 of the Rangers' 14 hits in just 62-3 innings. But Boton belted out 12 hits of their own with Rick Buleson Burleson and Cecil Cooper combing combining for five.

Burleson had three hits and scored two runs while Cooper added two hits and two RBI as the Red Sox downed Texas for the first time in nine games this season.

It also was the first victory in two outings for new Boston Manager Don Zimmer.

Yankees 14, White Sox 9

Thurman Munson rapped out a double and two singles, driving in four runs, as the New York Yankees rebounded from a 7-0 first inning deficit to crush the Chicago White Sox in a game halted by rain in the bottom of h the eighth.

New York tied up the contest with seven runs in the second inning and went ahead to stay with four more in the fourth. Munson singled in two runs in the second and drive in two more with a double in the eighth.

Angels' streak halted at four

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A 3-7 record, even for a last place team, may not be much to shout about.

And defeating the California Angels, major league baseball's lightest hitting team with a .229 average, won't make him an overnight household name.

But Jerry Augustine, who survived the Milwaukee Brewers' last spring training cut only because they needed a lefthanded relief pitcher, gradually has established himself as one of their prime hopes for the future.

"He's got a real good future. He listens well, and when you listen, you learn," Brewer Manager Alex Grammas said after Augustine, backed by home runs by George Scott and Hank Aaron, had checked California on five hits through seven innings Tuesday night. Reliefer Danny Frisella earned a save in a 6-2 Brewers' victory, snapping a four game Angels' winning streak.

"I wanted Augie to go nine just so he could do it once, but I'm sure he's happy," Grammas said. "He's coming. It takes a little while to get that confidence, to get that feeling that everything's under control. Surely but slowly, he's getting that feeling."

After a leadoff triple by Von Joshua and a sacrifice fly by Don Money had given the Brewers a 1-0 lead in the first inning, the Angels tied in the fourth on a single by Dave Collins, a balk, a sacrifice and Bobby Bonds' sacrifice fly.

Augustine gave up singles to the next two batters, Tommy Davis and Ron Jackson, but then held the Angels hitless until Collins and Mario Guerrero opened the eighth with singles. Frisella then retired the side in order, striking out two, and gave up a meaningless homer to Bill Melton in the ninth.

A bases loaded walk to Joshua by loser Gary Ross (6-12) gave the Brewers the lead to stay at 2-1 in the fourth.

Tim Johnson's third single, a stolen base, an error and Money's second sacrifice fly made it 3-1 in the seventh. Scott and Aaron followed with their homers, No. 10 of the season for both and No. 755 of Aaron's career. Gorman Thomas singled home an insurance run in the eighth.

Augustine, 23, was 2-0 in three starts after the Brewers called him up from Sacramento last Sept. 1. However, he was inconsistent during spring training this year, and won a berth on the roster the week before the regular season.

"We had a need for a lefthander in the bullpen," Grammas said. "We felt that if he showed anything at all, he had a chance to make the club. He was both good and bad, but we thought he could do a job."

He earned a starting berth after compiling a 1.83 earned run average in 15 relief appearances, and Tuesday night's performance dropped his ERA under 3.00 for his last five starts. Grammas traced his recent development to a delivery change suggested by pitching coach Cal McLish after he had lost 125 to Chicago June 10.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Barry Asher unleashed a barrage of strikes to down Dave Soutar, 265-184, for the title in the $60,000 Tucson Open bowling tournament Tuesday night.

The $6,000 victory was the 10th of his career for the Costa Mesa, Calif., pro and his second Tucson title, winning here in 1973.

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Expos, stressing the need for some left-handed hitting, have completed a two-for-two waiver deal with the New York Mets.

The Expos acquired veterans Del Unser and Wayne Garrett from the Mets for outfielder Pepe Mangual and utility outfielder Jim Dwyer. The deal was announced late Monday night in Montreal shortly after the Mets defeated the Reds in Cincinnati 2-1.

WASHINGTON — Second-seeded Jimmy Connors scored a straight set victory over Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md., 7-5, 6-1, to advance to the second round of the $125,000 Washington Star International Tennis Championship.

THE ONTARIO CITY TENNIS tournament, set to begin Aug. 7, has broadened its territorial scope. In years before this annual event has been open only to players from the West End of San Bernardino County. Now, the Ontario Recreation Department has decided to allow some LA County neighbors in on the action, so will accept entries from Pomona and Claremont residents. The eligible West End communities are Ontario, Upland, Chino, Montclair, Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Guasti and Mt. Baldy.

Officials stressed that entrants must be bonafide residents of the prescribed area. The Recreation Department will receive entries in the various events at its offices, 217 S. Lemon Ave. until 5 p.m. Aug. 3.

Chaffey High School's north courts will be the main site for the competition in men's and women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and junior events. The adults will vie within A, B or novice classifications, on the tournament's two weekends — Aug. 7-8 and 14-15. The four age levels will be available to the younger players — 18 and under, 16 and under, 14 and under and 12 and under. One special feature will be an adult-child doubles draw. Fees are $3 per player for the adults and 18 and under boys, $2 for the junior girls and $1 for the younger entrants.

A RELATIVE NEWCOMER to the area, young Bob Conner hasn't dawdled about working his way into the local tennis scene. The Chino junior was runner-up to Olarn Issara in the boys 18-and-under division of the recent Pomona Valley Closed Championships and also performed well in the men's singles competition. Last Sunday he won the Claremont Tennis Club's 18 and under crown, outstroking 14-year-old Gerry Gollin in the finals, 6-4, 6-0. The tall, steady Conner played on the Bellflower High team this year and he'll become a commuter to the same school starting in the fall to finish out his senior year.

Gollin was playing above his age level in quest of a double coup in the club's junior championships. He'd already won the 14-and-under title by defeating finals opponent Steve Curtis, 6-0, 6-1. Pam Papa was the junior girls victor with a 7-6, 6-2 triumph over finalist Robin Su, while Ken Lindberg downed Steve Norin, 6-1, 6-1, in the boys 16-and-under finals and Mark McBryant gained a comeback win over Steve Mason, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, for the boys 12-and-under title.

FIVE OF THOSE JUNIOR FINALISTS at the Claremont club are among the 12 youngsters set to play a 24-hour tennis marathon starting Friday as a benefit for the American Cancer Society. Conner, Papa, Su, Lindberg and Norin will join in the endurance test, along with Mark Christian, Gregg Betts, Tai Martin, Eric Gosswiller, Mike Leos, Pete Mabie and Randy Mason.

Bolstered by money pledges for each hour of action, the group of juniors will go at it in doubles on three courts at the Padua Avenue facility beginning at 8 a.m. Friday. They'll switch match-ups along the way, take a few breaks here and there, but mostly the action will be continuous on through the day and night, right up until 8 a.m. Saturday. By the end, the players figure they'll have earned a worthy contribution for the cancer society's Northeast Los Angeles County unit.

Norin at 626-0602 is chairman of the benefit. The players will seek pledges both beforehand and at the courts.

UPLAND RACQUET CLUB was jammed with doubles play Sunday. Some 40 members participated in a team format, dividing up into four squads and lining up in doubles tandems. Each group collected points on the games won by its duos against the other groups' and a 204 tally earned first place for the "Miller's Killers" team captained by Skip Miller. The "Morgan's Raiders" unit headed by George Morgan was second with 189, "Graham's Giants" under Hugh Graham were third with 169 and John Yatsko's "Bionics" were fourth with 153.

Besides Miller, the winning team consisted of John Graham, Murray Todd, Rick Vargas, Jerry Byer, Howard Schrock, Joann Bailey, Barbara Barker, Doyle Barker, John Wurtz and Alex Katz.

PARENT-CHILD RELATIONSHIPS stood the acid test in a quartet of doubles tournaments at the Claremont Tennis Club. It was the club's first annual Parent-Child Championships, meaning that fathers and mothers partnered sons and-or daughters in pursuit of club titles in the four possible combinations.

As it turned out, the Low family snatched up half the laurels itself. Father Reg and son David won their tournament with a 6-3, 6-4 finals conquest of Herb and son Mark Christian. Laila and Rob Low became with mother-son champs, 6-3, 6-1 in the finals over Emily and Gerry Gollin.

Mother-daughter victors were Peggy Rees and daughter Wendy Wade, who defeated Gloria Jones and daughter Kim in the finals, 7-5, 6-3. And Bill and Pam Walker battled to the father-daughter crown, tripping finals opponents Jim and Allison Giles, 7-5, 6-3.

This Saturday, four of the club's mother-daughter teams and a like number of father-son combos will play visiting duos from the Red Hill Country Club.

IT'S THAT TIME on the tennis circuit when PBS takes over the job of satiating the TV viewer. For the next six weeks, Channel 28 will show more than 50 hours of Sunday semi-finals and Monday finals matches of major tournaments in the East.

The schedule begins Sunday with coverage of the Washington Star International Tennis Championships at Washington, D.C. Semi-finals contests will be shown from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday and the finals from 8 to 11 p.m. Monday. The remaining tournaments on tap: Louisville Tennis Classic, Aug. 1-2; Buckeye Boys Ranch Championships, Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 8-9; U.S. Clay Court Championship, Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 15-16; Canadian Open Championships, Toronto, Aug. 22-23; and U.S. Pro Championships, Boston, Aug. 29-30.

Bud Collins, Donald Dell and Judy Dixon will do the commentary, as in the past.

MIDNIGHT MIXED DOUBLES will be offered to members of the Upland Racquet Club Aug. 21. Play will begin at 10 p.m. and continue, on a format still to be determined, through the wee hours . . . . The 150 senior amateur athletes scheduled to compete Thursday through Sunday in the seven annual Senior Olympics tennis and golf events at San Diego Country Estates include a number of octogenarians, say the promoters . . .

The U.S. Tennis Association's tennis teachers workshop in San Diego Friday through Sunday is expected to draw enthusiasts from 11 states. Chet Murphy of UC Berkeley, Anne Hill of Stanford and conditioning advisor Henry Hines will provide the instruction and members of the San Diego Friars will give an exhibition. Registration at the door at the Town and Country Hotel and Convention Center is $35.

All-Stars seek to snap string

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars, seeking to break an 11-game losing streak to the National Football League champions, are expected to be 15-point underdogs Friday night when Coach Ara Parseghian leads a glittering array of talent against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A crowd in excess of 50,000 is expected in Soldier Field for the nationally televised contest (ABC, 6:30 p.m. PDT).

The last time an All-Star team defeated the professional champions was in 1963 when the collegians tagged the Green Bay Packers 20-17 under the reigns of Coach Otto Graham. Before that, the All Stars pulled off a 35-19 upset of the Detroit Lions in 1958. That team, too, was coached by Graham and one of Graham's assistants was Parseghian, then head coach at Northwestern.

Parseghian went on to great heights as head coach of Notre Dame, a position he resigned at the end of the 1974 season after a 13-11 Orange Bowl victory over Alabama.

His acceptance to coach this year's All-Star team is read by some as a move to return to the coaching ranks. But Ara has made it clear if he does return to full time coaching, it will be in the pros.

Parseghian will need all of his dynamic energy and organizational talents to mold a winner out of the All Stars against the mighty Steelers who have captured two straight Super Bowls and lost only two games all of last season.

Desire, a strong, powerful running attack and an excellent defense is the way the 1976 All Stars can be described. Whether the likes of Chuck Muncie of California, two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State, hard-hitting Tony Galbreath of Missouri Joe Washington of Oklahoma and Mike Pruitt of Purdue can dent Pittsburgh's steel curtain defense is another matter.

Quarterback could be a problem for the All Stars. Richard Todd of Alabama, the No. 1 quarterback picked in the pro draft, did not report, leaving the job to Mike Kruczek of Boston College, Craig Penrose of San Diego State or Jeb Blount of Tulsa.

The All Stars appear to be formidable on defense and could be capable of respectability displayed by their most recent predecessors. The All Stars battled hard before bowing to Pittsburgh 21-14 last year. The 1974 game was canceled because of a labor dispute but in 1973 the Miami Dolphins were hard-pressed for a 14-3 victory.

Heading the defensive line are the Selmon brothers from Oklahoma, Leroy and Dewey. Also up front will be Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame, Mike Dawson of Arizona, and Ken Novak of Purdue.

The linebacking corps includes Ed Simonini of Texas A&M, Ron McCartney of Tennessee and Troy Archer of Colorado.

In the defensive secondary will be Mario Clark of Oregon, Jim Hunter of Grambling, Aaron Kyle of Wyoming, Eddie Lewis of Kansas, Mike McCoy of Colorado and Shafer Suggs of Ball State.

American reaches finals

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Pomona American advanced to the finals of the District 20 Senior Division tournament by virtue of its 6-1 victory over Pomona National Tuesday night at Ralph Welch Park.

In an earlier contest, Diamond Bar bested Pomona Southwest 2-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Ray Garno.

American will now wait for the finals to be played on Friday at 6:30 p.m. Tonight at 6:30, Ted Greene will face Pomona National, with the winner squaring off with Diamond Bar Thursday.

American put together a big five-run third inning to easily down the National. Three National errors contributed to the decisive inning.

Jim O'Toole started things off with a single to center. A grounder by Loyd Falgout was misplayed twice, allowing O'Toole to score and put Falgout on third base. Ferny Larez dropped a single in amongst a trio of confused National players for another tally.

Dean Willhite reached base on an error, putting runners at the corners. Ricky Murillo drew a walk to load the sacks. A line drive base hit to center by Robbie Walters brought in two morew runs, and brought out starting National pitcher Mark Alba. Relief pitcher Don Milner, who otherwise pitched fine ball, surrendered a wild pitch for the final American run.

Milner pitched four frames and was not charged with a run, while whiffing five Americans.

American pitcher Fred Macias went the distance giving up seven hits, but fanned nine batters. The only run he was charged with came in the seventh when Brian Chapple singled, pinch-runner Mark Tenney stole second, and scored on a solid single by Randy Copenhaver.

Willhite had given American a 1-0 lead in the first when his safety drove home Falgout.

"We lucked out in that one inning," said American Manager Jim O'Toole. We're playing as a unit. Fred (Marcias) pitched a fine game tonight." In the initial game, Diamond Bar's Marty Reina drove home the winning run with a single and added a double to pace D. B. past Pomona Southwest.

Diamond Bar pitcher Garno went all seven innings and gave up just one run on four hits, while striking out eight men.

Southwest scored its only run in the first inning. Alex Maldonado reached base on an error and Scott Andry walked to put runners at first and second. They moved up a notch on a sacrifice bunt by Robert Vincent and tallied on a single by Auerlio Coronado.

After knotting the score in the third, Diamond Bar scored the winning run in the last of the sixth. Norm Revis singled, while Phil Kranenburg and Brian Compton walked to fill the bases. Reina hit a 3-2 pitch into short left field for the capper.

Revis had two of D. B.'s seven hits, while Coronado had half of the Southwest safeties.

Diamond Bar tied the score at one on a two-out base hit by Mario Flores. He stole second and third base before scoring on a wild throw by Southwest's catcher.

Tonight's game through the championship contest on Friday will be held at 6:30 p.m. at Ralph Welch Park, which is located at 9th and Buena Vista Streets in Pomona.

Montclair nips Claremont, 10-9

Montclair's Legion team outlasted Claremont, 10-9, in a wild game that was called due to darkness Tuesday after 5½ innings at Pomona College.

The winners, strangely enough, scored two runs in each of the five innings they came to bat. Claremont scored twice in each of three frames and three times in another.

Montclair, which never trailed, was paced by Kevin Fuller. He slammed a solo home run over the centerfield fence in the second inning and rapped a double off the ball with the bases loaded in the third.

Winning pitcher Ed Salazar drove in two runs with a double in the first inning and teammate Kent Gurney hit an RBI two-bagger in the second. Rick Adams drove in two runs for Montclair with a triple in the fifth.

Claremont's Dick Bell doubled twice and scored both times.

Post 78, 22-15 on the year, will host Baldwin Park at Pomona College today at 5 p.m. while Montclair, 13-12, visits Tri-City at Alta Loma High at 5:30.

Bob Burcham named driver

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Bob Burcham of Rossville, Ga., a short track driver for almost 20 years, was named Monday to replace Johnny Rutherford, two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, in the Talladega 500 Aug. 8.

John Ray, a trucking firm owner at Eastaboga, Ala., picked Burcham to drive his Chevrolet in the Grand National stock car race at the Alabama International Motor Speedway.

Rutherford, this year's Indy winner who drove Ray's car in the recent Firecracker 400 at Daytona Beach, had to withdraw from the Talladega 500 because of a schedule conflict. Ray still is recovering from injuries received in a Daytona 500 crash.

Cal Poly recruits four track athletes

Cal Poly Pomona track coach Jim George has announced the addition of four athletes to his 1977 squad.

Hura Hill, Steve Smith, Tim Hampton and David Edds have all signed national letters of intent and will attend Cal Poly in the fall.

Hill, a triple jumper whose lifetime best mark is 48-8, attended Duarte High School and Citrus College where he was the Mission Conference champion this past season.

Smith, a transfer from Harbor Junior College, has competed in the shot put, and the triple jump. He won first place honors in the shot put and discus in the Southern California Conference championship, and captured third in the triple jump. He was also a Southern California finalist in the discus and triple jump. Smith's best marks include throws of 53-1 in the shot put and 165-8 in the discus, and a 49-5 effort in the triple jump. A graduate of Locke High School, Smith resides in Los Angeles.

Hampton, a transfer from Antelope Valley Junior College and graduate of Antelope Valley High School in Lancaster, will compete in the 3-Mile. In 1976 he was the small school junior college state champion in the 5000 meter race.

Edds, the only freshman newcomer, is from banning High School. Edds was the CIF-2A runner up in the half mile, the CIF Masters runner up and was seventh in the state high school championships. His best time is 1:53.9.

In addition to the four newcomers, George also has a trio of outstanding red shirts who will be ready to compete next year.

Rick Wilmoth, who came to Cal Poly after competing at UCLA, will be running in the 100 and 220. He attended Monrovia High School and Citrus College where he was the Mission Conference champion in the 100 and 220 in 1974. While at UCLA in 1975, Wilmoth competed on their national 440 relay team. Wilmoth boasts times of 9.4 in the 100 and 20.9 in the 220.

Browning Allen, a transfer from the University of Hawaii via Citrus, also will be competing in the 100 and 220 along with Wilmoth. Allen, a graduate of Claremont High, has marks of 9.6 in the 100 and 21.4 in the 220.

Jeff Russell, a graduate of Glendora High School who attended Citrus and Idaho State University, will be throwing the javelin for the Broncos next spring. His best effort in the javelin is a 235 foot throw.

"We are very excited about our red shirts being eligible and the addition of four new track men," coach George said.

Basketball merger in danger

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association's negotiations with its players over their antitrust lawsuit have reached an impasse, jeopardizing the merger of the NBA and the American Basketball Association, the judge overseeing the suit said Tuesday.

"I had approved the settlement of the suit in principle," said federal Judge Robert L. Carter, "and had set a deadline to approve it by the end of the month."

The New York Times reported that Judge Carter said if the parties to the dispute can't settle their differences in the next few days, "the whole thing may fall through. In that case we'll have to think about a trial in the fall."

The parties were scheduled to appear before Carter Wednesday. The judge leaves for a European vacation July 30.

"Clearly, we are faced with a serious situation," said NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien. "I'm not optimistic." He spent the day in negotiations and in a telephone conference with his five-man advisory board of team presidents.

The antitrust case, known as the Oscar Robertson suit, was instituted in 1970 on behalf of all NBA players. Robertson was playing with the Milwaukee Bucks then.

The class-action suit claimed the NBA's common draft and option clause violated antitrust laws.

The NBA and the players reached a tentative settlement of the suit last February. But the players returned to court two weeks ago, about the time Carter was prepared to approve the agreement.

They claimed the spirit of the settlement had been violated in connection with contracts clubs offered to outstanding rookies.

The contracts are for less money than other top rookies have received. The players claim they are being forced into unfair long-term deals. The owners say the agreement required them to offer rookies minimum salaries but did not specify the length of contracts.

An injunction had been in force against the merger of the leagues. But after the tentative settlement was reached, an accommodation was worked out under which the New York Nets, Denver Nuggets, Indiana Pacers and San Antonio Spurs of the ABA would join the NBA. The agreement would be void if the suit were not settled.

In a related development, Carter refused Tuesday to issue a temporary restraining order against the merger. It had been requested by the ABA's St. Louis-Utah franchise, which along with Kentucky was not included in the merger.

WIBC sets seminar

SAN BERNARDINO — Two members of the Board of Directors of the Women's International Bowling Congress will conduct a WIBC Leadership Training Seminar, August 28-29, at the San Bernardino Hilton in San Bernardino.

Mrs. Agnes Duffy of Richmond, Ca., a WIBC national vice president, and Mrs. Elaine Hagin of Castro Valley, Ca., a director, will moderate the session, one of 17 scheduled across the country this summer. More than 100 women from a 200-mile radius of San Bernardino are expected to attend. The seminars are being held by WIBC to provide training and information to leaders of local women's bowling associations in rules, officers' duties, efficiency in office procedure, parliamentary techniques and problem-solving and human relations skills.

Registration forms are available from the local association president or secretary.

Bills' boss says O.J. will retire

LEWISTON, N.Y. (AP) — O.J. Simpson, the dominant running back in the National Football League for the past five years, will retire, according to Buffalo Bills owner Ralph Wilson.

"O.J. will retire from football without us making a deal for him this season," Wilson said Tuesday at the club's training camp at Niagara University.

Wilson said he has not had contact with the Los Angeles Rams in a week and negotiations to trade Simpson are stalled.

Simpson has said he would not play the 1976 season unless he is traded to a west coast club, because he wants to be near his family in Los Angeles.

The Rams reportedly offered Wilson running back Lawrence McCutcheon, wide receiver Jack Snow, safety Steve Preece and defensive tackle Bill Nelson in exchange for Simpson.

Last week Wilson said that was like offering "a Cadillac, a Toyota and a Datsun for a $46,000 Rolls Royce."

The Oakland Raiders and the San Francisco 49ers are the two other teams that could get Simpson.

"If the 49ers had Los Angeles' roster, we would have had a deal by now," said Wilson.

He does not consider Oakland to be a serious bidder for Simpson.

Poly women cagers recruit cage star

Cal Poly Pomona women's basketball coach Darlene May has announced the addition of Carol Groth to her 1976-77 basketball roster. Groth, a 6-1 center, will enroll at Cal Poly in the fall as a freshman.

"Carol has excellent potential," May said. "She can shoot very well and does a great job on rebounds. She is very coachable and eager to learn and I look forward to having her in our program."

Groth, a resident of Placentia, attended El Dorado High School where she led her high school basketball team to a league championship as well as a CIF-3A title last year.

She averaged 20 points per game in her senior year and broke two CIF records: most points scored in a season — 464, and best career scoring average — 20.1. Groth was the CIF Player of the Year in 3A girls' basketball, an All-League selection, an All-Star in the Cypress Basketball Tournament, the Most Valuable Player on El Dorado's team in 1975 and 1976, and was the 1975-76 Outstanding GAA Athlete.

In addition to her basketball talents, she competed in volleyball, softball, badminton, track, and swimming durng her high school career, as well as winning awards in art and music.

TIJUANA — Long-time star Manuel Capetillo, ace matador Eloy Cavazos, and young Humberto Moro Jr. have signed for the corrida Sunday in the downtown bullring, El Toreo de Tijuana.

Beginning at 4 p.m., each will face two bulls of Begonia

FAVORITE — Defending champ Jimmy Ellis of East Hampton, Conn. is among the favorites for the $30,000 Oly Superbowl of Motocross Saturday at Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles.

Top motorcrossers set for Oly 'Superbowl'

LOS ANGELES — Topping the list of final signings for Saturday $30,000 Oly Superbowl of Motocross in the Coliseum are previous Superbowl champions Jimmy Ellis, victor of all four AMA stadium motocross championships last year, and Marty Tripes, the only motocrosser ever to score two Superbowl victories (1972-73).

Ellis (East Hampton, Conn.) and Tripes (Santee, Calif.) head a list of 13 additional riders announced by Oly Superbowl promoter Mike Goodwin.

Included in the new signings are Gary Jones (Hacienda Heights, Calif.), America's only three-time national champ (250cc class — 1972-74); Japanese 125cc champions Yoshifumi Sugio and Yasuo Tohfukuji; Mike Runyard (Hacienda Heights, Calif.), Can-Am teammate of Jimmy Ellis and runner-up to Ellis in last year's 250cc Trans-AMA championships; and Steve Wise (McAllen, Texas), who scored his first national career win at the AMA 125cc nationals in Keysers Ridge, Md.

Previously - announced champions competing in Saturday's Oly 8 p.m. Superbowl are arty Smith (San Diego, Calif.), two-time AMA 125cc champ and victor at the recent world 125cc Grand Prix in Denmark; 250cc national champ Tony DiStefano (Morrisville, Penn.); and Brad Lackey (Pinole, Calif.), top-ranking American in current 500cc world Grand Prix standings.

Six-time world 250cc motocross champion Joel Robert of Belgium has also joined the field. The 34-year-old Robert completely dominated the world 250cc motocross scene for 10 years, winning world titles in 1964 and for five consecutive years between 1968 and 1972. Now racing almost exclusively in his native Belgium, Robert has scored 15 wins this year in international competition.

The Oly Superbowl, being held for the fifth successive year on a custom-designed track in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, is the final event in the five-race AMA Supercross Series. The overall Supercross championship is decided by cumulative scoring of all events.

With four of the major stadium events completed in Daytona, Houston, Dallas and Pontiac, Mich., the leaders in current standings are Jim Weinert (Laguna Beach) — 288 points, two-time AMA national 500cc champ; Kent Howerton (San Antonio, Texas) — 274 points, leader to this point on this year's 500cc national circuit; and Pierre Karsmakers (Mission Viejo) — 257 points, 1973 AMA 500cc champ. Weinert, Howerton and Karsmakers all will be racing at the Superbowl.

Jimmy Ellis, who last year swept all the events in the series, is fourth in this year's standings (with 221 points) — he stands very little chance of successfully defending his Supercross Series title.

Action begin at 8 p.m. Saturday with the first moto of the three-moto, 60-lap finale of Supercross 1976.

Springnationals to be televised

Shirley "Cha Cha" Muldowney's bid to become drag racing's first woman professional champion highlights television coverage of the National Hot Rod Association's history-making 12th annual Springnationals Saturday at 11 a.m. on KABC-TV, channel 7.

Muldowney, from Mt. Clemens, Mich., wages a 240-mile-an-hour duel with 15 top male rivals during the one-hour telecast which features the nation's top cars and drivers competing in side-by-side, tournament-style competition for eight different championships and a posted purse of $231,000.

Runner-up at the 1975 Springnationals and at the prestigious U. S. Nationals, Shirley's latest attempt to break

Spurrier gives Bucs experience

LOS ANGELES — Having had great success in the college ranks behind the play of outstanding quarterbacks, it was little surprise that John McKay would acquire a seasoned veteran to pilot his Tampa Bay Buccaneers in their initial campaign in the NFL.

Steve Spurrier, Heisman Trophy winner, holder of the single-game completion record for the San Francisco 49ers and a 52.5 percentage passer as a pro, is McKay's designated quarterback.

Steve was the principal player in the first trade consummated by the Bucs, joining Tampa in exchange for ex-Ram Willie McGee, Bruce Elia and a second round draft pick.

"Steve has the experience and leadership qualities that we need," said McKay as he prepared his charges for their first-ever contest against the Rams, July 31, in the Times Charity Game.

"The last two or three years I think my passing has actually gotten better," said Spurrier. "I'm 31, but I think I'm a young 31-year old player. We'll win more than most people think."

Tickets for the Charity Game at the Coliseum can be obtained at Pacific Stereo, 637 S. Hill St., Rams Office, 10271 W. Pico Blvd., Times Special Events, 212 W. First St., The Ticket Mart, 1303 Westwood Blvd., Sports Arena and all Mutual Ticket Agencies.

Free agent Kay may be Rams' starter

LOS ANGELES — It is likely that the Ram's Coliseum defensive lineup July 31 against the expansionist Tampa Bay Buccaneers will be comprised of 10 draftees, including five first-rounders and two seconds, and one free agent.

The lone man not drafted is 26-year-old Rick Kay, currently running No. 1 in the chase to be the club's regular left linebacker, a position held in 1975 by Ken Geddes, who departed for Seattle's new franchise in the expansion allocation.

That Kay is still a Ram today is a tribute to thorough evaluating of talent by the Los Angeles coaching staff back in 1973, Chuck Knox's first year as head coach. Knox has said often that "The most serious error a coach can make is a mistake in player personnel."

Two free agents made it in '63 as the Rams went 12-2 and won the NFC West. Kay and running back Bob Scribner both have contributed to the club's success.

"I remember that first camp," recalls Kay. "I had heard that free agents didn't have much chance to make it, so I just made up my mind I would go out to do my best. The first couple of days I was a defensive end, so when I was moved to linebacker, I had a lot of catching up to do.

"I knew I had my work cut out because the Rams had a lot of veteran linebackers, plus a couple they had drafted — Jim Youngblood and Jim Peterson. I'm just thankful the coaching staff here spends as much time with the free agents as it does with the veterans and the high draft choices."

Tom Catlin, who has handled the Ram linebackers for the last 11 years, says Kay caught the staff's eye with his quickness. "He's also an intelligent player and he has great range."

The difference between his rookie camp and the current one under way at Cal State Fullerton is considerable for Rick. He is the listed starter. He is the man to beat for the job. "I've got a lot of confidence now," says the graduate of Pacific High in San Bernardino, "but I know there is work to be done if I'm to keep the job. In fact, I think we have the best crop of linebackers since I've been here, but good competition makes for a better player."

Kay's primary competition will come from a man who is not even in camp. First round draft choice Kevin McLain of Colorado State is working out with the College All-Stars, who meet Pittsburgh Friday night, and he won't report until Saturday.

Kay also went to school in Colorado — at the University at BOULDER. The versatility he exhibited there would be evident later as a member of the Rams.

Kay has been a reserve linebacker for most of his Ram career, plus a valuable man on the special teams. It was on the kickoff team in a 1974 pre-season game at San Diego that Rick suffered a knee injury that required surgery and kept him out all year.

Mexican festival, rodeo in anniversary program

The 10th anniversary show of Tony Aguilar's National Mexican Festival and Rodeo opens a five-performance engagement at 8 p.m. Friday in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Other shows will be at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday and 2:30 and 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

The show stars Aguilar, his wife, Flor, and their sons, Tonito, 15, and Jose, 8, all singing and performing on horseback. The show marks the 10th tour of the United States and the 25th anniversary of the Aguilars' careers as Latin America film stars and recording artists.

The bilingual show features the debut of the mounted U.S. Indian all-girl precision drill team, the return of the performing buffalo Samuelito, the all-new Folklorico troupe's Aztec dances, and Bonnie Happy and her trick-riding colleagues.

Other performers in the two-hour show are international show horses, Mexican cowboys in trick-riding and roping routines, bronco busting and bull-riding feats and the San Miguel group of mariachi musicians.

Indian wars

Intermittent Indian wars were fought in the Eureka, Calif., area until the natives yielded to superior numbers of U.S. troops, in 1865.

MUSICAL TEAMING — Operatic and musical comedy star Patrice Munsel and singer Eartha Kitt share the spotlight, along with Howard Keel, Larry Kert and Milo O'Shea, in the Theater Guild production, "A Musical Jubilee," celebrating the American musical comedy. The show opens Monday at the Ambassador Auditorium in Pasadena and plays through Aug. 15.

Award-winning musical

'1776' comes alive at MSAC

The debates, fist fights, love affairs and agonies of the members of the Continental Congress come alive on stage in the musical "1776," to be presented Friday and July 29, 30 and 31 at Mt. San Antonio College.

The college and the Walnut Valley Lions Club will sponsor the production in the college's Little Theater at 8 each night.

The award-winning musical shows the events of the Congress between May and July, 1776, which result in the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The book was written by Peter Stone, a history teacher.

Among the leads are Terry Keenan of El Monte as John Adams; Terry Weiss of Pomona as Benjamin Franklin; Robert J. Morris of West Covina as John Dickinson; Brant Johnson of West Covina as Thomas Jefferson; Peter Trinceri of Hacienda Heights as Edward Rutledge; Scott Poindexter of San Dimas as Richard Henry Lee; Mary Daniels of Pomona as Abigail Adams; Melodee Sebenius of Azusa as Martha Jefferson.

Gary Toops, a MSAC instructor, is stage and musical director. Donald Smith has charge of set design and technical director.

This Saturday's performance is scheduled for only members of the Lions Club and their families; and an Aug. 1 matinee will be presented for the handicapped and senior citizens only, courtesy of the Walnut Lions Club.

The public performance tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children 12 and younger. Advance tickets are available by calling 629-9718, 598-2811, Ext. 361, or (213) 331-7266.

Musical stage still in use

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The scene in MGM's Stage 29 was enough to stir a movie fan into a paroxysm of nostalgia.

After all, 29, which is big enough to hide a blimp, was the site of endless musical numbers in the 1940-60 era when MGM's Leo was the indisputed king of the musical jungle. Eleanor Powell did her taps there, Kathryn Grayson and Jane Powell sang their hearts out. Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers staged their reunion for "The Barkleys of Broadway."

And in 1947 director Vincente Minnelli used Stage 29 for musical numbers with Judy Garland and Gene Kelly in the Cole Porter musical, "The Pirate." Among the visitors of the set was the Minnellis' young daughter, Liza.

Flash forward to 1976 and there is Liza Minnelli in a sleek black gown singing her heart out as an elevated stage rises before 600 cheering extras in tuxedos and evening gowns.

As in 1947, things went wrong. The camera boom went too far and knocked over a tableful of extras. The arc lamps in the catwalks took an interminable amount of time to light. And suddenly it was discovered that Liza's black gown could not be seen against the tuxedos of the Tommy Dorsey band. More delay while operatives scurried to find a white dress.

Martin Scorsese was overseeing all this with a nervous air. He is a small man with black beard, brooding Italian eyes and an intensity that matches his films ("Mean Streets," "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" "Taxi Driver"). Marlon Brando, who has never worked for him, recently termed Scorsese the best American director.

"This is all new to me," said the New York-born filmmaker as he surveyed the vast field of cast and crew. "I'm used to shooting in the streets of Manhattan, where it's much different.

"In New York you start setting up your camera and someone always says, 'Oh, shooting "Naked City," huh?' New Yorkers always think you're filming 'Naked City' even though the series has been off television for years.

"Then you have to shoot fast, because somebody's going to ruin your shot. New Yorkers don't give a damn whether you're trying to make a movie or not."

The name of Scorsese's new film is "New York, New York," produced by Robert Chartoff and Irwin Winkler for United Artists. Judging from the spectacle on Stage 29, the observer gets the impression that the big musical is back.

"But all of the numbers are on-stage in the picture," said the director, meaning that they are performed before audiences. He indicated that today's audiences will no longer believe that Gene Kelly could spontaneously go singing in the rain in a fully orchestrated and choreographed number.

Will the Hollywood musical come back?

"I don't know," Scorsese replied. "If it does, I think it will need a quality of believability. That's why I am striving to do in this picture what I did in 'Mean Streets,' 'Alice' and 'Taxi Driver' — to develop an interrelationship between the character so the situations seem real."

"Vicente Minnelli was the best director," he said unqualifiedly. "I liked (Stanley) Donen, too. Busby Berkeley was good, especially in the numbers that were stories in themselves. 'Forty-second Street' was about as good a musical can be. My favorites were the pictures that were really dramas with music, like 'The Man I Love' with Ida Lupino and 'Love Me or Leave Me' with Doris Day.

MUSICAL STAR — Rhonda Coullet stars as Rosamund in the West Coast premiere of the new musical "The Robber Bridegroom," the first production in the Mark Taper Forum's 10th anniversary season. Set in the Natchez Trace of the late 1800s, "The Robber Bridegroom" has a book and lyrics by Alfred Uhry, music by Robert Waldman and is directed by Gerald Freedman. It continues through Aug. 29.

Three artists at amphitheater

The Universal Amphitheater will feature three top artists during its evening concerts next week.

Roberta Flack and Jose Feliciano perform Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8:15 and Gordon Lightfoot is featured Thursday through Aug. 1.

Roberta Flack has gained world-wide prominence as a singer and won Grammy and other awards. Her albums include "First Take," "Second Take," "A Quiet Fire." She is now versatile as a producer, writer, arranger, choral background performer and conductor.

Feliciano will be special guest star on the program. His guitar artistry, a combination of Spanish, jazz, rock and soul, has earned him critical acclaim. The young Puerto Rican now wears the hats of recording artist, performer, songwriter and actor.

Lightfoot, one of the most prolific contemporary songwriters-singers of the times, returns to the Amphitheater this year for a four-day engagement.

Artists scheduled later on the summer concert series include Janis Ian and Billy Joel, Neil Sedaka and Melissa Manchester, Electric Light Orchestra, Barry Manilow and Lady Flash, Paul Williams, Judy Collins, Fleetwood Mac, Linda Ronstadt and Andrew Gold, Natalie Cole and Loggins and Messina.

JOSE FELICIANO

Bedford signed for 'Guardsman' role

Brian Bedford has been signed to star opposite Maggie Smith in "The Guardsman," the second production of the 10th anniversary season for the Center Theater Group of the Los Angeles Music Center's Ahmanson Theater.

Currently starring in Los Angeles in the award-winning drama "Equus," British actor Bedford began his professional career at the age of 21, playing "Hamlet" with the Liverpool Repertory Company.

Bedford received the Tony Award for best actor for his starring role in "The School For Wives."

Granger to play shrink

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Farley Granger has joined the cast of ABC's daytime drama, "One Life to Live."

Granger makes his first appearance July 14 in the role of Dr. Vernon, a psychiatrist. He began his career at 17 in Samuel Goldwyn's film "North Star" and appeared in more than 30 films.

APPRECIATION AWARD — Mrs. Patricia Stephenson, West Covina author, (left), and Mrs. Frances Grier, author residing at Mt. San Antonio Gardens, admire appreciation award presented Mrs. Grier for her service in world of literature and history.

Ex-librarian honored by U of Arizona Alumni

An outstanding service award has been presented by the University of Arizona to Mrs. Frances Powner Grier, a resident of Mt. San Antonio Gardens, Pomona, for her contributions to the library of the university in Tucson, Ariz.

The contributions include autographed and first edition books and other memorabilia, forming the nucleus of the university's Mark Twain Collection.

Mrs. Grier's father, president of the Charles T. Powner Co., a well-known book dealer and publishing house, before the turn of the century began to assemble things pertaining to Mark Twain.

The extensive collection sparked the interest of his daughter who graduated from high school in 1900 and later served as an officer in the publishing company based in Chicago.

Mrs. Grier moved to Tucson to continue her studies and became a librarian at the university. She has given many lectures about Mark Twain both in Arizona and in California. She moved to the Gardens 14 years ago.

Participating in the award presentation were two other authors and life members of the University of Arizona Alumni Association.

They are Mrs. Esther Bolton Black of Claremont, author of "Rancho Cucamonga and Dona Merced," and Mrs. Patricia Stephenson, author of a Mexican cookbook and related to Samuel Clemens whose pen name was Mark Twain.

The three women are members of the Claremont Branch of the National League of American Pen Women.

Women to join WIC unit

The Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Arbor Restaurant, Upland.

The speaker will be Margaret Heller of Oxnard, national director of WIC.

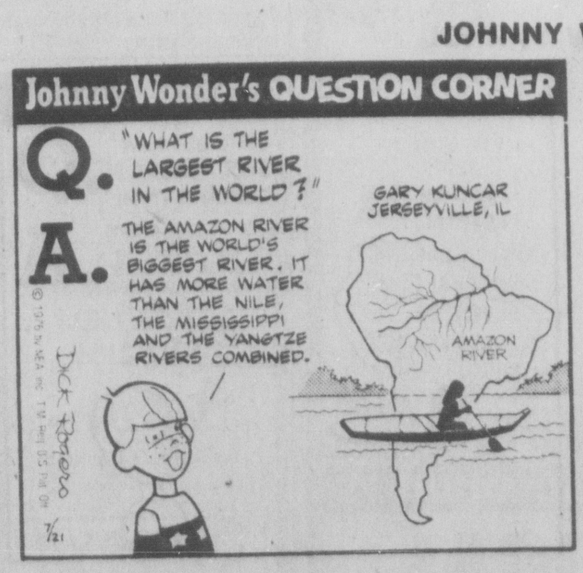
JOHNNY WONDER



The world's mightiest river is the Amazon, in South America. Only the Nile, in Africa, is longer than the Amazon.

But the Amazon carries more water than any other river. Its flow is greater than that of the Mississippi, the Nile and the Yangtze rivers combined.

The Amazon begins high in the Andes Mountains and empties into the Atlantic Ocean, 4,000 miles away. It sweeps across Brazil, gathering water from numerous streams.

At many places the Amazon is too wide to see across. In many places it is over 350 feet deep.

No river holds more kinds of fish. One of these is the man-eating piranha fish. The electric eel also lives there, and alligators, dolphins and giant turtles are common.

The river was named after the Amazons, the women warriors of Greek mythology. An early Spanish explorer gave the river its name after a battle with some Indians in which the women of the tribe fought alongside the men.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

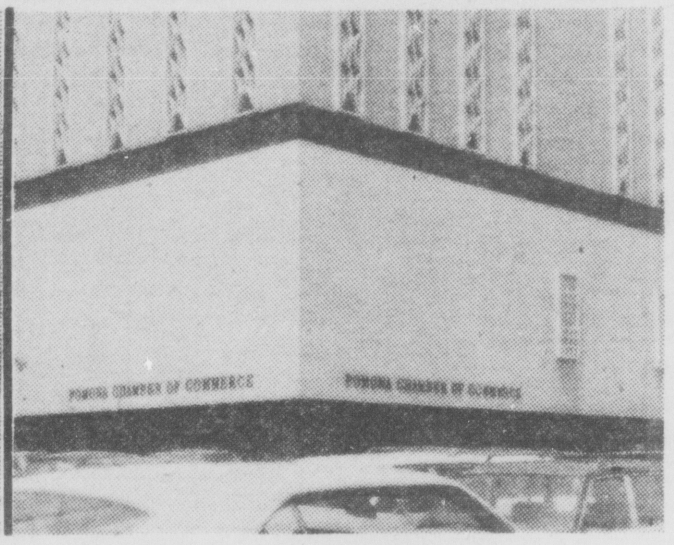
POMONA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

CHANGING CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN A CHANGING COMMUNITY



Frasher Collection, Pomona Public Library

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce has changed to keep pace with the changing needs of the community.

The Chamber is a volunteer association of business and professional people who unify through membership in the Chamber to further the interests and economic health of the entire community. The identified needs of the community, over the years, may be noted by those programs which the Chamber worked on most energetically at that time.

Early Chamber Community Promotion

In the early life of the community, growth was the major goal and, therefore, the Chamber, beginning in 1887, worked at promoting the new community. Booklets and pamphlets with glowing descriptions extolling the virtues of Pomona were printed and circulated nationally by the Chamber. Exhibits were sponsored at the Chicago World Fair of 1891 and St. Louis World's Fair of 1904. Advertising was run in San Francisco paper and weekly excursions from Los Angeles to Pomona were held.

Agricultural Interests Furthered

During the years that agriculture was the major industry of the area, the Chamber's activities reflected the needs of agriculturalists. For instance, the winter of 1913 was the occasion of a deadly frost which was very costly to the agriculture of the area, so the Chamber organized an effort to assure local weather forecasts. This gave the citrus growers a chance to protect their trees and crops.

Another project the Chamber worked on prior to World War I of importance to the farming community was flood control. They were able to achieve dams in the San Antonio wash. Good roads for the area was another Chamber project.

During the years of World War I the Chamber attracted war industries to Pomona, a forerunner of the industrial role of the city 50 years hence.

During the Great Depression the Chamber organized a program of prorating the work force to ease unemployment.

Housing critical during WWII

World War II brought an immense increase in the population of Pomona with a number of defense plants operating in the valley and an influx of military personnel who were stationed in the area. Pomona had a critical housing shortage during this period with residential building halted because of the war effort, and so the Chamber worked at providing housing for newcomers. Morale building and other war effort projects were top priority to the Chamber during these years.

Late in the war years, post-war economic planning was begun by the Chamber. Because of these efforts 27 new industries started operations in Pomona in 1946 while only two war-related industries left the area. The Chamber had been successful in its task of continuing high employment levels for the area.

Also during this era the Chamber was active in pushing freeway construction to the area. The Pomona Freeway was planned in 1949, and in 1954 the San Bernardino Freeway was dedicated through Pomona.

Healthy community means healthy business

Today the Chamber's emphasis is different because the community's needs are different, but the underlying philosophy remains the same—the Chamber is a voluntary organization of business and professional people who support its work through annual membership fees.

They believe that what is good for the community is good for business, that a healthy community means healthy business; and that businessmen, voluntarily associated in the Chamber can and even should work for the good of the community.

Therefore, the Chamber in Pomona is involved in many activities not traditionally thought to be the concern of a business group: housing, beautification, crime prevention, legislation at the state, county and federal levels, and education.

Other activities are more easily seen to be of direct benefit to the business community and are more often thought of as Chamber activities: industrial development, community image, and other programs to assist business.

Cooperative effort vital

One important point has been noted by the business community represented by the Chamber and that is the city government, school district, Chamber and other groups must work cooperatively. All are really working for the same goals.

This annual report to the community briefly describes some of the ways the Chamber in Pomona is attacking those problems that affect us all.

During the years that Pomona has changed from a quiet, small, rural, village to a busy, large, urban, industrial center, the Chamber has changed too, to meet the changed needs of the community. But throughout the years and throughout the changes the Chamber has actively and diligently worked for all of the community. The definition of its area of concern and activities that the Chamber leadership has followed throughout the years is a broad definition, not a narrow one. And that has not changed.

Chamber Gets Job Done In Government

The Chamber has been actively representing the community and business in political affairs.

The actions of legislative bodies outside of Pomona can and do have direct bearing on the economy and well-being of Pomona. The Chamber, therefore, has spent time and effort studying, evaluating, suggesting and testifying about various bills, ballot propositions and legislative issues.

The Chamber has also been active in maintaining two-way communications with our elected representatives. Each elected official has, at least once in the past year, spoken to the Chamber. A number of the Chamber leaders have made trips to Sacramento, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C., where they have met with our elected representatives. Results of surveys of the membership on a number of legislative issues have been sent to our legislators as well as formal positions taken by the board of directors on various bills.

The Legislative Action Committee has thoroughly studied a number of legislative issues this year, including public employee collective bargaining, school finance, land use, and tax measures.

The Chamber actively opposed the common-situs picketing bill. This bill would have enabled a single union having a contract dispute to shut down an entire construction site. This would have added significantly to construction costs and have brought construction to a standstill. The Chamber Board took a strong negative position on this bill and contacted Representative James Lloyd and Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney. Individual members of the Chamber also contacted our elected representatives. The bill was defeated by Congress.

Garey On Ramp

Chamber President Lynn Rountree, Mayor Ray Lepire and Director of Public Works Ron Kranzer testified at State Highway Commission hearings in April regarding realignment of the South Garey Avenue on-ramp to the Pomona Freeway.

The Chamber had been working on the matter and had been in touch with state officials about it for some time. The existing on-ramp is both unsightly and dangerous. Traffic must merge from two lanes into one lane, cross the Corona Expressway by turning left, and then make an immediate right hand turn to reach the west-bound Pomona Freeway lanes. After the hearing, the State Highway Commission allocated $250,000 for the realignment project. Construction is expected to begin this summer.

Chamber Effort Saves Residents $3,000 In Additional Sales Taxes

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce successfully opposed L.A. County Supervisor Baxter Ward's Sunset Coastline Rapid Transit Proposal and Propositions R and T on the June 8th ballot. The measures would have raised the sales tax in Los Angeles County one cent to build a fixed rail rapid transit system.

The proposed transportation system would have been built over a 30 year period and would have cost the taxpayers of L.A. County at least $23 billion. The Chamber believed that a one cent sales tax increase in Los Angeles County would have a devastating economic impact on Pomona's business condition. Further, it would restrict any future bonding capabilities of local government over the next 30 years. All this without any immediate benefit to this end of the county, which would not receive any increased transit or be part of the rapid transit system.

Leadership Retreat

The second annual Leadership Retreat was held by the Chamber at Rancho California in April. Members of the Board of Education, City Council, Board of Directors of the Chamber, business and staff members were brought together for the purpose of seeking joint solutions to problems affecting Pomona's growth, stability and liveability.

These annual retreats are arranged to get all together in one place (for a long enough period of time to really grapple with the issues), those who are in a position to make and implement decisions. Pomona is one city with one set of problems and one set of resources, City government, the school district and businessmen have the responsibility as well as the authority to work on the problems using the available resources. The Chamber believes that it is essential for an efficient allocation of resources and realistic setting of priorities for the entire leadership of the community to work together. The Chamber believes that all three groups (as well as the community as a whole) benefit immeasurably from these working sessions in which the leadership of the community works, without interruption, for two days.

At last year's retreat it was agreed that the three major problems facing the community which had top priority were community image, crime prevention and beautification. Having set priorities at the retreat, committees were later formed in each area, detailed plans and studies were completed, funding for the programs was set, implementation was started and the three programs are now in various stages of completion.

This year's retreat participants considered three major areas: economic development, residential development and education. Priorities were set and means of implementation were considered at the retreat.

Ad Hoc Committees are presently being organized and will begin holding meetings this summer.

Chamber Testifies at APCD Hearing

Chamber President Lynn Rountree presented testimony at the February APCD hearing opposing the suggested new source review rules. The suggested rules had been studied by the Chamber Urban Planning and Land Use subcommittee. They found the proposed new rules to be, in effect, a tightly restrictive no-growth policy.

In testifying as to the expected effects of the rules on Pomona, Rountree stated, "the rules, if adopted would seriously hamper the major industrial redevelopment program in Pomona. Our goal in redevelopment is to attract new, clean industries which will be able to employ our existing labor force".

The APCD is presently changing and redrafting the rules because of the protest.

Crime Ad Hoc Committee Reports

The Chamber was deeply involved in the Crime Ad Hoc Committee. Members met to discuss the problem of crime in the community and ways in which to effectively deal with the situation. The findings and recommendations of the joint committee were made public this spring. Specific recommendations included reassignment of patrol areas, juvenile diversion coordination and formation of neighborhood groups.

Major Crime Drops in Pomona

Major crime in Pomona dropped sharply in the first three months of the year. While major crime rose four percent during the first quarter of 1976 nationally statistics from the FBI showed a 5.5 percent decrease in Pomona for the same period. Homicide was down 81.8 percent; rape down five percent; and residential burglary was down 14.3 percent.

Chamber Brings Politicians to People for Government Day

The five elected representatives for Pomona, (U.S. Senator Alan Cranston, Congressman James Lloyd, County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, State Senator Ruben Ayala and Assemblyman William McVittie) the Pomona City Council and the Pomona School Board were together on Thursday, October 16 for the Pomona Chamber's Government Day.

The day began with luncheon at which the state, county, and federal representatives were the speakers. Each of the elected representatives spoke on the program of legislation coming to their body in the following session as well as particular problems which each legislator hoped to attack. New laws and bills passed by the various houses were analyzed and critqued by the legislators.

After lunch, all of the elected officials held office hours in Pomona City Hall, giving any citizen the chance to ask questions of any level of government official.

Meetings between our local government and the upstream representatives were held later in the afternoon, chaired by School Board President, Don Donnelly and Mayor Ray Lepire. The discussion between representatives of all levels of government covered a wide range of specific topics, all of which were parts of the basic purpose of the meetings: ways to increase the effectiveness of government through improved communications and cooperation of the various levels. Also discussed were problems experienced by local government and the school district in dealing with the result of federal, state, and/or county legislative action. Also considered were ways to deal in unison with problems with the bureaucracy.

The Chamber Government Day was the first time any group has brought together all levels of government. The purpose, to meet together face to face and to meet with the community, was well received. Participants commented repeatedly throughout the day that the effort being so worthwhile, it was hoped that the idea would spread.

Industrial Expansion

A healthy and increasing industrial trend is continuing for Pomona. All major industrial buildings are occupied, those available have been sold to new incoming industry and local industrial park space is at a premium. Further, local industry is expanding to meet new market demands. And with the healthy national economic conditions projected and inflation curtailed, industry is again beginning to find new site locations for expansions and relocations.

Major industrial construction over the past twelve months include:

50,000 square feet — new addition to Richter Manufacturing
7,500 square feet — addition to Pomona Textile
35,000 square feet — expansion to V.C.A.
10,000 square feet — expansion to Moreno Ceramics
8,960 square feet — expansion to Industrial Park
4,080 square feet — expansion to Woodland Products
10,000 square feet — expansion to Tidi Products
11,200 square feet — expansion for Recycling Resources
$150,000 plant improvement to Brockway Glass
3,000 square feet — addition to Hordstrom-Kiln
104,939 square feet — addition to Foothill Beverage
35,000 square feet — new distribution warehouse for Xerox

In all, over 300,000 square feet of new industrial facilities resulting from local expansion have been built this year.

Further, gains in the commercial/professional market are on the increase as reflected in Pomona's building permits. New major additions to Pomona include: Acapulco Restaurant, Mallery and Nowack Attorney Offices, Klopfenstein & Smeltzer facilities and Stater Bros. Shopping Center.

Building permits are also showing an increase. In 1975, permits for the first six months numbered 1,002 for $3,587,615; 1976 permits for the first six months numbered 1,044 for $4,933,187.

The difference in dollars shows a 37 percent increase over last year at this time, which indicates an upward trend in major construction occurring within the city.

Discover Pomona!

The Discover Pomona Campaign, a 10½ month community image effort, began in the middle of January. It has included a monthly newsletter, with a circulation of 24,000, radio and newspaper advertising, contests, special events and a slide presentation which has been shown to some 1,000 people thus far. Bumper stickers have been given to adults and 2,000 bright orange balloons with the Discover Pomona logo have been given to children at Pomona parks and special events. The campaign will continue through November with a number of special events planned. Newsletters and further information is available at the Chamber office (622-1256).

The campaign is an example of the cooperative spirit within this community. Conceived at the leadership retreat, it has been funded and implemented through the combined efforts of the city, school district, Chamber, Board of Realtors, and several Pomona businesses.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Brought into Pomona as a result of the Education Committee's efforts, there were eight J.A. companies with 226 Pomona students this year. They manufactured and marketed a variety of products, and learned by experience to deal with many of the same realities and problems that businessmen face. Plans are being made for next year's J.A. program.

BUSINESS CONSULTING SERVICE

Volunteer retired and active businessmen are counseling small businessmen in Pomona. A local chapter of SCORE/ACE has been formed, under the direction of the Small Business Administration. This chapter is located in the Chamber office.

Business experts with many years experience are available to counsel small businesses which are experiencing some difficulties or desire expert advice. There is no charge for the service. Further information is available by calling 622-8484.

TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE

Cooperation between the three cities of Pomona, Claremont and La Verne has resulted in an effort to withdraw from the Southern California Rapid Transit District and to join the West Valley Transit Service Authority for transportation services.

State legislation has been drafted and submitted to both the Senate and Assembly Transportation Committees. It is the objective of the joint effort to unite the available valley-wide transportation systems into one service to better serve the needs of Pomona Valley citizens. Community representatives will be meeting with S.C.R.T.D. officials to urge their support of the program.

INDUSTRIAL TOURS

To better acquaint key officials, city commissioners, and staff members on the numerous and diversified products manufactured in Pomona and problems of business, city representatives participated in the Chamber's City Officials' Tour. Manufacturing facilities visited included Northwest Paper Corporation, General Dynamics, Revere Extruders, and the Progress Bulletin.

In April, key representatives of the industrial development profession from Southern California were invited by the Chamber to Pomona to personally tour Pomona's industrial land inventory and review Pomona's many assets; which are accountable for attracting many national manufacturing firms to Pomona. Work sessions were held with city staff, local businessmen and developers, and Pomona's Industrial Land Inventory and Statistics publication was distributed.

INDUSTRIAL REDEVELOPMENT DISTRICT

The study area bounded on the north by Mission Blvd, the south by the Pomona freeway, west by Reservoir, east by the city line, has been identified as a desirable Industrial Redevelopment District.

The purpose of the district is to remove, over a period of time, non-conforming industrial use; and to accommodate industry looking for major Southern California sites.

With the direct ability to assist industry in its relocation and/or expansions, Pomona will gain in additional jobs, salaries, payroll and spendable income.

Beautification

The Beautification Ad Hoc Committee has recently incorporated as a non-profit organization and has chosen a board of directors. During the past they have developed plans for the beautification of the city including street landscaping, undergrounding of utilities and entry markers. During the coming year the thrust will be for increasing citizen involvement. The group sponsored the Pomona Home Beautiful contest which recognized a number of homes for well kept exteriors and a number for major improvements. Two entire blocks in Pomona were also given recognitions for outstanding care and beauty.

The committee is now forming subcommittees and asking for citizen involvement.

CAREER EDUCATION

A committee for Career Education was recently formed, made up of representatives of the school district and Chamber. This group was formed in response to a need identified during the Chamber's Future in Business Day program.

The committee is seeking to develop a career education program which, when implemented, will result in our Pomona Unified School District students being more aware of the choices in the working world and how their interests and abilities will fit into this framework. The committee hopes to develop a program which will help students to have realistic expectations of the world of business and to be better motivated employees. The committee hopes also to encourage closer relations between the student and the business world and the teacher and the business world through contact and exploration of different types of work.

FUTURE IN BUSINESS DAY

On April 29, 300 high school juniors and seniors spent the day working at a job which matched their career goals. Each of the students had been interviewed by a member of the Chamber Education Committee which sponsored the day, to best place each student in his chosen field. The students not only learned by doing but were able to get answers to such questions as what skills and education are needed, what working conditions are like and what career opportunities exist in various fields.

Teacher Internship Program

At the recommendation of the Chamber's Education Committee, five teachers were placed in local businesses for a period of five days to expand and update their knowledge of business practices through on-the-job training. These vocational education teachers then returned to their classrooms to pass on their information to students.

Chamber Recognizes Long Term Businesses

In this Bicentennial year, the Chamber, at the Annual Installation and Recognition Banquet, gave special recognition plaques to those businesses which have been located in Pomona for fifty years or more.

The officers and board of directors of the Pomona Chamber wish to express their appreciation to these firms for their years of dedication and service to the community.

The Chamber had the pleasure of giving a special award to Claude W. Edwards, President and Chief Executive Officer of ALPHA BETA from 1944.

In 1922 Mr. Edwards, a senior at Pomona High School, was injured playing football on the high school team, the Pomona Cardinals. Due to the injury, he was unable to graduate from high school that year and took a job in a local grocery store — Gerrard's Triangle Groceteria (using the Alpha Beta system).

He has been honored many times by the business community and the academic community. Mr. Edwards, among his many honors has an honorary doctorate from Biola University. He does not, however, have his high school diploma from Pomona High School. This omission he has noted to colleagues at Alpha Beta when receiving other awards. The Chamber was honored to correct this omission — by presenting Mr. Edwards with a diploma from Pomona High School, presented at the banquet by C. Allan Braswell, Pomona Unified School District Board member.

Following are those businesses which have been identified as having served Pomona since 1926 or earlier.

In 1864, the Rancho San Jose Abajo was started by Louis Phillips. Dudley Phillips operates the present PHILLIPS LAND & CATTLE COMPANY located in the Progress Bulletin building.

POMONA BRICK CO. was founded in 1873 at West 9th Street and Buena Vista, the location of the business today. Presently owned by S. Bernard Strona, Pomona Brick is the oldest continuous business in Pomona, still operating under the same name at the same location after 103 years.

POMONA CEMETERY ASSOCIATION was founded in 1882 by the Odd Fellows Lodge. Originally occupying a small parcel of land at Franklin and Towne, the grounds now cover 80 acres. Robert Ranck is present manager.

In 1885, the Sunset Telephone and Telegraph Co. was established at 2nd Street and Park Avenue. Pomona Valley Telephone and Telegraph Union, known as Home Telephone Co., was established in 1902. The two later merged and became part of GENERAL TELEPHONE. General Telephone Division Manager is Al Smith.

The Progress began in 1886, later merging with The Bulletin to become the PROGRESS BULLETIN. The original location was at the corner of Main and 2nd Streets. Bob Bush is General Manager.

The First National Bank of Pomona in 1886, opened at 301 West 2nd Street. The next year, the bank purchased for $7,000 its present site at the northwest corner of 2nd and Main and erected in 1889, a three story brick building. Now part of UNITED CALIFORNIA BANK doing business at the same site. Frank Carr is presently a Vice President with the bank.

In 1886 Allen P. Nichols opened a law office in Pomona. A few years later he was joined in partnership by R. K. Pitzer. Their office was on the southeast corner of Thomas and Second. In 1913 Mr. Pitzer left the practice of law to concentrate on the orange business and Mr. Nichols took as partners Burt Cooper and A.L. Hickson. The firm of NICHOLS, STEAD, BOILEAU AND LAMB has three generations of practicing attorneys. Robert Hickson, son of the original partner and his son David Hickson are presently with the firm along with Donald Nichols, Allen Nichols' son.

POMONA FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN was opened December 24, 1892. The original name was Mutual Building and Loan Association with C.I. Lorbeer as first secretary. It was located at 260 S. Thomas Street. W.F. Montgomery is now president.

Justin Williams, owner of WILLIAMS SIGNS CO. at 111 S. Huntington is the fourth generation of his family to be in business in Pomona. His great grandfather, A.J. Clogston had a carriage shop on Third Street in 1893. His father and grandfather, Maurice G. Williams and Elgin Williams were painting contractors here in Pomona who in 1930 started the sign business.

Another firm started before the turn of the century is WRIGHT BROS. AND RICE, founded in 1898 by J.K. Wright, A.L. Wright and C.E. Rice on the corner of 2nd and Garey. The move to the present location at 252 S. Main occurred about 1932. Norman C. Rice is present owner and manager.

POMONA BAKERY was founded around the turn of the century by B.K. Galbreath. The present owner is Larry Cooper.

Albert C. Gerrard opened Gerrard's Meat Market at 297 W. Second in 1900. Later, using the name Gerrard's Triangle Groceteria using the Alpha Beta system, the grocery store was located at 329 W. Second. The Alpha Beta system of alphabetical shelving of groceries became the first self service grocery, and then under the name ALPHA BETA, the first self service chain.

CLARK BROTHERS GARAGE was founded in 1901 by G. Earl Clark. It was located at 125 S. Main St. The firm was the first Oldsmobile dealership in the country. Now owned by Don Clark, the company is located at 1100 East Holt Avenue.

Pomona Gas and Electric Company formed in 1902 and the Southern Counties Gas Company established in 1915 at Third and Garey, later became SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GAS COMPANY, still located on Third near Garey. F. Ben Wilson is district manager.

A train wreck on Christmas Eve, 1899 brought about the founding of Pomona Valley Hospital in 1904 by Eliza B. Radbury. The first building was a 2½ story house on West Piedmont Street which could serve twelve patients. The present medical center admitted over 14,000 patients last year. It is now a 17 acre facility with a yearly operating budget of 22 million dollars. Last year the hospital got a new look inside and out with the completion of a 8.5 million dollar expansion program. Robert Burwell is Vice President and Administrator of POMONA VALLEY COMMUNITY HOSPITAL.

In 1906, Dr. A. Tenney Smith opened his practice of optometry in Pomona. Dr. Clifford Harn succeeded Dr. Smith in 1926.

In 1946 DR. ROBERT KETTENHOFEN joined the practice. Dr. Harn retired in 1965.

In February of 1906, JOHN P. EVANS' store was founded at the same site it now occupies, 269 Pomona Mall West. John A. Evans is now owner of the store which is four times the size of the original shop.

W.B. Todd's Undertaking Office was established in 1907. The original site was at 570 N. Garey, as is the present TODD MEMORIAL CHAPEL. Grace Todd is the president of the company today.

David Ewart founded The Hub—D. Ewart & Son in July 1908 at 362 W. Second. Robert Ewart is present owner of EWART'S MEN'S STORE.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA EDISON COMPANY opened in 1908 at 330 S. Thomas Street. Charles McDaniel is district manager.

James G. Ferrell opened his insurance agency at 107 S. Thomas in 1909. THE FERRELL AGENCY is now at 320 S. Thomas. Dayton Kling is the manager.

In 1917, the AUTO CLUB OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA was established here. They began business in a room in the Chamber of Commerce office at Second and Thomas. R.E. Schmidt is now manager.

In the fall of 1919, six laundry owners and their families gathered at Fallbrook for a picnic, and decided to pool their experience and their 14 laundries to form SOUTHERN SERVICE COMPANY. CHAMBER LEADERS REPORT

Lynn Rountree

Chamber Expands Service Activities

The business and social climate of Pomona continues to improve, reflecting the cooperation and enthusiasm of the many people who have made this happen.

This year has been both exciting and productive, and the accomplishments represent the efforts of many. Businessmen, city officials and staff, and the board of education and staff have all worked together to achieve the results which this publication outlines.

My fellow officers, directors and staff personnel of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce join me in offering sincere congratulations and recognition to all those whose outstanding community leadership during this past year made this successful effort possible.

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce continues to expand its service activities in the community. During the past year, there has been extensive activity in the areas of beautification of the city, cooperation with the local public schools, lowering of crime rates, occupancy of residences and in community image.

These efforts have been made while at the same time the important business of assisting and furthering business and industry has continued at full speed. Such efforts, of course, have a direct relationship to the general welfare of Pomona and are thus reflected in the business arena.

It has been a good year and I am appreciative of having had the opportunity to serve as President of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce during the past year. I thank you all.

LYNN ROUNTREE
PRESIDENT
POMONA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
1975-76

Aggressive Chamber Programs to Continue

For many months a new spirit of optimism about Pomona's future has pervaded every avenue of our community. By pulling together we have reached a new plateau from which we can springboard into a new era of economic growth.

There is new construction under way, business and industries are expanding, more houses are being bought and occupied, real estate values are climbing, developers are taking a new look at the economic potential of the community, and more.

All activities under way or proposed indicate that the tooling up that has been accomplished in the past year is approaching the action stage.

The business barometers, the commitments in progress and on the drawing boards indicate to us in the Pomona Chamber of Commerce that the year ahead will not only be one of the busiest in the history of the Chamber but will be one of the most productive.

Economic expansion of the city, which is so important in underwriting the essential city and school services, will be one of the primary goals of the Chamber this year. At the same time we will continue our emphasis on improving the community image, beautification, redevelopment, restoration of the downtown mall and re-establishing vacated shopping centers. While striving to encourage new business and industry to locate here we want to keep the commerce and industry we have and will work with them to help solve their problems.

The Chamber's proposed program of work for the new year is ambitious and challenging. It can only be accomplished with the wholehearted support of the business, professional and industrial community. Membership in the Chamber of Commerce is the best way of insuring that the volunteer men and women who are carrying forth the policies and programs of the organization can achieve the results we all desire, a better life for all who live, work and play in Pomona.

POMONA SALES LEADER IN THE VALLEY

Pomona showed a growth of taxable sales of 6.9 per cent during 1975 according to the State Board of Equalization. Taxable sales in Pomona in 1974 totaled $301,072,000. The total in 1975 was $322,082,000, representing 38 per cent of the total valley sales. Ontario, with a 19.3 per cent share of valley sales had a taxable sales total of $164,057,000 while Montclair with an 18 per cent share of valley sales totaled $153,199,000.

Ballot Measures Recommended

The Legislative Action Committee carefully studied all 15 of the ballot measures for the June 8 election. Del Pfiefer, representing the committee, reported the committee's voting recommendations to the Board of Directors; who after a full discussion, voted on them. These became the Chamber's recommendations and were reported to the membership in a special edition of "Pomona Outlook."

Property Values Rise in Pomona

Residential property increased in value in Pomona this year and also apparently increased in desirability with more homes being sold even at the higher prices. The first quarter of 1976 saw 368 homes sold compared to 202 during the same time period in 1975. The average cost for a two bedroom home for the first quarter last year was $18,915, increasing to $22,056 this year.

Three bedroom homes, by far the most popular size for persons buying in Pomona, increased from an average of $23,429 in 1975 to $26,066 in 1976. Market time for two bedroom homes dropped from 91 days last year to 67 days this year; three bedroom homes, 71 to 65 days.

INFORMATION SERVICES

The Pomona Chamber provides information services not only about Pomona, but also to Pomonans.

Public information questions can often be answered by calling the Chamber. The Chamber has brochures and information sheets on local points of interest, churches, schools, restaurants, city services, elected officials, etc.

In addition, the Chamber publishes a number of information booklets including: "Data Pomona", "The Community Economic Profile" and "Clubs and Organizations Directory".

SBA MANAGEMENT SEMINARS

Three late afternoon management seminars have been given at the Chamber on retail liquor store management, marketing and sales promotion, and time management. A four-session management seminar was held in February for owners and managers of small businesses. Topics covered included sales, planning, budgeting and forecasting, purchasing and materials, management and advertising.

VITAL ISSUES LUNCHEONS

Senator John Tunney was the speaker in August, and County District Attorney John Van de Kamp spoke in November at Vital Issues Luncheons. In October, Government Day was held with a luncheon, inter-governmental meetings and public office hours. Participants were: Senator Cranston, Congressman Lloyd, Supervisor Schabarum, State Senator Ayala, Assemblyman McVittie, Mayor Lepire, City Council and school board.

Chambers Consumer Relations Bureau

Four years ago the Pomona Chamber of Commerce established the Consumer Relations Bureau to assist shoppers. The businesses realized that consumers do have occasional complaints and the merchants wanted to be able to resolve these problems locally.

Since 1971 the Consumer Relations Bureau has been handling up to 300 problems annually and has successfully resolved over 95 percent of them. The program, which is funded by merchants, attempts to get the consumer and the merchant to sit down together and discuss problem areas.

The Bureau has a simple one-page complaint form for the consumer to fill out. A copy of this is sent to the merchant, who is asked to contact and discuss the problem with the customer. The store manager can usually correct the problem or at least provide a satisfactory explanation to the customer.

The Consumer Relations Bureau suggests that in order to minimize problems, consumers should get all guarantees in writing, keep all receipts and cancelled checks, refuse to be rushed into a decision by a salesperson, and go to the department manager or store manager if problems arise. The Bureau also suggests that merchants listen to customers' problems and realize that most are sincere in their complaints and that a customer will be the best or worst advertisement for a business, depending on how their problem is handled.

Chamber Group in Sacramento

A number of members of the Legislative Action Committee spent two days in Sacramento in March to attend the California Chamber Legislative Conference and to meet with our elected representatives and state officials.

They had eight meetings with legislators and officials in which they discussed juvenile justice reform, school finance, health care and MediCal, medical malpractice insurance, and public transportation.

Committee Attends Supervisor's Session

The Legislative Action Committee made a one day trip to Los Angeles to the Board of Supervisors in July. The group attended a session of the board and met with members of Supervisor Pete Schabarum's staff. Discussion covered transportation and Southern California Rapid Transit District, the juvenile justice system, and the role of the county in providing health services.

Ayala & Mc Vittie Meet with Board

Assemblyman Bill McVittie and State Senator Ruben Ayala each met with the Chamber Board in July. Each presented major points of the past legislative year in the legislative branch in which he served and the particular committees on which he served. A number of pending bills were discussed as was probable major legislative items for the coming year.

Blast kills British envoy to Ireland

Woman secretary also dies as auto strikes land mine

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Britain's ambassador to Ireland was killed in Dublin today when a land mine blew up his car. A woman secretary also was killed and a top British official from Northern Ireland was critically wounded.

Ambassador Christopher Ewart-Biggs and Judith Cooke died in the blast that hit the car as it came out the gates of the ambassador's mansion on the outskirts of Dublin. Brian Cubbon, the visiting official from Belfast, and the chauffeur were critically injured.

Ewart-Biggs, 54, a monocle-wearing Oxford graduate and novelist, came to his post here from Paris less than two weeks ago. He is believed to be the first British official killed in the Irish republic since the Irish war of independence in the early 1920s. The British Embassy in Dublin was burned four years ago by a mob enraged when British paratroopers killed 13 unarmed civilians during a demonstration in Northern Ireland.

Irish Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave held an emergency meeting with his cabinet and said his government viewed the killings "with shock and revulsion." Irish officials canceled their attendance at public functions and ordered flags lowered to half-staff on all public buildings.

"The atrocity fills all decent Irish people with a sense of shame," said Cosgrave. "The government is determined that all the resources at its disposal will be used to ensure that the perpetrators are brought to justice and face the full rigors of the law."

In London, a Foreign Office spokesman said, "We have all been gravely shocked and grieved at the news, but we do not have full details." The spokesman said British Prime Minister James Callaghan would make a statement in the House of Commons later today.

The Cosgrave statement said he had personllay expressed "condolences and regrets" to Callaghan.

Police said it was too soon to say whether the explosion was the work of the Irish Republican Army, the outlawed underground army waging a guerrilla war of bombs and bullets — violence aimed at ending British rule in Northern Ireland and uniting it with the republic.

Officials said Miss Cooke was private secretary to Cubbon, who is responsible for implementing Britain's continuing direct rule in Northern Ireland. They had traveled here Tuesday night from Belfast on what was described as a routine familiarization trip. Cubbon is regarded as the right-hand man to Merlyn Rees, the British minister directly responsible for Northern Ireland.

In the confusion after the explosion on a road about 150 yards from the gates of the ambassador's residence, first reports said the explosion was due to a booby-trap bomb in the car. Later, it was established that the car ran over a land mine.

A passing janitor, Jim Markin, said he saw two men running across an adjoining field after the explosion.

"I was coming round a corner when I heard a tremendous bang," he said. "I ran toward it and saw two men sprinting across the fields. One of them wore a blue hat."

He said police were on the scene "within seconds."

The blast occurred just after the ambassador's car came out of the gates of the secluded mansion on the southern outskirts of Dublin and into Murphystown Road, en route to the British Embassy about eight miles away.

The car, a Jaguar, was thrown into the air and landed upside down in the crater where the mine had been buried.

Two Irish detectives were following the ambassador in another car. The blast shattered their windshield, but they were not hurt.

Police immediately sealed off the area while a helicopter hovered above the scene. Murphystown Road was blocked by the crater and the car lying on its back.

The blast hurled rubble 100 yards away. First estimates were that several hundred pounds of explosives had been used in the mine.

Walkout closes canning plants

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A harvesttime strike is under way by the workers who process most of the nation's canned tomatoes, apricots, peaches and fruit cocktail.

The walkout on Tuesday shut down 76 plants which handle 95 per cent of California's canning production. Up to 70,000 cannery workers are employed at the peak of the harvest season, which is now getting under full steam.

Agricultural leaders appealed to President Ford to intervene with a Taft-Hartley injunction for an 80-day cooling-off period.

Shortly after the walkout began, Director James F. Scearce of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service summonded both sides to Washington for talks Thursday.

"It is extremely important that every effort be made to settle this dispute as quickly as possible in order to avert the loss of food crops," Scearce said.

Ross Wurm of Califoria Processors, Inc., said California produces all of the nation's canned apricots, cling peaches and fruit cocktail.

The state also turns out about 85 per cent of the tomatoes, including peeled tomatoes, tomato juice, catsup and tomato sauce, produced in the United States, Wurm said.

Cannery representatives said there is no way to estimate the immediate effects the strike will have on the prices of the affected vegetable and fruit products.

The processors, however, have larger supplies than usual sitting in warehouses and that could toughen their bargaining stand.

Freddy F. Sanchez, chief negotiator for the California Council of Cannery and Food Processing Unions, said he will go to Washington for the talks but that "in the interval, the strike will continue."

Among the major national food processors affected by the walkout are Del Monte, Gerber's, Hunt's and Libby's.

"Millions of dollars worth of fruit and tomatoes will rot on the ground," Fred Heringer, president of the California Farm Bureau, said in urging federal intervention. "These losses ultimately will be felt in every household in America in the form of higher food prices."

Bill Thomas of California Food Processors predicted that a strike lasting just one week would mean $21 million in grower losses.

The Farm Bureau has estimated that a six-week strike could cause $1 billion in losses to California's agricultural industry — the nation's biggest farm state, which has already been hit with an estimated $1 billion in losses from a severe drought.

The 13 Teamster union locals involved have asked for increases of about $3 per hour over a three-year period.

Amin troops in rebellion

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Two battalions of Ugandan soldiers have rebelled against President Idi Amin, according to a report today in Kenya's leading newspaper which quoted anonymous sources.

The paper said the 2,000 soldiers vowed to "fight to the death" against Amin after they were ordered to invade Kenya. There was no confirmation of the report.

There was no immediate indication of the manner in which the soldiers allegedly rebelled.

Relations between the two nations have worsened since Israel's commando raid on Entebbe airport to free kidnap hostages. Amin claimed Kenya helped the Israelis.

Radio Uganda renewed the charge of collaboration Tuesday, but quoted Amin as saying he would never attack Kenya. "The Kenyans are our brothers in blood," the broadcast quoted Amin as saying.

Viking detects nitrogen, argon gases

Hint life could flourish on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Viking 1 robot probe has detected nitrogen and argon gases in the Martian atmosphere in sufficient abundance to make scientists more optimistic that life could flourish there.

While not providing any evidence of life, past or future, the discovery by the probe as it descended toward Tuesday's historic Mars landing suggest that Mars had a denser, more life-nurturing environment in the past.

Together with Viking's findings from orbit that water once flowed in rivers on the planet, the discovery of nitrogen means that all the essential factors for life could have been present at some time, said Project Scientist Dr. Gerald Soffen.

"The 'stewpot' was there to do the kind of organic chemistry required for biogenesis (synthesis of living organisms),' ' said Soffen. "Whether it took place or not we don't know."

The presence of argon, an inert gas also found in the Earth's atmosphere, is given off by the radioactive decay or elements in the planet's crust. The fact that Mars has a relatively large abundance now, said Dr. Michael McElroy of Harvard University, indicates the atmosphere at one time was much denser.

From the abundance of argon, it can be deducted that nitrogen must have been present early in the planet's history, he told a news conference.

"If you look at what we need for life," said McElroy, referring to Mars, "we need energy; that we have. We need water; that we have. We need nitrogen; that we have. Carbon, phosphates...

"I see no reason to exclude, from everything we know, the possibility of the evolution of life."

The important question, he said, is whether water existed in a liquid form on the planet long enough for the random combinations of pre-life ingredients to come together and begin to evolve into self-reproducing forms.

The measurements were made by instruments aboard the Viking lander as it soared through the atmosphere en route to its touchdown. The amounts reported by scientists were about 1.5 per cent argon and about 3 per cent nitrogen. After arriving on the planet, the lander saw a spectacular rock-strewn landscape with sand dunes and craters in the distance.

"It reminds me of a typical desert scene in the Southwest, a terrain formed over heavily eroded lava flows," said Dr. Alan Binder, a member of the lander photograph team.

Binder, who has lived in Tucson, Ariz., for many years, said the panoramic view sent back as the second of two Viking pictures Tuesday looked very much like his home territory.

Though the landing site was east of a twisting channel formation that scientists had suggested once carried flowing water, the experts interpreting the first pictures said that theory couldn't be confirmed by what they saw.

"I don't see anything that cries out for an argument of fluvial (water-caused) or depositional processes," said Dr. Carl Sagan of Cornell University.

Whether the hummocky, sandy plain might harbor living organisms in its soil won't be determined until after Viking's telescoping arm scoops up a sample and drops it into the sophisticated biology lab it carries.

Chino youth crushed as tractor overturns

A Chino youth was killed Tuesday when a tractor he was driving overturned and crushed him in a field near Euclid and Pine avenues south of Chino.

Howard Robert Cooper, 14, of 6715 Kimball Ave., was pronounced dead at the Doctors Hospital in Montclair.

The youth was driving the tractor up a 30-degree incline on private property and at the crest, the tractor began backing down, said highway patrolmen.

The tractor's right wheel then dropped off the roadway and into a five-foot ditch, where the vehicle overturned, pinning the drive underneath and inflicting fatal injuries, they added.

Officers said they later checked the tractor's brakes and found the pedal traveled to the metal stop, actuating the brake "very little, if at all."

Bus kidnap case at turning point; arrests likely soon

LIVERMORE (AP) — The chief investigator in the search for the men who kidnaped 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver says he is optimistic there will be an arrest in the case but would not predict when.

"I can't predict when there will be an arrest," Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Ed Volpe said late Tuesday night. "I'm just optimistic."

While remaining hopeful, Volpe downgraded an early statement by a sheriff's department source that the investigators were only "a few phone calls away" from being able to apprehend suspects.

Madera County Acting Dist. Atty. Charles Hoffman, who met Tuesday with Alameda Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen, told reporters the investigation had reached a turning point.

Hoffman would say only that "something has happened" in the progress of the case. He went on:

"The preliminary investigation is concluded at this point, focusing in on certain aspects where if the sheriff's department discussed the facts, it might prejudice a trial situation," Hoffman said.

He declined to elaborate, except to say a turning point was reached between noon and 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Volpe said progress is being made in the case, but nothing of the nature that would lead to an imminent arrest.

Alameda County officers concentrated on the rock quarry where the 26 children and their bus driver were entombed for 18 hours after being kidnaped Thursday in the Madera County town of Chowchilla, about 95 miles to he south.

They attempted to determine if anyone connected with the quarry was involved in the crime.

"The quarry out there is the prime area of our investigation," Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Gene Saper said in an interview. "That's going to be the area where we zero in for physical evidence and witnesses we can find. We have questioned or will question everyone who has anything to do with the gravel quarry."

The moving van trailer which was transformed into a makeshift underground prison was unearthed Tuesday. The 27 kidnap victims had clawed and pried their way out of the moving van and were unhurt.

Investigators reported the moving van was purchased last Nov. 20 from Palo Alto Transfer and Storage Co.

The Fresno Bee reported Tuesday the person who bought the van has a close connection to the quarry.

The newspaper quoted a source who said as many as eight persons may be involved in the abduction.

"One of the abductors was someone who had access to the quarry and who could use the equipment to dig the hole without his presence being questioned," the source was quoted as saying.

"When this investigation is completed, it possibly will turn out to be one of the most bizarre cases ever," the source added.

MARS FROM FIVE FEET

8 elementary principals reassigned in Pomona

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona school board Tuesday night reassigned eight elementary school principals, approved a 7.2 per cent pay hike for classified employes and approved an eight per cent raise for management and confidential employes.

After hearing from seven speakers from the audience, all of whom asked that their individual principals not be moved, the board voted unanimously to approve the reassignments as recommended by the administration.

This action means that, effective Sept. 1, Harland Donahue will move from Lexington to Yorba, James Taylor from Washington to Lexington, James Huffman from Arroyo to Washington, Jack Henkle from Allison to Arroyo, Wesley Rood from Armstrong to Allison, Bruce Shyer from Madison to Armstrong, Rodolfo Flores from Westmont to Madison and Lorin Anderson from Harrison to Westmont.

Administrators said they now were in the process of selecting a new principal for Harrison. Most of the principals affected by the board action were in the audience.

Members of Chapter 14 of the California School Employes Association in the Pomona Unified School District met in the Education Center board room and ratified their one-year contract while the school board was meeting in the auditorium at Diamond Point Elementary School.

Their contract was the last item on the board's agenda and was approved by the board without discussion when Acting Supt. Sidney Moses said it had been ratified by chapter membership.

In addition to the salary increase, the new contract — the first negotiated in the Pomona district under the state's new collective bargaining law — gives classified employes a $300 per year per individual increase in fringe benefits, up to $1,200 from $900, and it outlines employe-employer rights and a grievance procedure.

The salary and health and welfare benefits take effective Aug. 1. Chapter 14 represents some 1,100 non-teaching district employes.

Salaries listed on the administrative schedule reflecting the eight per cent increase range from $36,045 top for assistant superintendents, $33,044 for directors, $31,887 for senior high school principals, $29,649 for junior high principals and $28,975 for elementary school principals.

The board approved the pay hike for some 230 administrative employes on June 15 under a two-year agreement giving them the $300 per year increase in fringe benefits, plus a six per cent pay increase in 1977-78 and another $300 increase in fringe benefits.

These employes are not eligible to join either of the employe groups with which the district must negotiate under the new collective bargaining law. Negotiations are being carried on with Associated Pomona Teachers, exclusive bargaining agent for the districts 1,022 certificated employes.

In other actions, the board:

—Listened to a progress report on the Discover Pomona campaign presented by Joe Gendron, president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce. Gendron commented on the improved rapport between the school district, the city and the chamber and credited this rapport with parenting positive programs such as Discover Pomona, designed to improve the image of the community.

Gendron said the campaign, using advertising, a slide presentation, bumper stickers, balloons and a newsletter, was at the halfway point and would continue through November, and perhaps longer.

—At the request of board member Ken Pine, who is forbidden to ride in automobiles while recuperating from surgery, agreed to hold board meetings through Aug. 17 at the Diamond Point School.

Board President Mary Montes directed the administration to place on the agenda for the next board meeting a proposal that board meetings be rotated at school sites around the district.

—Set a public hearing on the 1976-77 final budget for Aug. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at Diamond Point school.

—Agreed to fund August costs of Emergency School Aid Act basic and pilot projects of $34,500. Moses said there was a 99 per cent possibility both projects would be funded for 1976-77 and the district should be informed by Aug. 1. The district's $1.8 million 1976-77 application was ruled ineligible by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare early in June. Moses said steps had been taken to meet HEW requirements, including a program to retest all 186 children enrolled in Educable Mentally Retarded classes.

—Withheld approval on a number of items calling for expenditures until after a budget is set for 1976-77 after member Gene Whitlock stated he would vote against any appropriations against the future budget.

—On a 4-1 vote, with Whitlock voting no, agreed to pay the $350 registration fee to allow Ray L. Thomas, director of secondary education, to attend an eight-week high intensity language training course in Mexico City Oct. 23 through Dec. 17, while he is on sabbatical leave. Thomas was to have had this leave last year. However, he was called back and served as acting assistant superintendent of educational services while the search was underway for a new superintendent.

Airport has profitable venture going: farming!

The Chino Airport is receiving ground support for its financial operation.

That support is funds received in leasing 300 acres within the airport for farming.

The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors this week approved a six-year lease fee of $157,500 for a period starting Aug. 1 and ending July 31, 1982. This amounts to $26,241 per year.

The airport just ended a five year lease for farm land at about $12,000 annually, said county Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino.

The farm lease funds go into the county general fund. The airport then receives money from this fund for its operation.

Airport officials said field crops are planted in areas not improved with runways, taxiways, hangars or airplane parking areas.

San Bernardino County owns and operates the 800-acre airport located near Euclid Avenue and Merrill Street south of Chino. The airport handles about 180,000 flight operations per year.

In another item, county supervisors approved a $60,000 contract with the state to provide public health nursing services for senior citizens through June 30, 1977.

The county, however, must provide matching support for half the project. This may be in cash, facilities or services, said Townsend.

The program will provide three public health nurses who will visit senior citizens housing and center facilities for health consultant services.

This will provide an outreach for the 8,214 senior citizens within the county whose incomes are at or below the poverty level, said Townsend.

L. V. delays bingo action

Bingo games have been shelved in La Verne — at least for the time being.

The City Council has decided to defer action on a request to permit the games until the new state law which defines conditions under which bingo can be played is given a better interpretation.

The request to allow the games came two weeks ago from W.O. Hokanson, a resident of the Kings Way Gardens, who said he wanted to establish bingo as a social activity strictly for the benefit of tenants.

But Richard C. Bokmann, manager of the mobile home park, said Monday that he did not want bingo games on the premises.

Hokanson was not at the council meeting Monday when his request came up. Councilmen decided to defer action until City Atty. Wynne Furth could get clarification of the new law from Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp.

Rowlander charged

Hearing slated in hired-killing case

Rowland Heights insurance broker Samuel H. Brooks faces arraignment on murder and conspiracy charges July 28 in Van Nuys Municipal Court in connection with the hired slaying of a Calabasas man.

Brooks, 47, was arrested July 13 at his Amalgamated Insurance Brokers firm at 18415 Colima Road by sheriff's deputies who said that Arthur Rohwedder, 40, of Indio, told them that Brooks hired him to kill the victim, Michael Kenney, 38-year-old private detective. Kenney was shot in ambush as he returned home Feb. 14.

Investigators said that Rohwedder pleaded guilty to the murder charge in Van Nuys Superior Court and made the statement implicating Brooks in order to avoid a possible death penalty sentence.

They alleged that Brooks "is the apparent kingpin" of Southland loansharking activities and that he had made Kenney a loan which Kenney failed to pay. They also said Brooks held a $100,000 life insurance policy on Kenney's life.

Open Door will open program

The summer program of the La Verne-San Dimas Open Door starts Thursday with a roller skating party.

Counselor Debbie Scott says all youths 11 to 20 are invited to take part in the program, but reservations must be made for most trips.

Parlors, bookstores face delays

An emergency ordinance setting a four-month moratorium on the opening of massage parlors, adult bookstores and similar businesses was approved by the Pomona City Council.

The action, taken Monday on a unanimous vote of the council, is in response to a request for a business license for a new adult bookstore.

The ordinance, drafted by City Atty. Patrick Sampson with reference to a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision granting cities new powers in regulating the zoning for such businesses, calls for a study of "adult entertainment" zoning guidelines in the city.

The moratorium may be renewed for another four months when the ordinance expires in November, said Sampson.

12 Claremont elms facing the ax; panel to review decision

A city staff request that 12 Indian Hill Boulevard elms be removed because they have heart rot will be reviewed by the Claremont Parkways and Trees Commission Thursday at 4 p.m. at the Baseline Recreation Center.

"Passion pink"-colored posters have been tacked to the elms along Indian Hill Boulevard to alert residents to the meeting, but the posters incorrectly list City Hall as the meeting place.

Although the commission is expected to set a public hearing at night for concerned citizens to express their views on the beloved 40-50-year-old trees, officials believe the meeting Thursday will be well-attended by those seeking to save the trees.

Fred Hawkins, director of parks and recreation, will display core samples from both healthy trees and those showing heavy signs of heart rot, slime flux and other structural defects.

Hawkins also will display several sections of a 14-inch-diameter branch sawed off an elm at the height of 20 feet. The branch, about 25 feet long when it was cut and weighing 1,450 pounds, is clearly the victim of heart rot.

The branch was cut off one of the trees scheduled for removal.

City tree crewmen last week pruned the lower branches of the elms up to 14 feet above ground for car and truck clearance.

Hawkins said that while the Indian Hill elms are approximately "middle aged" with respect to the more famous American elms in the Northeast, the mistreatment they have received over the years, such as poor pruning, has accelerated their decline to the point "that many are a potential hazard to life, limb and property."

"I have instructed the city tree crew to begin removal of the 12 trees beginning Aug. 1," Hawkins said.

Many Claremont residents are expected to protest strongly the removal of any tree.

Indian Hill Boulevard between Harrison Avenue and Foothill Boulevard has 111 elms. The 12 trees scheduled for removal are all north of Eighth Street. Five are on the east side between 10th and 11th streets.

Hawkins said that the decision to remove the trees was made after extensive research and individual examinations of the trees.

"We do not yet have Dutch elm disease," Hawkins said.

The commission will be asked to name a replacement tree for the elm on Indian Hill Boulevard.

Residents living on 11th Street west of Indian Hill Boulevard became upset during August 1974 as they watched tree crews trim away a beautiful green canopy over their street.

Hawkins conceded at that time that the best time to prune is in the spring or the fall, but that the city waited until it received its new 55-foot-long boom which allows a tree trimmer to reach the tree tops.

Hawkins said that elms should be trimmed every three years.

Experts called into the fray included O.A. "Jolly" Batcheller who recalled that 17 years ago as chairman of the Parkways and Trees Commission he had the same problem when the trees were pruned.

"But they seem to have survived," he said.

Hawkins said that the elms on 11th Street, Harvard and Colleges avenues, all the same age as those on Indian Hill Boulevard, haven't been subjected to core borings yet.

Wounded girl leaves hospital

A Claremont girl, wounded in an apparent youth-gang related shooting in La Verne Friday night, was released Tuesday from Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The victim, Cecelia Endinas, 15, was shot in the upper leg as she was walking at First and B streets. Police said she may have been mistaken for someone else.

Meanwhile, four Pomonans arrested shortly after the shooting, have been released by La Verne police. Rafael E. Garcia, 20, Anthony J. Lopez, 18, Armando G. Gonzales, 19, and Donald G. Ayala, 20, were released without charge because of insufficient evidence to connect them to the incident, police said.

El Roble youths offer 2 shows

Several departments in the El Roble summer program at Claremont will combine their talents to present a special Bicentennial program at the school auditorium today and Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

DANGER STRESSED

The potential danger which a sick elm tree poses for drivers and pedestrians alike is exhibited by, left, Martin Anderson, Claremont parkways tree leadman, and Fred Hawkins, director of parks and recreation, as they carve out the crumbling heart rot of an Indian Hill Boulevard elm. That log and the hollowed-out portion before the pair are both part of a 25-foot-long branch cut from an elm 20 feet above the ground. Hawkins estimated that the branch weighed 1,450 pounds and posed a threat to life and limb.

Spurred by gasoline

Consumer prices take sharp jump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a leveling off in food costs, consumer prices jumped five-tenths of a per cent last month, driven upward by a sharp increase in the cost of gasoline and other energy products, the government said today.

The June increase follows hikes of six-tenths of a per cent in May and four-tenths of a per cent in April, closing out the second quarter with inflation rising at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 6.1 per cent.

That is about what Ford administration economists have considered in the past to be the underlying inflation rate in the economy.

The increase of grocery prices slowed in June, rising only two-tenths of a per cent after jumping one per cent in May and six-tenths of a per cent in April, the Labor Department said.

However, the department said the improvement was offset by sharp increases in the costs of a broad range of energy products, including gasoline, motor oil, fuel oil, coal, natural gas and electricity.

Over-all, energy prices were up 1.9 per cent in June, accounting for almost a third of the month's increase in the department's Consumer Price Index.

Workers were hurt as well by a June decline in average weekly hours on the job.

The Labor Department said the decline, amounting to six-tenths of a per cent, plus the rise in retail prices resulted in a decline of one per cent in gross weekly earnings.

Over all, consumer prices last month were 5.9 per cent more than they were during the same month a year ago.

In an interview Tuesday, John Kendrick, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said: "It doesn't look as if there will an acceleration in price inflation at least for the next several months, because of the favorable farm and food prospects.

For the month of June, the Consumer Price Index stood at 170.1. That means that the same variety of goods and services that cost $100 in 1967 cost $170.10 in June.

The five-tenths of a per cent increase in the index last month was adjusted to account for normal seasonal influences.

The slowdown in the increase of grocery prices reflected declines in the cost of beef and pork as well as fruit and vegetables. Prices for other foods, including eggs, coffee, bakery products, poultry and dairy goods increased.

A sampling of prices showed that beef declined four-tenths of a per cent following a jump of 3.9 per cent in May. Pork declined 1.5 per cent. Coffee prices jumped 4.9 per cent, while poultry climbed 3.5 per cent.

Nonfood commodities rose five-tenths of a per cent last month, compared with an increase of six-tenths in May and an average monthly increase of about three-tenths from last August through April of this year.

New-car prices declined for the first time since January, but used-car prices were up. So were prices for apparel and household durables. But the biggest jump was for gasoline and motor oil, up 2.1 per cent, and for fuel oil and coal, up 1.5 per cent after seasonal adjustment.

The average price of a gallon of regular grade gasoline rose 1.6 cents per gallon nationally to 59.2 cents. Premium prices rose 1.6 cents nationally to an average of 63.7 cents per gallon.

The cost of services last month climbed six-tenths of a per cent, after rising four-tenths in May and five-tenths in April. This reflected sharp increases in charges for natural gas, electricity and home repair services, the government said. Hospital and medical costs also continued to increase.

Car driver condition said 'fair'

A La Verne fire truck en route to a fire call collided with a sedan Tuesday at Foothill Boulevard and Wheeler Avenue, injuring one driver.

Dale Leon Sharp, 48, 450 Foothill Blvd., driver of the sedan, was admitted to the Pomona Valley Community Hospital where his condition is termed as fair.

The fire truck, driven by Edward Fenneman, was traveling north on Wheeler Avenue with the redlight and siren on when it collided with the car going east on Foothill and passing through the intersection on a green traffic signal, said highway patrolmen.

Officers reported that Sharp apparently didn't see the oncoming fire truck until it was too late to avoid the collision.

After the initial collision, the fire truck continued on and hit a traffic light and small tree, officers reported.

La Verne fire officials reported the fire truck had been dispatched to a home where the residents had reported smoke.

Alta Loma man hurt when car goes off road

An Alta Loma man was injured Tuesday when his car went off Mt. Baldy Road near the tunnels and landed at the bottom of an embankment.

Jesse Haney, 10350 Base Line Road, was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he is reported in good condition.

He was driving south shortly before 11 p.m. when his car drifted onto a gravel turnout. It hit a raised dirt embankment and traveled 30 feet before coming to a stop at the bottom of the embankment, said highway patrolmen.

Illegal aliens rounded up

LOS ANGELES (AP) — About 110 illegal aliens were headed back to Mexico today after a Catalina Island roundup spurred by complaints from residents that they were having trouble finding jobs.

An immigration service spokesman here said the aliens who lived and worked on the island — doing such jobs as gardening and domestic work — were rounded up Tuesday.

L.A. County assessments high for state

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Board of Equalization says Los Angeles County has assessed its property the highest in comparison to worth, and Monterey and Amador counties the lowest.

But Chairman William Bennett said the figures are preliminary and subject to question.

The survey issued Tuesday was on how close each county assessor came to evaluating property at 25 per cent of its worth for tax purposes. The average was 25.1 per cent, only a trifle above the legal limit.

It said Los Angeles was highest of the 58 counties at 27.6 per cent, followed by Del Norte at 27.4 and Ventura at 27.3.

Monterey and Amador were 20.8 per cent each, and Tuolumne was 21.0.

Bennett said the figures are subject to challenge assessors at upcoming hearings.

Spotlight on area crime

Butcher knife robbery

The 7-Eleven store at 803 E. Mission Blvd. in Pomona was robbed Tuesday night by two youths, one armed with a butcher knife a foot long.

Employe Dana G. Fair, 18, told police the pair entered, asking for a package of cigarettes and then demanded money after one pulled the knife from under his jacket. After getting cash, the pair fled to a car outside and was driven away.

The knife-wielder was described as Latin, 16 to 18, 5 feet 3 weighing 110 pounds. He had black, shoulder-length hair and wore a long-sleeved shirt and dark pants.

Beaten, Robbed

A POMONA man told police Tuesday night that he was beaten up and robbed by a gang in the city's Martin Luther King Park at Lexington Street and White Avenue.

The victim, Leroy Barreras, 24, said he was attacked by between 10 and 15 youths led by 25-year-old man described as black, 5 feet 3 weighing 120 pounds. He had a bushy mustache and wore a yellow jersey with No. 7 on it.

During the attack one of the gang members stole Barreras' wallet, he said. The victim did not require immediate medical attention.

Loses vision

A La Verne man told police Tuesday that an attack he suffered in a Pomona tavern July 8 has resulted in the loss of vision in his right eye.

The victim, Harry Marston Daviess, 48, said he was attacked in Ernie's Tavern, 1046 E. Second St., by a man who told customers he could "whip any two of you at the same time." Daviess said the man slugged him, followed him into a hallway and attacked him again.

The victim said that when he failed to regain vision in the injured eye after the swelling went down he was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was told vision would not return. He was released from the hospital Tuesday and reported the incident to police.

Employe slugged

An employe was slugged by a robber early today at Slim's Cafe, 1377 W. Second St., POMONA police reported.

The victim, Vernon L. Brien, 50, was cleaning up after closing when the man entered and hit him on the head with something. Brien was knocked down and the man looted the cash register. Meanwhile, a female employe fled.

The robber was described as black, in his early 20s, 5 feet 9 weighing 160 pounds. He wore a red, knit cap, a long-sleeved shirt and faded jeans.

Brien was treated for scalp cuts at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Station robbed

The new U.S.A. service station at 110 E. Foothill Blvd., POMONA, was robbed late Tuesday night by two young men, one wielding a six-inch hunting knife.

The victim, Hank W. Hull, 18, said the pair approached and asked to use the rest room. Then one pulled the knife and demanded money.

The armed man was about 18, 5 feet 7 weighing 140 pounds. He had blond hair and wore a short-sleeved shirt and tan corduroy trousers.

The pair fled on foot.

Robbed again

Craft Cottage at 971 W. Foothill Blvd. in CLAREMONT was robbed again Tuesday night.

Employe Nancy Lee Hasson, told police a man walked in shortly after 8 o'clock, went behind the counter and demanded money. She said he gestured as if he had a pistol under a newspaper he carried. The man was white, 25 to 30, 5 feet 9 and weighed 175 pounds. He had brown, shoulder-length, curly hair and wore a brown knit shirt and tan, checked trousers.

The place was robbed last February.

Attack alleged

Ontario police today held a 21-year-old man whom they charged attempted to run down a 12-year-old boy with his car and kicked an officer in the face Tuesday.

Richard Jesus Herrera of 1709 E. Bonnie Brae St., Ontario, was booked in the West End Jail this morning for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon and assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer. Herrera also had two outstanding traffic warrants. A passenger in Herrera's car, a 17-year-old Ontario youth, was also arrested on an assault charge.

Police Officer Chuck Haun said that the suspect saw 12-year-old Leon Baker start to cross Bonnie Brae Street in the 1600 block and hit the accelerator of his car. The car missed the youth only by inches.

Haun said he went in pursuit of the vehicle and stopped it a short distance away. Haun said he asked Herrera why he had nearly run down the boy. The officer said that Herrera claimed that he only wanted to "scare him."

Haun said he placed Herrera under arrest along with the other youth in the vehicle, but Herrera bolted from the car. After a brief foot pursuit Haun and other officers caught the suspect and physically subdued him.

Haun said as he was putting the youth in a police car the youth suddenly kicked him in the chest and face knocking his glasses off. Police said that Herrera was again subdued and transported to Doctors Hospital in Montclair for a minor head laceration before being taken to jail.

Manhunt on in huge bank heist

NICE, France (AP) — French police mounted the biggest Riviera manhunt ever today, putting up roadblocks on all highways leading from Nice in an effort to catch six thieves who tunneled into an underground bank vault and stole $12 million.

Investigators said the burglars had such a head start they probably had crossed into Italy before the robbery was even discovered.

The thieves tunneled from a sewer main into the vault and spent the weekend there emptying safe-deposit boxes, taking time out to eat, drink and look at pornographic photos. A bank employe tried to open the vault Monday, but the thieves had welded the hinges from the inside and it had to be cut open.

Police said that, since the gang's method of operation was so sophisticated, each of the six must have been a "specialist" in fields such as construction, civil engineering, topography and economics, as well as safecracking.

Police, including three hand-picked crime fighters from Paris, four Marseille police inspectors, and all uniformed men on the Riviera, also were working on the assumption that to have carried out the vault assault the gang must have had close connections with an international crime syndicate based in Europe.

Enraged customers lined up outside the bank again today, as they did when word of the robbery spread Tuesday, demanding an accounting from bank officials.

When the bank finally opened, two lines of customers formed, one to be interviewed about their losses, the other going up to windows to conduct routine transactions.

One angry customer said, "It's an unheard of mess. For three days no one told us anything. I'm going to file a complaint."

Others expressed admiration for the thieves' prowess. "They deserve a medal," one man said.

Extension of tax cut moves a step closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Extension of individual tax cuts through 1977 is a step closer today, but it may be another two months before taxpayers know for sure whether they will face a tax hike next year.

The Senate voted 66 to 28 on Tuesday to extend the tax cuts for 18 months. But the House cannot act on the extension until the Senate passes the complex tax-revision bill to which the reductions are attached.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he hopes — but cannot guarantee — that the Senate will approve a tax bill before recessing Aug. 11 for the Republican convention.

Once the Senate passes the bill, a Senate-House conference must work out the countless differences in the Senate's tax-revision bill and one approved by the House last year. Tht could take weeks.

No matter how long it takes Congress to complete work on a tax-revision bill, there is virtually no chance that American workers will feel a bigger tax bite on their paychecks this year.

The $15-billion worth of individual tax cuts technically expired once already, on July 1, but Congress hurriedly froze withholding rates until Sept. 1. Congressional leaders indicate the rates will be frozen again if more time is required to complete action on the tax bill.

In addition to voting for an 18-month renewal of the tax cuts, the Senate agreed Tuesday, 50 to 42, to allow motorists to continue deducting all their state and local gasoline taxes.

The Finance Committee, in writing the bill, voted to allow deduction of only the gasoline taxes that total more than $50 a year. That would have raised the federal tax bills of millions of Americans but it would have saved the Treasury about $300 million a year.

The Senate rejected, 54 to 38, an effort by Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, D-Ill., to eliminate the gasoline-tax deduction altogether on grounds it encourages energy waste.

The key elements of the taxcut package include:

—A provision allowing a $35 credit — which is subtracted directly from taxes owed — for each taxpayer and each dependent to be extended through 1977. If it is to his or her advantage, the taxpayer instead could take a credit of 2 per cent of his first $9,000 of taxable income, to a maximum credit of $180.

—Permanent increases in the standard deduction, which are available only to taxpayers who do not itemize deductions. The minimum standard deduction is $1,700 for single persons and $2,100 for couples. The maximum is 16 per cent of adjusted gross income, up to $2,400 for single persons and $2,800 for couples.

—A provision making permanent a special "work bonus" for poor, working families with children. This allows a credit of 10 per cent of earned income up to $4,000, or a top credit of $400. The credit is scaled down before being phased out when income reaches $8,000.

The credit is aimed at giving poor people an incentive for staying off welfare and keeping their jobs.

The only controversy over the individual tax cuts Tuesday was whether they should be extended for 12 months, as recommended by the Finance Committee; 15 months, as proposed by the Budget Committee; or 18 months, as suggested by Sen. James Allen, D-Ala.

Unless the tax cuts are extended, a typical four-member family earning $15,000 annually would face a tax hike of $180 a year. For a single person earning $8,000, the increase would be $182; for a couple with no children and earning $10,000, a $204 increase. A working family of four earning $6,000 would lose $445 a year unless the cuts were renewed.

Still under attack in the big tax bill are 73 Finance Committee amendments that would allow $1 billion a year in tax relief to a variety of businesses. Many of the amendments would benefit only one or two companies.

A bloc of senators led by Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., is objecting not only to some of the amendments but to the way all were approved by the committee.

Most were approved by the panel in a two-day period last month as the committee rushed to complete action on the bill so Senate debate could begin. There was no public disclosure of who would benefit from the amendments or how much they would cost the Treasury.

Long told reporters Tuesday that the committee will be given an opportunity to reconsider the amendments and reject any that members feel are unworthy.

A MATTER OF PROTOCOL — Shirley Temple Black responds to a question as she stands with President Ford Tuesday at the White House. She had just been sworn in as new chief of protocol.

Shirley chief of protocol

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I don't know why, Mr. President, it took 200 years for one of us to get the job," Shirley Temple Black told President Ford as she was sworn-in as the country's new chief of protocol.

Mrs. Black, 48-year-old former child movie star and the first woman to occupy the protocol post, was sworn in at the White House Tuesday.

She has been a representative at the United Nations and more recently was ambassador to the African nation of Ghana.

She also told the President that it was a great honor to be the nation's first woman protocol chief, and that she would "do all my very best work to try to fill all the various assorted sizes of shoes of the distinguished men" who preceded her.

Orson Welles warns mankind

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor-director Orson Welles, who already has one mass panic to his credit, reacted to the landing of Viking 1 on Mars by warning mankind not to be smug about its space conquests.

"I ought to point out that the world population shouldn't be too complacent. The lobster men are still hiding," Welles said Tuesday. He did not explain.

As a young radio personality in 1938, Welles was responsible for stirring a mass panic on the East Coast with his chilling news - report - style dramatization of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds."

The gist of the show was that Martians had landed in New Jersey and conquered New York City. It spread terror through the homes of many who didn't realize it was just Welles' idea of a good Halloween night show.

Lowell Thomas taking tests

DENVER (AP) — Lowell Thomas, 84, is undergoing tests at Presbyterian Medical Center, where he is reported in good condition with a mild respiratory infection.

His physician, Dr. Robert Bosworth, said Tuesday that the length of time Thomas remains hospitalized "depends upon what the tests show."

Thomas complained Sunday night that he didn't feel well and was flown here from Santa Rosa, Calif.

Snake bite victim critical

ARCADIA (AP) — A 13-year-old Pasadena youth was in critical condition after being bitten by a rattlesnake while snake hunting with a friend, sheriff's deputies said.

Officials at Arcadia Methodist Hospital said Michael Mitchelltree was under intensive care following the incident Tuesday.

Deputies said the youth was bitten on his right index finger when he reached for a two-foot rattler at a nature center in Eaton Canyon.

His companion, Louie Bilotto, also 13, wrapped a rubber band around the finger to slow the circulation of the poison before officers arrived to rush Mitchelltree to a hospital, deputies said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge has refused to issue any additional injunctions agains county sanitation workers because he said they have ended a two-week strike and are back on the job.

Judge Norman Dowds turned down the request by sanitation district officials Tuesday, saying they could renew a request for a preliminary injunction if the strike resumes.

About 550 employes returned to work last Saturday after agreeing on a new contract.

State aid issue clouds Claremont school budget

A tax rate reduction of from 50 to 60 cents per $100 assessed valuation is being projected for taxpayers in the Claremont Unified School District.

But that will be offset by an average increase of 29 per cent in assessed valuation, Business Manager Charles Abbott told the school board Monday night.

Abbott explained that the publication budget he was presenting to them for the 1976-77 school year "in terms of income projection is a meaningless budget."

Abbott said that the district does not know the full impact of Senate Bill 1641, the school finance bill.

"We have not as yet received specific instructions from either the state or country that would permit us to calculate and incorporate the funds from SB 1641," Abbott commented.

He said that William Anderson, district director of accounting, would attend a county schools meeting today to receive revised revenue limit computation worksheets and instructions.

Abbott explained that his best estimate at this time is that the district will gain an additional $280,000 in revenue from SB 1641, but he had not included that figure in the publication budget.

Abbott had submitted to the board a memo which estimated a general fund reduction of 37 cents on the tax rate but was forced to change that to 50 to 60 cents at the meeting because of new estimates from the county schools office.

In May, Abbott had submitted to the board a preliminary budget reflecting a three-per cent increase in assessed valuation and a three cents per $100 assessed valuation decrease in the tax rate, not aware that the county would reassess local property by such a high percentage.

The proposed expenditure budget as it now stands totals $12,116,914, but Abbott cautioned that the figure does not include salary raises for teachers or classified employes.

He said that each one per cent of increases for salaries or other benefits will cost about $60,000.

The general fund tax rate of $6.36 per $100 assessed valuation includes a $1 override granted by the voters March 1975 for three years.

Liquor board ruling

S.B. County taking title to Prado 40 years early

San Bernardino County supervisors have agreed to take title to the El Prado Golf Course's clubhouse so the private operator can obtain liquor licenses.

Under an agreement between the county and private operator, the Prado Golf course, the county was to obtain title to all major improvements in 40 years, said Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino. The golf course is located south of Chino.

But the board approved a lease amendment to assume title now because the state Alcoholic Beverage Commission wouldn't grant the golf course the proper type of liquor licenses unless the county actually had title to the clubhouse.

In approving the amendment, the board accepted a report from the County Counsel's office indicating the county would assume no additional liability with the amendment, it would receive no less revenues and it would assume no responsibility for replacement or repairs nor for operation and maintenance of the clubhouse.

The county's basic lease with the golf course operators calls for the county's Regional Parks Department to receive four per cent of the gross sale of alcoholic beverages and five per cent on each round of golf, said officials.

Before approving the amendment, the county had to obtain approval from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers which owns the land and leases it to San Bernardino County at $1 per year, said Townsend.

Archery tourney in Upland

Amateurs as well as experienced bow hunters are invited to participate in Upland Recreation Department's archery tournament on Saturday at Magnolia Recreation Center.

For the amateurs, targets will be balloons or paper plates. There will be divisions for both adults and juniors and equipment will be provided to those entrants not having their own.

Animal targets will be used in the bow hunter division. This will be run as a single elimination event. No bow sights will be allowed.

The entry fee is $2 and is due at the Upland Recreation Department. Activities start at 10 a.m. and continue through the morning.

WCJHS has new principal

Mrs. Lois Freeman has assumed duties as principal of the Western Christian Junior High School in Glendora.

Her appointment was announced by J. Mark Landrey, superintendent of Western Christian Schools, which also includes a high school.

Mrs. Freeman has had experience in teaching, student counseling and administration at West Covina Christian School and in Torrance, West Covina and Covina school districts.

She received a B.A. degree from Wheaton College with a major in mathematics and a master of arts degree in Christian school administration from Biola College.

Landrey said that in the past the junior high school program had been combined with the total program at Western Christian Schools. However, in February the board of trustees elected to separate the programs, giving identity to the junior high students "and thereby greatly enhancing the seventh and eighth grade program."

Largest turtle over 7 feet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's largest turtle, whose fossils were discovered in Venezuela in 1972, had shells of over seven feet when they roamed the earth — about five or six million years ago.

Paleontologist Roger C. Wood named his discovery Stupendemys geographicus and said they may have measured 11 feet from nose to tail and weighed three tons. The 34-year-old staff member of Stockton State College in Pomona, N.J. believes they may have been marine turtles, but noted they had leg and neck bones that were completely unique. Wood's two specimens measure 7 feet 2 inches and 7 feet 6 inches. The larger shell was found in fragments, while the smaller one was almost completely intact. It is now on display at the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard University.

Young and old don't mix in housing projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like oil and water, the old and the young don't mix well in low-income housing projects, says an architect who rejects the idea that the two generations profit from close proximity.

Instead, New York City architect Oscar Newman argues, the elderly poor are more likely to become crime victims if they live in the same low-income housing projects with numerous children.

"Putting different age groups or different lifestyles together may not produce the utopia predicted," Newman contended in a government-funded study released this week.

Many developers have designed projects for a mix of older, retired people and young families with children, he noted. The theory is that the old would be rejuvenated by their contacts with children and that the children would benefit from the wisdom of the elderly.

But among strangers, this does not work, Newman lamented.

"The respect for the elderly by children and young adults in these circumstances is minimal," he worte. "The relationship may actually become openly hostile if there is a racial difference between the very young and the very old."

"Children want areas they can run around in, yell, throw a ball — activities that frighten and antagonize the elderly . . ."

Newman quoted Harry Fialkin, an official of the New York City Housing Authority, as saying that elderly residents of city housing projects were crime victims 3½ times as much as other residents.

"When white elderly were a minority living among black families with teenage children, crime against the elderly climbed to five times the average," Newman reported.

"In low- and moderate-income housing members of the resident population themselves often prey upon their neighbors," he said.

High-rise buildings are better suited to communities of old people or young single persons and couples, according to Newman.

The elderly and working adults without children probably could be grouped together successfully in some cases, he said. For families with children, he recommended single-family houses and three-story walkup apartments with only a few families in each unit.

Buildings for the elderly can be placed next to buildings for families with children, said Newman, adding, "This will allow people to seek out the companionship of other age groups at their own choosing, rather than having it forced upon them."

Newman's research was financed with $104,062 from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and $50,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The work was intended to help planners and architects design housing projects in ways to reduce crime. Newman is a recognized authority in the field, although his earlier works have stirred controversy among law enforcement and housing specialists.

Milestone for First Federal

Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association has reached the $500 million mark in total assets, announced William F. Montgomery, president.

Founded in 1892 in Pomona, the association now has 18 offices in four Southern California counties.

State sues invention firm

SAN JOSE (AP) — The state has filed suit in San Jose charging Idex Corp. North Inc. of Campbell (Calif.) with "making untrue and misleading representations" in selling marketing services to investors.

A similar suit was filed simultaneously Monday in Los Angeles against a related firm, Idex Corp. Inc.

Idex actually marketed less than one per cent of the inventions submitted for development and marketing, alleged Deputy Atty. Gen. Sanford Feldman.

More than 500 inventions were submitted to Idex in Northern California and more than 1,000 in Southern California at fees ranging from $1,200 to $4,000, Feldman said.

The attorney general's office said late Monday that Idex in San Jose has agreed to a $25,000 judgment of penalties

AEROJET ElectroSystems Co., Azusa, has developed a Mark-38 expendable sonar target for Navy surface fleet training.

Low in cost, the Mark-38 looks like a small torpedo and presents a simulated submarine to track and attack.

For years, the Navy has had to rely on its own submarines to serve as targets for its sailors in training operations. The supply was seldom sufficient to meet demand and it cost the Navy a considerable amount of money to operate the submarines as targets.

What was needed was a device that was inexpensive to operate and one which preferably would be expendable. With the Mark-38, Aerojet has found the answer and earned a preproduction contract to build the expendable sonar target.

Aerojet will build and test the Mark-38 in Azusa. The Naval Sea Systems Command, In-Service Torpedo and Target Branch, will conduct operational tests.

2nd trial slated in slaying

Gene Autry Jefferson, 32, will stand a second trial in the slaying of his brother-in-law last August in Ontario but this one will be held in San Bernardino instead of Ontario.

Jefferson was brought to trial in February after being arrested by Ontario police investigating the death of Elton Lee, 33, of Ontario. Lee was shot to death in the doorway of a bar following an argument with several men.

Jefferson was charged with first degree murder and brought to trial, but following several weeks of testimony a West Valley Superior Court jury hearing the case could not reach a verdict. Jefferson was released pending further action by the West Valley Deputy District Attorney's Office.

Monday Jefferson appeared in the West Valley court before Judge Clifton L. Allen for arraignment on a refiled murder charge. Jefferson's attorney, Joe Johnson requested that the trial be transferred to the San Bernardino County Superior Court. The motion was granted.

Cityhood funding activities

Citizens for the Incorporation of Alta Loma have scheduled two fund-raising events to help finance the incorporation movement they are backing.

The first, a patio-buffet dinner, will be held Saturday at 5 p.m. at the home of Sue Durham, 5585 Pearl St., Alta Loma.

The menu will include sliced meats, salads, cake and homemade ice cream.

There will be a white elephant auction. Tickets are $3.50 per person and $2 for children under 12, and may be purchased from Wanda Dixon at 987-3510 or Mrs. Durham at 987-2149.

The group will conduct a rummage sale July 31 from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Alpha Beta parking lot at the corner of Base Line Road and Archibald Avenue.

Those wishing to donate items may have them picked up by calling Dotty Lawson at 987-7087, Dawn Peters at 987-8510 or Mrs. Dixon.

Those who wish to drop off items may leave them with the Tafoya family at 10350 Base Line Road, Space 15; the Dixon family at 9280 Hillside Road; the Ragusa family at 8440 Avalon Court; or the Geisler family at 5267 Sapphire St.

Bingo!—Chino Legion; Bingo?—City Council

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Warning to Chino residents: don't get your bingo cards out just yet.

The City Council may have some reservations about legalizing bingo for charitable organizations, despite the voters' approval of a measure on the June primary ballot.

Councilwoman Eileen Carter indicated at Tuesday night's meeting that she had some strong feelings against bingo, speaking in response to a request for legalization from the local American Legion post.

"I'd like to write an ordinance prohibiting such a thing in Chino," she said. "Approving it would be an invitation to organized crime."

Her comments followed the request by Lester Brown of the American Legion for approval of bingo. "If you check the voting record all over the State of California and here in Chino, you'll see it had strong approval," said Brown.

Brown said he realized the council had the "option" as to whether to legalize the game.

City Atty. Jimmy Gutierrez noted the new legislation "permits the city to approve bingo. There is a local option."

Mayor Bob McLeod said after the meeting that he had some "mental restrictions" about bingo, but did not elaborate. Earlier, he reported receiving three requests, including a letter from the American Legion, favoring the game.

The two other requests came from St. Margaret Mary and Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic churches in Chino.

"Two were verbal requests and one was written," said McLeod.

The council took no official action in the matter but directed Gutierrez to report back on any possible ordinances needed to be drawn up.

McLeod apologized to Brown after his presentation. "I didn't mean to ignore your letter. We'll check this out."

Mrs. Carter said the city has other ordinances banning gambling in the city and they would have to be redrawn if bingo was approved.

Upland fills planning post

John Zind, Claremont - Mudd football coach who has been spokesman for the Upland Citizens for Quality Living, is a new member of the Upland Planning Commission.

Mayor George Gibson named Zinda Monday to replace Commissioner Leo Leal who moved from the city.

Re-appointed to four-year terms on the Planning Commission were Don Brownell and Jerry Morris. Morris was a candidate for City Council in March and lost by about 30 votes.

During the council meeting, unanimous approval was granted to four developers for tentative tract maps involving about 95 acres of land. All of the developments are for single family homes in the northwestern part of the city above Foothill Boulevard. In all, nearly 300 homes will be constructed in these developments.

Lewis Homes of California is developing three of the tracts. Warde Capital Corp. had two tentative tracts approved. The other tracts are being developed by Chavann Realty and La Palma Land Co.

Ontario policemen carry wage dispute to council session

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

The Ontario City Council Tuesday night failed to reach agreement with city police officers on salary negotiations but members did agree to continue negotiating sessions.

Representatives of the Ontario Police Officers Association went directly to the City Council after they failed to reach an agreement with the council's negotiator, Asst. City Manager Steve Julian.

Police are seeking a 14 per cent hike, including a 10.25 per cent raise in salaries and the remainder in fringe benefits.

The city has offered a 9.35 per cent hike, including a 6.6 per cent salary raise and the remainder in fringe benefits.

Under the city's proposal, officers would receive the salary boosts in two increments, next October and January.

Stephen Silver, a Los Angeles attorney representing the association, requested the City Council to meet in a closed door session with association representatives to see if an agreement could be reached before the two sides became "polarized."

This met some initial opposition from Councilman Robert Abel who declared the council should not become the negotiator.

He was joined by Mayor Paul Treadway who agreed he was not ready to become an active party in the negotiations.

But Silver said he wanted the council to give some guidance to its negotiator. "We have some ideas that may be able to resolve this delicate situation."

Council members Faye Dastrup and Beecher Medlin said they had no objections to the meeting, emphasizing they didn't want to take the negotiations away from Julian.

Following the regular council session, police representatives then met with council members and some members of the city staff for 90 minutes.

On their return to the chambers, Treadway reported that at the request of the police association and the city's negotiating team, the council had instructed Julian to hold another meeting today with association representatives. "Enough was said tonight to speed their people on their way."

Julian later reported he had one meeting set today at 2:30 p.m. and another session on Thursday.

Claremont motorcyclist is injured

A Claremont man suffered serious injuries Tuesday when his motorcycle collided with a car on Mt. Baldy Road north of Mountain Avenue near Upland.

Richard Miko, 28, of 228½ Olive St. was admitted to the Pomona Valley Community Hospital with groin injuries. His condition is reported as fair.

Miko was driving south on Mt. Baldy Road when he collided with a car traveling north but in the southbound lane passing another vehicle, said highway patrolmen.

The other driver was identified as Mark Waldrop, 16, of 21 Oak Grove Ave., Mt. Baldy.

Utility praises energy-saving effort of two valley firms

General Dynamics in Pomona and Texfi-West in Ontario have been granted special awards by the Southern California Gas Co. for natural gas conservation efforts.

General Dynamics earned the award for reducing its gas consumption by 55 per cent, equal to 65 million cubic feet per year, over the past two years.

Texfi-West, which produces double-knit fabrics, cut gas usage by 33 per cent, or 71 million cubic feet annually, during the same period.

Representatives of the two companies were presented with "Concern" awards from the utility.

The awards were presented during a dinner program at Griswold's Tuesday by Pat Shea, vice president of consumer services for the gas company.

Accepting special certificates for their conservation work at General Dynamics were Ron Smith and Ernie Shaffer, while Texfi-West employes honored were Tony Drown, Bill Bass and Dick Bates.

The two valley industries are the first to earn the awards this year, said a gas company spokesman. Fourteen companies earned the award last year and their conservation efforts saved more than 3.7 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

Chino okays budget, 7% boost in salaries

Chino city councilmen adopted a final 1976-77 fiscal budget Tuesday night and granted pay increases averaging seven per cent to city employes.

Final budget figures were not released by officials, but no changes are expected from the preliminary $8,008,007 plan which projected no increase in the property tax rate.

Councilmen had expressed pleasure with the budget which holds the line on the $1.7476 per $100 assessed valuation tax rate. The total tax includes the voter-approved 25-cent override for the civic center.

The final budget was not printed because officials are waiting for assessed valuation figures, and adjustments to the Fire Department's budget.

The budget was adopted nevertheless to allow release of necessary expenditures and transfer of funds. Final figures are expected in August.

A salary resolution for the fiscal year granting average seven per cent pay boosts to miscellaneous employes was approved. Some workers will receive four per cent increases, others 6½ and a third group nine per cent. Police officers received their increases earlier, which averaged 7½ per cent.

The Chino Municipal Association apparently has not agreed to all terms of the salary resolution, but the council adopted it anyway after a management recommendation.

School pay talks stall in Claremont

Negotiations between a classified employe group and representatives of the Claremont Unified School District have hit a temporary snag.

Bargaining agents for both groups met Tuesday morning to begin talks on a memo of understanding submitted by Chapter 200, California State Employes Association.

Both sides agreed that the sessions can be opened to the public.

But negotiations ground to a standstill Tuesday afternoon when classified employe representatives presented to the district the first 13 articles of a proposed master contract, and said 10 more would be presented shortly.

District representatives said they need time to study the new proposal.

D.B. election to cost $2,000

Costs of the Nov. 2 election in Diamond Bar to decide if residents wish to be represented by a Municipal Advisory Council (MAC) are $2,000 and, since Diamond Bar has no taxing authority, the money must come from donations.

The $2,000 is due at the Los Angeles County Registrar of Voters Office on Aug. 20. Those who wish to help pay election costs may send checks payable to Diamond Bar MAC Election Fund, P.O. Box 4085, Diamond Bar 91765.

It was incorrectly printed in the Progress Bulletin on July 14 that the election would cost $20,000.

Chaffey College counts its blessing: 3-cent tax rate cut

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The Chaffey College board adopted a $19,791,338 publication budget for 1976-77 Tuesday which calls for a reduction of three cents per $100 assessed valuation in the tax rate.

While the adopted budget reflects almost a $4 million increase over the budget for this year, the tax rate is expected to drop from 67 to 64 cents, according to Robert E. Totten, assistant superintendent for business services.

"We are especially pleased with this budget," Totten said, "since it continues to provide the community and the staff with quality education and benefits."

The adopted budget includes a six per cent salary increase for all faculty and staff members plus increased health benefits provided under agreements which became effective on July 1.

"It's a combination of several things," said Totten in further explaining the tax rate reduction.

"First, under Senate Bill 1641, Chaffey College will receive more money from the state. Then, with the inclusion of the Norco-Corona area in our district for the first time, the district has increased its valuation."

The Norco-Corona area residents voted to annex to the Chaffey College district rather than Riverside City College district, in a special election, and the annexation became effective July 1.

The budget is based on an anticipated student body of 11,414 this academic year as compared with 10,141 students during the past school year.

The budget also includes $2 million for capital expenditures. This includes the construction of a new auto shop building, which is expected to be started late this fall, and a vocational education center. The capital program is anticipated as a two-year project.

Stab victim's identity is discovered

A young man found beaten and stabbed 33 times in San Gabriel Canyon July 13 has been identified as James Harzheim, 17, of Azusa.

Meanwhile, the victim remained in critical condition today at County-USC Medical Center still unable to speak.

Harzheim was found lying conscious in a field east of Highway 39 near the old San Gabriel Canyon Road.

A switchblade knife found nearby is believed to have been the knife used to stab him. The motive for the attack has not been determined and investigators are awaiting an opportunity to question Harzheim.

After a three-hour open hearing before the board and a capacity audience in the Chaffey College Board Room, the termination of William J. Brooks for persistent insubordination was upheld.

Brooks, a classified employe in the college photography laboratory, had requested the open hearing after being informed on June 25 that he was terminated.

He was joined at the hearing by two California State Employes Association representatives who challenged the numerous letters, memos and reports submitted by faculty members and James L. Catanzaro, assistant superintendent of personnel services.

Brooks was employed by the college on Sept. 2, 1975, and after a six months' probationary period, granted permanent status on March 1. According to reports submitted, his work had been satisfactory until that time, but had progressively deteriorated since.

Brooks had been warned on May 17 that he would be dismissed at the end of his 10 months' contract on June 30 unless he modified his work.

State aid sweetens school budget for Cucamonga district

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Correspondent

Due to an influx of new state money, the Central school board of Cucamonga decided Tuesday night to publish a budget that is slightly higher than had originally been estimated.

The new budget shows expenditures for the 1976-77 school year to be $2,359,350, an increase of about $35,000 over the preliminary budget estimates.

The publication budget is the next to last step in shaping the final budget school administrators will operate under next year. Decision on the final budget is expected next month.

The biggest increase reflected in the revised estimate is for employe health and welfare benefits which will be increased by $27,838. Next is an increase in the superintendent's salary by $2,350 followed by an increase in insurance costs of $2,200. The district will be left with a contingencies fund of $257,132.

In other action the board decided to go along with Supt. Don Sperry's recommendation that purchase of a new school bus for the district be put off indefinitely. In a report to the board Sperry described the condition of the district's two buses as "good."

On the issue of the installation of citizen band radios in the buses, however, the board showed considerable concern and board President Patton Lewis asked administrators "What's holding the installation of these things up?"

Sperry explained that the Federal Communications Commission was reluctant to give the bus operators a special frequency to use. He felt that in light of events in Chowchilla, where 26 school children were kidnapped, the installation of CB radios is urgent.

The untiring McCarthy

There was a wisdom born of delirium at the Democratic Convention that no one now can stop Jimmy Carter from becoming the next president of the United States. But behind the happy faces confidence was not quite so high. Not only are Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan of concern, Eugene McCarthy is too.

Eugene McCarthy? Though it came as a surprise to many in attendance at the convention, he to is running for president. The onetime Democratic senator is campaigning as an "independent" candidate, which in some respects is like being a has-been, only worse. Nevertheless, those who think about him at all anymore are beginning to think about him more seriously. He'll not be the next president, certainly, but he may be a tangential factor in deciding who is.

How? Louis Harris has taken a poll which indicates that 10 per cent of the voters favor McCarthy in a three-way race with Carter and any Republican nominee. That's about eight million voters. What's more, McCarthy's forces believe that Carter has commissioned a poll which indicates the independent has 18 per cent of the electorate's support. That's 15 million votes. Assuming that McCarthy's support would hurt Carter more than Ford, the alternative candidate could turn a close November race into a stunning disaster for the Democrats.

Well, admittedly this is speculative. Particularly since there has for many months now been precious little indication from the population that McCarthy is so popular. Actually, even the candidate will admit only a minority of Americans know who he is and even fewer are aware of his candidacy. In a poll of 30 state officers (not governors) taken at the recent national governor's convention in Pennsylvania, 18 did not know McCarthy was running, three thought he'd died years ago and two didn't recognize the name at all.

This despite the fact that McCarthy has been running for president almost forever. When he retired from the Senate in 1970, he also retired from the Democratic party and formed an alternative called the Committee for a Constitutional Presidency. It's not a party, he says, it's a movement. But not a very fast movement. After 18 months of formal campaigning for citizen support McCarthy is so lonely he has to go to his closet to play with his shoes

And public apathy has been only part of the frustration of the McCarthy bid. As an independent he is not automatically included on state ballots, as are the representatives of the major parties. So he must qualify for the right in each state, which is usually difficult, always expensive and sometimes impossible. Every state has its own laws governing the placement of independent names on its ballots, and often the laws are the kind that give democracy a bad name.

In West Virginia, for example, voters who signed petitions for McCarthy were automatically expunged from the Democratic and Republican roles, making themselves liable to a $1,000 fine if they tried (some did) to vote in any primary. In Michigan, a court ruled that McCarthy's name on ballots would "clog the election system." In Massachusetts, the McCarthy bid was invalidated because too many of his petition signatures lacked middle names or precise addresses.

So it is, a year and a half later: Gene McCarthy has qualified in only six states. The 100,000 signatures he's gathered have cost him $200,000, or $2 a piece. He says confidently he will be on 40 ballots by November, but it is unlikely. To the contrary, his campaign shows no signs of catching fire. The candidate looks tired, his cash register is empty, his staff is uninspired. One McCarthy ally wonders if the campaign can make it through the summer.

And yet, the polls say eight to 15 million people would vote for him. And his people say that if he won a couple of large states, such as New Jersey and Illinois, he could deadlock the election proceedings and throw it into the House of Representatives.

Delicious isn't it? That the same Gene McCarthy who destroyed Lyndon Johnson and thereby created the Richard Nixon administration is once again of crucial strategic significance to the Grand Old Party.

Defends Brown appointees

Dear Editor:

Your editorial of Monday, July 19 regarding the appointments of Gov. Brown is a classic. It should be sent to every journalism school in the U.S.A. on how to write a "racist" editorial.

For a paper that asked to stand up and be counted to help build the image of Pomona, you took a "giant step backwards" by insulting namely: Women, the ethnic backgrounds of the appointees, the civil rights act, environmental and consumer laws and the business community.

Please tell me what's so wrong in bringing business leaders into help run government. Both our political parties have done this with good and bad results. Gov. Reagan brought some in and were retained by the present governor. I'm sure the local and national chambers of commerce would be "taken back" by your editorial.

Are you trying to say that the governor should appoint only people of Anglo-Saxon backgrounds, and exclude people of Greek, Polish, Italian, Slavic, Chinese, Japanese, French, Spanish surnamed etc., who need not apply because they are not qualified?

In closing, let me say I hope this editorial reflects only the thinking of one person on your staff and not the entire Donrey Media Group. Yours for a better America on this our 200th birthday.

'It's the law'

Dear Editor:

After playing racquet ball this week at Cal Poly Pomona, I was shocked, then angered by the parking ticket I received.

I was parked in the south athletic field parking lot, next to the tennis courts in a regulation parking spot.

There were about 30 cars parked in the approximately 400 car lot.

Upon talking to the Cal Poly Police Security that same night, they informed me that I must purchase a visitor's parking permit each time I want to play tennis or racquet ball. The office to obtain such permits closes at 8 p.m. — well after the hour I often play racquet ball. Therefore, if I want to play after 8 p.m., I must hazard getting a $5 ticket even though only one-tenth of the parking lot is being used. I also was informed that I could park after 11 p.m. without a ticket since the policing stops at that hour.

When asked WHY cars were being ticketed, the only answer was that "It's the law," since space is needed for student parking.

I contend that cars should be ticketed only when there is a crowded parking lot — certainly not when it is impossible to obtain a parking permit because the office is closed.

Many community supporters of Cal Poly use the tennis and racquet ball courts, as I do, during the week and on weekends, without being ticketed. WHAT SYSTEM IS USED TO DETERMINE WHO RECEIVES A TICKET? I have been playing racquet ball and tennis for over 5 years and this is a first for me.

I feel "the law" should be applied only where and when its necessity is in evidence — not indiscriminately when the parking lot is near empty.

Indians still get bum steer

WASHINGTON — The Bureau of Indian Affairs has treated the Indians so shamefully that it ought to be abolished.

This is the secret conclusion of the American Indian Policy Review Commission, which was established by Congress a year ago to investigate the federal government's mismanagement of Indian affairs.

The investigation grew out of a series of dramatic events, which began in November, 1972. As the voters were going to the polls, a coalition of Indian groups arrived in Washington to protest innumerable and timeless grievances.

They first occupied, then vandalized, then looted the building housing the BIA. They had discovered hundreds of file cabinets, which contained documentary evidence of the bungling, neglect and betrayal that have characterized the white man's treatment of the Indian. Angrily, they spirited the evidence out of Washington.

They later smuggled the evidence to us, and we wrote a series of columns. Then we presented the evidence to Congress, testifying how the Indians had been systematically robbed of their land, timber, water and mineral rights.

Now the Review Commission has confirmed the sordid facts. It is not scheduled to issue a final report for several months, but its interim findings are detailed in a confidential memorandum.

The memo, written by the commission's director, Ernest Stevens, to its chairman, Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., accused the BIA of mishandling Indian money, neglecting their safety and failing to protect their property rights. The BIA stood by indifferently, the commission charges, even while known mobsters ripped off Indian land.

Here are the details:

The Commission collected evidence that subcontracts to develop land on Indian reservations in New Mexico and Arizona were granted to firms controlled by "known underworld figures." In one case, a development corporation approved by the BIA handed out subcontracts to "one of the major figures in organized crime land fraud operations in the entire Southwest," according to sworn testimony.

Yet incredibly, Indian Affairs Commissioner Morris Thompson was unperturbed. He wrote that the transaction had occurred over three years ago and, therefore, that "the question is now apparently moot."

The Review Commission called for an investigation of the BIA's role as land trustee and "the BIA personnel responsible for approval of property leases."

Even more incredibly, the commission could find "no federal agency or authority in possession of an accurate assessment of the total federal budget for Indians."

The commission pointed out, for example, that the BIA's budget "is not reconcilable" with the amount of money allotted by the White House's budget office. The BIA bureaucrats thought their budget for the current fiscal year was $918 million. But at the White House, the figure was listed as $937.7 million.

"If $20 million is lost in negotiations at the top," declares the memo, "there is no telling what gets lost on the way down."

The memo also cites the case of the industrial park that was supposed to be constructed on Indian land. Ten years ago, the Papago-Tucson Development Corporation leased 80 acres for the development. Although "several hundred thousand dollars" were invested in the project, the secret memo reveals, "today the 80-acre tract is nothing but weeds and dust."

The Papago Indians have also lost "billions of dollars in copper leases," charges the document. In addition, "massive amounts of federal funds" have been wasted in other meaningless and fraudulent projects."

The memo accuses the BIA of indifference toward Indian abuse. The State of Oklahoma, for example, allegedly is "a hot bed of violence and harassment" against Indians.

The report cites the dramatic incident of an Indian boy who was arrested last February on breaking-and-entering charges. A state mental hospital examination revealed that the boy displayed no suicidal tendencies. Yet a month later, he was found dead in his jail cell, hanging by a belt which was not his own. On behalf of the family, the BIA reluctantly asked the FBI for help. The youth's parents have yet to hear another word from either the BIA or FBI.

The Review Commission composed of five Indians and six members of Congress, will submit its final report to Congress in January. Director Stevens told our associate Terry Repak that the report will call for the establishment of a new Indian agency that would be independent of the Interior Department, which now oversees the BIA.

With superlatives, some doubt

By ERIC RUFF
PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Staff aides for several Democratic congressmen generally believe Jimmy Carter and Sen. Walter Mondale will run a strong presidential race in November but concede the ticket has drawbacks that may help the GOP.

The Carter-Mondale ticket was assessed as a "well balanced team" by many of the partisan staffers, who seemed satisfied with the Georgian's selection for a running mate. But along with the superlatives came some doubt.

"The Democratic ticket will run strong everywhere," asserted an aide to Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex.

The aide then called Texas a "swing state" and admitted Mondale's liberal leanings might affect the vote of conservative Texas Democrats.

An aide to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., predicted the Carter-Mondale ticket would run well in Arkansas, but said this year's presence of Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan had injected Southern interest in the GOP.

"I think Carter and Mondale should run well in Arkansas, it's an awfully Democratic state," the Mills aide said. "But Ronald Reagan has built a good organization there that should help either Republican candidate."

An aide to Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-Calif., describing Carter as a moderate liberal, predicted the Democratic ticket might not fare well in Southern California but confidently said it would win the state.

An aide to Rep. Robert Leggett, D-Calif., said a Reagan nomination would make a Carter-Mondale victory in the state harder to achieve but added, "I'm optimistic."

"Carter and Mondale will do well in California," the aide said. "How well will depend on who the Republicans run. But in either case, I'm very optimistic."

In neighboring Nevada, an aide to Rep. Jim Santini, D-Nev., predicted the ticket would have "a hell of a chance of carrying the state."

The Santini aide also indicated Reagan would run better than President Ford in the Silver State.

Hawaii will go with Carter and Mondale over Republicans, according to an aide to Rep. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii. "The ticket will do quite well in Hawaii," the aide said.

Just in jest

To steal a line from Will Rogers, all I know is what I read in the newspapers.

—Two hundred tons of onions in Riverside County have been dumped because of a glutted market.

—A record 1976 corn crop in the U.S. is up 14 per cent over last year.

—There is an overabundance of rice now being grown in the United States.

—The wheat harvest is the second largest in this country's history.

All that on the authority of the U.S. Agriculture Department which then goes on to predict that food prices will increase from 2 to 5 per cent this year.

—Confusing isn't it? Like me, don't you sometimes get the feeling our government is being run by a lot of psychologically immature experts who take sadistic delight in raising our hopes to new heights with good news in order to watch us suffer and scream when they tell us the bad?

Tom Tiede

A wolf in GOP clothing?

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Jimmy Carter is about to find out that his first 18 months of presidential politics were the easiest. All he has had to do so far was weather a Democratic fusillade against his accent, his ideas, his birthplace and his religion. Now comes the real fight, with the meanest, roughest, most conniving and shameless assault force in politics: the Republicans.

It's no telling if Carter is ready, but the GOP is. For months a team of sewer-stepping young people from the Republican National Committee has been searching under every rock in Georgia for Carter dirt. The task force, reminiscent of the Republican organizations which institutionalized Watergate, has compiled a roomful of anti-Carter information which in weeks to come will be released to the public through leaks, whispers and official indignations.

The material is said to be largely an accumulation of alleged contradictions in Carter's statements and activities. For example, the task force gleefully notes that Carter, who crows about morality in government, was so friendly with Spiro Agnew that in 1973 he personally urged the former vice president to stay in office despite charges of corruption against him. This story is not new, Carter having admitted it on several occasion. But drawn up in documented form, Republicans feel it might negatively impress the voters.

Aside from this small caliber ammunition, the RNC snoopers have reportedly uncovered what in essence are smoking guns. Details are secret, but one Republican familiar with the gumshoe operation hints that Carter is most vulnerable regarding federal subsidies for his peanut farm operation. The Republican says the taxpayer cash has been substantial and wonders aloud "if it's not just possible Jimmy has become a millionaire the easy way." And he adds: "His business may have also prospered by his term as governor."

There are uncounted other nasties as well. Religious. Social. Political. Republicans have gathered a particularly large amount of information concerned with Carter's stormy relations with the Georgia legislature in 1971-1974. "We have concentrated on the years of his public life," the Republican official says, "but we have also gone back to his Navy days and before. I've only seen a small part of the data, but even that has been, well, very revealing."

Revealing, perhaps. But of whom? Four years after Richard Nixon's Committee to Re-Elect the President cut itself a special path in the political subterranean, imaginative GOP officers are again showing themselves to be somewhat like rotten fish by moonlight: they shine but they stink. Accentuating the negative is politics at its worse. Subtle hints of an opponent's evil is moral mugging. Organizing a task force to fashion character assassinations is, at this point in time, a slap at public tolerance.

It should be noted that the Republicans deny any impropriety, and where have we heard this before, on the grounds that attacking the enemy is a traditional election year tactic. Committee officers say no smears are intended, merely well researched facts "to which the public is entitled." For instance: if the Republicans have discovered (as they say they have) that Carter's family has mistreated some of its farmhands, "We think this is an indication of the man, and we think people should know about it now rather than later."

That premise is admittedly unassailable. The screening of office seekers must necessarily include personality and character scrutiny. But a task force for such? A herd of partisan detectives? There is little in the way of public protection that can come from organized fault finding, particularly when it is biased. Muckraking can be an honorable service; politicized, however, it fills with maggots.

"Hi there, farmer, what do you think of J. Carter?"

"Well, bub, I don't like him."

"Okay. Mind if we tape record this for the public good?"

Watergate lives. The Republican National Committee still has soiled hands. Note to the Carter campaign: watch your file cabinets.

Glad you asked

Action Line is omitted from today's paper due to illness of the editor.

Q: Wasn't Jimmy Carter's mother a Peace Corps volunteer in China? — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Odum, Birmingham, Ala.

A: Right rumor — wrong country. A nurse, Mrs. Lillian Carter (widowed since 1953) signed to serve as a medical volunteer in 1966 to relieve her boredom. But it was in India, not China.

Here's how she broke the news to the Democratic nomine for President. "Do you love me, Jimmy?" she asked her son. "Yes, Mother. What the hell are you going to do now?" After she told him, she went through nine months of rigorous training in Chicago and told her Peace Corps superiors that she'd like to serve in India because "the South has been so terrible to minorities."

Like any recruit, once there she was assigned to a specialty new to her — to teach "family planning and contraceptive methods to unreceptive factory workers." Finally the head doctor spelled out the facts of Indian sex life for her. "Look," he said, "all these people have is sex. They cook and eat in one room. They even have sex in that room in front of their children. They don't know anything else. Don't try and change things."

Lillian Carter suspected that the Indian doctor and others distrusted her because it was rumored that she was a CIA agent. She found conditions depressing and backward. "Even vasectomies," she observed, "were performed without anesthesia."

Miss Lillian, now 77, told reporter Kandy Stroud she has one luxury — like Elvis Presley in his first flush of fame, she had a "string of Cadillacs" over the years. Jimmy's sister, on the other hand, is a distaff Evel Knievel, racing her Honda motorcycle through the quiet Georgia countryside — raising dust and eyebrows.

Q: I've had such bad luck with my TV repairman. Is it true that in Mexico they deal very harshly with crooked ones? — Mrs. A. Patten, Omaha, Neb.

A: True. Mexico has passed tough legislation to protect the consumer — giving jail terms to dishonest TV repairmen. Also, if an auto mechanic fails to fix a car right the first time, he must provide another car for the owner to drive until his car is satisfactorily repaired.

Q: Who was the first black player in the American League? — E.M., Canton, Ohio.

A: It was slugging outfielder Larry Doby, signed by Bill Veeck in July 1947 for the Cleveland Indians after Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier in the National League with Brooklyn earlier that year.

Q: I hear Henny Youngman has written another book. What's it about ? — Leonard Hackman, Brooklyn.

A: "It's about 160 pages long," the comedian says. Titled "Anonymously — By Henny Youngman," it's a sequel to a Bicentennial paperback the comic wrote which had a somewhat longer title: "Come Celebrate the Bicentennial with Jokes Henny Youngman Told 200 Years Ago!"

A: Wasn't there a real baby left at the United Nations, just like in the movie, "A Global Affair"? — Mrs. Elmer O'Brian, Lubbock, Tex.

A: No. That's a question repeated every time the film runs on TV. "A baby has never been left at the United Nations," advises a spokeswoman. "The incident portrayed in the movie was fictional."

Q: Did Marlene Dietrich ever make a film with Ronald Colman? And can it be seen on TV? — Dennis Lowell, Richmond, Va.

A: Yes, and it is available for TV. A 1944 Arabian Nights fable, "Kismet" was made memorable by a dancing scene in which Dietrich had her body painted gold. The later Broadway musical (1955) of the same name is the most recent of five film versions of the story. The Colman-Dietrich film also goes by the title "Oriental Dreams."

Q: What's the new device that's been invented to further aid the metermaids? — Barbara Sweet, Miami.

A: It's a new kind of electronic parking meter. When a parked car has left its space with time still remaining, the meter automatically resets to zero. Thus preventing a freeloader from using the unused time.

Q: Any idea who first made the remark, "Politics makes strange bedfellows"? — Silas R., Richmond, Va.

A: It was Charles Dudley Warner (1829-1900), a writer who once collaborated with Mark Twain on "The Gilded Age." A recent story on the front page of the Miami News and other newspaper shored up the notion that "politics makes strange bedfellows." The head read: "Call Girls Point to Politicians . . . Best Clients and Kinky Sex."

Q: The Los Angeles Dodgers' Burt Hooton — I hear he undergoes a special treatment to improve his pitching. What is it? — Ralph Jones, Oxnard, Cal.

A: Hypnotism. And Burt doesn't give a hoot who knows it. Hypnotism, he reveals, gives him the confidence on the mound that he only used to have in the dugout.

Ann Landers

She's sure boy stole money

Dear Ann Landers: Some time ago I went to my daughter's house for dinner. She also invited her in-laws who brought their 15-year-old son. We had a pleasant evening but when I got home, I discovered $70 was missing from my wallet.

I phoned my daughter to tell her of the incident. I was certain the young boy had taken the money and wanted to warn her. She couldn't believe it and insisted I must have lost the $70 elsewhere.

Last evening, the in-laws were guests in my home. Again they brought the boy. This morning I left for the store, thinking I had $14 in my purse. When I attempted to pay for a purchase, I discovered only small change. My wallet was empty. Now I'm sure that the boy is a thief.

In two weeks I will be entertaining the entire family at my home. The in-laws will be there, including, of course, the boy. How can I safeguard the purses of my guests? (The women usually put them on the bed or on the dresser.) I don't want to embarrass anyone. — Up Against It

Dear Up: Engage a sitter (ostensibly as a maid) to help the ladies with their wraps. Ask her to remain full-time in the bedroom and keep an eye on the purses. (No details need be given.) That boy needs professional help — and soon. Let's hope someone has the courage to suggest it to his parents.

Dear Ann Landers: A nutty divorced woman moved next door. She has a son, six, and a daughter, seven. The son can't play with girls and the daughter can't play with boys, because their screwball mother says all the trouble in the world starts with sex and she doesn't want her children to "get involved."

What can we say to our youngsters when this woman orders them to stay away? — K.T.B.

Dear K.T.B.: Tell your children they shouldn't go where they aren't wanted. No other explanation is necessary. But let's hope those unfortunate neighbor kids get enough wholesome exposure at school to offset the crippling effects of their sick mother.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday my wife announced right after dinner, "I saved you $105 today." I was very eager to learn how she did it because this woman has always been a big spender. This is what she said:

"As you know, Harry, I always watch the paper for sales. Well, today I was really lucky. I bought three dresses at half price. They were originally marked $75. Can you imagine THREE $75 dresses for $105?"

I really got sore. The woman has a closet full of dresses that she bought at sales and she's never put them on her back. They don't fit right, they are too short or too long, or she is "waiting for the style to come back."

We are in debt up to our necks because my wife can't resist a bargain. I talked to our minister last year and he said, "Close all the charge accounts — she's a charge-a-holic." Tell me what to do. — Poorhouse Here I Come

Dear Poorhouse: Take the clergyman's advice — NOW. You'd be doing your wife a favor. Some people need protection from themselves and compulsive buyers are at the top of the list.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Golfers: all talk, no listen

Many — most, perhaps all "golf widows," wives of men who spend all their weekends looking for lost balls and flubbing three-foot putts, view with alarm what the boys call "the 19th hole," meaning the clubhouse bar where they gather after a round to brag of their exploits and get smashed, or lament their mistrials and get smashed.

Queried, the average golfer will tell you that he goes there for a refreshing drink and good talk about the round with his fellow golfers. Talk it is — communication it ain't.

The linksman, from hacker to scratch player, will tell his wife that he's been talking over the game with his partner and opponents. The contention is that there is a cheerful give and take of accounts, questions, answers, advice, jeers, joshing. Nothing could be further from the truth. When an inveterate golfer mentions "talking over" the round with his companions, he usually means telling his buddies how he played every hole, how he battled his slice, how the fast greens ruined his putting. He has no idea what they replied, because he was replaying the 17th while they talked and waiting for them to shut up so he could tell them about it.

In most other sports there is an exchange of ideas, congratulations, condolences. Tennis players ask about the slice serve or comment on the cross-court volley. Handball players discuss kill shots and ceiling balls. Baseball players comment on the slider; basketball players carry on animated discussions of the pick-and-go and the slam dunk.

The golfer, however, is a solitary and slightly sour athlete, bedeviled by a bad hook, sand traps, rolling greens. He could care less about your birdie on the fourth hole; he wants you to listen to his disaster at the water hazard on the 17th. He will keep his mouth shut (briefly) while you are talking but he won't be listening.

Ed: "Howdja do, Bill? An 84? Nice round. You should have seen the number of putts I had today lipping the cup. I think the greens—"

Bill: "Boy, I chipped in on the 14th—fact! Must have been 85 yards. I was in the rough, but had a good lie, so I took a nine-iron and went for the pin. It was—"

Jack: "You wouldn't believe how many times I went into the trees! Honest to Pete, if they were on the left, I hooked — on the right, slice. Twice I had to drop out — couldn't get a swing at all. And you know that clump of firs by the 12th? Well—"

Tom: "You talk about trees! I was under a low branch on the 16th, so I got out a one-iron for a low shot out onto the fairway. The damn ball hit a limb and richocheted right back at me! I hadda duck or it would have—"

Bill: "There was a cross-wind blowing, remember? So I played it a little to the left, just wanting to get up close for my par. When I hit down on it—"

Ed: "Had one from, I swear, 30 feet. I studied the break real careful, gave it a good tap and it rolled right up to the—"

Jack: "And those sycamores by the eleventh, you know? I could play this course with a driver, a putter and a chain saw. Hit a good solid three-wood from the edge of the fairway, and would you believe, I—"

Bill: "It landed just on the fringe, took two bounces and rolled into the cup. I couldn't believe my—"

Tom: "Lemme tell you about the eighth. I was up near the bunker, see, lying two. So I . . ."

And so on, far into the night.

Dr. Lamb

Wife frets over mate's ills

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is 45 years old, 6 foot 3 and weighs 190 pounds. He runs about eight miles a week in four periods, swims a mile three times a week plays tennis at least once a week, often two or three hours on Saturday and Sunday in summer.

I am very conscious of nutrition and he has a good diet. Even so, for a number of years he has been taking vitamin supplements, including extra vitamin C (500 milligrams per day) which I don't feel necessary in view of his balanced diet.

Recently he had a company physical and has received $35 worth of pills with no explanation except to take daily. He gets Cyclospasmol for his Raynaud's disease which I assume he will take only in coldest weather. The disease does not really bother him except that his fingers turn white when it is cold. He is to take Sterazolidin for his occasional complaints of tennis elbow, which has never been severe enough to prevent him from accepting any invitation to play. He also gets Colbenemid because on three separate occasions during a three week period his uric acid count has been high. He had been complaining about a sore second toe during the jogging and tennis.

The doctor who prescribed all these pills is a board certified internist and undoubtedly capable. But I feel that he may be catering to mild hypochondria and I am somewhat concerned about the interaction of all these pills, since at the moment my husband is taking all three in addition to his vitamins. Have you any comment?

DEAR READER — Yes, I have a comment. I appreciate your concern but it is misplaced. It is easy for you to say your husband's white fingers in cold weather don't bother him but he may be a better judge of how his fingers feel. It so happenes that Cyclospasmol is not effective if used sporadically as you suggest only in coldest weather.

Anyone, particularly a man, since men are more susceptible to its complications, with abnormally high uric acid levels should be taking medicine to control it. This goes double if the man has symptoms. Untreated high uric acid levels often lead to gradual changes that could be prevented by the good treatment your husband is receiving.

Your husband would not be the first person with some elbow problems who persists in playing tennis and that is no argument against him having medicines for it.

You needn't worry about the interaction of the various medicines and vitamins that your husband is taking. You are probably right that he doesn't need the extra vitamin C but in that amount it is not likely to hurt him either. I would be more concerned about the eggs you feed him regularly that you mentioned in the rest of your letter describing your healthy diet for him.

It sounds to me if your husband is fortunate to have a good doctor who is doing his best to not only help your husband with his present problems but help keep him in good health for the future. You should be pleased, not concerned.

South's six-diamond bid was based on the principle that if you can count 11 sure winners, including first-round control of all suits, some divine Providence will give you a 12th trick.

When he looked at dummy his first glance indicated that Providence appeared to be looking some other way. There seemed to be mo way to avoid two heart losers. Then South got an inspiration. He just might be able to ruff one heart in dummy.

He started operation heart ruff by leading a low heart. West won and led a second club. There was nothing better to do.

South ruffed, played one trump which was all he could afford, cashed three high spades in order to get rid of two of dummy's hearts, cashed his ace of hearts, ruffed his last heart with dummy's nine of trumps, drew trumps and had his slam.

He was lucky. Spades had to break 4-3 and trump 3-2, but he had given the cards their chance.

Ask the Jacobys

We continue to get questions as to the origin of the name "Bridge."

In the game of whist there was no bidding. In the original game that did allow the bidding the dealer either made trump by saying, "I make it spades, hearts, etc.", or "I'll bridge it" in which case his partner had to make trump. The opponents had no right to bid in that first form of the new game.

First Crusoe was nervous

It has been reported that the original Robinson Crusoe was a man named Alexander Selkirk, who left his ship in the Pacific in 1703 to set up housekeeping on an island off the coast of South America. Less widely known are the details. Selkirk got into a violent argument with the ship's captain, one William Dampier. So Selkirk jumped overboard and swam ashore. He slept on the island overnight, but when he hailed the ship the next day, alas, the captain just laughed at him, and the vessel sailed away. Nine years later, another ship came by, spotted Selkirk's fire, and sent a boat ashore to rescue him. After two days of debate, Selkirk finally went aboard, but he was nervous about it. That ship, too, was captained by Dampier.

Hughes autopsy report sought

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill has sent a list of questions to be answered by Methodist Hospital officials in Houston concerning the autopsy on the body of billionaire Howard Hughes.

Hill said Monday the questions were aimed at obtaining a copy of the autopsy report so it could be used in court proceedings.

Hughes died April 5 at the age of 70 enroute to Methodist Hospital from Acapulco, Mexico.

The state attorney general has been investigating the final years of Hughes' life in an effort to determine the circumstances under which the billionaire recluse lived.

Ted Bowen, president of Methodist Hospital, refused to comment on the questions but said, "We'll certainly deliver a copy of the autopsy report when it is properly subpoenaed."

Hill declined to speculate on what he expects the report to disclose.

A Mexican doctor who examined Hughes shortly before he left that country said the billionaire was suffering from "neglect."

The attorney general said he expects to be in court Friday during the first local hearing in connection with the legal squabble by those hoping to obtain at least a share of the Hughes estate.

If Houston Probate Judge Pat Gregory declares Hughes a legal resident of Texas, the state will be aided in its bid to collect inheritance taxes from the estate.

Largest planet

Jupiter, the largest planet, has an equatorial diameter of 88,000 miles, 11 times that of the earth. Its mean distance from the sun is 480 million miles and it takes almost 12 earth years to commplete a circuit of the sun. Jupiter's extremely rapid rotation gives it a day of just under 10 hours. A point on the Jovian equator moves at a speed of 22,000 miles an hour, as compared with 1,000 miles for a point on earth's equator.

Canals, life on Mars caught imagination

NEW YORK (AP) — It was 1877, and at the University of Milan the Italian astronomer Giovanni Schiaparelli was looking at Mars.

Schiaparelli reported sighting thin lines crossing the surface of the red planet and he called them "canali." He meant "channels," natural formations, but they soon became known as "canals,' which could imply they had been built by intelligent beings. That touched off a long scientific controversy about the possibility of life on Mars that Viking I may help settle.

The American astronomer Percival Lowell, around the turn of the century, popularized the notion that the canals were the work of intelligent beings. The canals he saw in his telescope intersected at what he called "oases."

Lowell wrote that the canals were for transporting water and that they were left-over evidence of a civilization that lived on a planet much like earth. The idea was that the smaller red planet lost its atmosphere and consequently its water.

In his book "The Cosmic Connection," Cornell University astronomer Carl Sagan says that when Schiaparelli was studying Mars it was in an orbit relatively close to earth, 40 million miles, but that the view was generally blurred and fuzzy.

"But there were moments when the earth's atmosphere steadied and the true detail of the disc of Mars seemed to flash out," Sagan writes. "Schiaparelli was astonished to see a network of fine straight lines covering the disc of Mars.

"He called these lines canali, which in Italian means channels. However, canali was translated into English as canals, a word with a clear imputation of design."

Lowell, brother of the poet Amy Lowell, became interested in the canals while serving as a diplomat in Chosen, now Korea. He returned to set up a private observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., where he found the same canals, some of them thousands of miles long.

"The Martian civilization, Lowell imagined, had constructed an extensive network of canals to carry water from the melting polar caps to the habitations in more equatorial climes," Sagan says.

"The turning point of the argument was the straightness of the canals, some of them following great circles for thousands of miles," Sagan adds. "Such geometrical configuration, Lowell thought, could not be produced by geological processes."

However, from this point on to the space age, some of the best visual astronomers, in rare moments of perfect viewing, were able to resolve the straight lines into a multitude of spots and irregular detail — not canali or canals at all, Sagan explains.

And with such developments as the discovery that the polar caps are actually carbon dioxide and not water, the idea of advanced life of Mars faded.

Dispute rages over U.S. nuclear exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Are U.. exports of uranium, formerly considered routine and harmless, actually arming the world with nuclear weapons? The controversy is now before the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

For years, the United States has been supplying low-enriched uranium for India's Tarapus nuclear plant, which generates electricity for the Bombay area. A hearing today revolves around what would once have been a routine application for an export license.

Now, however, three citizen groups are objecting to further exports because India is building a reprocessing plant at Tarapur, capable of extracting from the spent nuclear fuel the byproduct plutonium, which could be used in nuclear bombs.

The hearing follows an acknowledgement by U.S. officials that it was U.S. uranium shipments and technical aid, meant only for civilian power generation, that made possible India's development of an atomic bomb and its explosion in 1974.

Fort Sumter

On April 12, 1861, South Carolina troops attacked Fort Sumter, forcing Union troops to evacuate, and touching off the Civil War.

These officials said India's ability to use peaceful nuclear technology for bomb development was misjudged.

Although India used a research reactor supplied by Canada to produce bomb material, officials said, India also made use of U.S. uranium, "heavy water," and scientific training.

Last July 2, the NRC approved another shipment of more than 9,000 kilograms of enriched uranium to the Tarapur plant, but held open any decision on further exports pending this hearing.

The hearing directly involves another proposed shipment of 12,000 kilograms of enriched uranium.

The shipments have been opposed by the Sierra Club, the Union of Concerned Scientists, and the Natural Resources Defense Council, which says safeguards are inadequate to prevent the diversion of nuclear materials into nuclear weaponry or terrorist activity.

The issue has brought dissenting votes from NRC Commissioner Victor Gilinsky when his three colleagues approved the last shipment to Tarapur and, earlier, when they approved an export of nuclear power plant parts to Spain.

India's explosion of a nuclear weapon not only made that country a member of the exclusive "nuclear club" but increased the pressure by Pakistan, Iran and other nations to develop their own nuclear weapons.

In his dissent from the last approval of uranium shipments to India, Gilinsky said, "The need for effective safeguards over reprocessing and the subsequent storage of separated plutonium is particularly acute in this case given India's continuing nuclear explosives program and India's failure to renounce the use of such explosives as weapons through ratification of the NPT (Nuclear Proliferation Treaty.)"

Grave marker is not Tom Paine's

TIVOLI, N.Y. (AP) — A marble tombstone thought possibly to mark Tom Paine's final resting place apparently is just the stone of an admirer, a researcher says.

The six-foot obelisk engraved "In memory of" the Revolutionary War pamphleteer was unearthed at a farm near here Saturday. The opposite side of the stone bore a similar legend for one John G. Lasher.

The discovery aroused excitement because scholars have been unable to locate Paine's grave. The author of "Common Sense" and other fiery tracts was buried at his New Rochelle, N.Y., farm in 1809, but when the body was moved to his native England several years later, authorities refused reburial and it met an unknown fate.

Frances Gale, a college student doing research on Hudson Valley architecture, found a clipping from a Kingston, N.Y., newspaper dated Sept. 9, 1874, that may explain the stone found here.

She said the article described a visit by Lasher, "an eccentric individual residing near Madelin" to a nearby marble yard. Lasher, described as "a staunch follower of Tom Paine" ordered a monument inscribed in memory of his hero.

The clipping said Lasher had the obelisk erected in his front yard. When he died three years later, his family apparently used the opposite side of the stone to mark their relative's grave.

Panel taking new look at proposed tax bill changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee is taking a second look at dozens of amendments that were written into a big tax bill last month, including several that benefit only one or two firms.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., arranged today's meeting of his committee in response to criticism of the amendments as the Senate neared a vote on extending last year's individual tax cuts at least through next June.

Unless the tax cuts are renewed, a four-member family making $15,000 annually would face a tax hike of $180 a year. For a single person earning $8,000, the increase would be $182 and for a couple with no children and earning $10,000, there would be a $204 hike. A family of four earning $6,000 would pay $445 more.

Long called his committee into session after liberal senators attacked several amendments to the tax bill as a windfall for special interests.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who are seeking to reconsider some of the amendments, concede several amendments now being discussed are meritorious.

But as a whole, Proxmire said, the amendments are "welfare for the well-to-do." Kennedy said the package invites speculation that the tax laws are for sale to wealthy campaign contributors.

The amendments were proposed by one or more of the committee's members and approved by the panel without hearings and with no public announcement of who would benefit.

But all were subject to scrutiny, before or after approval, by congressional and Treasury Department experts.

Sponsors usually cite one of two justifications for the amendments, which together give hundreds of millions of dollars worth of tax benefits to companies, individuals or investment groups.

An amendment is necessary, sponsors say, to relieve an unintended burden, that grew out of a previous tax-law change, or to provide an incentive for some worthwhile cause, such as energy conservation.

In a statement prepared for the hearing, Long said the committee, because of time pressures, had to make numerous decisions with the clear understanding they would be more thoroughly considered at a later date.

He said criticism of the panel is rooted in a fundamental disagreement over what taxes should be raised or cut.

"Tax reform is in the eye of the beholder, and nothing but unsufferable conceit would cause anyone to believe that his view is always right and that of others is is always wrong," Long said.

Opponents usually refer to amendments with which they disagree as loopholes.

One of the most expensive amendments being questioned would cost the Treasury an estimated $40 million a year for the benefit of the major oil companies. The amendment would make certain that firms belonging to the Iranian oil consortium continue to receive a U.S. tax credit for foreign taxes paid on their Iranian oil.

It is easy to determine who would benefit from some of the amendments. For example, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., was looking out for a home-state industry when he won approval of an amendment providing a tax credit for homeowners who install energy-saving thermostats.

One of the biggest manufacturers of such equipment is Honeywell, Inc., of Minnesota.

Other amendments are not so simple. One, proposed by Long, would provide tax relief for U.S. firms that own foreign-based shipping subsidiaries. An investigation by the Wall Street Journal discovered the businessman for whom Long offered the amendment would not benefit at all because the committee staff had drawn the proposal so tightly.

Some amendments, while proposed for one company, would help numerous other firms as well. For example, hundreds of restaurants would benefit from an amendment, proposed by Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., on behalf of the Marriot Corp., that would free employers from reporting waitress' tip income from credit-card sales.

Other beneficiaries of the amendments, identified by Proxmire or Kennedy, include: Investor Diversified Services, United Airlines, Chrysler Corp., large shipbuilders, Boise Cascade, General Electric, Westinghouse, Eaton Corp., Encyclopedia Britannica, major life-insurance companies and Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

COAT ENDANGERED — Mrs. Barbara Jordan of Chicago holds her expensive ocelot coat that the government is suing. The coat, made from the skin of a South American cat on the endangered species list, is being sued so officials may confiscate and destroy it. By law the item made from an endangered specie, not the owner, is sued. Mrs. Jordan says she did not know ocelots were an endangered specie.

Attempt to reach bodies in mine a tedious job

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — H.N. Kirkpatrick is trying to rob a killer coal mine of the 11 men entombed there.

"It's pitch dark, it's damp," Kirkpatrick says of the mine in southeastern Kentucky where 11 miners died in March. "It's also depressing."

Kirkpatrick, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, is involved in the long and tedious process of recovering the bodies from Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 Big Black Mountain mine at Oven Fork.

The mine was sealed because it was deemed too dangerous to try to remove the bodies. Last Wednesday, the shaft was opened and four volunteer recovery teams began to claw their way towards the bodies.

So far, the recovery teams have moved 2,000 feet into the mine. They still have about three miles to go, which Kirkpatrick says will take about three months.

"There's no light in the mine. The only lights are your lamps on your head. There's no oxygen. No power has been restored to the mine and we have encountered a few rock falls," Kirkpatrick said in an interview Monday.

The men were killed on March 11 when the mine was rocked by a methane gas explosion. Two days earlier, 15 men had died in the same area of the shaft in another methane explosion. Their bodies were removed earlier.

The recovery teams are going into the mine about 500 feet at a time, securing each area, then moving on. The volunteers work with masks on their faces and oxygen tanks on their backs.

"I was the first one in," said Kirkpatrick, 56, who spent 15 years as an underground coal miner. "The crews alternate every hour because it's hard to work more than an hour with oxygen on."

Kirkpatrick said engineers have discovered "there's possibly a body of water that has us blocked between where we are now and two-southeast."

Two-southeast is the section where the bodies are located. It is 1,400 feet beneath the surface of Big Black Mountain.

Relatives of the victims have criticized the plan being used, charging that Scotia wants to repair the shaft so that mining can be resumed as soon as the bodies are recovered. They want the bodies recovered by digging a new shaft straight toward the bodies.

"Our main concern is recovery of the bodies," Kirkpatrick said. "After that, the mine will have to be reventilated so that the state and federal inspectors and the company and the Scotia Employes Association can make a thorough investigation. It will be a thorough investigation, and it will be quite some time after the bodies are recovered before they will be running coal."

Ford to ask restoration of defense cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is preparing to ask Congress to restore about $2.3 billion in funds it kept from his defense budget, according to administration sources. The money would go for Navy ships and research.

The sources say Ford will also ask Congress to take back about $1 billion it approved for other ships and planes he does not want now.

Further, the sources say, Ford will renew his appeal for measures to hold down manpower cost increases and to sell surplus metals from the strategic stockpile. The actions would yield the Pentagon about $1.4 billion next year to help offset other spending, they calculate.

Ford's move, likely to come this week, would appear to be a challenge to the House and Senate to perform surgery on the record $114.8 billion defense budget late in an election year session.

One senior official spoke of the impending Ford actions as a way of "keeping the pressure on Congress."

"The Democrats talk about spending only for what is needed for defense and we'd be happy if they'd help us do just that," the official said.

The sources say Ford is willing to accept only $300 million of a $2.6 billion reduction made by Congress in procurement and research authority for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

They indicated Ford would go along with a cutback in the Trident submarine missile program because technical problems have slowed it down. Production funds would be reduced while there would be some step up in development money for the key missile.

Much of the nearly $1 billion Congress voted on its own initiative would go for ships the Ford administration wants to defer until later years, and for six Navy A-6 attack planes the Pentagon never asked for. This money Ford wants Congress to take back.

The sources say Ford will remind Congress that he asked early this year for a number of steps to hold down escalating personnel costs. He will specifically urge Congress to permit a change in the formula for determining the wages of some 450,000 blue-collar workers who are on the Defense Department payroll. He also will restate his request that Congress abolish a 1 per cent "kicker" on top of automatic annual pay increases based on the cost of living rises.

Another arrest made in Japan's Lockheed probe

TOKYO (AP) — Prosecutors investigating Lockheed payoffs in Japan arrested another officer of the aircraft firm's former sales agent here Tuesday on charges of destroying evidence.

Tatsuya Nakai, 46, a section chief at Marubeni Corp., was the third Marubeni employe arrested on Lockheed-related charges in two days and the 14th person arrested in the course of Japan's Lockheed investigation. One of the 14 has been released.

Nakai was accused of having destroyed records of Marubeni executives' daily activities for 1972 and 1973 shortly after Lockheed revealed in February that it had paid out about $12 million to influence sales of its aircraft in Japan.

The other Marubeni officials under arrest include former company chairman Hiro Hiyama, 66, and former managing directors Toshiharu Okubo, 62, and Hiroshi Itoh, 49. They are accused of perjury, violation of foreign currency control laws, or both.

Authorities also have arrested six officials of All Nippon Airways, a domestic airline operating 16 Lockheed TriStar jets, two associates of right-wing power broker Yoshio Kodama, and a driver and another section chief for Marubeni. Bunichi Muzutani, 63-year-old business associate of Kodama, was released Monday although questioning of him was to continue.

Lockheed executives testified in Washington that about $7 million of the $12 million they spent as payoffs in Japan went to Kodama and that Marubeni officials suggested bribing high government officials.

Kodama himself is not in custody because of ill health but has been indicted on income tax evasion and foreign currency violation charges.

Rhodesia taking steps to curb flight of whites

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — In an effort to stop a growing exodus of whites alarmed at black guerrrilla warfare, Rhodesia's white minority government has severely restricted the amount of money travelers may take out of the country.

People traveling for business or pleasure may now take $500 out of Rhodesia, a reduction of one-third, and the amount people may take when emigrating to another country was reduced to $1,600 from $8,000.

One leading white politician, chief government whip Dennis Divaris, immediately criticized the move, saying it would encourage frightened whites to flee rather keeping them in the country.

The travel money restrictions, part of an austerity budget approved by the Rhodesian parliament, were also seen as part of an attempt to slow the flow of foreign exchange reserves.

The restrictions came as figures were dislosed showing that Rhodesia had a net loss of 2,280 whites in the first six months of this year, compared with a net gain of 1,590 in the first half of 1975.

Rhodesia, a landlocked country of about 5.7 million blacks and 270,000 whites, was a British colony until it unilaterally declared independence in 1965. Since then, the international community has imposed a series of economic and political sanctions in an unsuccessful effort to get Prime Minister Ian Smith's government to agree to black majority rule.

One such sanction also limits travel since in almost all countries a Rhodesian passport is not accepted.

Four years ago, black nationalists began waging guerrilla warfare against the Smith regime. Since the first of this year, guerrilla attacks have sharply increased against white motorists, rail lines and white business outposts.

Rhodesian security chiefs announced Tuesday that one white soldier and four guerrillas had been killed in clashes since Monday. They said two other blacks were killed by government troops, one for being in a curfew area after hours and the other for running away when challenged.

The Rhodesian government says 1,089 guerrillas and 132 police and soldiers have died in four years of warfare.

Intelligence sources here say the number of guerrillas operating inside Rhodesia has increased from 80 last year to 1,300 this month. Many enter the country from bases in neighboring Mozambique, where a Marxist government took power after the end of Portuguese rule last year.

Eric Bone, head of the Rhodesian Travel Agents' Association said Rhodesians were bitterly resentful at the new travel restrictions, which he said made them "virtual prisoners in their own country."

Whites leaving the country offer a variety of reasons.

Some are fed up with being called to do military service as territorial soldiers up to four times a year. Others believe there is no future for them — either under black rule or in the continuing conflict.

Many of those who leave are young people in quest of a new life elsewhere.

"We've become part-time civilians because of the war" said a young insurance clerk. "We spent so much time in the army that our careers are being jeopardized."

Most of the emigrants look to South Africa, Rhodesia's southern neighbor, as the best place to resettle. But South African authorities have been limiting visas for Rhodesians — apparently at the request of the Rhodesian government.

Moreover, young Rhodesians who move to South Africa to dodge the draft find themselves immediately liable for military service in their new country.

Many of the Rhodesians who stay put do it because, other than South Africa, there is no where else to go. The United Nations sanctions mean their green Rhodesian passports are not recognized by other governments.

Car licensing officials liable in crash suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attorney for an insurance group says a number of court cases show state motor vehicle officials may now be liable for the actions of drivers licenced in their states.

—In Wisconsin, a state driving examiner who approved a license for a woman weighing more than 300 pounds is sued for negligence on the claim that she was too fat to control her vehicle to avoid an accident.

—The state of Iowa loses a $235,000 suit after a patient released from a mental institution is granted a driver's license and is involved in an accident.

In Nevada, the state settles for $35,000 out of court in a suit stemming from a fatal accident involving a Nevada driver who had a valid license despite several convictions for drunk driving.

Andrew Hricko of the Washington-based Insurance Institute of Highway Safety says past decisions had all been in favor of the motor vehicle officials, with courts saying they could not be sued for the performance of their government duties.

But Hricko now sees that changing.

He says the trend indicates that courts are now accepting suits against motor vehicle commissioners and other officials if driving licenses are issued routinely. In other words, Hricko expained, motor vehicle commissioners may have to show that they tried to identify drunk drivers or the mentally handicapped before issuing licenses if they are to avoid being sued.

In one case, he said, the New York Court of Claims refused to dismiss a suit against the state motor vehicle commissioner, saying the state failed to properly administer a program of rehabilitation for drunk drivers. A participant in the program was granted a license and two days later crashed head-on into another vehicle.

"His blood test showed a blood-alcohol content ... more than 3½ times the amount necessary for evidence of intoxication in New York," Hricko wrote in a paper on the subject of liability of motor vehicle administrators.

The state of Wisconsin so far has won the case involving the overweight woman, but it is being appealed. The examiner had approved the license for the 5-foot, 1-inch woman who later was killed in the auto accident.

A passenger in her car sued, claiming the driver could not manage and control the vehicle "due to her obesity."

Hricko said that "in cases where persons have been specifically prohibited by law from having such licenses, the administrator must take reasonable action to determine if applicants or licensees fall within these categories (habitual drunkards, narcotic addicts)."

On the other hand, he said, administrators "will not be held liable for the exercise of their discretion in the issuance of a driver's license. There must, however, be evidence that discretion was in fact exercised and that the issuance of licenses was not conducted in a routine or perfunctory manner."

Ocean pickets protect whales from Russ ships

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In its first confrontation with Russian whalers this year, a Canadian antiwhaling expedition put up a picket line of small boats that saved a pod of the giant seagoing mammals, a local spokesman reported Tuesday.

Eric Perlman said members of Greenpeace, a Vancouver, B.C.-based conservation organization, used a high speed converted minesweeper to catch the Russian whalers 1,400 miles southwest of here Monday.

He said Greenpeace President Bob Hunter, his wife Bobbi and whale researcher Dr. Paul Spong maneuvered small rubber "Zodiac" rafts with outboard motors between a whaling ship and a pod of sperm whales.

During a 15-minute confrontation, the Russian chaser boat prowling for whales closed on the rafts at full speed, stopping just short of ramming them.

"By this time, our other two zodiacs had arrived and we had a floating picket line in the middle of the Pacific Ocean with a Russian chaser boat stopped dead in its tracks," Hunter told Perlman via radiophone.

As the Russian boats apparently gave up the hunt, Hunter related, a small boat with an all-woman crew came alongside the factory ship and gave smiling Russian crewmen "Save the whales" buttons. The incident occurred on the Hecata Bank, a fishing area in the Pacific about two thirds of the way from San Francisco to Hawaii.

Greenpeace members confronted Russian whalers last year in their ongoing effort to stop the killing of whales.

Life on Mars...

But the search for signs of some kind of organic life are a key part of the Viking 1 mission.

Sagan, one of the exponents of the search for life on Mars, was at Viking headquarters in Pasadena, Calif., and he joined in the cheering Tuesday when Viking 1 landed on the Gold Plain of Mars.

Much of the current scientific debate about the nature of Mars centers on the weather in the past. Many scientists are convinced that the surface features were carved by flowing streams of water, but others suggest that violent Martian winds sculpted some of the features.

Dr. Harold Masursky, leader of the Viking landing site team, has said streamlined islands in channels seen in recent photographs were probably shaped by rushing water.

"If the channels were cut by flowing water, there may have been a great deal of water," Masursky said.

No-fault divorce laws not working?

WASHINGTON (AP) — No-fault divorce laws are leaving most women and children worse off financially than they would have been after separations under other divorce plans, according to a new study.

The reason is that most states have balked at putting a price-tag on the economic contribution of the person who has kept house and reared the children during the marriage, the report said.

The homemaker's contributions are credited with little cash value in contrast to skills developed during the marriage by the partner who worked outside the home, the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year said in its report to President Ford.

"One 1972 nationwide study of 133 couples divorced since 1968 showed that after alimony and child support payments are made, the economic status of former husbands improves while that of former wives deteriorates," said former Rep. Martha Griffiths, who headed a homemaker committee for the commission.

The commission recommended to Ford that economic value of homemakers be considered in divorce laws and in laws such as those governing Social Security and disability payments.

The commission praised the concept of no-fault divorce but said the way it is being administered in most states hurts women and children more than under previous divorce standards.

In the past, fault on the part of one spouse or another had to be proven before a divorce was granted. This gave the spouse who was dependent — in most cases, the wife — maximum leverage to bargain for the best possible settlement.

The husband was often willing to make a more generous economic payment in alimony or child support in exchange for getting out of the marriage without a contested court case, the commission said.

This leverage was lost with fast-spreading use of no-fault divorces, where either spouse can petition for ending the marriage on the single ground of "irretrievable breakdown," the commission said.

The panel said only nine of the 46 states with no-fault divorces have enacted provisions calling for a new division of property and of economic support based on recognizing the homemakers' contribution.

Without such economic ground rules, the commission said, women and children are getting smaller settlements than previously.

Alimony and child support had been far from universal even under previous laws, the commission said. A poll commissioned by the agency showed that just 14 per cent of divorced women were awarded alimony and that of that group, only 46 per cent were getting it regularly.

Of divorced mothers, 44 per cent were awarded child support, but only 21 per cent of those collect it regularly, the report said.

In addition, the commission charged, many judges apparently assume that the divorced wife and children should automatically lower their living standards when the husband leaves — and that his living standard should be maintained at a relatively high level.

The commission described the case of Klara Bolden, who was married for 29 years and spent that time rearing 10 children, half of whom were still at home when she and her husband were divorced in 1975.

She had no marketable skills. Her husband earned $30,000 a year, or about $2,500 a month, of which $750 went to his former wife and five children.

The court case arose when a District of Columbia judge told Mrs. Bolden she must accept a "radical change" in her lifestyle because of the divorce. He ordered her to move out of the house, even though she could not find rental quarters because landlords did not consier the alimony and child support payments as reliable sources of income.

"Mrs. Bolden's case is not unusual," the commission said. "In most states the laws relating to division of property at divorce, alimony and child support simply do not take into account the contribution of the homemaker or the needs of the children."

Growing older

Passivity beneath seniors' dignity

By LOU COTTIN

This year, as in years past, we older Americans will be bombarded by the word "dignity." Politicians will assure us solemnly that they want us to "live in dignity." Our ministers will brighten their sermons with references to the "dignity of graying hair." Social workers will assure us that everything they do for us will enhance our status as dignified Americans.

This should comfort us. We are poor. Many of us are ill, lonely and neglected. But "dignity" is what these kindly people want us to achieve and enjoy.

We thank them. But perhaps we should let these praters about "dignity" know that we are not being taken in by their pious protestations. We do not need them to evaluate either the level or the substance of our dignity. It is an inherent quality which comes from within us and from our life experiences. A person is dignified or he is not. Every American who has lived to age 60 and beyond is automatically a dignified person.

The source of our self-respect is the record of our performance as Americans over these many years. A lifetime of struggle is behind us. Wars which we fought have ennobled us, protected our country and its sacred institutions. Cities we have built serve as witnesses to our validity. Our children and our grandchildren carry the American dream forward because we made it possible for them to do so.

During our lives, no task assigned to us has been shirked. We have been good, efficient workers. We have been teachers and community leaders. Our very existence confirms our quality. It is impertinent for the young to assume that they can confer dignity upon us or withhold it from us.

Roget's Thesaurus informs us that the noun "dignity" means distinction, honor, decorum, nobility, repute. Every one of these synonyms describes us, the older Americans. Our distinction is clearly evident because of our service.

Now, therefore, let politicians understand this: Your vague promises about bringing dignity to our lives are meaningless words to us. From you we want practical help. Dignity we have. Medical attention, at prices we can afford, is what we need. An end to discrimination against the aged is what we need.

Now, also let appointed officials, in the field of health especially, understand this: From you we want honest performance of your jobs. The nursing home scandals are your fault. Weaknesses in enforcement of hearing aid and optometrical and other health standards prove that you are indifferent to our needs. An insult to anyone of us seniors is an insult to us all.

Now, indeed, let the professional social workers who serve the elderly understand this: All your activities must begin with the acceptance of us as valid people. We are persons of stature. What you do for us is not a "favor." We have earned such benefits as you deliver many times over. Extend your heart to us and help us. Respect our dignity.

Now, additionally, let directors of senior citizen clubs understand this: We will not tolerate condescension. Do not think of your work as though you were "baby sitters" for "sad sack" oldsters. Don't segregate us. Don't limit our activities to recreation. We are not simpletons. Help us to become involved in the broad political and social life of our communities. Most of us still have important contributions to make. Give us a chance to prove that we are still substantial citizens.

In this, our country's Bicentennial year, it is heartening to announce, "We seniors reject passivity. It's beneath our dignity."

Shortage of nurses problem for county

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County health services chief is taking steps — including setting up a job hot line — to cope with a shortage of nurses.

County Health Services Director Liston Witherill told county supervisors Monday that he has called for a complete review of staffing patterns at three major hospitals to cope with the severe shortage.

He said the staffing study could pinpoint areas where help could be temporarily shifted to meet critical needs.

Witherill said the county began hiring Monday from a list of nurses certified by the civil service commission. He said the county will also establish a hot line which nurses can call for information on job openings and intensify its campus recruitment program.

War's over, but Angola still torn with unrest

EDITOR'S NOTE — The civil war has ended but things are not going smoothly in Angola. Here is a report by AP Special Correspondent Hugh A. Mulligan, who was recently in Luanda to report on the trial of 13 white mercenaries.

By Hugh A. Mulligan
AP Special Correspondent

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Besides the increasing threat of severe food shortages and a lingering guerrilla war, the new People's Republic of Angola faces racial and tribal unrest that daily grows more desperate.

At the height of the recent trial of white mercenaries, just as the prosecutor was calling for the death penalty, blacks demonstrated in the downtown streets because not enough black Angolans had been appointed to high posts in the Marxist regime proclaimed by the Popular Front faction that won the bloody civil war with the aid of some 15,000 Cuban troops.

The lighter-skinned mesticos, or mixed-blood peoples, are resentful because the newly arrived Cuban civilian administrators have taken over the best jobs in the "middle bureaucracy" just below ministerial rank.

The few remaining white Portuguese, estimated at less than 8,000 in contrast to the 400,000 who ran the country only a year ago, are subject to constant insult and abuse by both the blacks and the mixed blood Angolans, who wonder why they have not inherited the white man's villas and big cars now that colonialism is ended.

Tales of houses being stripped with the occupants standing helplessly by and cars being hijacked in broad daylight are too commonplace.

Many blacks already are squatting in the hillside villas abandoned by the Portuguese who fled to Lisbon. The government has given them 45 days to reoccupy their property or face confiscation, but few have been able to obtain entry visas to come back before the deadline at the end of July.

"People power not black power is our strength," proclaim Popular Front posters urging racial unity. But with the capital breaking down little by little every day in a roar of unmuffled exhausts and the cries of people trapped in elevators during the many power failures, the message doesn't come across.

"We were told that when the white imperialists left wages would be higher and prices lower," said Antonio, a Cape Verde Islander who came to fight in the liberation struggle but has since lost faith in the victory.

"But prices are higher and wages are lower and there is only meat three days a week in the market. My wife gets in line at 5 a.m. and comes home at 2 p.m. with one kilo — 2.2 pounds — of pork, all she is allowed. Never beef or eggs."

Famine is gradually encroaching on the capital, once a city of half a million people, for a number of reasons directly connected with the racial and tribal turmoil. More than 60 per cent of the white Portuguese farmers have abandoned their lands, the richest and largest in the southern vegetable-growing belt.

The deep sea fishing boats don't go out anymore because the returning Portuguese fishermen stripped them of their radar, sonar and other navigational aids. No black captains were trained to read the charts of the hazardous deep sea fishing grounds, alive with tuna and red snapper, beyond the reef.

Of the 32 high-speed, ultramodern fishing boats left behind in Luanda's Half Moon Bay, 16 were destroyed in a tidal wave a few months ago because no one could be found to sail them to safer anchorage. Only sardines and other shoal fish show up in the markets.

The Popular Front-run Angolan government, whose main strength is in the Kimbundu tribe, is trying to rally the people to bring in the coffee harvest, the country's most important agricultural export, once valued at a half-billion dollars a year. The plantation workers, mostly members of the northern Bakongo tribe, were the main supporters of the losing faction, the National Front for the Liberation of Angola. It was for this side that the white mercenaries fought.

With the Cubans in charge of the harvest, the government has emptied out the jails and resorted to press gangs to pack off the unemployed in trucks to the plantations because the offered wage of 80 escudos — about $2.40 — a day is scoffed at by the regular hands.

"The Communist union leaders used to lead strikes against the Portuguese when they paid twice that much," said a shipping agent who remembers when 4,000 ships a year called at Luanda as opposed to about one a week these days.

One day recently a big downtown supermarket had only curry powder, dried milk and, ironically, American instant coffee on its shelves, and Danish caviar at 600 escudos — $20 — a jar in the refrigerated show case.

The line four abreast outside was for a tiny tobacco shop around the corner that had cigarettes.

Only one truck was unloading in the huge cargo area of the modern four-story central market. It was bringing a consignment of lettuce which few people could afford.

The few stalls open in the cavernous market building offered radishes, hot African peppers and some already decaying oranges that had not fared well on the tedious journey to the capital by ferry and barge from the lush hinterland.

An American representative of a pharmaceutical house, trying to get his previously thriving Angolan outlet going again, reported that many Western businesses were going bankrupt because black Angolans refused to come back to their old jobs, remaining convinced that the death of colonialism meant a new, rich future was just around the corner.

"I take what help I can get," said a woman bank manager, training an entire staff for one of the country's largest international banks. "Eighty per cent of the girls I have now never set foot in a bank before in their lives. I am grateful if they can read and write."

Giant cranes like hangman's gibbets, hang over the steel girder skeletons of unfinished skyscrapers. At night the neon signs of a capitalist consumer society burn brightly over Luanda harbor — Peugeot, Ford, Kodak, Mobil, National Cash Register — but the showrooms are stripped and closed, and no one is to tell the watchman he need not turn on the lights anymore.

The abandoned yachts of rich Portuguese playboys bob at anchor in the bay, like the toy soldier awaiting the return of Little Boy Blue.

Banditry, house burglaries, armed robberies of passing cars and trucks are daily occurrences in the countryside, where food is a bit more plentiful but work almost nonexistent. In Luanda, at least, the Cuban troops help keep order.

"The Angolan army is an undisciplined rabble," said a mixed blood university professor. "Everyone who is not black is their enemy."

Americans especially are resented in a racial backlash fostered by the government radio's hourly denunciation of the white mercenaries as "racist pawns of the neocolonialist CIA."

One day the Western journalists covering the mercenary trial, most of them British, went to a seaside restaurant with Robert Cesner and Bill Watson, the two American attorneys serving as defense counsels. A handsome woman in colorful printed African robes began screaming to the point of hysteria at the manager and waiters "for playing servant to those bugs, those cockroaches, those Americans."

Other blacks began taking up the cry until the woman was escorted away by two Cuban soldiers who always seemed to be at hand when the American lawyers ventured from the hotel.

Soviet skippers say insults, threats reasons for closing

NEW YORK (AP) — Insults and threats of violence, not military security, were the reason two Russian tall-masted ships were closed to the public over the Bicentennial holiday, the skippers of those vessels said before sailing home.

The four-masted bark Kruzenshtern and the three-masted bark Tovarisch, both participants in the Operation Sail parade of ships on July 4, weighed anchor Wednesday night.

Before departing, Capt. Ivan G. Shneider of the Kruzenshtern and Capt. Oleg Vadenko of the Tovarisch said their crews had been plagued by insults and anti-Soviet slogans shouted from passing pleasure boats since the ships reached New York.

Shneider, speaking through the Kruzenshtern's English teacher, Cmdr. Vladimir Berezhnoy, said New York police and other authorities had warned them about possible offensive action by unnamed groups.

"We feared that if we opened our ship to visitors we would be subjected to offenses and harassment which we didn't deserve," Shneider said.

"We came from the Baltic and Black Seas on a long and difficult sail, and I believe that this fact in itself speaks of our relationship to the citizens of America," Vadenko said.

Police denied the captains' assertion that police could not provide proper security for the Soviet vessels in port.

A spokesman said the Soviets had rejected two sites where adequate security could have been supplied.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Operation Sail said most of the more than 50 naval vessels from 22 countries which came here for the Bicentennial fete have departed.

EASY ZUCCHINI SAUSAGE BAKE

National Casserole Month

If you are a concerned homemaker who tries to play each meal to be nutritionally balanced . . .

If you are constantly dreaming up new and delicious ways for your meals to combine items from the four different food groups . . .

And, if you are concerned about having your family eat what's good for them . . .

You are one of the many people who will benefit by joining the celebration of National Casserole Month.

This casserole stretches meat

Rice is important in the recipe for "Sure-to-Please Chicken Casserole!" A small amount of meat — 2 cups of cut-up chicken — is made into a meal for six when combined with rice and the proper flavorings and seasonings.

But cutting down on the amount of meat the recipe has not lowered the nutritional quality of the meal, for a smaller amount of meat does provide enough protein, and cheese adds a bit more. Rice adds some, too, but more important than its amount of protein, the rice makes the meal taste and look complete.

SURE-TO-PLEASE CHICKEN CASSEROLE

- 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ cup sliced green onion tops
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 can (10¾ oz.) condensed cream of celery soup
- 1½ cups grated Cheddar cheese
- ½ cup sour cream
- 2 cups chopped cooked chicken
- ¼ cup sliced ripe olives, optional
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Saute mushrooms, green pepper, and onion tops in butter until tender crisp. Blend in soup, ¾ cup cheese, and sour cream. Add chicken, olives, and rice. Turn into a greased shallow 2-quart casserole. Top with remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Makes 6 servings.

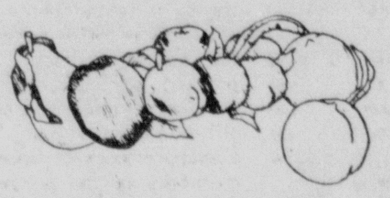
Each serving provides: 357 calories, 3 meat exchanges, 1½ bread exchanges, 1 fat exchange

Casseroles are an excellent way of easing those nutritional worries you may have while preparing dinner. One casserole can easily combine servings from each of the "Basic Four" while not sacrificing on taste or ease of preparation. And, casseroles tend to disguise foods so that "picky eaters" — whether young or old — can enjoy and benefit from the foods that they normally wouldn't touch. For example, this Easy Zucchini Sausage Bake is a nutritious meal-in-a-dish. It contains representatives from the dairy, meat, vegetable and fruit, and bread (grain) groups. Its hearty flavors of Italian sausage, two kinds of cheese, rice and zucchini are blended well with an herbed tomato sauce. The instant it is out of the oven, it becomes an unusually appetizing and filling dinner with good nutrition baked in.

EASY ZUCCHINI SAUSAGE BAKE

- ½ lb. Italian sausage
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 3 zucchini, cut into ½-inch slices
- 1 can tomato herb sauce
- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- 1 teasp. seasoned salt
- ½ cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Remove sausage from casing; cook with onion in 10-inch skillet until sausage loses redness. Remove and drain on paper towel. Saute zucchini in skillet drippings until transparent. Cover; cook 5 minutes or until amost done; reserve. Combine half the tomato sauce with rice and sausage mixture in 7½x12x1½-inch baking dish. Add salt; mix well. Arrange slices of zucchini over top. Sprinkle with mozzarella and Parmesan; spoon remaining tomato sauce over all. Bake, covered, at 350 degrees 20 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.



Steeple cream was rich colonial dessert

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Early colonists were fond of their rich desserts. Rich or poor, all managed to make the most of the fruits and vegetables at hand, milk from their cows or goats, honey, sugar or sorghum and special spices or condiments that arrived by welcome ships. An example is a molded dessert called steeple cream, popular among the more affluent colonists who entertained often and lavishly. Fruit dumplings, such as fresh peach dumplings, also were favorites. Here is a modern version using prepared crescent rolls rather than home-made biscuits.

STEEPLE CREAM

- ½ cup corn starch
- 1/3 cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 3½ cups milk
- ½ cup light corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup ground almonds
- Candied violets, optional
- Blanched almonds, optional

In medium saucepan, stir together corn starch, sugar and salt. Gradually add milk, stirring until smooth. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil 1 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in corn syrup and extract. Chill about 1 hour or until slightly thickened. Fold in almonds. Turn into 5-cup mold. Chill 3 hours, or until well set. Unmold. Garnish with violets and almonds, if desired.

STEEPLE CREAM

FRESH PEACH DUMPLINGS

- 1 package (8 ounces) crescent rolls
- ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- 4 fresh peaches, peeled, halved and pits removed
- 8 walnut halves
- Milk
- Brown sugar or coarse sugar

Divide crescent rolls into 4 portions (2 triangles to each portion) and roll into squares. Combine brown sugar, flour and nutmeg in a mixing bowl; blend thoroughly. Roll peach halves in brown sugar mixture. Place two walnut halves in center cavity and sandwich two halves together to form whole pach. Place in center of dough squares and bring ends of dough up, pinching to seal. Brush with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Place on cookie sheet and bake in 375-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm or at room temperature. Makes 4 servings.

These deliciously arctic pies, Strawberry Dream, Lemon-Lime Sublime and Frozen Mandarin Mousse, are as easy to create as they are glamorous. Crust and filling alike require little or no cooking.

The secret ingredient in all three celestial treats is sweetened condensed milk, a velvet smooth supercreamy blend of pure, whole milk (60% of its water removed) and natural sugar, available in convenient 14-oz. cans.

Each of these tantalizing, rich and refreshing pies makes a perfect piece de resistance for festive family gatherings during this season of celebrations. The glorious grand finale to a barbecue, clambake, bridge luncheon or buffet dinner, whether your entertaining style is elegant or casual.

Then, when you've barely lifted a cool finger, float away on compliments!

In small bowl, stiffly beat egg whites; combine with whipped cream and fold into sweetened condensed milk mixture. Mound filling lightly into lined pie plate. Green food coloring

In medium bowl, combine egg yolks, sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice and rind. Set aside. In small bowl, stiffly beat egg whites; fold into sweetened condensed milk mixture. Add food coloring to desired shade of green. Mound filling lightly into prepared crust. Chill 3 hours or until set. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and lemon and lime slices. Refrigerate any leftovers.

*Use only Grade AA clean, whole eggs.

GLACIAL PIES

Picnics are a French custom

From the French custom of pique nique (meaning a pick at a trifle) has come a fabulous American tradition — the picnic. It is that wonderful excursion into outdoor dining that can be anything from hot dogs cooked over an open fire to sophisticated hampers filled with pates and quiches.

One of the joys of picnics is that they can be spur of the moment. They can literally be pulled out of the cupboard, if you have the basics on hand. Plan to keep your pantry stocked with things like breads and rolls, cheeses, convenient canned meat spreads, relishes, fresh fruits, thirst quenchers.

What about making one sandwich for six picnickers by using a crusty loaf of French bread? Simple. Just slice the loaf as you would when making garlic bread, but this time use roast beef spread, Cheddar cheese and chopped green chilies for the filling. Wrap it in foil for traveling to the picnic site and then just slice and serve Roast Beef in a Loaf.

One more instant picnic recipe for a delicious eatout is Easy Picnic Pack-Ups. frankfurt rolls with a deviled ham filling. Or, if your picnic is more elaborate and requires cooking on location, keep everyone from "picking at the trifles" by serving Tangy Picnic Spread on crackers until the meal is ready.

ROAST BEEF IN A LOAF

2 cans (4¾ ounces each) roast beef spread
¼ cup grated Cheedar cheese
1 can (4 ounces) chopped green chilies, drained
¼ cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 loaf French bread (15 inches)

In a bowl, mix together roast beef spread, cheese, chilies, chili sauce and onion. Cut bread diagonally every 2 inches to within ¼ inch of bottom. Fill with roast beef mixture. Wrap in foil. When ready to serve, slice bread between filling into individual sandwiches. Makes 6 servings.

EASY PICNIC PACK-UPS

2 cans (4½ ounces each) deviled ham
3 tablespoons barbecue sauce
1/3 cup piccalilli
6 slices Cheddar cheese
6 frankfurt rolls

In a bowl, mix together deviled ham, barbecue sauce and piccalilli. Place cheese slices in rolls and top with deviled ham mixture. Makes 6 sandwiches.

TANGY PICNIC SPREAD

2 cans (4¾ ounces each) chunky chicken spread
¼ cup diced green pepper
3 tablespoons barbecue sauce
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 tablespoon piccalilli
1 teaspoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon hot red pepper sauce

In a bowl, mix together chicken spread, green pepper, barbecue sauce, chili sauce, piccalilli, onion, and pepper sauce. Spread on crackers.

INDIAN PORK CHOPS

Coal bake Indian pork chops

Backyard chefs are missing a gourmet treat if they hesitate to grill pork chops. The safe temerature for cooking pork to avoid any danger of trichina organisms has been lowered to 165-170 degrees F. At that temperature, pork chops are still juicy and succulent.

If the pork chops you grill have previously been forzen for three to four weeks at 0 degrees F., you don't need to be concerned about trichina at all. Freezer temperatures destroy any of the organisms that might have been present. These chops can safely be eaten when they are even "pinker" than the 165-170 degrees F., if desired.

Slow cooking is the secret to successful barbecued pork. If your charcoal grill doesn't have a temperature setting, this hand test is a fairly accurate gauge:

Hold your hand over the coals at the level the meat will be placed and slowly count (as if you were county seconds): 1,001 . . . 1,002 . . . 1,003 . . . coals are just right for pork if you can comfortably leave your hand over the coals until 1,005.

Pork lends itself to a wide variety of flavor accents. This barbecue sauce is a subtle combination of Indian spices mixed with unsulphured molasses and lemon juice. Curried fruits can be heated at the back of the grill.

INDIAN PORK CHOPS

1-inch thick pork chops, preferably rip chops, trimmed of excess fat (allow two per adult)

Indian barbecue sauce

Grill chops over slow coals approximately 20 minutes per side, turning frequently. Baste during the last 15 minutes with Indian Barbecue Sauce. Just before serving, season with salt and pepper.

If a smoker is used, damp hickory chips can be sprinkled on the coals and the lid kept closed.

Indian Barbecue Sauce

(sufficient for 12 chops; extra can be refrigerated for several weeks)

½ cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup lemon juice (fresh or bottled)
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon curry
1 teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Mix together and brush over chops as directed. May also be used to marinate pork loin roast.

HOT CURRIED FRUIT

1 can (29-ounce) cling peach halves
1 can (20-ounce) pineapple slices
1 can (16-ounce) apricot halves
1 can (16-ounce) pear halves
¼ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons unsulphured molasses
2 teaspoons curry (less if desired)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ cup margarine or butter

Drain fruits. If desired, cut each peach half and pineapple ring into two pieces. Divide and arrange attractively into two freezer-to-oven ceramic or metal dishes or in double thickness aluminum foil for grillable "pouches".

Mix remaining ingredients together. Dot the fruit with small dabs of the topping. Freeze one container for future use. Heat the fruit from thawed or frozen stage at the back of the grill or in a 350 degree oven. For thawed fruit on a low-heat grill, allow 35 minutes. Excellent accompaniment to grilled pork or ham. Each half serves 6 generously.

No-aging diet is questionable

By GAYNOR MADDOX

"Every cell in your body can be young again."

It is claimed by "Dr. Frank's No-Aging Diet," with the happy advice "Eat and Grow Younger." (Dial Press, $7.95)

Dr. Benjamin S. Frank earned his M.D. in Switzerland and is in private practice in New York.

In our judgment any book with such a title is questionable. One would like to see this proven.

In this book which carries several recipes, he outlines a diet which he claims will slow down telltale signs of age. He relies heavily on foods containing RNA, nucleic acid.

The diet consists of a variety of foods rich in nucleic acids, plus fluids and vitamins. According to Dr. Frank, they are spread throughout a week's menus in a way that will provide a daily intake of one or two grams of nucleic acids.

For example, he urges the consumption of seafood seven times a week in the form of sardines four times, salmon once, shrimp, lobster, squid or clams once and any kind of fish once a week.

He also recommends eating or drinking beets, beet juice or borscht, lentils, peas, lima beans or soybeans, asaparagus, radishes, onions, scallions, mushrooms, spinach, cauliflower or celery, fruit or vegetable

STRAWBERRY-CHOCOLATE PIE

Some more summer pies

Pie has berries, chocolate

If you're wild for strawberries and mad for chocolate, put them together in this glorious 'Chocolate Strawberry Ice Cream Pie. You'll have the best of both worlds!

Start with an easy-to-make chocolate crumb crust, and pour into it a silky smooth chocolate cream filling made from canned chocolate flavored syrup, sweetened condensed milk and whipping cream. When that layer is frozen, top with a strawberry cream layer and allow the pie to freeze until serving time. You'll find it makes a sweet ending to a summer supper.

While on the subject of chocolate and strawberries, why not introduce the children to the special allures of an old-fashioned chocolate-strawberry ice cream soda. Most of today's youngsters have never even tasted that old-time drugstore treat. In case you've forgotten how to put on together, simply pour a generous amount of canned chocolate flavored syrup into a tall soda glass, add a couple of scoops of strawberry ice crea, then fill the glass with club soda. Stick in a couple of straws, and enjoy!

CHOCOLATE STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM PIE

Chocolate Crumb Crust:
- 1½ cups vanilla wafer crumbs (about 45 wafters)
- 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 1/3 cup confectioners' sugar
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Combine crumbs, cocoa and sugar in a bowl. Gradually add butter or margarine while stirring to completely coat crumb mixture. Spoon into 9-inch pie pan. Press firmly against bottom and sides to form crust; freeze.

CHOCOLATE CREAM FILLING
- ¾ cup canned chocolate flavored syrup
- 1/3 cup sweetened condensed milk
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup whipping cream*
- 1 egg white
- 1 tablespoon sugar

Combine chocolate syrup, condensed milk, and egg yolk in a small heavy saucepan. Stir constantly over medium heat until mixture boils. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Cool; chill thoroughly.

Whip cream; fold into chocolate mixture. Beat egg white until foamy; add sugar and beat until stiff peaks form. Fold into chocolate cream mixture. Pour into pie shell. Freeze until firm.

*Do not use non-dairy whipping topping.

STRAWBERRY CREAM TOPPING
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2/3 cup pureed sweetened strawberries, well drained
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons light corn syrup

Whip cream; blend in strawberry puree, sugar and corn syrup. Spoon onto frozen chocolate filling. Cover and freeze until serving time. Garnish with fresh sliced strawberries, if desired.

Wo-Ja-Pi—blueberry pies

WO-JA-PI

Take advantage of fresh blueberries and whip up some little fried pies Indian style. Serve with freshly whipped cream, ice cream or plain yogurt as a very special treat. Make a quantity of Wo-Ja-Pi and freeze for use later.

WO-JA-PI (INDIAN BLUEBERRY DESSERT)

Sauce:
- 1 quart fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 cup honey
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh mint leaves

Fried bread:
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 cup milk
- Deep fat or oil heated to 375 degrees

In a saucepan, combine blueberries, honey and enough water to just cover the berries. Bring berries to a boil and boil 5 minutes. In a bowl, mix flour with water until smooth. Stir mixture into hot berries. Add mint. Stir over low heat until berries thicken. Cool. In a bowl, mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Stir in milk until a soft dough is formed. It may be necessary to add more milk.

Knead dough on a floured surface a few times until it is smooth dough. Roll out to one-half-inch thickness and cut with a sharp knife into 3-inch squares. Fry squares in preheated deep fat until brown, about 3 to 4 minutes. Turn and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper.

Apple pie still favorite dessert

What dessert do Americans order when they eat out?

According to the Menu Census for 1976 conducted by Institutions Magazine, Apple Pie is a consistent favorite — "in fact, it keeps getting stronger."

Respondents of the survey are 16,000 restaurant operators. Sixty three and nine tenths of the respondents said that apple pie sells higher than other desserts. What desserts come next? Ice cream/Sherbet were rated 51.1 per cent, Cherry Pie received 40.2 votes and Cheesecake 39.3 votes.

Regional differences in food preferences often are indicated in such surveys. The "favorite son" of each of the four geographic regions was apple pie, receiving over 90 per cent endorsement from the restaurant operators.

TRADITIONAL APPLE PIE WITH VARIATIONS

Make pastry for a 9-inch two crust pie. (The pie pan should be 1¼ inches deep.) Line the pan with pastry and fill with apple filling.

For the filling:
- 6 to 7 cups sliced apples
- ¾ to 1 cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons butter

Peel apples. Quarter and slice into ¼ inch slices. Measure sugar and spices and mix well. (If apples seem extra juicy, a tablespoon or two of flour may be mixed with the sugar and spices to thicken the juice.) Toss sugar into apples then transfer apples into the pastry lined pan. Dot the apples with butter, cover with top crust rolled out 10 inches in diameter. This allows ½ inch rim of pastry beyond the edge of the pan. Fold the top pastry under edge of bottom pastry and seal thoroughly to prevent boiling over. The edge may be fluted or pressed with tines of a fork. Make several slits in top crust with a sharp knife. Bake at 400 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes, or until juice bubbles through the slits on top of the pie. A nine inch pie will make 7 to 8 servings.

Deep Dish Apple Pie

Use an 8 or 9 inch baking dish, 2 inches deep. Line sides but not bottom with pastry, arranging it to come over edge of dish to seal to top crust. Double the amount of filling in above recipe, sprinkle with 1½ tablespoons of water and cover with top crust. Seal as above. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, 45 to 50 minutes. Serves 8 to 10.

No-aging . . .

juices. Any nutritionist will tell you that proper eating habits, adequate sleep and daily exercise will help most individuals attain a feeling of well-being that carries through the years.

Referring to the no-aging diet, a wise colleague says, "It is the kind of book that really isn't erroneous but skims the truth and thus is misleading because its title implies that anyone buying the book will find the secret to not aging. Only those in the Himalayas who live on apricots, etc., seem to have the secret and no scientist has been able to explain their longevity satisfactorily."

But, obviously we're all still looking.

All these foods, unless you are restricted from eating them by your doctor, are nutritionally sound. So why the brouhaha?

This still is an age which worships youth. So any title that promises to unlock some secret to maintaining youth or a semblance of youth grabs the eyes, as does a diet or physical or contemplative exercise that proposes to cure all physical or mental ills.

As author of "Food and Arthritis" (Popular Library, $1.25) I stated the advice of highly accredited arthritis specialists: "As far as is known, no food of any kind either cures arthritis or causes it." However, Dr. Frank disagrees. He advises sufferers from arthritis to take black strap molasses, brewers yeast and to avoid certain other foods and juice, milk, preferably skimmed, and plenty of water. He has a daily or weekly schedule for each.

Even dieters can enjoy California potato salad

Summertime and potato salad are natural go-togethers. Most everyone already has at least one favorite recipe for this popular warm weather salad, but sometimes it's fun to try something new. The recipe always starts with good, earthy potatoes but the end result is up to your own imagination.

Besides being delicious and versatile, potato salad is a great way to add valuable nutrients to your family's diet. Potatoes are an excellent source of Vitamin C providing about one third the U. S. Recommended Daily Allowance of this much needed vitamin. Potatoes also supply some important B vitamins plus small amounts of vegetable protein and hard-to-get iron.

And since summertime is swimsuit time, it's great to know that a medium potato (about 3 per pound) has fewer than 100 calories. It's the traditional, high calorie dressings and toppings that have given potatoes their undeserved "fattening" reputation. So, dieters, too, can indulge in potato salads when prepared with low calorie dressings.

Combining potatoes with other fresh summer vegetables is a delicious way to add variety and appetite appeal for very few calories to potato salad. Raw zucchini slices, fresh bell pepper strips, raw cauliflower, and juicy cherry tomatoes all add lively color and snappy crunch to garden fresh potato salads. Adding slices of hard cooked egg to your salad will add a bit of extra protein too.

California Potato Salad is a tasty, easy-to-serve addition to a patio buffet. And it will get high ratings from dieters and non-dieters alike. Family and guests use their forks to spear tender chunks of potatoes, zesty green onion, crisp red radishes, crunchy dill pickles and slices of hard cooked egg for dunking in a choice of savory dressings.

LoCal Dressing Dip made with creamy yogurt and sour cream will be a favorite with weight watchers because it has only 18 calories in a tablespoon. Seasoned with garlic salt and green onion, this rich and smooth dressing has real lively flavor and what a nice extra bonus to find out it isn't fattening!

Mustard Vinaigrette is prepared much like homemade mayonnaise but is seasoned with mustard and fresh garlic. Though not as low in calories as the other dressing, mustard vinaigrette does have fewer calories than the traditional mayonnaise because it uses less oil.

CALIFORNIA POTATO SALAD

4 to 5 medium potatoes (about 1½ pounds), unpeeled
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 hard cooked eggs, quartered
1 bunch of green onions
1 bunch radishes
3 dill pickles, halved lengthwise
Parsley, chopped
Low Calorie Dressing-Dip (recipe follows)
Mustard Vinaigrette (recipe follows

Cut potatoes in 1½ inch cubes. Cook in 1 inch salted, simmering water 10 to 15 minutes, or until just fork tender. Drain; toss with mixture of lemon juice in 1 cup cold water (to prevent discoloration). Chill. In salad bowl or on platter, arrange potatoes, eggs and other vegetables attractively. Garnish with chopped parsley. Pour dressing into small bowl. Supply guests with fondue forks for dipping.

Makes 6 servings

LO-CAL DRESSING-DIP

Blend 1 cup each plain yogurt and sour cream. Fold in ¼ cup finely chopped parsley. Add ½ teaspoon garlic salt and dash of pepper. Pour into small bowl. Garnish with sliced green onion. Chill. Makes 2 cups.

MUSTARD VINAIGRETTE

In blender at low speed, combine 1 egg, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, and 1 clove garlic (optional). With blender on high speed, very slowly add ¾ cup salad oil. Mixture will be like soft mayonnaise. Makes 1¼ cups.

Green oranges taste great

WASHINGTON, D.C. July 21, 1976 — Some oranges are orange when they're ripe — but it ain't necessarily so. Informed shoppers can let you in on the fact that oranges may be tinged with green, or even more green than that, and still be lusciously ripe and developed in their sweet, characteristic flavor.

The produce people, according to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, call it "greening." It's a little trick that Nature plays in citrus orchards. The fruit grows and develops on the tree in a perfectly normal way, and may require a little more time to reach full maturity and flavor. That's when the funny things may begin to happen, particularly with Valencia type oranges, the kind that are around in spring and summer.

Valencia oranges begin to turn golden in the winter months, long before they are ripe. They may look ripe but actually it takes months of tree ripening before these oranges are ready to pick. As the warm summer days begin, the orange-colored oranges sometimes begin to turn green again, deceiving customers into thinking the fruit unripe. But these oranges are fully-ripe, ready to pick and bring to market.

Why does re-greening happen? There are several reasons. Basically, the re-greening is the resurgence of chlorophyll in the fruit peel.

This may be due to warm weather, particularly warm nights, to high rainfall, to high nutrient levels, or to any other condition tending toward vigorous growth which can cause chlorophyll to persist or reappear.

So be a knowing shopper. Don't be green about greening. These oranges are ripe and ready to enjoy.

Lucky puts it all together.

Here's a different banana split

A banana split has a banana, right? Right. And it also usually has a choice of three ice creams and toppings. True, unless it's a "Nectarine Banana Split Salad". Then, tucked deliciously between the halves of the banana, you will find three scoops of salad, nestled in the hearts of three halves of fresh California nectarines.

Pick nectarines of uniform size and give them the ripeness test by squeezing them gently between the palms of your hands. The ripe ones you want for the salad will yield slightly to the pressure. Early in the season, the nectarines you find in the market are freestones which slice neatly in half for easy pit removal. Later, as the clings come into the market, you can still get neat halves by inserting a grapefruit knife through the stem end, cutting all the way around the pit and then lifting it out with the tip of the knife.

Fill the nectarine halves with ham, turkey and tuna salad and set on a bed of lettuce. Top with a dab of mayonnaise and an olive in place of the whipped cream and cherry. Or, for a dessert salad, substitute cream cheese and fruit salad in the nectarine nests, then add whipped cream, chopped nuts and a cherry in the best banana split tradition.

For additional recipes and serving suggestions for this and other summer fruits send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to "The Fruits of Summer", P.O. Box 255383, Sacramento, CA 95825. You'll receive a 48-page cookbooklet with luscious color illustrations of more than 100 ways to serve California fruits.

Here's some tips on freezing vegetables

It remains to be seen how this year's fruit and vegetable crops will compare with those of a year ago. Authorities who labeled 1975 "the best growing year in a full generation" have made no prediction for the current season as yet.

"But the mere fact that another 4,000,000 families have planted gardens for the first time this year (the number was 6,000,000 new vegetable gardens in 1975) suggests that many homemakers will also be into preserving foods for the first time," said Pauline Church, home service advisor to a leading manufacturer of food storage containers.

Unlike the past two years, jar lids are expected to be available as needed. So anyone wishing to preserve by canning should have little trouble on that score. But not all vegetables take well to home canning. Broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, onions, parsnips, turnips, and corn-on-the-cob are among those not recommended for canning.

All of these items freeze beautifully, however, as do most other vegetables and the many fruits available from mid-summer through fall. Because there are distinct differences in taste, texture, and appearance, many homemakers like to put up some foods by both methods.

"Properly prepared and packaged, frozen vegetables are often hard to tell from fresh-picked," said Ms. Church.

Good results are virtually assured, she said, if one has the right equipment and follows recommended procedures exactly. As basic equipment she suggests the following:

1. Food blancher or other large kettle for scalding vegetables. It takes a gallon of boiling water to scald one pound of vegetables, about two gallons for leafy vegetables. The kettle should have a tight lid and a basket of perforated metal or fine wire mesh. Lacking a basket, vegetables can be placed in a cheesecloth bag for scalding and chilling.

2. A dependable minute timer or clock.

3. Plenty of ice cubes or very cold running water to chill vegetables quickly after scalding and before packaging.

"Some women find it convenient to use a clean Polly Flex dishpan for the ice water bath," Ms. Church noted, "rather than tying up their sinks. Either is fine, so long as you use plenty of water and keep it very cold."

4. An ample supply of clean, moisture-vapor-proof packaging in sizes and shapes to suit items being frozen.

"When in doubt, choose smaller containers," Ms. Church suggested. "By freezing in family meal-size amounts, you'll make maximum use of space and also enjoy better eating. For company, you can always open a second container."

5. Tape and mark for identifying and dating containers. Ordinary masking tape works well for labeling. With it, use a waterproof marker such as Sanford's Sharpie, the home service advisor suggested.

6. A vegetable freezing chart that list scalding times for each kind. Look for this in any up-to-date general cookbook or in the freezer manufacturer's instruction booklet.

"Except for diced onions, celery, and fresh herbs to be stored briefly and used as seasonings, vegetables must be scalded for a prescribed time to retard enzymatic action and prevent spoilage while frozen," Ms. Church emphasized.

Proper packaging is equally important. Resist the temptation to freeze any food in containers not intended for the purpose. For example, those tubs made for cottage cheese and other dairy items are generally too thin to withstand the combination of sub-zero temperature and the expansion of contents that occurs with freezing. Each hairline crack will endanger the food inside. Nor are all plastic bags and films moisture-vapor-proof as required for protection against drying.

Though initially more expensive than throw-away materials, reusable containers are both practical and economical in the long run, Ms. Church pointed out. As convenient for storing leftovers, in the refrigerator as for protecting beans or broccoli in the freezer, they can withstand temperatures from minus 40 degrees to 243 degrees Fahrenheit.

"That means they may go safely into the top rack of a dishwasher and even into a microwave oven," she explained. "You may also heat contents by setting a container, lid removed, in a pan of boiling water on a regular range. And smaller sizes are a great convenience for packing lunch boxes."

Marvelous soup variation

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Mulligatawny soup as we know it today comes from the many variations dreamed up by British housewives in India. Traditionally it was served with rice and slices of lime or lemon. Here orange juice has been added to make a more flavorful broth. Another use of fruit juice is in a hot consomme but you may also enjoy this combination of orange juice, tomato juice, bouillon, sugar and cloves chilled or on the rocks. For a dessert, try mixing seedless grapes with fruit juices, wine or grape juice and some brandy for a classic sangria to eat with a spoon.

ORANGE MULLIGATAWNY SOUP

- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 quarts water
- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, whole or cut in serving pieces
- 1 cup chopped celery and leaves
- 1 cup sliced carrots
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 apples, pared, cored and diced
- 2 tomatoes, peeled, diced
- 1½ tablespoons salt
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/3 cup uncooked regular rice

In a large kettle, combine orange juice, water, chicken, celery, carrots, onion, 1 apple, 1 tomato and salt. Cover and simmer for 1 hour. Remove chicken, remove meat from bones, cut into bite-size pieces and return to broth. Add remaining apple, tomato, curry powder and rice; cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Makes two and three-fourth quarts or 6 servings.

ORANGE CONSOMME

- 2 cups orange juice
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 1 cup beef bouillon
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 2 whole cloves

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Heat. Serve in small soup cups: garnish with orange slices. Makes 5 cups.

SANGRIA DESSERT

- 1½ pounds Thompson seedless grapes (3 to 4 cups)
- ½ lemon
- ½ orange
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1½ cups red wine or grape juice
- ¼ cup brandy (optional)
- 6 cinnamon sticks

Rinse and drain grapes; remove from stems. Chill. Cut lemon and orange into thin slices. Place in pitcher, along with sugar, wine and brandy. Chill to blend flavors, about 1 hour or longer. To serve: portion one-half cup grapes into stemmed glasses. Add one-third cup wine mixture to each, and a lemon and orange slice. Garnish each with a cinnamon stick. Serve with a spoon and a short straw, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Easy all in a pot cranberry stew

Cooking up a tastefully seasoned, aromatic main course is a cook's delight — and it's particularly pleasing when it's made all in one pot. Here are three recipes for poultry and meat which are stewed in piquant cranberry sauces and juice drinks to the most tender and tantalizing results.

"Berried Chicken Fricassee with Dumplings" is a wholesome and bountiful meal in itself. Chicken parts are combined with cranberry juice cocktail, chicken broth, chopped onion, celery, carrots, poultry seasoning, oregano, rosemary, parsley, mushrooms and cream. Just thirty minutes before this dish is done, the dumplings are added. This recipe can be cooked in a roasting pan, or a handsome clay pot which would be a most eye appealing way to serve from oven to table.

A main dish with fabulous flavor is "Quick Cranberry Sauerbraten." This recipe calls for but a few hours to cook, with not too much attention in the process. The seasonings combined with a chuck pot roast include minced garlic, chopped onion, cranberry juice cocktail, whole berry cranberry sauce, cider vinegar, dried or fresh dill, and gingersnaps. When ready to serve, place slices of the beef and tangy gravy over broad egg noodles.

For crockpot enthusiasts, the recipe for "Cranapple Sweet 'N Tart Tongue" with "Spicy Berry Sauce" will be a delectable discovery. This dish can be left alone to cook at a low simmer for up to twelve hours. So an early morning starter simply needs to place a beef tongue in a crockpot with water, cranberry apple drink, cloves, thyme, sage, bay leaves and cider vinegar. The spicy sauce combines jellied cranberry sauce, raisins, horseradish and mustard. It can be prepared at any time that is convenient and then served piping hot over the succulent meat.

Round out any of these fine main courses with a salad of crisp greens, and a bottle of wine. If there are any leftovers, they'll be just as tasteful the second time around.

BERRIED CHICKEN FRICASSEE WITH DUMPLINGS
(Serves 6)

1 fricassee or stewing chicken, about 5 to 6 pounds, cut up
Salt and pepper
1 cup chicken borth
1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
2 large onions, chopped
2 cups sliced celery
3 carrots, sliced
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ teaspoon each oregano and rosemary
¼ cup chopped parsley
1/3 cup flour mixed with 1 cup (½ pint) heavy cream
½ pound small mushrooms, trimmed and left whole

Cranberry Dumplings

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup yellow cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup milk
1 cup (8 ounces) whole berry cranberry sauce

Sprinkle chicken pieces on all sides with salt and pepper. Place pieces into a roasting pan or large pretreated 6 quart clay pot. Add chicken broth, cranberry juice, onions, celery, carrots, poultry seasoning, oregano, rosemary and parsley. Cover and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1½ to 2 hours or until chicken is tender. Remove from oven and stir in cream mixture. Add mushrooms. Replace in oven uncovered and bake another 10 minutes or until sauce thickens. In a bowl mix flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt, milk and cranberry sauce. Remove casserole from oven and drop mixture by heaping tablespoons on top of simmering sauce. Cover and replace in oven for 30 minutes or until dumplings are firm and puffed. Serve chicken with gravy and dumplings.

QUICK CRANBERRY SAUERBRATEN
(Serves 6 to 8)

1 chuck pot roast, about 4 pounds
Salt and pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
1 large onion, chopped
2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1 cup whole berry cranberry sauce
1/3 cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons dried dill weed, or 2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill
6 to 8 gingersnaps, crumbled

Sprinkle pot roast on all sides with salt and pepper. Place roast into a Dutch oven and brown in its own fat until brown on all sides. If roast has no outside fat, brown roast in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add garlic, onion, cranberry juice, sauce, vinegar and dill. Cover tightly and simmer gently for 2 hours. Turn roast occasionally in liquid during cooking. Remove roast to a carving board and let rest 20 minutes. Skim excess fat from top of pan juices. Stir in gingersnaps. Cook stirring until sauce bubbles and thickens and is smooth. Cut roast into ½ inch thick slices and place in sauce. If necessary, season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve beef slices with gravy over cooked noodles.

CRANAPPLE SWEET 'N TART TONGUE WITH SPICY BERRY SAUCE
(Serves 6 to 8)

1 smoked beef tongue, about 3 to 4 pounds
4 cups water
4 cups cranberry apple drink
½ teaspoon each cloves, thyme and sage
½ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
2 bay leaves
1/3 cup cider vinegar

Spicy Berry Sauce

1 can (16 ounces) jellied cranberry sauce
¼ cup raisins
2 tablespoons horseradish
2 tablespoons brown mustard

Curl tongue to fit into crock pot (4 quart size). Add water, cranberry apple drink, cloves, thyme, sage, pepper, salt, bay leaves and vinegar. Cover and set heat on low and simmer for 10 to 12 hours. Remove tongue from broth and pull off skins and remove bones and gristle. Cut tongue into thin slices. Heat sauce ingredients until bubbly stirring constantly. If sauce is too thick, thin it with some of the broth in which tongue was cooked. Serve tongue slices with sauce spooned over slices.

CHEESE EN CROUTE

Cheese en Croute is unusual

What does an imaginative hostess do when company's coming and she wants to serve something unusual but has not time for fuss? Why! — she rummages through her freezer, comes out with some small french rolls, a package of frozen cheese souffle, ham slices and bacon. Presto — in no time she's whipped together a cheese souffle en croute (cheese souffle in a crust) that looks as good as it sounds, tastes delicious and is amazingly easy to prepare.

All the ingredients store readily in the freezer, so with very little advance planning the harried hostess can calmly greet her guests knowing that all will be well.

The cheese souffle is easily prepared by scooping out small french rolls and bushing each inside and out with butter or margarine mixed with spices. These are then filled with the cheese mixture and baked. A slice of crisp bacon is added just before serving and as simply as that "dinner is served."

CHEESE SOUFFLE EN CROUTE

Makes 8

- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon Italian herb blend
- 8 small frozen french rolls
- 1 package (12 ounces) frozen cheese souffle, thawed
- ½ cup chopped smoked ham
- 8 slices crisp bacon, each slice broken in half

In a small bowl mix butter and herbs. With a sharp knife, scoop out rolls, leaving a shell ½ inch thick. (Used bread removed for a stuffing, to make croutons, bread pudding, bread crumbs). Brush each roll inside and out with butter mixture. In a bowl mix cheese souffle and ham. Place rolls on a cookie sheet. Spoon cheese souffle mixture into each roll. Bake in a preheated oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes or until cheese is puffed and brown. Top each roll with bacon and serve at once.

Use bran for party treats

If you've been considering increasing the food fiber in your diet, as some medical researchers recommend, you may be surprised at how simple it is to do. Wheat bran cereal, available at everybody's supermarket, is one of the richest sources of food fiber. A bowl at breakfast is a simple way to add fiber to the diet, and try, too, some bran-enriched recipes that have interesting texture and a good, earthy taste.

With a little care and a couple of new food ideas, you can even fit fiber into your first courses at parties. The same foods are very good served as snacks, too. An Indian Cheese Ball is easy to make. It's flavored with chutney or chopped dried apricots for an appealing change of taste, and the cheese mixture is formed into a ball, and rolled in wheat bran cereal. The wheat bran adds crunch in contrast to the satin-smooth cheese. There's a nut-like quality to foods rolled in bran or sprinkled with it that is very good — and it costs a lot less than using chopped nuts.

A really super snack is Salty Bran Twists. The clear directions included here will guide you to a good result, and the Twists are positively delicious. You can serve these as a first course accompanied by chunks of cheese, or pass them around with a glass of milk or fruit juice for a great snack. Either way, you'll be adding important fiber to your family's diet.

With a box of wheat bran cereal on the shelf, you can add a rich source of fiber to any familiar dishes — cooked vegeatables, fruit salad, luncheon salads, and others — in just a jiffy. This is the easy way to get the health benefits that some medical researchers recommend for your family.

INDIAN CHEESE BALL

- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup pot cheese or dry curd cottage cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped chutney or chopped dried apricots
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ½ cup wheat bran cereal

In a large bowl, beat cream cheese and pot cheese until smooth. Stir in chutney, onion, lemon juice, salt, and curry powder. Chill until stiff enough to shape into a ball. Roll ball in wheat bran cereal. Chill. Serve with crackers. YIELD: 1 cheese ball

SALTY BRAN TWISTS

- 1 cup wheat bran cereal
- ¾ cup water
- 1 package active dry yeast
- ½ cup warm water
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup margarine or butter, melted
- 2½ to 2¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 3 tablespoons course salt

In large bowl combine wheat bran cereal and ¾ cup water; let stand 1 to 2 minutes, until most of water is absorbed. Sprinkle yeast over warm water and stir until dissolved. Add to bran; stir in sugar, salt and margarine. Gradually beat in 2 cups flour; work in remaining flour, using hands if necessary, to make a stiff dough. Cover and refrigerate 2 to 24 hours. Break into 16 pieces; roll each piece between hands to a rope 16 inches long and no more than ½ inch thick. Shape into pretzels by looping ends over center of rope. Place on lightly greased baking sheet. Brush with beaten egg; sprinkle with coarse salt. Let rise in warm place 30 to 45 minutes, just until almost doubled in bulk. Bake in 400 degrees oven 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve warm or cool. YIELD: 16 pretzels.

Hearty dish for campers

Over 50 million Americans find it irresistible — the call of the open road. Each year, they set out to see the USA in trailer or camper, many owned, most rented. For couples as well as entire families, it's the thriftiest way to travel and, many say, the best way.

The tiny galley in trailer or camper can be as convenient as your own kitchen, if you're organized. Depend on simple cooking; stock the "fridge" with versatile standbys, like ground beef or chicken parts and fill the cupboard with a variety of convenience foods. Instant soup mixes, for example, take up little room and can be used both to make a cup of delicious soup and as seasoners in cooking.

Whether you cook in the galley or outdoors, here's a hearty and different campers' dish. Just three ingredients — versatile ground beef, instant rice and a head of cabbage (or green peppers) which can be bought en route — can be made into the most delectable meal-in-one imaginable by cooking them with instant tomato soup and instant onion soup. The instant soups provide all the seasoning you need to give this dish tantalizing flavor.

With it, serve chunks of bread, warmed if you wish, and glasses of refreshing iced tea. With the marvelous outdoors to pique the appetite and set a beautiful scene, you'll enjoy eating on tour as much as dining at home.

CAMPGROUND UNSTUFFED CABBAGE

- ½ pound ground beef
- ½ small head cabbage, coarsely chopped (about 3 cups)
- 3 envelopes instant tomato soup
- 2 envelopes instant onion soup
- 1¾ cups water
- ½ cup packaged precooked rice

In large saucepan, brown ground beef with cabbage. Add instant tomato and onion soups and water; cook covered 10 minutes or until cabbage is almost tender. Add rice; cook covered an additional 5 minutes or until rice is tender. Makes 2 servings.

Or try—

UNSTUFFED PEPPERS

Substitute 2 small green peppers, sliced lengthwise, for cabbage.

'Adoration' acquired

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)- A major work by Spanish painter Bartolme Esteban Murillo has been acquired by the Toledo Museum of Art.

Otto Wittmann, museum director, described the 6-by-5 foot "Adoration of the Magi" as "the most important Spanish painting to be acquired by the Museum in almost two decades."

The painting is said to have been painted around 1650 in Seville. Murillo lived from 1618 to 1682, devoting most of his time to working for Seville's numerous churches and religious orders.

Elegant Cranberry summer soups

CRANBERRY SOUPS

For the summer dining scene, refreshing cold soups are a delight, and tangy cranberry drinks have a flavor charisma which superbly blends with other ingredients to create three unusually good chilled soup recipes.

Not only can each begin many a menu at home with a breezy, light feeling, but consider them too as an energizing and thirst quenching idea to take along in a thermos for a sunny day picnic.

"Cranberry Gazpacho" is delectably spicy. It's prepared in a whiz in a blender combining stewed tomatoes, lemon juice, olive oil, cranberry juice cocktail, minced onion, chopped green pepper and cucumber and condiments. It would make a super beginner for a dinner of barbecued spareribs, or chicken. Serve your well chilled Gazpacho in earthenware bowls and top with crisp croutons.

Another marvelously chilling and piquantly pleasing soup is "Cranberry Borscht." A perfect luncheon starter which might be followed by a salad, herbed omelet or sandwiches. Quickly made, it combines pickled beets, cranberry juice cocktail, dehydrated vegetable broth and salt and pepper. Topped with sour cream or yogurt and chopped chives, it's a color bright sight. Serve it in bowls nested over crushed ice, or in tall glasses or mugs. An enchanting idea to begin an elegant repast by candlelight is "Berry Fruitful Soup." It is an exquisitely tasteful blending or cranberry apple drink, prunes, apple, peach, pear, oranges, apricot, sugar, cornstarch and port wine. After it's been well refrigerated, serve it in carved melon halves for a most decorative presentation. Follow with a main course of seafood, veal or lamb.

Whatever dining occasion you plan this summer, each of these chilled soups will add a new and tasteful note to your menu.

CRANBERRY GAZPACHO
(Serves 6)

2 cans (1 pound each) stewed tomatoes
Juice of 1 lemon
¼ cup olive or salad oil
2 cups cranberry juice cocktail
Salt and pepper
1 small onion, minced
1 small green pepper, seeded and chopped
1 cucumber, peeled and chopped
Croutons, optional

In a blender, whirl tomatoes, lemon juice and oil until smooth. Pour into a bowl or soup tureen. Stir in cranberry juice, salt and pepper to taste. Stir in remaining ingredients and chill until very cold. Serve in earthenware bowls. May be topped with crisp croutons and on very hot days it is served with an ice cube placed into the bowl with the soup.

CRANBERRY BORSCHT
(Serves 6)

1 can (1 pound) sliced pickled beets, undrained
2 envelopes dehydrated vegetable broth
4 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
Salt and pepper
Plain yogurt or sour cream
Chopped chives

Whirl beets and their juices in a blender until coarsely chopped. Pour into a soup tureen or a bowl. Stir in vegetable broth and cranberry juice. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cover and chill. Serve in bowls nested in crushed ice and topped with large spoons of yogurt or sour cream. Sprinkle each serving with chopped chives.

BERRY FRUITFUL SOUP
(Serves 6)

4 cups cranberry apple drink
1 apple, peeled, cored and diced
1 cup pitted prunes
1 peach, peeled, pitted and diced
1 pear, peeled, cored and diced
12 dried apricot halves, quartered
Grated rind of 1 orange
Diced pulp of 1 orange
1/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup port wine
3 honeydew melons

In a saucepan, combine juice, fruits, orange rind and pulp. Simmer gently for 10 to 15 minutes or until fruits are tender but still hold their shape. Stir in sugar. Blend cornstarch with port until smooth. Add to fruit mixture, cook stirring constantly over low heat, until soup thickens slightly. Cover and chill. Serve icy cold in a melon half that has been peeled and seeded and notched with a sharp knife.

Private peace corps

DETROIT (AP) — Dr Harris Mainster and his family operate their own peace corps.

Since 1971, the 39-year-old osteopathic surgeon, his wife and four daughters have spent their vacations doing volunteer work in some of the world's most remote areas.

They first went to Nicaragua because a colleague of Mainster told him he had a brother in a religious order there and knew medical help was needed. Upon return, another colleague told Mainster his medical services would be more than welcome in Liberia. So they went there for their next vacation. They went to India in 1973. Last summer, they lived several weeks amidst warring tribes in New Guinea.

Amber conserve is a gift of gold

Flavoring of fruits with brandy goes back to early Rome and Greece when Lucullan feasts called for "spirits" in almost everything served. On a much less lavish scale, early colonists and westward-bound settlers continued to indulge themselves in the seasonal luxury of "putting down fruits in brandy."

Peach Amber Conserve is reminiscent of old-fashioned brandied peaches. Ginger brandy gives this conserve a special zing. Or the brandy may be omitted and ground ginger substituted.

Conserves are jam-like mixtures of at least two fruits, with nuts added and sometimes raisins. Bits of fruit are cooked to a translucent state in heavy syrup.

Peaches and oranges provide a sprightly fruit combination in this recipe. Unsulphured molasses is used for some of the sweetness and for the rich amber hue of this specialty.

PEACH AMBER CONSERVE

8 cups peeled, chopped peaches (about 10 large)
2 oranges
5 cups granulated sugar
1 cup unsulphured molasses
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
½ cup chopped blanched almonds
¼ cup ginger brandy -or- ½ teaspoon ground ginger

First prepare the fruit. Peel, pit, and chop peaches. Wash oranges, cut into quarters; remove seeds but do not peel. Chop oranges or put through medium blade of food grinder. Grate lemon rind and squeeze juice. Combine the fruits, juice, and lemon rind in large heavy saucepan. Simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Add sugar, molasses, and ground ginger, if used. Rapidly bring to boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Cook rapidly until thick, about 20 minutes. As mixture thickens, stir frequently to prevent sticking or scorching. Add nuts the last five minutes of cooking. When mixture "rounds up" in the spoon or flakes from the spoon as in a jelly test, remove from heat. Add ginger brandy, if desired.

Ladle the hot conserve into clean, sterilized jars. Seal with standard canning lids or cover with ⅛ inch hot paraffin.

For added keeping assurance, conserves in jars with canning lids may be processed in a simmering water bath (180-185 degrees) for 10 minutes, with the water covering the jars 1 to 2 inches.

Yield: 8 half-pints.

Ready or not, the NFL is coming

It doesn't seem possible, but the first NFL football competition begins this weekend.

The annual College All-Star Game, pitting the All-Stars against the Super Bowl Champion Pittsburgh Steelers, kicks off the action Friday night (6:30 p.m. channel 7).

On tap Saturday is the Annual Hall of Fame contest (channel 7, 2 p.m.) with the Detroit Lions meeting the Denver Broncos.

The rest of the NFL teams get into it the following weekend. A full schedule of 14 exhibition (the NFL hates that term and insists on calling them "preseason") games will be played.

Eleven games, topped locally by the Rams-Tampa Bay contest, will be played Saturday, July 31. Two games are slated Sunday, August 1 and one, Houston at Kansas City, on Monday, August 2.

The writer will get his first look at the 1976 Rams Friday. Over 80 players are still in camp. Aside from the running question of will the Rams get O.J. (Simpson), major interest centers on the quarterback position.

James Harris has apparently recovered fully from the shoulder problems he encountered last year. But Harris will be strongly challenged by Ron Jaworski and Pat Haden.

Coach Chuck Knox will take a good close look at all three during the exhibition season. Although Harris is number one going into the exhibition games, the one that performs the best during the exhibitions likely will start the season opener in Atlanta, Sept. 12.

Innovations made

Three innovations will be put into operation with the beginning of the exhibition season.

A 30-second time clock, four feet high and six feet wide will be in operation at each end of the playing field. This is to record the time it takes the offensive team to put the ball into play (a maximum of 30 seconds is allowed).

The coin toss, which mysteriously has always been held about a half hour before game time (what you've seen just before the game has been a reenactment) now will be held three minutes prior to kickoff and carried live on television to the fans in the stadium.

Colorful ribbons, two inches wide and 36 inches long, will be attached to the top of each goal post upright so that kickers and fans can determine wind conditions.

All referees will have microphones to announce penalty information to the fans in the stadium and on television. This was used in many games last season and will be in effect for all games this year.

It all figures to make things more interesting for the spectators.

It would be nice if baseball could come up with a few things to make watching a game more interesting. What we get are "message boards" crammed with nothing more exciting than listings of some of the groups or individuals in attendance.

The only thing more boring is to sit down and start reading the telephone book.

A 20-second clock could be used in the baseball parks. With the bases unoccupied a pitcher is SUPPOSED to deliver the ball to the batter within 20 seconds. When the rule is violated, the umpire is SUPPOSED to call a "ball."

Now that's a rule I'd like to see enforced. If a big 20-second clock was prominently displayed, the umpires would HAVE to enforce it.

Kilmer ready to go

HERE 'N THERE — Bill Kilmer, who will be 37 Sept. 5, is looking forward eagerly to his 16th year in pro football.

Kilmer, who missed the 1963 and '65 seasons because of injuries, reports his right shoulder and left foot have mended nicely following surgery at the end of last season.

"I ran two miles a day for three months before (training) camp," Kilmer is quoted in the latest NFL release. "And I went to see Mike Marshall (yes, "Old Tinfoil" himself) and got a program to strengthen my arm. I want to keep my arm as strong as it was when I was 28 or 29. Right now I think it is."

Kilmer, a JC All American at Citrus College before attending UCLA, was the recipient of the George Halas Award for Most Courageous Player of 1975. He could win it again this year.

Three official NFL publications, Prolog, The 1976 NFL Record Manual and NFL Report '76, will go on public sale August 1.

Prolog is the NFL annual and highlights complete reports on the expansion Seattle Seahawks and Tampa Bay Buccaneers. It has a review of the 1975 season and a preview of 1976 plus over 200 pictures.

NFL Report '76 contains complete scouting reports of the 28 NFL teams, rosters, draft choices, exhibition and regular season schedules.

U.S. must yield center stage

MONTREAL (AP) — America's matchless male swimmers, chief harvesters of a medal crop that has put the United States on top in the XXI Olympic Games, must yield center stage again tonight.

Nadia will be back.

The Yankee swimmers, unbeaten and perhaps unbeatable, will be seeking their sixth and seventh gold medals in as many events. They're heavily favored in the 800-meter freestyle relay. And they had three of the four best times in qualifying for the 100 butterfly.

A world record, becoming something of a routine occurance, in the relay is a distinct possibility. But the worldwide television audience of a billion people may have to wait for the reruns to see it.

Nadia will be back.

And when tiny Nadia Comaneci appears, the rest of the Olympics all but halt, waiting and watching with the happy anticipation of another perfect performance from the pony-tailed Romanian schoolgirl who has captured the imagination of the world.

The 4-foot-11, 88-pound package of pert perfection, holder of the only three perfect 10 scores ever awarded in the Olympics, goes against the Russians in the finals of the women's all-around individual gymnastics.

Five gold medals will be awarded: uneven parallel bars, balance beam, floor exercise, vault and all-around. Nadia's chief opposition will be the Russians—Ludmila Tourischeva, who leads in floor exercise and trails Nadia by only four-tenths of a point in the over-all; Nellie Kim, who leads in the vault, and Olga Korbut, the darling of the 1972 Games.

It very well could be the highlight of the entire Olympics.

The highlight so far has been the complete domination of their sport by the American men and the East German women swimmers. Both are unbeaten.

And the gold medals acquired by John Hencken, Santa Clara, Calif., in the 100 breaststroke and Brian Goodell, Mission Viejo, Calif., in the 1,500 free-style — both in world record time — boosted the United States into the medal lead with seven gold, six silver and three bronze after three days of competition.

East Germany had a medal count of 6-4-4. Russia stood at 4-2-1. Japan, West Germany and Bulgaria each have one gold.

Jennifer Chandler, 17, Lincoln, Ala., had to overcome some biased marks from East German judge Heinz Gold—who heavily favored Christa Kohler of his country—to win the women's three-meter springboard.

"I didn't really notice it," she said, then added: "I don't think he meant to do that. Sometimes politics gets in whether you want it to or not."

Her coach, Don O'Brien, added: "If you dive well, you win."

But the bias was obvious. The crowd booed it. Toward the latter stages of the competition even the other judges peered angrily at the East Grman. He gave her the lowest point total of the seven judges on seven of her 10 dives. And he gave the Est GErman girl the highest or next to highest mark of all 10.

Miss Chandler won with 506.19 points to 469.41 for Miss Kohler. Cynthia McIngvale of Dallas won the bronze with 466.83.

Don Haldeman, a 29-year-old tool and diemaker from Souderton, Pa., gave the Americans another gold, scoring 190 of 200 in skeet shooting. He was followed by Armando Silva Marques of Portugal and Ubaldeso Baldi of Italy.

Goodell, 17, was timed in 15 minutes, 2.40 seconds for the punishing 1,500 freestyle, more than four seconds faster than his old world mark and an astonishing 52 seconds faster than the winning time in the 1972 Olympics. Bobby Hackett, another teenager from Yonkers, N.Y., took the silver in 15:03.91 and Steve Holland of Australia was third.

Hencken's 1:03.11 in the breaststroke represented his third world record in two days. David Wilkie of Great Britain was second in 1:03.43 and Arvidas Iuozaytis of Russia third in 1:04.23.

The U.S. forces suffered two major disappointments, survived a scare and got a surprise lift from a wrestler, Pete Lee, a 343-pound heavyweight on the Greco-Roman team. Lee, from Muncie, Ind., pinned 1972 silver medalist Alexandr Tomov of Bulgaria in the opening round of competition in what American coach Vaughn Hitchcock called "the upset of the Olympics, believe me."

One disappointment came from the eight-oared shell, which finished third in the repechage heat and thus was eliminated—for the first time in history—from the finals.

"There's a time in every race," said coxswain David Weinberg of New York, "when you have to decide whether you want to win badly enough. We let it slip away. There's no excuse. We just didn't have it."

Shirley Babashoff, Fountain Valley, Calif., declined to talk with reporters after she had failed to break the East German's hold on women's swimming. Petra Thumer won in world record time of 4:09.89. Miss Babashoff also broke the old record at 4:10.46. Shanon Smith of Canada was third.

The scare, and it was a major one, was survived by the American basketball team, beaten only once in Olympic history. The Americans trailed by seven points to a longshot Puerto Rican team, powered by New York playground graduates, before pulling out a 95-94 victory on two free throws by Phil Ford.

"I never had a doubt about it," said Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, who scored two critical baskets late in the game. "We like to think our best games are yet to come."

They may have to have a better game tonight against a big, tough Yugoslavia team.

Other medals today, in addition to the swimming and gymnastics, include three position small bore rifle, lightweight weightlifting and foil fencing.

Japan won its fifth consecutive gold in men's team gymnastics last night, with Russia second and East Germany a distant third. In the only other medal event, Nikolai Kolesnikov of Russia took the gold in featherweight weightlifting with a combined hoist of 627 pounds. Georgi Todorov of Bulgaria, the 1974 world champion, was second with 616 pounds and Kazuma Hirai of Japan took the bronze with 605.

Rau predicts big finish

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Doug Rau feels the Dodgers' pitching staff is ready for a big finish this season and that's why Los Angeles has a good chance of overtaking the Cincinnati Reds in the National League West standings.

Rau certainly did his part in proving his theory Tuesday night in defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2, for his ninth victory of the season.

Thanks to Davey Lopes' first home run of the season, the Dodgers picked up a game to again move within six games of the Reds in baseball's tightest pennant race.

"Our staff is going to be much stronger this second half of the season," Rau said after his five-hit performance.

And Rau feels the Dodgers' five-man starting rotation will prove to be a big reason for the staff's success.

"We're all getting extra rest and I believe it will help us," he said after recording his third straight victory. "We have a second-half type of staff. If we continue to pitch consistently, take our time and don't panic we can catch the Reds and make a race of it."

All the scoring in Tuesday's game came in the first three innings as Rau allowed only two harmless hits through the final six frames.

The Cards scored an unearned run in the second when Hector Cruz' single scored former Dodger Joe Ferguson, who was at second base on shortstop Bill Russell's two-base throwing error.

Rau gave up another run in the third and was fortunate to escape that frame without any additional damage to himself or to his pitching performance.

After Rau hit Bake McBride with a pitch, Don Kessinger singled McBride to third and Mike Anderson brought him home with a sacrifice fly.

Ted Simmons followed with a bullet line drive which Rau was able to catch and double up Kessinger at first for a double play.

"I can't say I was terrified seeing the ball come back at me like that because I never saw it," Rau said about his close call. "My hand went numb and afterward, when I thought about it, my knees buckled. I'm just thankful I got my glove up in time."

The Dodgers tagged Lynn McGlothen for two runs in the first inning and added a third on Lopes' homer over the leftfield fence.

Los Angeles couldn't score again the rest of the way and ended up leaving nine runners on the bases, a common practice in recent games.

Three walks, singles by Bill Buckner and Ron Cey and Bill Russell's sacrifice fly were the ingredients used for the first inning flurry.

DODGER DATA — The brief series concluded this afternoon (1 p.m.) when Don Sutton pitched against John Denny.

The San Diego Padres arrive Thursday night to begin a four-game, two-city series. After playing here Thursday and Friday nights, the two teams head for San Diego for games Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

Rick Rhoden (9-0) will face Dan Spillner (2-9) Thursday with Tommy John (5-6) going against Brent Strom (9-10) Friday. The Dodgers get to face Randy Jones (17-4) Saturday night.

The Dodgers are 20-11 in one-run games and 14-3 at Dodger Stadium.

Los Angeles is fourth in the National League in doubleplays and are third in fewest errors.

With a perfect 5-0 mark at home against the Cards, the Dodgers enjoy a big 9-2 edge over St. Louis this season.

Willie Crawford is batting .352 in July and has hit safely in 17 of his last 20 games in enjoying a big year in his new Cardinal uniform.

Puerto Ricans give U.S. scare

MONTREAL (AP) — "It taught us a lesson," said Ernie Grunfeld of Tennessee. "Don't take anything for granted."

"This definitely is going to make us a better club," said Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, who tipped in a stray shot Tuesday with 33 seconds remaining to give the United States the lead for good in a 95-94 shootout with Puerto Rico in men's Olympic basketball competition.

Butch Lee, a product of playground basketball in New York City who wasn't invited to the U.S. Olympic Trials, dealt his home country misery throughout, penetrating a zone defense for a game-high 35 points that almost produced a startling Puerto Rican victory.

"It was a great game for a person who didn't care who won and could sit back and see some offensive show," said U.S. Coach Dean Smith of North Carolina.

Puerto Rico shot 64 per cent from the field and the Americans shot 58 per cent.

Puerto Rico led 78-71 with 8:35 remaining and it appeared the U.S. squad was doomed to only its second defeat in Olympic basketball history.

Chopping away steadily, the Americans finally regained the lead 83-82 four minutes later on a Dantley basket but twice fell behind by three before setting the stage for the down-to-the-wire finish. Phil Ford's 12-foot jumper with 2:13 left that give the United States an 89-88 lead.

Neftali Rivera, who scored 26, sandwiched a pair of baskets around Quinn Buckner's jumper to give Puerto Rico a 92-91 edge with 1:06 to play. Dantley's tip-in of Buckner's stray shot provided the final lead change, and Ford iced the game by sinking a pair of free throws with eight seconds left.

QBs please Chuck Knox

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Rams Coach Chuck Knox says he is pleased with his team's workouts and the play of his top two quarterbacks, James Harris and Ron Jaworski.

"It was an excellent practice," Knox said after Tuesday's workout. "We've got a lot of guys fighting for jobs, and everybody's hustling."

Harris and Jaworski, who are fighting for the starting slot, both completed long touchdown passes to highlight a Rams scrimmage.

Harris connected on a bomb to Harold Jackson, and Jaworski, Harris' understudy most of last season, hit Ron Jessie with another long scoring pass.

A team spokesman said that two cornerbacks who are battling for the job on the left side vacated by Eddie McMillian, who went to Seattle in the expansion draft, also were impressive during a pass defense drill.

Pat Thomas, a second-round draft pick out of Texas A&M, intercepted two passes and Al Clark, who was sidelined with a broken leg early last season, picked off another.

U.S. gold medal winner also an excellent student

MONTREAL (AP)—Between winning Olympic gold medals, America's breaststroke swimming champion John Hencken performed well enough at Stanford University to win a scholarship for graduate work starting this fall.

He studies production design and engineering, and if he studies like he swims, he meets the problems head on.

Asked to describe his world record race Tuesday night in the Olympic 100-meter breaststroke, the 22-year-old from Santa Clara, Calif., answered: "I just made it feel good for the first 50 meters, worked into the wall and off the wall and gave it all I've got at the end."

The gold medal winner is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Decker of La Verne.

While many athletes express surprise at world records, Hencken admitted he expected to do it. He already owned the mark at 1 minute, 3.88 seconds. He matched that time in the preliminary heat, lowered it to 1:03.62 in the semifinal and to 1:03.11 when he beat chief rival David Wilkie of Great Britain, who took second in 1:03.43.

Despite the fact Wilkie had beaten him earlier this year, Hencken said: "The clock is my competition. I never look at the competition except on the turns. I look straight ahead. You look to the side and you lose time."

He and Wilkie will undoubtedly meet again in the 200 breaststroke, the one where Hencken won the gold medal at Munich in 1972 after taking the bronze in the 100. The American will be favored to successfully defend his title and add another gold medal to Uncle Sam's collection.

Asked what he thought his victory this time has done for the undefeated U.S. team, Hencken answered: "Every gold medal keeps everyone psyched up and keeps up the momentum."

Because his studies didn't allow complete concentration on swimming, Hencken stayed out of school the final quarter of the 1975-76 year. Still, his 3.2 grade average will permit him to combine his final regular academic work with his graduate studies under his NCAA student-athlete scholarship.

Although Hencken appeared almost stoical in receiving his second gold medal and becoming the first 1972 gold medal swimming winner to get another this time, he told newsmen: "I'm very happy. Maybe I don't show it as much as I feel it."

But he readily admitted he enjoyed the 1972 victory "a little more. The first time around is always nicer."

Still he trained harder this time than before. "Actually, I haven't trained this hard ever," swimming 10,000 to 12,000 meters daily.

Hencken's was the fifth gold medal in as many final events for the U.S. men and he calls this year's team much stronger than four years ago when Mark Spitz won his record seven gold medals.

"This is a well balanced team. We have three good people in every event. This is a more diversified team."

Asked if he thought the 100 breaststroke might be swum in under a minute some day, Hencken said: "Anything is possible, but I don't know when."

Sandoval risks unbeaten mark

LOS ANGELES — Pomona's Alberto Sandoval, called by his manager a "cinch future featherweight champ," will risk his 10-fight win streak against Raul Ochoa Thursday in the featured 10-round bantamweight main event at the Olympic Auditorium.

Ochoa, 10-2, agreed to meet Sandoval after Edgar Cabahlin, who was originally scheduled to fight the Pomona boxer, withdrew because of illness, a spokesman for the Olympic Auditorium announced Monday.

Sandoval decisioned Alberto Cabanig in 10 rounds at the Olympic three weeks ago, ending a five-fight knockout streak for the 20-year-old Garey High graduate. His record is 10-0 with six knockouts.

"Sandoval has progressed just as far at this stage of his career as Mando Ramos," said Jackie McCoy, Sandoval's manager. "Alberto can do everything a fighter has to do to reach the top. To boot, he's extremely dedicated. If Mando had Alberto's dedication, he'd still be lightweight champ.

"Alberto's still a bantamweight, but he's 5-feet-8," continued McCoy. "I expect him to grow into a featherweight within a year."

Two other unbeaten records also are on the line Thursday. In the semi-main, Eddie Lopez, 3-0 with three knockouts, fights Fili Fili of Somoa. A four-round women's match sends Diane Syverson, 2-0-1, against New York's Tiger Trenier, 5-1.

Jones boy stops Phils

By Associated Press

Everytime the Philadelphia Phillies face Randy Jones, they get that sinking feeling.

They also get that sinker ball.

The way the San Diego lefthander has been pitching against them this year, the Phillies do nothing but beat the ball into the dirt—then go back to the locker room and beat their heads against the wall.

Jones, the winningest pitcher in the major leagues, continued to dominate one of the best hitting teams in baseball with a four-hit, 3-0 victory over the Phillies Tuesday night.

That's the third straight shutout for Jones over the Phillies—a dazzling accomplishment considering the National League East leaders have been shut out only five times all season.

"I guess they are just the team this year I can handle," Jones said, shrugging off his success against Philadelphia. "I don't do anything special against them, it's just worked out well."

Jones fattened his record to 17-4 by feeding the Phillies a steady diet of sinkers. He retired 14 Phillies on ground balls while breezing through a one hour, 32-minute performance.

"I am still not finding the consistency in my sinker I would like but it is getting closer," Jones said. "I was a lot smoother and more confident tonight than I was in my last start against St. Louis. I had a very tough time getting mentally keyed up for the Cardinals after all of the excitement of starting the All-Star game. Tonight I felt much more like myself."

Jones posted 4-0 and 5-0 victories over Philadelphia earlier this year.

"I don't think Jones was as sharp tonight as the other two times he shut us out, but he made good pitches when he had to," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark. "I have got to top my hat to him. He is a heckuva pitcher and a heckuva competitor."

Mets 2, Reds 1

New York's Jerry Koosman fired a five-hitter and won his fifth straight game by beating Cincinnati. Koosman, 11-6, got all the runs he needed in the first inning when the Mets scored twice off Gary Nolan, 8-5. Singles by Felix Millan, John Milner and Ed Kranepool scored one run and Mike Vail's sacrifice fly brought in another.

Pete Rose hit Koosman's first pitch of the night for his seventh home run.

Cubs 3, Giants 2

Joe Wallis broke a scoreless tie with a two-run single off Ed Halicki in the eighth inning, triggering Chicago past San Francisco. Halicki, 9-12, had pitched 25 consecutive scoreless innings, the most in the National League this season, before the Cubs scored three runs in the eighth.

Chicago's Rick Reuschel, 9-7, had a no-hitter through six innings. Marty Perez broke it up with a leadoff single in the seventh.

Expos 4, Braves 3

Montreal roughed up Andy Messersmith for nine hits, including run-scoring singles by Mike Jorgensen, Jerry White and Barry Foote, and broke a five-game losing streak by beating Atlanta in a game that was delayed more than two hours by rain.

The Expos scored all of their runs in the first three innings as Pepe Frias delivered the game-winner in a two-run third with a sacrifice fly.

Pirates 9-3, Astros 5-4

Manny Sanguillen's three-run triple keyed a six-run first inning that carried Pittsburgh past Houston in the first game of their doubleheader. The Astros won the second game on Ed Herrmann's ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

Fidrych enthusiasm is most impressive

By Associated Press

It was an impressive performance by Mark Fidrych— impressive to the losing manager, to his own teammates and even to himself.

"I'm honestly more impressed with his enthusiasm than his pitching," said Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch, who watch Fidrych hurl the Detroit Tigers to an 8-3 victory over the Twins. "That kid might be the best thing that's happened to this game in a long time."

The rookie pitcher, who gave up 10 hits but was aided by three Detroit double plays, completed his 12th game in 13 starts as he raised his record to 11-2.

"Mark keeps the defense very alert," said Detroit outfielder Rusty Staub, talking of the pitcher who runs to and from the mound. "Baseballwize, he deserves every bit of the attention he's getting. He's pitched his tail off."

Fidrych—nicknamed "The Bird"—gives the credit to his teammates.

"Those guys do two-thirds of the work," he said. "Between that and a little luck, it's been an unbelievable year."

Staub slammed a three-run homer and Ron LeFlore added a two-run blast to provide the hitting punch for the Tigers. Tony Oliva, the Twins' designated hitter, gave himself a 35th birthday present by going 4-for-4 and received a standing ovation from the crowd of 30,425, about 22,000 more than Minnesota's season average.

A's 7, Indians 4

Sal Bando's run-scoring single and Phil Garner's basesloaded triple snapped a 3-3 tie in the ninth and boosted Oakland to its victory over Cleveland.

Billy Williams hit his ninth homer of the season, a solo shot in the seventh, for Oakland as the A's battled back from a early-inning 2-0 deficit to take a 3-2 lead. But Cleveland's George Hendrick led off the bottom of the eighth with an infield hit, moved to second on a throwing error and scored the tying run on Boog Powell's double, setting the stage for Oakland's ninth-inning rally.

Orioles 10, Royals 3

Two home runs by Lee May and single roundtrippers by Bobby Grich and Reggie Jackson paced Baltimore to its rout of Kansas City. Jamie Quirk hit a home run for the Royals.

The victory, Wayne Garland's 12th against only one loss, was the Orioles' eighth in their last 10 games.

Grich also had a triple and walked with the bases loaded to account for five runs batted in.

Red Sox 4, Rangers 2

Reliever Jim Willoughby came on in the ninth with the bases-loaded and none out, giving up only a sacrifice fly, as Boston held on to defeat Texas.

Rick Jones, 4-0, got the victory for the Red Sox although he gave up 11 of the Rangers' 14 hits in just 6 2-3 innings. But Boton belted out 12 hits of their own with Rick Buleson Burleson and Cecil Cooper combing combining for five.

Burleson had three hits and scored two runs while Cooper added two hits and two RBI as the Red Sox downed Texas for the first time in nine games this season.

It also was the first victory in two outings for new Boston Manager Don Zimmer.

Yankees 14, White Sox 9

Thurman Munson rapped out a double and two singles, driving in four runs, as the New York Yankees rebounded from a 7-0 first inning deficit to crush the Chicago White Sox in a game halted by rain in the bottom of h the eighth.

New York tied up the contest with seven runs in the second inning and went ahead to stay with four more in the fourth. Munson singled in two runs in the second and drive in two more with a double in the eighth.

Angels' streak halted at four

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A 3-7 record, even for a last place team, may not be much to shout about.

And defeating the California Angels, major league baseball's lightest hitting team with a .229 average, won't make him an overnight household name.

But Jerry Augustine, who survived the Milwaukee Brewers' last spring training cut only because they needed a lefthanded relief pitcher, gradually has established himself as one of their prime hopes for the future.

"He's got a real good future. He listens well, and when you listen, you learn," Brewer Manager Alex Grammas said after Augustine, backed by home runs by George Scott and Hank Aaron, had checked California on five hits through seven innings Tuesday night. Reliefer Danny Frisella earned a save in a 6-2 Brewers' victory, snapping a four game Angels' winning streak.

"I wanted Augie to go nine just so he couid do it once, but I'm sure he's happy," Grammas said. "He's coming. It takes a little while to get that confidence, to get that feeling that everything's under control. Surely but slowly, he's getting that feeling."

After a leadoff triple by Von Joshua and a sacrifice fly by Don Money had given the Brewers a 1-0 lead in the first inning, the Angels tied in the fourth on a single by Dave Collins, a balk, a sacrifice and Bobby Bonds' sacrifice fly.

Augustine gave up singles to the next two batters, Tommy Davis and Ron Jackson, but then held the Angels hitless until Collins and Mario Guerrero opened the eighth with singles. Frisella then retired the side in order, striking out two, and gave up a meaningless homer to Bill Melton in the ninth.

A bases loaded walk to Joshua by loser Gary Ross (6-12) gave the Brewers the lead to stay at 2-1 in the fourth.

Tim Johnson's third single, a stolen base, an error and Money's second sacrifice fly made it 3-1 in the seventh. Scott and Aaron followed with their homers, No. 10 of the season for both and No. 755 of Aaron's career. Gorman Thomas singled home an insurance run in the eighth.

Augustine, 23, was 2-0 in three starts after the Brewers called him up from Sacramento last Sept. 1. However, he was inconsistent during spring training this year, and won a berth on the roster the week before the regular season.

"We had a need for a lefthander in the bullpen," Grammas said. "We felt that if he showed anything at all, he had a chance to make the club. He was both good and bad, but we thought he could do a job."

He earned a starting berth after compiling a 1.83 earned run average in 15 relief appearances, and Tuesday night's performance dropped his ERA under 3.00 for his last five starts. Grammas traced his recent development to a delivery change suggested by pitching coach Cal McLish after he had lost 125 to Chicago June 10.

Sports briefs

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Barry Asher unleashed a barrage of strikes to down Dave Soutar, 265-184, for the title in the $60,000 Tucson Open bowling tournament Tuesday night.

The $6,000 victory was the 10th of his career for the Costa Mesa, Calif., pro and his second Tucson title, winning here in 1973.

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Expos, stressing the need for some left-handed hitting, have completed a two-for-two waiver deal with the New York Mets.

The Expos acquired veterans Del Unser and Wayne Garrett from the Mets for outfielder Pepe Mangual and utility outfielder Jim Dwyer. The deal was announced late Monday night in Montreal shortly after the Mets defeated the Reds in Cincinnati 2-1.

WASHINGTON — Second-seeded Jimmy Connors scored a straight set victory over Fred McNair of Chevy Chase, Md., 7-5, 6-1, to advance to the second round of the $125,000 Washington Star International Tennis Championship.

THE ONTARIO CITY TENNIS tournament, set to begin Aug. 7, has broadened its territorial scope. In years before this annual event has been open only to players from the West End of San Bernardino County. Now, the Ontario Recreation Department has decided to allow some LA County neighbors in on the action, so will accept entries from Pomona and Claremont residents. The eligible West End communities are Ontario, Upland, Chino, Montclair, Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Guasti and Mt. Baldy.

Officials stressed that entrants must be bonafide residents of the prescribed area. The Recreation Department will receive entries in the various events at its offices, 217 S. Lemon Ave. until 5 p.m. Aug. 3.

Chaffey High School's north courts will be the main site for the competition in men's and women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and junior events. The adults will vie within A, B or novice classifications, on the tournament's two weekends — Aug. 7-8 and 14-15. The four age levels will be available to the younger players — 18 and under, 16 and under, 14 and under and 12 and under. One special feature will be an adult-child doubles draw. Fees are $3 per player for the adults and 18 and under boys, $2 for the junior girls and $1 for the younger entrants.

A RELATIVE NEWCOMER to the area, young Bob Conner hasn't dawdled about working his way into the local tennis scene. The Chino junior was runner-up to Olarn Issara in the boys 18-and-under division of the recent Pomona Valley Closed Championships and also performed well in the men's singles competition. Last Sunday he won the Claremont Tennis Club's 18 and under crown, outstroking 14-year-old Gerry Gollin in the finals, 6-4, 6-0. The tall, steady Conner played on the Bellflower High team this year and he'll become a commuter to the same school starting in the fall to finish out his senior year.

Gollin was playing above his age level in quest of a double coup in the club's junior championships. He'd already won the 14-and-under title by defeating finals opponent Steve Curtis, 6-0, 6-1. Pam Papa was the junior girls victor with a 7-6, 6-2 triumph over finalist Robin Su, while Ken Lindberg downed Steve Norin, 6-1, 6-1, in the boys 16-and-under finals and Mark McBryant gained a comeback win over Steve Mason, 3-6, 6-2, 6-1, for the boys 12-and-under title.

FIVE OF THOSE JUNIOR FINALISTS at the Claremont club are among the 12 youngsters set to play a 24-hour tennis marathon starting Friday as a benefit for the American Cancer Society. Conner, Papa, Su, Lindberg and Norin will join in the endurance test, along with Mark Christian, Gregg Betts, Tai Martin, Eric Gosswiller, Mike Leos, Pete Mabie and Randy Mason.

Bolstered by money pledges for each hour of action, the group of juniors will go at it in doubles on three courts at the Padua Avenue facility beginning at 8 a.m. Friday. They'll switch match-ups along the way, take a few breaks here and there, but mostly the action will be continuous on through the day and night, right up until 8 a.m. Saturday. By the end, the players figure they'll have earned a worthy contribution for the cancer society's Northeast Los Angeles County unit.

Norin at 626-0602 is chairman of the benefit. The players will seek pledges both beforehand and at the courts.

UPLAND RACQUET CLUB was jammed with doubles play Sunday. Some 40 members participated in a team format, dividing up into four squads and lining up in doubles tandems. Each group collected points on the games won by its duos against the other groups' and a 204 tally earned first place for the "Miller's Killers" team captained by Skip Miller. The "Morgan's Raiders" unit headed by George Morgan was second with 189, "Graham's Giants" under Hugh Graham were third with 169 and John Yatsko's "Bionics" were fourth with 153.

Besides Miller, the winning team consisted of John Graham, Murray Todd, Rick Vargas, Jerry Byer, Howard Schrock, Joann Bailey, Barbara Barker, Doyle Barker, John Wurtz and Alex Katz.

PARENT-CHILD RELATIONSHIPS stood the acid test in a quartet of doubles tournaments at the Claremont Tennis Club. It was the club's first annual Parent-Child Championships, meaning that fathers and mothers partnered sons and-or daughters in pursuit of club titles in the four possible combinations.

As it turned out, the Low family snatched up half the laurels itself. Father Reg and son David won their tournament with a 6-3, 6-4 finals conquest of Herb and son Mark Christian. Laila and Rob Low became with mother-son champs, 6-3, 6-1 in the finals over Emily and Gerry Gollin.

Mother-daughter victors were Peggy Rees and daughter Wendy Wade, who defeated Gloria Jones and daughter Kim in the finals, 7-5, 6-3. And Bill and Pam Walker battled to the father-daughter crown, tripping finals opponents Jim and Allison Giles, 7-5, 6-3.

This Saturday, four of the club's mother-daughter teams and a like number of father-son combos will play visiting duos from the Red Hill Country Club.

IT'S THAT TIME on the tennis circuit when PBS takes over the job of satiating the TV viewer. For the next six weeks, Channel 28 will show more than 50 hours of Sunday semi-finals and Monday finals matches of major tournaments in the East.

The schedule begins Sunday with coverage of the Washington Star International Tennis Championships at Washington, D.C. Semi-finals contests will be shown from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday and the finals from 8 to 11 p.m. Monday. The remaining tournaments on tap: Louisville Tennis Classic, Aug. 1-2; Buckeye Boys Ranch Championships, Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 8-9; U.S. Clay Court Championship, Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 15-16; Canadian Open Championships, Toronto, Aug. 22-23; and U.S. Pro Championships, Boston, Aug. 29-30.

Bud Collins, Donald Dell and Judy Dixon will do the commentary, as in the past.

MIDNIGHT MIXED DOUBLES will be offered to members of the Upland Racquet Club Aug. 21. Play will begin at 10 p.m. and continue, on a format still to be determined, through the wee hours . . . . The 150 senior amateur athletes scheduled to compete Thursday through Sunday in the seven annual Senior Olympics tennis and golf events at San Diego Country Estates include a number of octogenarians, say the promoters . . .

The U.S. Tennis Association's tennis teachers workshop in San Diego Friday through Sunday is expected to draw enthusiasts from 11 states. Chet Murphy of UC Berkeley, Anne Hill of Stanford and conditioning advisor Henry Hines will provide the instruction and members of the San Diego Friars will give an exhibition. Registration at the door at the Town and Country Hotel and Convention Center is $35.

All-Stars seek to snap string

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars, seeking to break an 11-game losing streak to the National Football League champions, are expected to be 15-point underdogs Friday night when Coach Ara Parseghian leads a glittering array of talent against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A crowd in excess of 50,000 is expected in Soldier Field for the nationally televised contest (ABC, 6:30 p.m. PDT).

The last time an All-Star team defeated the professional champions was in 1963 when the collegians tagged the Green Bay Packers 20-17 under the reigns of Coach Otto Graham. Before that, the All Stars pulled off a 35-19 upset of the Detroit Lions in 1958. That team, too, was coached by Graham and one of Graham's assistants was Parseghian, then head coach at Northwestern.

Parseghian went on to great heights as head coach of Notre Dame, a position he resigned at the end of the 1974 season after a 13-11 Orange Bowl victory over Alabama.

His acceptance to coach this year's All-Star team is read by some as a move to return to the coaching ranks. But Ara has made it clear if he does return to full time coaching, it will be in the pros.

Parseghian will need all of his dynamic energy and organizational talents to mold a winner out of the All Stars against the mighty Steelers who have captured two straight Super Bowls and lost only two games all of last season.

Desire, a strong, powerful running attack and an excellent defense is the way the 1976 All Stars can be described. Whether the likes of Chuck Muncie of California, two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State, hard-hitting Tony Galbreath of Missouri Joe Washington of Oklahoma and Mike Pruitt of Purdue can dent Pittsburgh's steel curtain defense is another matter.

Quarterback could be a problem for the All Stars. Richard Todd of Alabama, the No. 1 quarterback picked in the pro draft, did not report, leaving the job to Mike Kruczek of Boston College, Craig Penrose of San Diego State or Jeb Blount of Tulsa.

The All Stars appear to be formidable on defense and could be capable of respectability displayed by their most recent predecessors. The All Stars battled hard before bowing to Pittsburgh 21-14 last year. The 1974 game was canceled because of a labor dispute but in 1973 the Miami Dolphins were hard-pressed for a 14-3 victory.

Heading the defensive line are the Selmon brothers from Oklahoma, Leroy and Dewey. Also up front will be Steve Niehaus of Notre Dame, Mike Dawson of Arizona, and Ken Novak of Purdue.

The linebacking corps includes Ed Simonini of Texas A&M, Ron McCartney of Tennessee and Troy Archer of Colorado.

In the defensive secondary will be Mario Clark of Oregon, Jim Hunter of Grambling, Aaron Kyle of Wyoming, Eddie Lewis of Kansas, Mike McCoy of Colorado and Shafer Suggs of Ball State.

American reaches finals

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Pomona American advanced to the finals of the District 20 Senior Division tournament by virtue of its 6-1 victory over Pomona National Tuesday night at Ralph Welch Park.

In an earlier contest, Diamond Bar bested Pomona Southwest 2-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Ray Garno.

American will now wait for the finals to be played on Friday at 6:30 p.m. Tonight at 6:30, Ted Greene will face Pomona National, with the winner squaring off with Diamond Bar Thursday.

American put together a big five-run third inning to easily down the National. Three National errors contributed to the decisive inning.

Jim O'Toole started things off with a single to center. A grounder by Loyd Falgout was misplayed twice, allowing O'Toole to score and put Falgout on third base. Ferny Larez dropped a single in amongst a trio of confused National players for another tally.

Dean Willhite reached base on an error, putting runners at the corners. Ricky Murillo drew a walk to load the sacks. A line drive base hit to center by Robbie Walters brought in two morew runs, and brought out starting National pitcher Mark Alba. Relief pitcher Don Milner, who otherwise pitched fine ball, surrendered a wild pitch for the final American run.

Milner pitched four frames and was not charged with a run, while whiffing five Americans.

American pitcher Fred Macias went the distance giving up seven hits, but fanned nine batters. The only run he was charged with came in the seventh when Brian Chapple singled, pinch-runner Mark Tenney stole second, and scored on a solid single by Randy Copenhaver.

Willhite had given American a 1-0 lead in the first when his safety drove home Falgout.

"We lucked out in that one inning," said American Manager Jim O'Toole. We're playing as a unit. Fred (Marcias) pitched a fine game tonight." In the initial game, Diamond Bar's Marty Reina drove home the winning run with a single and added a double to pace D. B. past Pomona Southwest.

Diamond Bar pitcher Garno went all seven innings and gave up just one run on four hits, while striking out eight men.

Southwest scored its only run in the first inning. Alex Maldonado reached base on an error and Scott Andry walked to put runners at first and second. They moved up a notch on a sacrifice bunt by Robert Vincent and tallied on a single by Auerlio Coronado.

After knotting the score in the third, Diamond Bar scored the winning run in the last of the sixth. Norm Revis singled, while Phil Kranenburg and Brian Compton walked to fill the bases. Reina hit a 3-2 pitch into short left field for the capper.

Revis had two of D. B.'s seven hits, while Coronado had half of the Southwest safeties.

Diamond Bar tied the score at one on a two-out base rap by Mario Flores. He stole second and third base before scoring on a wild throw by Southwest's catcher.

Tonight's game through the championship contest on Friday will be held at 6:30 p.m. at Ralph Welch Park, which is located at 9th and Buena Vista Streets in Pomona.

Montclair nips Claremont, 10-9

Montclair's Legion team outlasted Claremont, 10-9, in a wild game that was called due to darkness Tuesday after 5½ innings at Pomona College.

The winners, strangely enough, scored two runs in each of the five innings they came to bat. Claremont scored twice in each of three frames and three times in another.

Montclair, which never trailed, was paced by Kevin Fuller. He slammed a solo home run over the centerfield fence in the second inning and rapped a double off the ball with the bases loaded in the third.

Winning pitcher Ed Salazar drove in two runs with a double in the first inning and teammate Kent Gurney hit an RBI two-bagger in the second. Rick Adams drove in two runs for Montclair with a triple in the fifth.

Claremont's Dick Bell doubled twice and scored both times.

Post 78, 22-15 on the year, will host Baldwin Park at Pomona College today at 5 p.m. while Montclair, 13-12, visits Tri-City at Alta Loma High at 5:30.

Bob Burcham named driver

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Bob Burcham of Rossville, Ga., a short track driver for almost 20 years, was named Monday to replace Johnny Rutherford, two-time Indianapolis 500 winner, in the Talladega 500 Aug. 8.

John Ray, a trucking firm owner at Eastaboga, Ala., picked Burcham to drive his Chevrolet in the Grand National stock car race at the Alabama International Motor Speedway.

Rutherford, this year's Indy winner who drove Ray's car in the recent Firecracker 400 at Daytona Beach, had to withdraw from the Talladega 500 because of a schedule conflict. Ray still is recovering from injuries received in a Daytona 500 crash.

Forum signs Rafael Limon

INGLEWOOD — Rafael (Bazooka) Limon, one of Mexico's top young ring prospects, has been signed to box a top supporting bout on The Forum's Art Hafey-Danny Lopez card, August 6.

Limon, who upset Bobby Chacon this past January in Mexicali, Mexico, will face Modesto Concepion of the Dominican Republic.

The 22-year-old native of Mexico City is a stablemate of WBC bantamweight champion Carlos Zarate. Limon will be making his U.S. debut.

A second 10-rounder will spotlight unbeaten Ruben Castillo of Bakersfield. Castillo has 18 straight wins.

Cal Poly recruits four track athletes

Cal Poly Pomona track coach Jim George has announced the addition of four athletes to his 1977 squad.

Hura Hill, Steve Smith, Tim Hampton and David Edds have all signed national letters of intent and will attend Cal Poly in the fall.

Hill, a triple jumper whose lifetime best mark is 48-8, attended Duarte High School and Citrus College where he was the Mission Conference champion this past season.

Smith, a transfer from Harbor Junior College, has competed in the shot put, and the triple jump. He won first place honors in the shot put and discus in the Southern California Conference championship, and captured third in the triple jump. He was also a Southern California finalist in the discus and triple jump. Smith's best marks include throws of 53-1 in the shot put and 165-8 in the discus, and a 49-5 effort in the triple jump. A graduate of Locke High School, Smith resides in Los Angeles.

Hampton, a transfer from Antelope Valley Junior College and graduate of Antelope Valley High School in Lancaster, will compete in the 3-Mile. In 1976 he was the small school junior college state champion in the 5000 meter race.

Edds, the only freshman newcomer, is from banning High School. Edds was the CIF-2A runner up in the half mile, the CIF Masters runner up and was seventh in the state high school championships. His best time is 1:53.9.

In addition to the four newcomers, George also has a trio of outstanding red shirts who will be ready to compete next year.

Rick Wilmoth, who came to Cal Poly after competing at UCLA, will be running in the 100 and 220. He attended Monrovia High School and Citrus College where he was the Mission Conference champion in the 100 and 220 in 1974. While at UCLA in 1975, Wilmoth competed on their national 440 relay team. Wilmoth boasts times of 9.4 in the 100 and 20.9 in the 220.

Browning Allen, a transfer from the University of Hawaii via Citrus, also will be competing in the 100 and 220 along with Wilmoth. Allen, a graduate of Claremont High, has marks of 9.6 in the 100 and 21.4 in the 220.

Jeff Russell, a graduate of Glendora High School who attended Citrus and Idaho State University, will be throwing the javelin for the Broncos next spring. His best effort in the javelin is a 235 foot throw.

"We are very excited about our red shirts being eligible and the addition of four new track men," coach George said.

Basketball merger in danger

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association's negotiations with its players over their antitrust lawsuit have reached an impasse, jeopardizing the merger of the NBA and the American Basketball Association, the judge overseeing the suit said Tuesday.

"I had approved the settlement of the suit in principle," said federal Judge Robert L. Carter, "and had set a deadline to approve it by the end of the month."

The New York Times reported that Judge Carter said if the parties to the dispute can't settle their differences in the next few days, "the whole thing may fall through. In that case we'll have to think about a trial in the fall."

The parties were scheduled to appear before Carter Wednesday. The judge leaves for a European vacation July 30.

"Clearly, we are faced with a serious situation," said NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien. "I'm not optimistic." He spent the day in negotiations and in a telephone conference with his five-man advisory board of team presidents.

The antitrust case, known as the Oscar Robertson suit, was instituted in 1970 on behalf of all NBA players. Robertson was playing with the Milwaukee Bucks then.

The class-action suit claimed the NBA's common draft and option clause violated antitrust laws.

The NBA and the players reached a tentative settlement of the suit last February. But the players returned to court two weeks ago, about the time Carter was prepared to approve the agreement.

They claimed the spirit of the settlement had been violated in connection with contracts clubs offered to outstanding rookies.

The contracts are for less money than other top rookies have received. The players claim they are being forced into unfair long-term deals. The owners say the agreement required them to offer rookies minimum salaries but did not specify the length of contracts.

An injunction had been in force against the merger of the leagues. But after the tentative settlement was reached, an accommodation was worked out under which the New York Nets, Denver Nuggets, Indiana Pacers and San Antonio Spurs of the ABA would join the NBA. The agreement would be void if the suit were not settled.

In a related development, Carter refused Tuesday to issue a temporary restraining order against the merger. It had been requested by the ABA's St. Louis-Utah franchise, which along with Kentucky was not included in the merger.

WIBC sets seminar

SAN BERNARDINO — Two members of the Board of Directors of the Women's International Bowling Congress will conduct a WIBC Leadership Training Seminar, August 28-29, at the San Bernardino Hilton in San Bernardino.

Mrs. Agnes Duffy of Richmond, Ca., a WIBC national vice president, and Mrs. Elaine Hagin of Castro Valley, Ca., a director, will moderate the session, one of 17 scheduled across the country this summer. More than 100 women from a 200-mile radius of San Bernardino are expected to attend. The seminars are being held by WIBC to provide training and information to leaders of local women's bowling associations in rules, officers' duties, efficiency in office procedure, parliamentary techniques and problem-solving and human relations skills.

Registration forms are available from the local association president or secretary.

Bills' boss says O.J. will retire

LEWISTON, N.Y. (AP) — O.J. Simpson, the dominant running back in the National Football League for the past five years, will retire, according to Buffalo Bills owner Ralph Wilson.

"O.J. will retire from football without us making a deal for him this season," Wilson said Tuesday at the club's training camp at Niagara University.

Wilson said he has not had contact with the Los Angeles Rams in a week and negotiations to trade Simpson are stalled.

Simpson has said he would not play the 1976 season unless he is traded to a west coast club, because he wants to be near his family in Los Angeles.

The Rams reportedly offered Wilson running back Lawrence McCutcheon, wide receiver Jack Snow, safety Steve Preece and defensive tackle Bill Nelson in exchange for Simpson.

Last week Wilson said that was like offering "a Cadillac, a Toyota and a Datsun for a $46,000 Rolls Royce."

The Oakland Raiders and the San Francisco 49ers are the two other teams that could get Simpson.

"If the 49ers had Los Angeles' roster, we would have had a deal by now," said Wilson.

He does not consider Oakland to be a serious bidder for Simpson.

Poly women cagers recruit cage star

Cal Poly Pomona women's basketball coach Darlene May has announced the addition of Carol Groth to her 1976-77 basketball roster. Groth, a 6-1 center, will enroll at Cal Poly in the fall as a freshman.

"Carol has excellent potential," May said. "She can shoot very well and does a great job on rebounds. She is very coachable and eager to learn and I look forward to having her in our program."

Groth, a resident of Placentia, attended El Dorado High School where she led her high school basketball team to a league championship as well as a CIF-3A title last year.

She averaged 20 points per game in her senior year and broke two CIF records: most points scored in a season — 464, and best career scoring average — 20.1. Groth was the CIF Player of the Year in 3A girls' basketball, an All-League selection, an All-Star in the Cypress Basketball Tournament, the Most Valuable Player on El Dorado's team in 1975 and 1976, and was the 1975-76 Outstanding GAA Athlete.

In addition to her basketball talents, she competed in volleyball, softball, badminton, track, and swimming durng her high school career, as well as winning awards in art and music.

Buccaneers waive pair

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers put two more players on waivers Monday, shaving the team's roster to 72 players.

The Bucs cut punter Steve Bauer of New Mexico and running back Bob Burns who played college ball at Georgia and then played with the New York Jets.

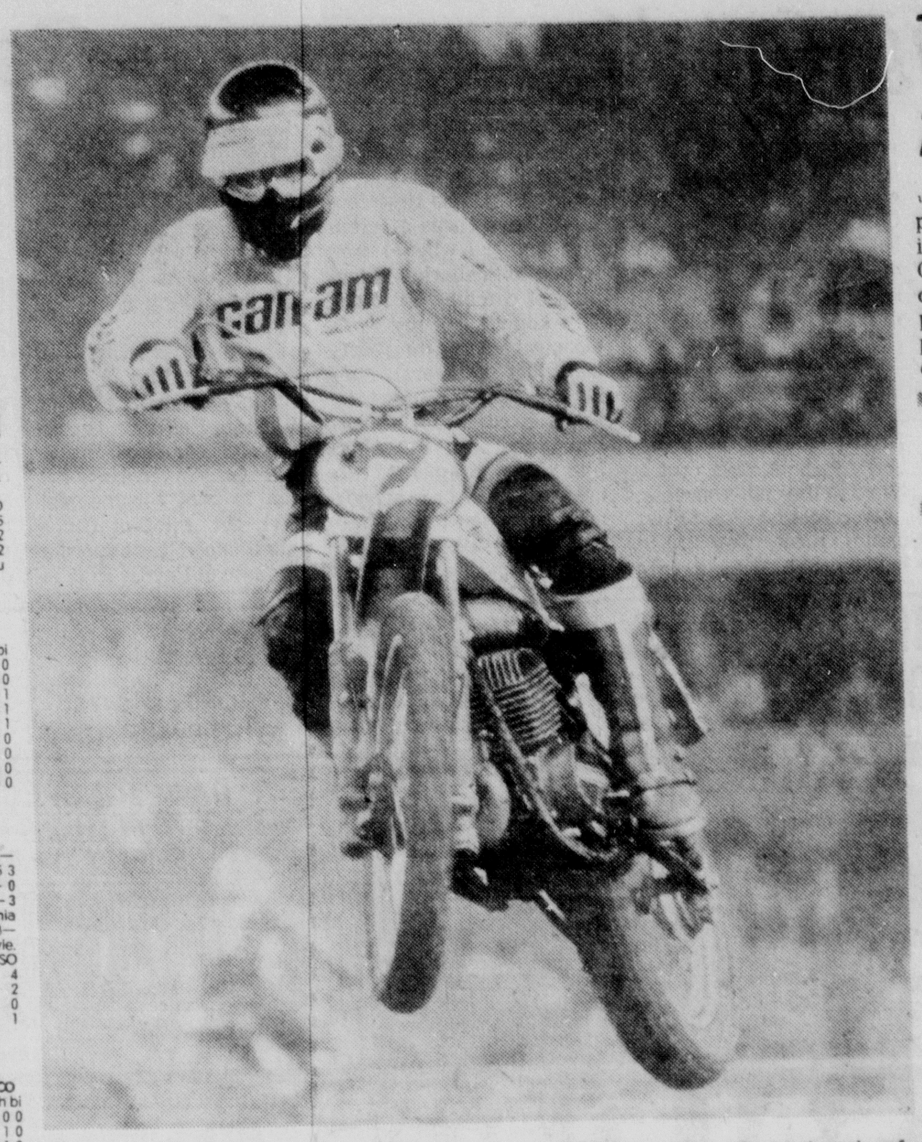
Capetillo set for Tijuana

TIJUANA — Long-time star Manuel Capetillo, ace matador Eloy Cavazos, and young Humberto Moro Jr. have signed for the corrida Sunday in the downtown bullring, El Toreo de Tijuana.

Beginning at 4 p.m., each will face two bulls of Begonia



FAVORITE — Defending champ Jimmy Ellis of East Hampton, Conn. is among the favorites for the $30,000 Oly Superbowl of Motocross Saturday at Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles.

Top motorcrossers set for Oly 'Superbowl'

LOS ANGELES — Topping the list of final signings for Saturday $30,000 Oly Superbowl of Motocross in the Coliseum are previous Superbowl champions Jimmy Ellis, victor of all four AMA stadium national career win at the AMA 125cc nationals in Keysers Ridge, Md.

Previously - announced champions competing in Saturday's Oly 8 p.m. Superbowl are arty Smith (San Diego, Calif.), two-motocross championships last year, and Marty Tripes, the only motocrosser ever to score two Superbowl victories (1972-73).

Ellis (East Hampton, Conn.) and Tripes (Santee, Calif.) head a list of 13 additional riders announced by Oly Superbowl promoter Mike Goodwin.

Included in the new signings are Gary Jones (Hacienda Heights, Calif.), America's only three-time national champ (250cc class — 1972-74); Japanese 125cc champions Yoshifumi Sugio and Yasuo Tohfukuji; Mike Runyard (Hacienda Heights, Calif.), Can-Am teammate of Jimmy Ellis and runner-up to Ellis in last year's 250cc Trans-AMA championships; and Steve Wise (McAllen, Texas), who scored his first time AMA 125cc champ and victor at the recent world 125cc Grand Prix in Denmark; 250cc national champ Tony DiStefano (Morrisville, Penn.); and Brad Lackey (Pinole, Calif.), top-ranking American in current 500cc world Grand Prix standings.

Six-time world 250cc motocross champion Joel Robert of Belgium has also joined the field. The 34-year-old Robert completely dominated the world 250cc motocross scene for 10 years, winning world titles in 1964 and for five consecutive years between 1968 and 1972. Now racing almost exclusively in his native Belgium, Robert has scored 15 wins this year in international competition.

The Oly Superbowl, being held for the fifth successive year on a custom-designed track in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, is the final event in the five-race AMA Supercross Series. The overall Supercross championship is decided by cumulative scoring of all events.

With four of the major stadium events completed in Daytona, Houston, Dallas and Pontiac, Mich., the leaders in current standings are Jim Weinert (Laguna Beach) — 288 points, two-time AMA national 500cc champ; Kent Howerton (San Antonio, Texas) — 274 points, leader to this point on this year's 500cc national circuit; and Pierre Karsmarkers (Mission Viejo) — 257 points, 1973 AMA 500cc champ. Weinert, Howerton and Karsmakers all will be racing at the Superbowl.

Jimmy Ellis, who last year swept all the events in the series, is fourth in this year's standings (with 221 points) — he stands very little chance of successfully defending his Supercross Series title.

Action begin at 8 p.m. Saturday with the first moto of the three-moto, 60-lap finale of Supercross 1976.

Springnationals to be televised

Shirley "Cha Cha" Muldowney's bid to become drag racing's first woman professional champion highlights television coverage of the National Hot Rod Association's history-making 12th annual Springnationals Saturday at 11 a.m. on KABC-TV, channel 7.

Muldowney, from Mt. Clemens, Mich., wages a 240-mile-an-hour duel with 15 top male rivals during the one-hour telecast which features the nation's top cars and drivers competing in side-by-side, tournament-style competition for eight different championships and a posted purse of $231,000.

Runner-up at the 1975 Springnationals and at the prestigious U. S. Nationals, Shirley's latest attempt to break the male domination of the Top Fuel category sends her against such well-known touring pros as Paul Longenecker of Arcanum, Ohio, Richard Tharp of Houma, La.,

Spurrier gives Bucs experience

LOS ANGELES — Having had great success in the college ranks behind the play of outstanding quarterbacks, it was little surprise that John McKay would acquire a seasoned veteran to pilot his Tampa Bay Buccaneers in their initial campaign in the NFL.

Steve Spurrier, Heisman Trophy winner, holder of the single-game completion record for the San Francisco 49ers and a 52.5 percentage passer as a pro, is McKay's designated quarterback.

Steve was the principal player in the first trade consummated by the Bucs, joining Tampa in exchange for ex-Ram Willie McGee, Bruce Elia and a second round draft pick.

"Steve has the experience and leadership qualities that we need," said McKay as he prepared his charges for their first-ever contest against the Rams, July 31, in the Times Charity Game.

"The last two or three years I think my passing has actually gotten better," said Spurrier. "I'm 31, but I think I'm a young 31-year old player. We'll win more than most people think."

Tickets for the Charity Game at the Coliseum can be obtained at Pacific Stereo, 637 S. Hill St., Rams Office, 10271 W. Pico Blvd., Times Special Events, 212 W. First St., The Ticket Mart, 1303 Westwood Blvd., Sports Arena and all Mutual Ticket Agencies.

Free agent Kay may be Rams' starter

LOS ANGELES — It is likely that the Ram's Coliseum defensive lineup July 31 against the expansionist Tampa Bay Buccaneers will be comprised of 10 draftees, including five first-rounders and two seconds, and one free agent.

The lone man not drafted is 26-year-old Rick Kay, currently running No. 1 in the chase to be the club's regular left linebacker, a position held in 1975 by Ken Geddes, who departed for Seattle's new franchise in the expansion allocation.

That Kay is still a Ram today is a tribute to thorough evaluating of talent by the Los Angeles coaching staff back in 1973, Chuck Knox's first year as head coach. Knox has said often that "The most serious error a coach can make is a mistake in player personnel."

Two free agents made it in '63 as the Rams went 12-2 and won the NFC West. Kay and running back Bob Scribner both have contributed to the club's success.

"I remember that first camp," recalls Kay. "I had heard that free agents didn't have much chance to make it, so I just made up my mind I would go out to do my best. The first couple of days I was a defensive end, so when I was moved to linebacker, I had a lot of catching up to do.

"I knew I had my work cut out because the Rams had a lot of veteran linebackers, plus a couple they had drafted — Jim Youngblood and Jim Peterson. I'm just thankful the coaching staff here spends as much time with the free agents as it does with the veterans and the high draft choices."

Tom Catlin, who has handled the Ram linebackers for the last 11 years, says Kay caught the staff's eye with his quickness. "He's also an intelligent player and he has great range."

The difference between his rookie camp and the current one under way at Cal State Fullerton is considerable for Rick. He is the listed starter. He is the man to beat for the job. "I've got a lot of confidence now," says the graduate of Pacific High in San Bernardino, "but I know there is work to be done if I'm to keep the job. In fact, I think we have the best crop of linebackers since I've been here, but good competition makes for a better player."

Kay's primary competition will come from a man who is not even in camp. First round draft choice Kevin McLain of Colorado State is working out with the College All-Stars, who meet Pittsburgh Friday night, and he won't report until Saturday.

Kay also went to school in Colorado — at the University at BOULDER. The versatility he exhibited there would be evident later as a member of the Rams.

Kay has been a reserve linebacker for most of his Ram career, plus a valuable man on the special teams. It was on the kickoff team in a 1974 pre-season game at San Diego that Rick suffered a knee injury that required surgery and kept him out all year.

Mexican festival, rodeo in anniversary program

The 10th anniversary show of Tony Aguilar's National Mexican Festival and Rodeo opens a five-performance engagement at 8 p.m. Friday in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Other shows will be at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday and 2:30 and 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

The show stars Aguilar, his wife, Flor, and their sons, Tonito, 15, and Jose, 8, all singing and performing on horseback. The show marks the 10th tour of the United States and the 25th anniversary of the Aguilars' careers as Latin America film stars and recording artists.

The bilingual show features the debut of the mounted U.S. Indian all-girl precision drill team, the return of the performing buffalo Samuelito, the all-new Folklorico troupe's Aztec dances, and Bonnie Happy and her trick-riding colleagues.

Other performers in the two-hour show are international show horses, Mexican cowboys in trick-riding and roping routines, bronco busting and bull-riding feats and the San Miguel group of mariachi musicians.

Indian wars

Intermittent Indian wars were fought in the Eureka, Calif., area until the natives yielded to superior numbers of U.S. troops, in 1865.

MUSICAL TEAMING — Operatic and musical comedy star Patrice Munsel and singer Eartha Kitt share the spotlight, along with Howard Keel, Larry Kert and Milo O'Shea, in the Theater Guild production, "A Musical Jubilee," celebrating the American musical comedy. The show opens Monday at the Ambassador Auditorium in Pasadena and plays through Aug. 15.

Award-winning musical

'1776' comes alive at MSAC

The debates, fist fights, love affairs and agonies of the members of the Continental Congress come alive on stage in the musical "1776," to be presented Friday and July 29, 30 and 31 at Mt. San Antonio College.

The college and the Walnut Valley Lions Club will sponsor the production in the college's Little Theater at 8 each night.

The award-winning musical shows the events of the Congress between May and July, 1776, which result in the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The book was written by Peter Stone, a history teacher.

Among the leads are Terry Keenan of El Monte as John Adams; Terry Weiss of Pomona as Benjamin Franklin; Robert J. Morris of West Covina as John Dickinson; Brant Johnson of West Covina as Thomas Jefferson; Peter Trinceri of Hacienda Heights as Edward Rutledge; Scott Poindexter of San Dimas as Richard Henry Lee; Mary Daniels of Pomona as Abigail Adams; Melodee Sebenius of Azusa as Martha Jefferson.

Gary Toops, a MSAC instructor, is stage and musical director. Donald Smith has charge of set design and technical director.

This Saturday's performance is scheduled for only members of the Lions Club and their families; and an Aug. 1 matinee will be presented for the handicapped and senior citizens only, courtesy of the Walnut Lions Club.

The public performance tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children 12 and younger. Advance tickets are available by calling 629-9718, 598-2811, Ext. 361, or (213) 331-7266.

Musical stage still in use

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The scene in MGM's Stage 29 was enough to stir a movie fan into a paroxysm of nostalgia.

After all, 29, which is big enough to hide a blimp, was the site of endless musical numbers in the 1940-60 era when MGM's Leo was the indisputed king of the musical jungle. Eleanor Powell did her taps there, Kathryn Grayson and Jane Powell sang their hearts out. Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers staged their reunion for "The Barkleys of Broadway."

And in 1947 director Vincente Minnelli used Stage 29 for musical numbers with Judy Garland and Gene Kelly in the Cole Porter musical, "The Pirate." Among the visitors of the set was the Minnellis' young daughter, Liza.

Flash forward to 1976 and there is Liza Minnelli in a sleek black gown singing her heart out as an elevated stage rises before 600 cheering extras in tuxedos and evening gowns.

As in 1947, things went wrong. The camera boom went too far and knocked over a tableful of extras. The arc lamps in the catwalks took an interminable amount of time to light. And suddenly it was discovered that Liza's black gown could not be seen against the tuxedos of the Tommy Dorsey band. More delay while operatives scurried to find a white dress.

Martin Scorsese was overseeing all this with a nervous air. He is a small man with black beard, brooding Italian eyes and an intensity that matches his films ("Mean Streets," "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" "Taxi Driver"). Marlon Brando, who has never worked for him, recently termed Scorsese the best American director.

"This is all new to me," said the New York-born filmmaker as he surveyed the vast field of cast and crew. "I'm used to shooting in the streets of Manhattan, where it's much different.

"In New York you start setting up your camera and someone always says, 'Oh, shooting "Naked City," huh?' New Yorkers always think you're filming 'Naked City' even though the series has been off television for years.

"Then you have to shoot fast, because somebody's going to ruin your shot. New Yorkers don't give a damn whether you're trying to make a movie or not."

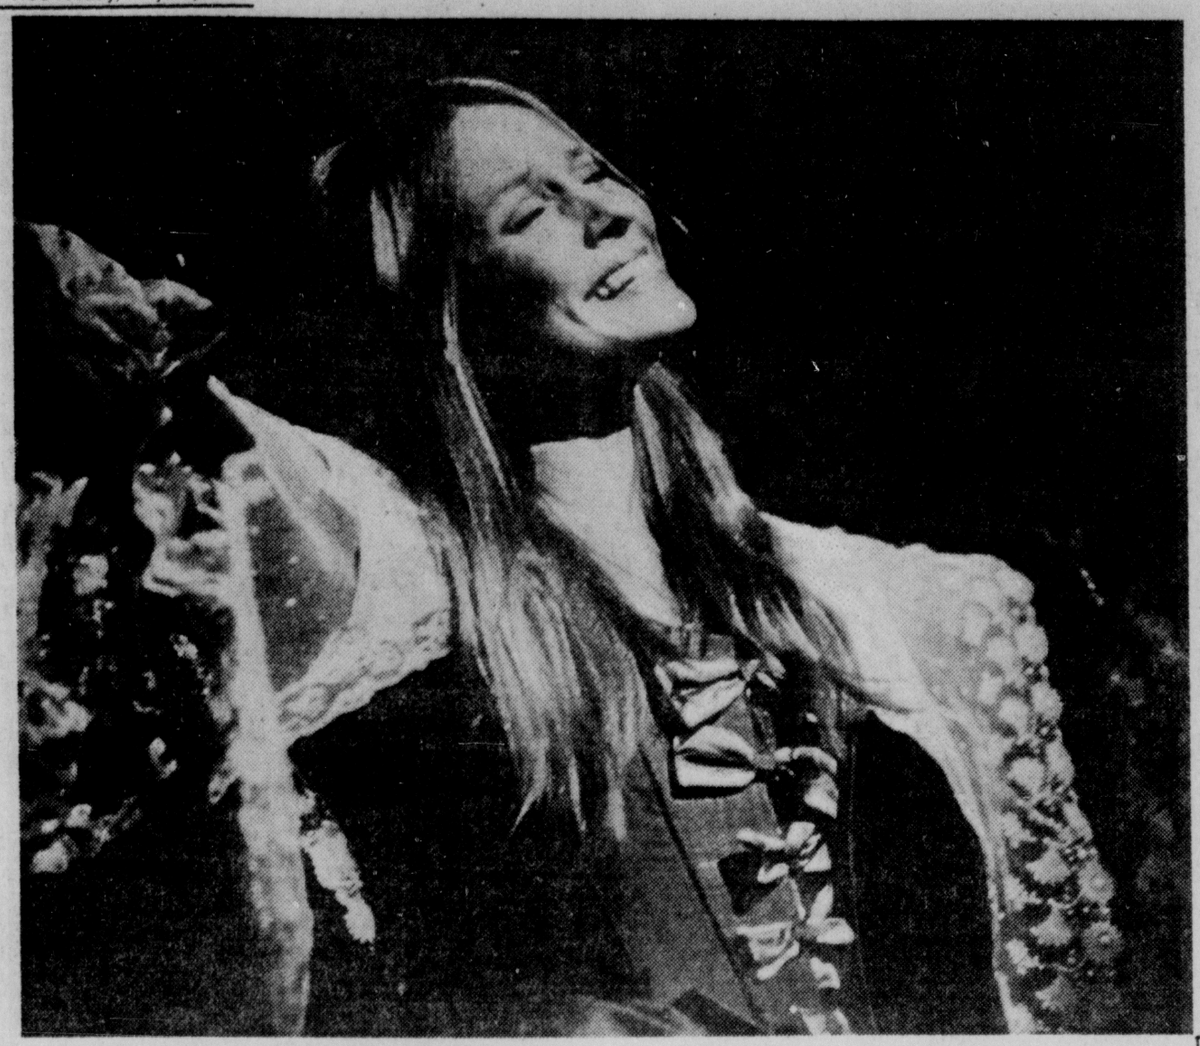
The name of Scorsese's new film is "New York, New York," produced by Robert Chartoff and Irwin Winkler for United Artists. Judging from the spectacle on Stage 29, the observer gets the impression that the big musical is back.

"But all of the numbers are on-stage in the picture," said the director, meaning that they are performed before audiences. He indicated that today's audiences will no longer believe that Gene Kelly could spontaneously go singing in the rain in a fully orchestrated and choreographed number.

Will the Hollywood musical come back?

"I don't know," Scorsese replied. "If it does, I think it will need a quality of believability. That's why I am striving to do in this picture what I did in 'Mean Streets,' 'Alice' and 'Taxi Driver' — to develop an interrelationship between the character so the situations seem real."

"Vicente Minnelli was the best director," he said unqualifiedly. "I liked (Stanley) Donen, too. Busby Berkeley was good, especially in the numbers that were stories in themselves. 'Forty-second Street' was about as good a musical can be. My favorites were the pictures that were really dramas with music, like 'The Man I Love' with Ida Lupino and 'Love Me or Leave Me' with Doris Day.



MUSICAL STAR — Rhonda Coullet stars as Rosamund in the West Coast premiere of the new musical "The Robber Bridegroom," the first production in the Mark Taper Forum's 10th anniversary season. Set in the Natchez Trace of the late 1800s, "The Robber Bridegroom" has a book and lyrics by Alfred Uhry, music by Robert Waldman and is directed by Gerald Freedman. It continues through Aug. 29.

Three artists at amphitheater

The Universal Amphitheater will feature three top artists during its evening concerts next week.

Roberta Flack and Jose Feliciano perform Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8:15 and Gordon Lightfoot is featured Thursday through Aug. 1.

Roberta Flack has gained world-wide prominence as a singer and won Grammy and other awards. Her albums include "First Take," "Second Take," "A Quiet Fire." She is now versatile as a producer, writer, arranger, choral background performer and conductor.

Feliciano will be special guest star on the program. His guitar artistry, a combination of Spanish, jazz, rock and soul, has earned him critical acclaim. The young Puerto Rican now wears the hats of recording artist, performer, songwriter and actor.

Lightfoot, one of the most prolific contemporary songwriters-singers of the times, returns to the Amphitheater this year for a four-day engagement.

Artists scheduled later on the summer concert series include Janis Ian and Billy Joel, Neil Sedaka and Melissa Manchester, Electric Light Orchestra, Barry Manilow and Lady Flash, Paul Williams, Judy Collins, Fleetwood Mac, Linda Ronstadt and Andrew Gold, Natalie Cole and Loggins and Messina.

JOSE FELICIANO

Bedford signed for 'Guardsman' role

Brian Bedford has been signed to star opposite Maggie Smith in "The Guardsman," the second production of the 10th anniversary season for the Center Theater Group of the Los Angeles Music Center's Ahmanson Theater.

Currently starring in Los Angeles in the award-winning drama "Equus," British actor Bedford began his professional career at the age of 21, playing "Hamlet" with the Liverpool Repertory Company.

Bedford received the Tony Award for best actor for his starring role in "The School For Wives."

Granger to play shrink

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Farley Granger has joined the cast of ABC's daytime drama, "One Life to Live."

Granger makes his first appearance July 14 in the role of Dr. Vernon, a psychiatrist. He began his career at 17 in Samuel Goldwyn's film "North Star" and appeared in more than 30 films.

Ex-librarian honored by U of Arizona Alumni

An outstanding service award has been presented by the University of Arizona to Mrs. Frances Powner Grier, a resident of Mt. San Antonio Gardens, Pomona, for her contributions to the library of the university in Tucson, Ariz.

The contributions include autographed and first edition books and other memorabilia, forming the nucleus of the university's Mark Twain Collection.

Mrs. Grier's father, president of the Charles T. Powner Co., a well-known book dealer and publishing house, before the turn of the century began to assemble things pertaining to Mark Twain.

The extensive collection sparked the interest of his daughter who graduated from high school in 1900 and later served as an officer in the publishing company based in Chicago.

Mrs. Grier moved to Tucson to continue her studies and became a librarian at the university. She has given many lectures about Mark Twain both in Arizona and in California. She moved to the Gardens 14 years ago.

Participating in the award presentation were two other authors and life members of the University of Arizona Alumni Association.

They are Mrs. Esther Bolton Black of Claremont, author of "Rancho Cucamonga and Dona Merced," and Mrs. Patricia Stephenson, author of a Mexican cookbook and related to Samuel Clemens whose pen name was Mark Twain.

The three women are members of the Claremont Branch of the National League of American Pen Women.

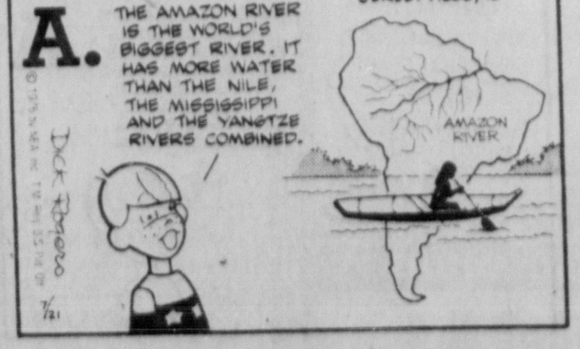
Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT IS THE LARGEST RIVER IN THE WORLD?"

A. THE AMAZON RIVER IS THE WORLD'S BIGGEST RIVER. IT HAS MORE WATER THAN THE NILE, THE MISSISSIPPI AND THE YANGTZE RIVERS COMBINED.

GARY KUNCAR
JERSEYVILLE, IL



The world's mightiest river is the Amazon, in South America. Only the Nile, in Africa, is longer than the Amazon.

But the Amazon carries more water than any other river. Its flow is greater than that of the Mississippi, the Nile and the Yangtze rivers combined.

The Amazon begins high in the Andes Mountains and empties into the Atlantic Ocean, 4,000 miles away. It sweeps across Brazil, gathering water from numerous streams.

At many places the Amazon is too wide to see across. In many places it is over 350 feet deep.

No river holds more kinds of fish. One of these is the man-eating piranha fish. The electric eel also lives there, and alligators, dolphins and giant turtles are common.

The river was named after the Amazons, the women warriors of Greek mythology. An early Spanish explorer gave the river its name after a battle with some Indians in which the women of the tribe fought alongside the men.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

POMONA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

CHANGING CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IN A CHANGING COMMUNITY

Frasher Collection, Pomona Public Library

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce has changed to keep pace with the changing needs of the community.

The Chamber is a volunteer association of business and professional people who unify through membership in the Chamber to further the interests and economic health of the entire community. The identified needs of the community, over the years, may be noted by those programs which the Chamber worked on most energetically at that time.

Early Chamber Community Promotion

In the early life of the community, growth was the major goal and, therefore, the Chamber, beginning in 1887, worked at promoting the new community. Booklets and pamphlets with glowing descriptions extolling the virtues of Pomona were printed and circulated nationally by the Chamber. Exhibits were sponsored at the Chicago World Fair of 1891 and St. Louis World's Fair of 1904. Advertising was run in San Francisco paper and weekly excursions from Los Angeles to Pomona were held.

Agricultural Interests Furthered

During the years that agriculture was the major industry of the area, the Chamber's activities reflected the needs of agriculturalists. For instance, the winter of 1913 was the occasion of a deadly frost which was very costly to the agriculture of the area, so the Chamber organized an effort to assure local weather forecasts. This gave the citrus growers a chance to protect their trees and crops.

Another project the Chamber worked on prior to World War I of importance to the farming community was flood control. They were able to achieve dams in the San Antonio wash. Good roads for the area was another Chamber project.

During the years of World War I the Chamber attracted war industries to Pomona, a forerunner of the industrial role of the city 50 years hence.

During the Great Depression the Chamber organized a program of prorating the work force to ease unemployment.

Housing critical during WWII

World War II brought an immense increase in the population of Pomona with a number of defense plants operating in the valley and an influx of military personnel who were stationed in the area. Pomona had a critical housing shortage during this period with residential building halted because of the war effort, and so the Chamber worked at providing housing for newcomers. Morale building and other war effort projects were top priority to the Chamber during these years.

Late in the war years, post-war economic planning was begun by the Chamber. Because of these efforts 27 new industries started operations in Pomona in 1946 while only two war-related industries left the area. The Chamber had been successful in its task of continuing high employment levels for the area.

Also during this era the Chamber was active in pushing freeway construction to the area. The Pomona Freeway was planned in 1949, and in 1954 the San Bernardino Freeway was dedicated through Pomona.

Healthy community means healthy business

Today the Chamber's emphasis is different because the community's needs are different, but the underlying philosophy remains the same—the Chamber is a voluntary organization of business and professional people who support its work through annual membership fees.

They believe that what is good for the community is good for business, that a healthy community means healthy business; and that businessmen, voluntarily associated in the Chamber can and even should work for the good of the community.

Therefore, the Chamber in Pomona is involved in many activities not traditionally thought to be the concern of a business group: housing, beautification, crime prevention, legislation at the state, county and federal levels, and education.

Other activities are more easily seen to be of direct benefit to the business community and are more often thought of as Chamber activities: industrial development, community image, and other programs to assist business.

Cooperative effort vital

One important point has been noted by the business community represented by the Chamber and that is the city government, school district, Chamber and other groups must work cooperatively. All are really working for the same goals.

This annual report to the community briefly describes some of the ways the Chamber in Pomona is attacking those problems that affect us all.

During the years that Pomona has changed from a quiet, small, rural, village to a busy, large, urban, industrial center, the Chamber has changed too, to meet the changed needs of the community. But throughout the years and throughout the changes the Chamber has actively and diligently worked for all of the community. The definition of its area of concern and activities that the Chamber leadership has followed throughout the years is a broad definition, not a narrow one. And that has not changed.

Chamber Gets Job Done In Government

The Chamber has been actively representing the community and business in political affairs.

The actions of legislative bodies outside of Pomona can and do have direct bearing on the economy and well-being of Pomona. The Chamber, therefore, has spent time and effort studying, evaluating, suggesting and testifying about various bills, ballot propositions and legislative issues.

The Chamber has also been active in maintaining two-way communications with our elected representatives. Each elected official has, at least once in the past year, spoken to the Chamber. A number of the Chamber leaders have made trips to Sacramento, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C., where they have met with our elected representatives. Results of surveys of the membership on a number of legislative issues have been sent to our legislators as well as formal positions taken by the board of directors on various bills.

The Legislative Action Committee has thoroughly studied a number of legislative issues this year, including public employee collective bargaining, school finance, land use, and tax measures.

The Chamber actively opposed the common-situs picketing bill. This bill would have enabled a single union having a contract dispute to shut down an entire construction site. This would have added significantly to construction costs and have brought construction to a standstill. The Chamber Board took a strong negative position on this bill and contacted Representative James Lloyd and Senators Alan Cranston and John Tunney. Individual members of the Chamber also contacted our elected representatives. The bill was defeated by Congress.

Garey On Ramp

Chamber President Lynn Rountree, Mayor Ray Lepire and Director of Public Works Ron Kranzer testified at State Highway Commission hearings in April regarding realignment of the South Garey Avenue on-ramp to the Pomona Freeway.

The Chamber had been working on the matter and had been in touch with state officials about it for some time. The existing on-ramp is both unsightly and dangerous. Traffic must merge from two lanes into one lane, cross the Corona Expressway by turning left, and then make an immediate right hand turn to reach the west-bound Pomona Freeway lanes. After the hearing, the State Highway Commission allocated $250,000 for the realignment project. Construction is expected to begin this summer.

Chamber Effort Saves Residents $3,000 In Additional Sales Taxes

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce successfully opposed L.A. County Supervisor Baxter Ward's Sunset Coastline Rapid Transit Proposal and Propositions R and T on the June 8th ballot. The measures would have raised the sales tax in Los Angeles County one cent to build a fixed rail rapid transit system.

The proposed transportation system would have been built over a 30 year period and would have cost the taxpayers of L.A. County at least $23 billion. The Chamber believed that a one cent sales tax increase in Los Angeles County would have a devastating economic impact on Pomona's business condition. Further, it would restrict any future bonding capabilities of local government over the next 30 years. All this without any immediate benefit to this end of the county, which would not receive any increased transit or be part of the rapid transit system.

Leadership Retreat

The second annual Leadership Retreat was held by the Chamber at Rancho California in April. Members of the Board of Education, City Council, Board of Directors of the Chamber, business and staff members were brought together for the purpose of seeking joint solutions to problems affecting Pomona's growth, stability and liveability.

These annual retreats are arranged to get all together in one place (for a long enough period of time to really grapple with the issues), those who are in a position to make and implement decisions. Pomona is one city with one set of problems and one set of resources, City government, the school district and businessmen have the responsibility as well as the authority to work on the problems using the available resources. The Chamber believes that it is essential for an efficient allocation of resources and realistic setting of priorities for the entire leadership of the community to work together. The Chamber believes that all three-groups (as well as the community as a whole) benefit immeasurably from these working sessions in which the leadership of the community works, without interruption, for two days.

At last year's retreat it was agreed that the three major problems facing the community which had top priority were community image, crime prevention and beautification. Having set priorities at the retreat, committees were later formed in each area, detailed plans and studies were completed, funding for the programs was set, implementation was started and the three programs are now in various stages of completion.

This year's retreat participants considered three major areas: economic development, residential development and education. Priorities were set and means of implementation were considered at the retreat.

Ad Hoc Committees are presently being organized and will begin holding meetings this summer.

Chamber Testifies at APCD Hearing

Chamber President Lynn Rountree presented testimony at the February APCD hearing opposing the suggested new source review rules. The suggested rules had been studied by the Chamber Urban Planning and Land Use subcommittee. They found the proposed new rules to be, in effect, a tightly restrictive no-growth policy.

In testifying as to the expected effects of the rules on Pomona, Rountree stated, "the rules, if adopted would seriously hamper the major industrial redevelopment program in Pomona. Our goal in redevelopment is to attract new, clean industries which will be able to employ our existing labor force".

The APCD is presently changing and redrafting the rules because of the protest.

Crime Ad Hoc Committee Reports

The Chamber was deeply involved in the Crime Ad Hoc Committee. Members met to discuss the problem of crime in the community and ways in which to effectively deal with the situation. The findings and recommendations of the joint committee were made public this spring. Specific recommendations included reassignment of patrol areas, juvenile diversion coordination and formation of neighborhood groups.

Major Crime Drops in Pomona

Major crime in Pomona dropped sharply in the first three months of the year. While major crime rose four percent during the first quarter of 1976 nationally statistics from the FBI showed a 5.5 percent decrease in Pomona for the same period. Homicide was down 81.8 percent; rape down five percent; and residential burglary was down 14.3 percent.

Chamber Brings Politicians to People for Government Day

The five elected representatives for Pomona, (U.S. Senator Alan Cranston, Congressman James Lloyd, County Supervisor Peter Schabarum, State Senator Ruben Ayala and Assemblyman William McVittie) the Pomona City Council and the Pomona School Board were together on Thursday, October 16 for the Pomona Chamber's Government Day.

The day began with luncheon at which the state, county, and federal representatives were the speakers. Each of the elected representatives spoke on the program of legislation coming to their body in the following session as well as particular problems which each legislator hoped to attack. New laws and bills passed by the various houses were analyzed and critqued by the legislators.

After lunch, all of the elected officials held office hours in Pomona City Hall, giving any citizen the chance to ask questions of any level of government official.

Meetings between our local government and the upstream representatives were held later in the afternoon, chaired by School Board President, Don Donnelly and Mayor Ray Lepire. The discussion between representatives of all levels of government covered a wide range of specific topics, all of which were parts of the basic purpose of the meetings: ways to increase the effectiveness of government through improved communications and cooperation of the various levels. Also discussed were problems experienced by local government and the school district in dealing with the result of federal, state, and/or county legislative action. Also considered were ways to deal in unison with problems with the bureaucracy.

The Chamber Government Day was the first time any group has brought together all levels of government. The purpose, to meet together face to face and to meet with the community, was well received. Participants commented repeatedly throughout the day that the effort being so worthwhile, it was hoped that the idea would spread.

Industrial Expansion

A healthy and increasing industrial trend is continuing for Pomona. All major industrial buildings are occupied, those available have been sold to new incoming industry and local industrial park space is at a premium. Further, local industry is expanding to meet new market demands. And with the healthy national economic conditions projected and inflation curtailed, industry is again beginning to find new site locations for expansions and relocations.

Major industrial construction over the past twelve months include:

50,000 square feet — new addition to Richter Manufacturing
7,500 square feet — addition to Pomona Textile
35,000 square feet — expansion to V.C.A.
10,000 square feet — expansion to Moreno Ceramics
8,960 square feet — expansion to Industrial Park
4,080 square feet — expansion to Woodland Products
10,000 square feet — expansion to Tidi Products
11,200 square feet — expansion for Recycling Resources
$150,000 plant improvement to Brockway Glass
3,000 square feet — addition to Hordstrom-Kiln
104,939 square feet — addition to Foothill Beverage
35,000 square feet — new distribution warehouse for Xerox

In all, over 300,000 square feet of new industrial facilities resulting from local expansion have been built this year.

Further, gains in the commercial/professional market are on the increase as reflected in Pomona's building permits. New major additions to Pomona include: Acapulco Restaurant, Mallery and Nowack Attorney Offices, Klopfenstein & Smeltzer facilities and Stater Bros. Shopping Center.

Building permits are also showing an increase. In 1975, permits for the first six months numbered 1,002 for $3,587,615; 1976 permits for the first six months numbered 1,044 for $4,933,187.

The difference in dollars shows a 37 percent increase over last year at this time, which indicates an upward trend in major construction occurring within the city.

DISCOVER POMONA!

The Discover Pomona Campaign, a 10½ month community image effort, began in the middle of January. It has included a monthly newsletter, with a circulation of 24,000, radio and newspaper advertising, contests, special events and a slide presentation which has been shown to some 1,000 people thus far. Bumper stickers have been given to adults and 2,000 bright orange balloons with the Discover Pomona logo have been given to children at Pomona parks and special events. The campaign will continue through November with a number of special events planned. Newsletters and further information is available at the Chamber office (622-1256).

The campaign is an example of the cooperative spirit within this community. Conceived at the leadership retreat, it has been funded and implemented through the combined efforts of the city, school district, Chamber, Board of Realtors, and several Pomona businesses.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Brought into Pomona as a result of the Education Committee's efforts, there were eight J.A. companies with 226 Pomona students this year. They manufactured and marketed a variety of products, and learned by experience to deal with many of the same realities and problems that businessmen face. Plans are being made for next year's J.A. program.

BUSINESS CONSULTING SERVICE

Volunteer retired and active businessmen are counseling small businessmen in Pomona. A local chapter of SCORE/ACE has been formed, under the direction of the Small Business Administration. This chapter is located in the Chamber office.

Business experts with many years experience are available to counsel small businesses which are experiencing some difficulties or desire expert advice. There is no charge for the service. Further information is available by calling 622-8484.

TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE

Cooperation between the three cities of Pomona, Claremont and La Verne has resulted in an effort to withdraw from the Southern California Rapid Transit District and to join the West Valley Transit Service Authority for transportation services.

State legislation has been drafted and submitted to both the Senate and Assembly Transportation Committees. It is the objective of the joint effort to unite the available valley-wide transportation systems into one service to better serve the needs of Pomona Valley citizens. Community representatives will be meeting with S.C.R.T.D. officials to urge their support of the program.

INDUSTRIAL TOURS

To better acquaint key officials, city commissioners, and staff members on the numerous and diversified products manufactured in Pomona and problems of business, city representatives participated in the Chamber's City Officials' Tour. Manufacturing facilities visited included Northwest Paper Corporation, General Dynamics, Revere Extruders, and the Progress Bulletin.

In April, key representatives of the industrial development profession from Southern California were invited by the Chamber to Pomona to personally tour Pomona's industrial land inventory and review Pomona's many assets; which are accountable for attracting many national manufacturing firms to Pomona. Work sessions were held with city staff, local businessmen and developers, and Pomona's Industrial Land Inventory and Statistics publication was distributed.

INDUSTRIAL REDEVELOPMENT DISTRICT

The study area bounded on the north by Mission Blvd, the south by the Pomona freeway, west by Reservoir, east by the city line, has been identified as a desirable Industrial Redevelopment District.

The purpose of the district is to remove, over a period of time, non-conforming industrial use; and to accommodate industry looking for major Southern California sites.

With the direct ability to assist industry in its relocation and/or expansions, Pomona will gain in additional jobs, salaries, payroll and spendable income.

Beautification

The Beautification Ad Hoc Committee has recently incorporated as a non-profit organization and has chosen a board of directors. During the past they have developed plans for the beautification of the city including street landscaping, undergrounding of utilities and entry markers. During the coming year the thrust will be for increasing citizen involvement. The group sponsored the Pomona Home Beautiful contest which recognized a number of homes for well kept exteriors and a number for major improvements. Two entire blocks in Pomona were also given recognitions for outstanding care and beauty.

The committee is now forming subcommittees and asking for citizen involvement.

CAREER EDUCATION

A committee for Career Education was recently formed, made up of representatives of the school district and Chamber. This group was formed in response to a need identified during the Chamber's Future in Business Day program.

The committee is seeking to develop a career education program which, when implemented, will result in our Pomona Unified School District students being more aware of the choices in the working world and how their interests and abilities will fit into this framework. The committee hopes to develop a program which will help students to have realistic expectations of the world of business and to be better motivated employees. The committee hopes also to encourage closer relations between the student and the business world and the teacher and the business world through contact and exploration of different types of work.

FUTURE IN BUSINESS DAY

On April 29, 300 high school juniors and seniors spent the day working at a job which matched their career goals. Each of the students had been interviewed by a member of the Chamber Education Committee which sponsored the day, to best place each student in his chosen field. The students not only learned by doing but were able to get answers to such questions as what skills and education are needed, what working conditions are like and what career opportunities exist in various fields.

Teacher Internship Program

At the recommendation of the Chamber's Education Committee, five teachers were placed in local businesses for a period of five days to expand and update their knowledge of business practices through on-the-job training. These vocational education teachers then returned to their classrooms to pass on their information to students.

Chamber Recognizes Long Term Businesses

In this Bicentennial year, the Chamber, at the Annual Installation and Recognition Banquet, gave special recognition plaques to those businesses which have been located in Pomona for fifty years or more.

The officers and board of directors of the Pomona Chamber wish to express their appreciation to these firms for their years of dedication and service to the community.

The Chamber had the pleasure of giving a special award to Claude W. Edwards, President and Chief Executive Officer of ALPHA BETA from 1944.

In 1922 Mr. Edwards, a senior at Pomona High School, was injured playing football on the high school team, the Pomona Cardinals. Due to the injury, he was unable to graduate from high school that year and took a job in a local grocery store — Gerrard's Triangle Groceteria (using the Alpha Beta system).

He has been honored many times by the business community and the academic community. Mr. Edwards, among his many honors has an honorary doctorate from Biola University. He does not, however, have his high school diploma from Pomona High School. This omission he has noted to colleagues at Alpha Beta when receiving other awards. The Chamber was honored to correct this omission — by presenting Mr. Edwards with a diploma from Pomona High School, presented at the banquet by C. Allan Braswell, Pomona Unified School District Board member.

Following are those businesses which have been identified as having served Pomona since 1926 or earlier.

In 1913 Mr. Pitzer left the practice of law to concentrate on the orange business and Mr. Nichols took as partners Burt Cooper and A.L. Hickson. The firm of NICHOLS, STEAD, BOILEAU AND LAMB has three generations of practicing attorneys. Robert Hickson, son of the original partner and his son David Hickson are presently with the firm along with Donald Nichols, Allen Nichols' son.

Chamber Expands Service Activities

The business and social climate of Pomona continues to improve, reflecting the cooperation and enthusiasm of the many people who have made this happen.

This year has been both exciting and productive, and the accomplishments represent the efforts of many. Businessmen, city officials and staff, and the board of education and staff have all worked together to achieve the results which this publication outlines.

My fellow officers, directors and staff personnel of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce join me in offering sincere congratulations and recognition to all those whose outstanding community leadership during this past year made this successful effort possible.

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce continues to expand its service activities in the community. During the past year, there has been extensive activity in the areas of beautification of the city, cooperation with the local public schools, lowering of crime rates, occupancy of residences and in community image.

These efforts have been made while at the same time the important business of assisting and furthering business and industry has continued at full speed. Such efforts, of course, have a direct relationship to the general welfare of Pomona and are thus reflected in the business arena.

It has been a good year and I am appreciative of having had the opportunity to serve as President of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce during the past year. I thank you all.

LYNN ROUNTREE
PRESIDENT
POMONA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
1975-76

Aggressive Chamber Programs to Continue

For many months a new spirit of optimism about Pomona's future has pervaded every avenue of our community. By pulling together we have reached a new plateau from which we can springboard into a new era of economic growth.

There is new construction under way, business and industries are expanding, more houses are being bought and occupied, real estate values are climbing, developers are taking a new look at the economic potential of the community, and more.

All activities under way or proposed indicate that the tooling up that has been accomplished in the past year is approaching the action stage.

The business barometers, the commitments in progress and on the drawing boards indicate to us in the Pomona Chamber of Commerce that the year ahead will not only be one of the busiest in the history of the Chamber but will be one of the most productive.

Economic expansion of the city, which is so important in underwriting the essential city and school services, will be one of the primary goals of the Chamber this year. At the same time we will continue our emphasis on improving the community image, beautification, redevelopment, restoration of the downtown mall and re-establishing vacated shopping centers. While striving to encourage new business and industry to locate here we want to keep the commerce and industry we have and will work with them to help solve their problems.

The Chamber's proposed program of work for the new year is ambitious and challenging. It can only be accomplished with the wholehearted support of the business, professional and industrial community. Membership in the Chamber of Commerce is the best way of insuring that the volunteer men and women who are carrying forth the policies and programs of the organization can achieve the results we all desire, a better life for all who live, work and play in Pomona.

POMONA SALES LEADER IN THE VALLEY

Pomona showed a growth of taxable sales of 6.9 per cent during 1975 according to the State Board of Equalization. Taxable sales in Pomona in 1974 totaled $301,072,000. The total in 1975 was $322,082,000, representing 38 per cent of the total valley sales. Ontario, with a 19.3 per cent share of valley sales had a taxable sales total of $164,057,000 while Montclair with an 18 per cent share of valley sales totaled $153,199,000.

Ballot Measures Recommended

The Legislative Action Committee carefully studied all 15 of the ballot measures for the June 8 election. Del Pfiefer, representing the committee, reported the committee's voting recommendations to the Board of Directors; who after a full discussion, voted on them. These became the Chamber's recommendations and were reported to the membership in a special edition of "Pomona Outlook."

Property Values Rise in Pomona

Residential property increased in value in Pomona this year and also apparently increased in desirability with more homes being sold even at the higher prices. The first quarter of 1976 saw 368 homes sold compared to 202 during the same time period in 1975. The average cost for a two bedroom home for the first quarter last year was $18,915, increasing to $22,056 this year.

Three bedroom homes, by far the most popular size for persons buying in Pomona, increased from an average of $23,429 in 1975 to $26,066 in 1976. Market time for two bedroom homes dropped from 91 days last year to 67 days this year; three bedroom homes, 71 to 65 days.

INFORMATION SERVICES

The Pomona Chamber provides information services not only about Pomona, but also to Pomonans.

Public information questions can often be answered by calling the Chamber. The Chamber has brochures and information sheets on local points of interest, churches, schools, restaurants, city services, elected officials, etc.

In addition, the Chamber publishes a number of information booklets including: "Data Pomona", "The Community Economic Profile" and "Clubs and Organizations Directory".

SBA MANAGEMENT SEMINARS

Three late afternoon management seminars have been given at the Chamber on retail liquor store management, marketing and sales promotion, and time management. A four-session management seminar was held in February for owners and managers of small businesses. Topics covered included sales, planning, budgeting and forecasting, purchasing and materials, management and advertising.

VITAL ISSUES LUNCHEONS

Senator John Tunney was the speaker in August, and County District Attorney John Van de Kamp spoke in November at Vital Issues Luncheons. In October, Government Day was held with a luncheon, inter-governmental meetings and public office hours. Participants were: Senator Cranston, Congressman Lloyd, Supervisor Schabarum, State Senator Ayala, Assemblyman McVittie, Mayor Lepire, City Council and school board.

Chambers Consumer Relations Bureau

Four years ago the Pomona Chamber of Commerce established the Consumer Relations Bureau to assist shoppers. The businesses realized that consumers do have occasional complaints and the merchants wanted to be able to resolve these problems locally.

Since 1971 the Consumer Relations Bureau has been handling up to 300 problems annually and has successfully resolved over 95 percent of them. The program, which is funded by merchants, attempts to get the consumer and the merchant to sit down together and discuss problem areas.

The Bureau has a simple one-page complaint form for the consumer to fill out. A copy of this is sent to the merchant, who is asked to contact and discuss the problem with the customer. The store manager can usually correct the problem or at least provide a satisfactory explanation to the customer.

The Consumer Relations Bureau suggests that in order to minimize problems, consumers should get all guarantees in writing, keep all receipts and cancelled checks, refuse to be rushed into a decision by a salesperson, and go to the department manager or store manager if problems arise. The Bureau also suggests that merchants listen to customers' problems and realize that most are sincere in their complaints and that a customer will be the best or worst advertisement for a business, depending on how their problem is handled.

Chamber Group in Sacramento

A number of members of the Legislative Action Committee spent two days in Sacramento in March to attend the California Chamber Legislative Conference and to meet with our elected representatives and state officials.

They had eight meetings with legislators and officials in which they discussed juvenile justice reform, school finance, health care and MediCal, medical malpractice insurance, and public transportation.

Committee Attends Supervisor's Session

The Legislative Action Committee made a one day trip to Los Angeles to the Board of Supervisors in July. The group attended a session of the board and met with members of Supervisor Pete Schabarum's staff. Discussion covered transportation and Southern California Rapid Transit District, the juvenile justice system, and the role of the county in providing health services.

Ayala & Mc Vittie Meet with Board

Assemblyman Bill McVittie and State Senator Ruben Ayala each met with the Chamber Board in July. Each presented major points of the past legislative year in the legislative branch in which he served and the particular committees on which he served. A number of pending bills were discussed as was probable major legislative items for the coming year.

CHAMBER LEADERS COMPLETE SERVICE
